AMATEURS SCORE DISTINCT HIT

Cafe Concert Program Pleases Large Audience and Raises Substantial Sum.

FOR BELGIAN RELIEF

Mrs. Alson Abbott and Effingham Pinto in "High Brow Proposals," Carry Off Honors, While Mayor Calkins Appears As Auctioneer.

Plainfield's Belgian Relief Committee's fund of $2,500 to buy a portable house for orphan children in that stricken country was increased last night by a sum well over two hundred dollars, as a result of the Cafe Concert given at the Park Club. At the same time the large audience of society people present were given an opportunity to see a vaudeville show such as has probably never before been seen in this city. Twelve acts, if an auction conducted by Mayor Calkins can be called an "act," furnished an unusually diversified program, and many of them would have registered a hit on the legitimate stage.

The hit of the evening was scored by Mrs. Alson M. Abbott and Effingham Pinto, in "High Brow Proposals." Their interpretation of the way in which Shaw, Brieux, Sternberg, Maeterlink and "any modern author" would have "the question popped" kept the spectators in a roar of laughter from start to finish. Mr. Pinto, in his work on the professional stage, and Mrs. Abbott, as one of the most active members of the local Comedy Club, have registered many distinct hits in the past, but it is doubtful whether either before received a heartier or more enthusiastic reception than was accorded them last night.

Another feature was the singing of five solos by Miss Marie Boies, two of them, "The Elfman" and "Chubby Brown Hands," having been composed by Mrs. Elizabeth Bowen Foster, of this city, and as yet unpublished. These were especially popular with the audience and Mrs. Foster received many congratulations from those present. Stella Butler and Saidee Sandford also scored distinct hits in classical solo dances, and Miss Lilliam Lamson kept the audience in roars of laughter by telling several new humorous stories. Morris Roddy, in a chalk talk, displayed ability such as is seldom seen on the professional stage, with his rapid sketching of caricatures. Mrs. Morris Dumont and Miner Trowbridge presented a new ball room dance in a pleasing manner; Irvin; Manley sang two soprano solos, which drew forth enthusiastic applause, and the Misses Borden and Shoemaker and Messrs. Bellows, Butler, VanDeventer and Rolston in a dance originated by the latter were repeatedly encored. Ackerman and Brandagee, in a musical skit, and Hylan and Lewis, in a talking and singing act, were well received and rounded out the program, except for Mayor Calkins.

The Mayor had been asked to read and then auction off a letter which had been received from Lily Langtry, the "Jersey Lily," who is in New York, and had reserved a table for the dinner, but was unable to get here because of professional engagements. Being somewhat hazy as to just what he was to do, the Mayor amused the crowd by reading aloud the instructions that had been handed to him. He let it be understood that the letter was not to be sold for less than $10, although he was perfectly willing to receive a first bid for twenty-five cents, even if it had to come from Mrs. Calkins. The letter finally brought $10, Edward H. Ladd, Jr. being the purchaser.

The front half of the assembly room was given over to a number of tables, while in the rear a space was reserved for dancing between the acts. Ice cream and coffee were served by young society women who were dressed in the regulation black waitress costume. Those who assisted in this work were the Misses Edith Beers, Katharine Browne, Elizabeth Browne, Gertrude Butler, Katharine Drayton, Catherine Ginna, Gwendolyn Gough, Lelia Hedges, Helen Irons, Helen Joy, Dorothy Lyon, Elizabeth McGee, Mary Rushmore, Marian Schuyler, Monica Sharretts, Katherine Sill, Ruth Timpson, Annette Van Mater, Janet Van Vliet and Katharyn Yates.

The patronesses were Mesdames George L. Babcock, Frederic W. Butler, R. W. Charles, S. S. Carvalho, Leighton Calkins, William A. Conner, Chapman Fisk, Jabez Gilbert, Ellis Hedges, Augustus V. Heely, Henry Clay Irons, John H. Jewett, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Isaac Miller, D. J. Randall, Walter L. Righter, Percy H. Stewart, Lewis G. Timpson, Sydney Titsworth, William B. Tyler, Frederic W. Wallace, Frank D. Warren, John M. Whiton and Harold Van der Linde.

Among those who had tables were

BOARD OF TRADE TO STIR UP MEMBERS

Campaign for Better Attendance to Follow Annual Banquet.

Presentation and discussion of plans for the awakening of interest among the membership occupied the attention of members of the Plainfield Board of Trade at the meeting held last night. It was the regular monthly session of the Board, held in the Exempt Firemen's Hall.

The need of a campaign of this kind was shown in the attendance, said President William Newcorn, after looking over the dozen business men who were present at the meeting. A. E. Force and A. C. Pleydell were prominent in the discussions of the evening.

After the annual banquet, which will be arranged the first Wednesday in January, an effort will be made to enliven the monthly meetings so that a larger percentage of the membership will be drawn out. This plan is to be worked out by members of the board of trustees from suggestions made by the members. It will include the securing of an interesting speaker for each regular meeting night, according to a suggestion made last night, which was favorably received. The trustees will attend to securing a prominent Plainfield business man for an address on some topic of current interest and if the feature proves a popular one they will go outside for speakers later.

Another suggestion intended to bring about an increased attendance was that the meetings be changed back to the first Tuesday evening in each month. It was noted that the attendance had been falling off since the meeting night was shifted from Tuesday to Wednesday.

After the banquet a committee will be named to call on each member and find out why he does not attend regularly.

DEATH SUMMONS MRS. CHAS. E. SPIER

Well Known School Teacher of Watchung Passes Away at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Mrs. Milly Byham Spier, wife of Charles E. Spier, of Watchung, died this morning at Muhlenberg Hospital, following a week's illness with pleuro-pneumonia. She had been acting as substitute teacher in the Watchung school and contracted a cold which later developed into pleuro-pneumonia. She was removed to the hospital on Saturday. Mrs. Spier's death comes as a great shock to the residents of Watchung, who highly esteemed her and recall her many friendly acts.

Mrs. Spier was born in Guys Mills, Pa., May 13, 1879, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Byham. She was graduated from the Edinboro, Pa., Normal and other schools. Twelve years of her life were spent teaching in the public schools, eight years of which were in western schools. Six years ago she went to Watchung, where she taught for one year previous to her marriage to Mr. Spier, a native of that place.

Mrs. Spier was a member of the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church and took an active part in all its organizations. She was a leader of the Watchung choir and Girls' Chorus for five years and taught the young men's Bible class in the Sunday-school for several years. There survives a husband, a daughter, Elizabeth; three brothers, Clifton Byham, of Guys Mills; Morrison Byham, of Meadville, Pa.; Robert W. Byham, of Harrisburg, Pa.; five sisters, Mrs. James E. Miller, of Meadville; Mrs. Alfred J. Troedson, of Morgan, Oregon; Mrs. Thomas W. Jacobson, of Passaic; Mrs. George H. Spier, of Plainfield, and Mrs. Joseph L. Morrison, of Guys Mills. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church.

MR. GUTTRIDGE'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of James B. Guttridge, whose death occurred early yesterday morning, will be held at his late home, 1121 South avenue, tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock. Burial will be made Saturday morning in the cemetery at Rahway.

C. E. UNION MEETING.

A meeting of the C. E. Union will be held tonight at the First Baptist church, instead of at the Y. M. C. A.

CITY'S NEW SIGNS TO PLEASE AUTOISTS

Blue Book Company Compliments Proposed Street Boards.

The city of Plainfield will earn the "lasting regard of all motorists who pass through here," when new signs now being prepared are put up, according to a letter received this morning by Mayor Leighton Calkins from the secretary of the Automobile Book Publishing Company, which prepares the automobile blue book for tourists.

The new signs are to be done in blue and white and will be put up just at the corporate limits on each important roadway leading into the city. They carry the names of every city of importance in the vicinity of Plainfield with directions as to the route and the number of miles to go.

Mayor Calkins recently sent a layout of the signs to the blue book company for disinterested criticism and the comment of experts in its employ was highly complimentary. The signs are yet to be finally approved by the public affairs committee of the City Council, but members of this body have been working with the Mayor in their preparation and will probably act within a short time.

ARMED MEN HOLD UP LONE WOMAN

Well Dressed Bandits Get $90 From Ticket Agent at Middlebush.

Somerville, Dec. 2.—A gruff command to stop interrupted Miss Margaret Martermor, station agent for the Pennsylvania Railway at Middlebush, last night, as she was counting up her cash for the day, and she looked up to face an ugly revolver held in the hands of a well dressed stranger. Miss Mortemer was so surprised that she could not act hastily. Thoughts of escape ran through her mind, and she unconsciously turned to the rear door, but as she did another armed man stepped into the room. The lone woman turned over all the cash in the office to the two bandits. Their loot was $90. No clue to their identity has been discovered.

HARRY WADE HICKS TO SPEAK AT MISSIONARY MEETING

Harry Wade Hicks, secretary of the Missionary Educational Movement, will be the speaker at the praise meeting of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

It is very seldom that Mr. Hicks, who is an able speaker with strong personality, can be secured for a meeting of this kind. Therefore, as he represents an interdenominational organization, and will speak of interesting interdenominational matters, a most cordial invitation is extended to the general public, and especially the members of the Federation of Missionary Societies. The address will be followed by a social hour.

TALENTED ARTISTS FOR CLAN MACKENZIE CONCERT

The Scottish concert and dance to be given in Columbus Auditorium Friday night, December 10, by Clan Mackenzie, Order Scottish Clans, promises to be the most successful in the history of the organization. The artists are all widely known. Among them will be the Davidson Troupe of prize-winning Highland dancers and a band of Highland pipers led by Major Peter Mackinnon, of Westfield, who is the clan piper and R. F. Faichney, the well-known Scottis comedian.

Mrs. Edith Hallett Frank, soprano, and William Holmes, baritone, are also included among the talented artists to appear. Immediately after the concert there will be a grand march and dancing. The committee in charge will meet at the office of Robert Murray, chairman, 326 West Front street, tomorrow evening and complete the details.

NEW AUTO ENGINE NOW IN SERVICE

Apparatus Delivered to the City Last Night by International Motor Co.

LOCATED IN WEST END

Machine Replaces Horse Drawn Vehicles Which Has Been in Use for Years—Will Undergo Test Before Final Acceptance.

The new automobile combination chemical and hose apparatus recently ordered by the Common Council for the West End firehouse, on West Fourth street, arrived in this city at 10 o'clock last night, coming overland under its own power from the Mack factory at Allentown, Pa. It was immediately placed in the West End quarters, and after a few preliminary adjustments will respond to all alarms covered by No. 3 Company. For the time being the apparatus will be in charge of Walter Zimmer, an expert driver in the employ of the International Motor Company, and he will run it during the official test previous to acceptance by the city. The date for the test will be set by the Councilmanic fire committee at a meeting to be held within the next few days.

The new apparatus supplants a horse-drawn chemical and hose wagon, which has done service in the West End for the past fifteen years. By the city's contract with the International Motor Company, which controls the Mack plant, the chemical tanks were lifted over from the old vehicle to the new, otherwise the latter is direct from the manufacturers. The auto has a speed of about thirty-five miles an hour, developed through a rating of 60 horsepower. The chemical tanks have a capacity of thirty-five gallons each, and the body of the vehicle will carry 2,000 feet of hose, in addition to a full complement of men. The old apparatus carried 1,200 feet of hose. The auto machine has been painted a bright red, and bears a number of original designs suggested by Chief T. O. Doane giving it a decidedly natty and "smoke-eating" appearance. Special attention has been given to the wheel base and body lines, that make it one of the most imposing machines in this vicinity. As soon as it is accepted by the city, William Jaeger who has been driver at the West End house for several years, and who has been connected with the local department for ten years, will be the official chauffeur. His assistants will be Edward Vail and Raymond Randolph all of whom are doing duty in the West End house under the supervision of Captain George Mehl. The International Motor Company will take over the discarded vehicle, and the old Alert hose wagon, which has been used by No. 3 Company as an exercise rig, will be retained for the present.

The introduction of the motor apparatus in the West End marks another step in the city's determination to have an absolutely modern equipment for fire fighting, and will give the residents of that section better service than ever before. It comes in, however, not without some regret on the part of many persons, who associate a response to alarms with the fine team of dashing horses. The West End has always had a handsome pair of grays to haul its wagons, and the ones slated to go are possessed of almost human intelligens. They are known as "Andy" and "Mac," the latter having been in the city's service for 15 years. He is now twenty years old, and according to present plans, will be pensioned off on the "Old Horse's Home" at the City Poor Farm, Rock avenue and Front street. "Andy," who is a much younger animal, will be brought up town for service in either No. 1 house or at headquarters while the remaining horse-drawn rigs are kept in use.

The engine is to cost the city of Plainfield $3,842.

ITALIAN MUST PAY CITY FINE OF $100

Shot at Man to Protect His Home, He Tells Judge DeMeza.

Alfred Langinese, the Italian who fired two shots at a member of his race in June, was arraigned before Judge William DeMeza in police court this morning and fined $100 for assault with a deadly weapon. Langinese told the Judge that he did not intend to kill the man, but merely to frighten him and end intimate relations between his wife and the other Italian. He left Plainfield soon after the shooting and was at large until last week, when he was arrested in Atlantic City and brought back here for trial by Captain Flynn, of the local police force. Attorney Frank Blatz represented Langinese and will make arrangements for the payment of the fine so that the Italian will not be forced to serve the ninety-day jail sentence that was imposed in lieu of the fine.

FORD RIDICULOUS, SAYS DR. C. A. EATON

New York Pastor Has Not Been Invited to Go to Europe.

Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, of New York, sees little hope for a successful ending of the Henry Ford peace mission to Europe. It was reported in Plainfield that Dr. Eaton had been invited to accompany Mr. Ford, but when he was called at his Watchung home by a Press reporter this morning he denied this.

"I have not been invited," said Dr. Eaton. He also intimated that he would not have considered an invitation had it been received. "Mr. Ford is a good man and he has good intentions, but he is making himself and his country very ridiculous."

SENATOR MARTINE TO ATTEND CORNERSTONE CEREMONY

Although Congress opens on Monday, United States Senator James E. Martine has decided not to return to Washington until Sunday, in order to be in Plainfield to attend the cornerstone laying of the new postoffice, which takes place Saturday afternoon. The Senator has taken a great interest in getting the work of the new postoffice under way, and has given his personal attention to many of the details of the plan. It was because of a change which he suggested which would much improve the interior arrangements, that the work on the office was delayed.

Mrs. Martine, who has been visiting in Boston for a few weeks, returned to this city day before yesterday, the Senator having gone to the Hub to escort her back. Her waist, which was broken by a fall shortly before she went away, is healing rapidly, and she expects to be able to use it soon.

FIVE PANHANDLERS ONCE MORE BECOME WANDERERS

The five strangers who alighed in Plainfield, Tuesday, once more became wanderers this morning, after spending the night in the police station and facing Judge De Meza in court today. They were arrested by Captain Flynn and a squad of patrolmen Tuesday evening, charged with panhandling. The band came into Plainfield early Tuesday morning and began a systematic canvass of the leading Hebrews of the city, to whom they told hard-luck stories, and from many they secured sums of money with which to pay their expenses back home. But for prompt action on the part of the police they would have secured a goodly sum here. They were given a warning by Judge DeMeza, and on their promise to leave Plainfield at once were released.

WHO IS GOING TO HELP MAKE KIDDIES HAPPY?

Community Christmas Needs Friends to Brighten the Day for Plainfielders.

Three or four hundred deserving children, members of some fifty or more families are going to be made happy on Christmas morning through the Plainfield Community Christmas Committee, which has actively launched its work for 1915. Not a child, if the want is known to any charity worker in the city, will awake to find that Santa Claus has forgotten him or her, and many families will also receive a generous supply of flour, coal or other necessities delivered at their doors, if present plans do not miscarry, and the members of the committee have determined that they shall not miscarry. Over a hundred persons afflicted with tuberculosis will have their holiday brightened, and the inmates of the Alms House will not be forgotten.

Plainfielders have never failed to appeals for aid. In the matter of the Community Christmas, the wholehearted way in which the residents of the city, rich and poor, have contributed their share to this good work, has been gratifying to all those who have done the work in past years. Working girls have sent in dollar bills, and small boys have opened their banks to add a quarter to the fund. The response has been liberal, and no person has ever been asked to aid the cause more than once, for once was all that was needed. This city is unique in that it has led the way in this movement for several years, and the plan is being copied now in many other places.

Contributions to aid this splendid work should be sent to DeWitt Hubbell, treasurer of the committee, at the Plainfield Trust Company. While the movement was started by the Federation of Men's Church Clubs, it has become a civic matter now, and everyone able to do so is asked to participate, no matter how small the sum.

TOWNSHIP IS READY TO DROP EATON CASE

Chairman Anderson Says Only Foliage Cut Was That Around Lights.

The Dr. Eaton case has been dropped, so far as officials of the township of North Plainfield are concerned, but it is likely that attorneys for the New York pastor will prosecute damage suits as a result of the cutting down of shrubbery on the Eaton estate at Watchung, yesterday morning.

William de L. R. Anderson, chairman of the Township Committee, said this morning that the township was satisfied with action taken by Dr. Moldenke in cutting away foliage that cut off rays from street lights put up by the municipality. He explained that the men who were employed cut just what Dr. Moldenke thought obstructed these lights and no more, and said that so far as the township was concerned the matter would be dropped.

PLAN BOWLING TOURNEY.

St. Mary's Social class held the monthly meeting of that organization in the T. A. B. S. Hall, last night, a large attendance being present. Basketball practice preceded the meeting and the young women have arranged to conduct a series of bowling contests for the members beginning the first of the year. The club also decided to produce a playlet as their first social event of the new year and the date will be announced at the next meeting of the society.

FLATLEY—HENRY.

The marriage of George Aloysius Flatley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Flatley, to Miss Harriette Grace Henry, took place Tuesday night in the rectory of St. Mary's church, the pastor, Rev. B. M. Bogan, performing the ceremony. The couple were attended by Mr. Suydam and Miss Hart.

FUNERAL OF INFANT DAUGHER.

The funeral of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kelly, of 915 West Third street, who died Monday, was held from the residence of the parents yesterday afternoon at 3:30. The interment took place in St Mary's cemetery.

LEWIS WOJNARSKY.

Lewis, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wojnarsky, of 207 Manson place, died yesterday. The funeral was held this morning, and interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

AUSTRIANS MOVE ON MONTENEGRO

Scene of Carnage Shifts From Ruined Serbia to Little Neighbor.

ITALY MAY SEND HELP

Unless Allies Give Aid King Nicholas Will Soon Lose Armies and Country—British Losses for Year 510,230, Says War Office Report.

Amsterdam, Dec. 2.—With Serbia in ruins and her army of 300,000 men killed, captured or scattered, the Austrians, aided by parts of German armies, have begun a drive on little Montenegro that threatens to leave that country in a condition similar to Serbia.

All that can save the army and country of King Nickolas is prompt action upon the part of the Allies. It is believer by Montenegrins that Italy will send an army to the rescue. The queen of Italy is a daughter of King Nickolas. Confirmation of the fact that Italy has signed the agreement of the other Allies not to make a separate peace strengthens the belief that she will aid Montenegro.

From the beginning of the war the Montenegrins have had the better of the fighting with the Austrians. They have been across the frontier in many places. The annoyance to Austria has been serious and the Viena government is said to be determined to end it.

Overwhelming forces are reported to have been concentrated in the Sanjak of Novibazar for the campaign and today's advices say the plan is to make a clean sweep, along a sixty-mile front, completely across the country.

Artillery Duel in France.

Paris, Dec. 2.—French war statement:

"In the course of the night the artillery conflict was kept up with less intensity in various sectors, particularly in Artois in the region of Bretencourt, in the region of Prist, Fay Valley, of the Somme, and in Champagne near Tahure. Nothing of importance was reported on the rest of the front."

Two British Steamers Sunk.

London, Dec. 2.—The British steamers Orange Prince and Colenso have been sunk by German submarines in the Mediterranean. The crew of the Colenso was saved, but it is feared all of the fifty men of the Orange Prince were lost.

British Losses 510,230.

It is officially announced that the total British army and navy casualties for the year up to November 9, were 510,230, of whic 109,723 were killed or died.

4,000 Russians Taken.

Berlin, Dec. 2 (wireless).—German war statement:

"Balkan theatre—West of the Lim River, Boljamic, Plevije and Jabuna have been occupied. Southwest of Mitrovitza 4,000 prisoners and two cannon were taken.

"Western theatre—There has been artillery fire and mine warfare at different points.

"Eastern theatre—The general situation is unchanged."

ELKS' RETIRING TREASURER RECEIVES GOLD CARD CASE

At the meeting of Plainfield Lodge of Elks, last night, Harry B. MacDonald, who recently resigned as treasurer of the organization, was presented with a handsome gold card case, the gift of the lodge. It was presented by Exalted Ruler A. A. Prudhon, as a mark of appreciation for the faithful services rendered during Mr. MacDonald's term. In the regular business session, Frederick R. Haynes, of Dunellen, was elected treasurer to succeed Mr. MacDonald.

Plainfield Lodge was instituted on December 1, 1903, and as last night was the twelfth anniversary, the house committee served a repast late in the evening. There was also an informal social session during which reminiscences of the organization's early days were told by the older members.

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF JOHN VAN NEST LANE

The funeral of John VanNest Lane, of Plainfield, late sexton of the local Presbyterian church, was held in that church yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. The service was in charge of Rev. E. R. Brown, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church, of Plainfield, which Mr. Lane attended during his short residence in Plainfield. Mr. Brown spoke very highly of the departed. He said that he was one of the "old school," who made their living principally with their hands. Mr. Lane, Mr. Brown said, while sexton of the church, had occupied the humble position with dignity, and, as the Apostle Paul had said, magnified his position. Referring to Mr. Lane's Christian character, Mr. Brown said that he died in the faith.

Dr. Anderson spoke to the bereaved family. The pastors both offered prayers. Mrs. E. B. Leland and Miss Emma Marlow sang, "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder." They were accompanied by Mrs. W. S. Frederick at the organ. Interment was at Bound Brook. The pallbearers were: John P. Fenner, Sr., of Pluckemin; Charles Dunlaw, Fowler W. Vail, Paul Reusch, Paxton Van Arsdale and Charles Coriell, Sr.

H. W. MARSHALL TALKS TO PARENT-TEACHER ASS'N

At the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association held last night in the Lincoln School, H. W. Marshall, of Plainfield, gave an instructive talk on the advisability of establishing playgrounds for the pupils of the borough's respective schools. The committee in charge of procuring discarded clothing to be repaired for the school children, whose parents are unable to provide them with proper wearing apparel, reported that the people of the borough are contributing very liberally.

The social hour was featured by two recitations delivered by two boy pupils of the Second grade of the Lincoln School. LeRoy Updyke told a little story about "the johnny cake,' and Adolph Breyer recited "The Disobedient Turkey."

Joseph Gaff, of Front street, has taken a position with Frank Margentino.

Peter Fritts, of Penfield place, has taken a position with Charles Cark, the landscape artist.

W. S. Haselton, of Prospect avenue, has returned from a lengthy sojourn in the Adirondacks.

Walter Doyle, of Front street, submitted to an operation for appendicitis in the Muhlenburg Hospital yesterday afternoon. The operation was performed by Dr. C. A. Gesswein, of Plainfield.

Willard N. Apgar, of Lincoln avenue, resumed his carpentry duties yesterday after being incapacitated since Wednesday of last week with an injured back, which Mr. Apgar sustained while attempting to lift a piece of timber.

Joseph Maier, Jr., of North avenue has been detained from school by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dodd, of Bound Brook road, are the parents of a son who arrived yesterday.

MISS STITES IMPROVING.

Miss Belle Stites, daughter of Tax Collector Stites, is doing nicely in the Muhlenburg Hospital following an operation for mastoiditis on Monday. It was feared that another operation might be necessary, but Miss Stites condition has shown such improvement that the attending physicians are now hopeful that another one will not prove necessary.

RETURNS FROM OYSTER BAY.

Miss Anna Mohan, of Dunellen avenue, has returned from a week's visit at Oyster Bay, where she attended the wedding of a relative. Miss Mohan was accompanied home by her cousin, Miss Lacinthia Campbell who will pay her a short visit.

"OLD MAIDS CONVENTION."

At the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church, held yesterday afternoon, in the Baraca room, the ladies talked of holding an "Old Maids' Convention" in January.

John Logan, of Washington avenue, who has been suffering from a felon on his thumb, for some months is improving.

Mrs. Stanley R. Krom, of Penfield place, who has been suffering from nervous trouble for some time, has gone to the Colony Farm at Belle Mead for treatment.

TO UNDERGO OPERATION.

Miss Mabel Margentino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Margentino of North avenue, will be taken to the Somerset Hospital at Somerville tomorrow for an operation, which will be performed Saturday afternoon by a New York specialist, assisted by Dr. De Marco, of Somerville. The operation will be performed on a knee joint which was injured several months ago.

Miss Jacinthia Frescoln, the local librarian, has been spending the week at Reading, Pa., the guest of relatives. Miss Gertrude Day has been substituting for Miss Frescoln.

MRS. MEYERS IMPROVING.

Mrs. Albert J. Meyers, of Washington avenue, who submitted to an operation at Brookside Sanatorium, Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, is doing as well as can be expected. The operation was performed by Dr. Hellmuth, the noted New York surgeon, assisted by Dr. Roger L. Cooley. It proved to be of a very serious nature, and Mrs. Meyers was on the table for three hours.

A girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dauncy, of Dewey Park yesterday.

Emerson Platt, son of Dr. Platt, continues to improve from an attack of pneumonia.

PIPER—REIDY.

Miss Agnes Reidy, daughter of Michael Reidy, of Piscataway, was married to Charles Piper, son of Albert Piper, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at St. John's Catholic church, Dunellen, in the presence of members of the immediate families. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. E. J. Dunphy, rector of the church. The couple was attended by the brother and sister of the bride, Andrew and Helen Reidy. They will reside in Piscataway. The groom is employed as tilemaker at the plant of the American Cement Tile Manufacturing Company at Lincoln.

LOUIS WYCKOFF INJURED.

Louis Wyckoff, employed on the farm of John M. Evans, has been incapacitated since Saturday with two broken ribs. Mr. Wyckoff sustained his injury when he fell against the side of a wagon, the bottom of which had been made slippery by the rain. Dr. T. H. Platt is the attending physician.

Burtis Stillwaggon, son of Alex Stillwaggon, is ill with diphtheria. The home has been quarantined.

Mrs. Frank Henry, of Three Bridges, was a visitor here yesterday.

'Plains & Fanwood.

FANWOOD COUNCIL JOINS STATE LEAGUE

Decides to Lend Its Support to the Organization Which Favors Home Rule.

The Fanwood Council at its December meeting, last night, voted to join the New Jersey State League of Municipalities, the newly-organized body comprising representatives from a majority of the cities, boroughs and towns in the State. Mayor William H. Hoar, will represent Fanwood at a meeting of the league to be held in Trenton on January 19, when further information concerning the purpose of the organization will be obtained.

There has been a delay in the matter of installing two street lights on lower Martine avenue for the reason that it is necessary to secure the consent of the New Jersey Central before a pole can be removed from Martine and North avenues, it being on the railroad property. The matter will be adjusted within the next ten days.

The Council authorized the installation of two lights on Hunter avenue, between Paterson road and Midway avenue, in response to a petition from residents. The application of John Ford, Jr., for a hack license, was granted.

The treasurer reported cash on hand of $1,892.98. Bills amounting to $7,900 were passed, including the annual county tax of $3,936.31 and local school tax of $3,425.57. The former is an increase of but $51.24 over last year, but the borough share of the township tax has jumped from $2,166.40 to over one-third additional.

McCarty Brothers, who sell vegetables through the borough, were before the Council on complaint of Eugene Heptin, of Hunter avenue, who stated that he had purchased a barrel of potatoes, and failed to get full measure, because a bushel basket was found in the barrel. The McCartys promised to make good the shortage and were allowed to go with a reprimand.

Mayor William H. Hoar and Councilman Albert L. Riblet, who were elected at the last general election were sworn in by Clerk McAnnen last night. Augustus Sheelen is the only remaining one to take the oath of office. He will take the position left vacant by the retirement of Thomas W. Norton, who declined to run again after completing three terms, twice as president of the governing body.

Plans for the annual Christmas sale for the benefit of the All Saints Episcopal church were completed at a meeting held at the home of Mrs James Carter, of North avenue, yesterday afternoon. Tomorrow night and Saturday morning will be spent in decorating the hall and erecting booths at the Fanwood firehouse, where the sale will be held from 3 until 9 on Saturday.

Word has been received from Fred Coombs, who joined the U. S. Navy about a year ago. He left about a month ago on the battleship New York for Chinese waters and says he expects to be gone sometime.

Several improvements have just been completed on the Fanwood firehouse, including the strengthening and painting of the walls.

The choir practice, followed by a social hour, will be held in the lecture room of the Baptist church tomorrow night.

High Bridge-Califon.

Rev. Henry P. King, pastor of the Califon Methodist church, will preach Sunday afternoon at the Bunvale Schoolhouse.

Jerry Hoffman is building an addition to his peach basket factory at Califon.

Thomas M. Neigh and Samuel Neigh, of Califon, are spending the week in Newark and New York.

James Bulmer, of Vernoy, is ill.

A Men's Union Brotherhood meeting was held Sunday afternoon in Apgar's Hall, Califon, and these temporary officers were elected; President, Robert Morrell; vice-president Isaac H. Hoffman; secretary, Frank Moore; treasurer, Lester M. Apgar. Permanent organization will be effected December 5.

Having sold his farm near New Germantown, Isaac Hoffman will move to Califon about April 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey K. Trumpore of Califon, entertained this week Mr and Mrs. Ray Hoffman, of Hampton.

Rev. and Mrs. Enoch King, of Califon, left Tuesday for Oradell, where they will spend the winter with their son, Dr. Chester King.

Robert M. Honeyman, who has been conducting revival services in the Lower Valley Presbyterian and Califon Methodist churches, left Tuesday for Oxbow, N. Y., where he will stay two weeks before going to Wyoming, Pa. His free will offerings at the local churches amounted to $95.89.

Somerville

The local fire department responded to an alarm of fire this morning at 2:15, when the dwelling of John Cooper, located in the rear of Meyer Hodge's home on East High street, was destroyed. Cooper lost his horse, wagon, harness and other articles which brought the loss to about $600. It is the opinion of many of the residents that the fire was of incendiary origin, because chicken thieves have been working in this vicinity.

Angelo Demalie was struck by a jitney Tuesday evening in Raritan, sustaining slight injury to one of his legs. The jitney was operated by E. Kelley.

The Columbus Minstrel Company of this place, gave a performance in the Millstone Hall, last night, to a large audience.

Whitehouse

Miss Lottie Wilson, of Lebanon, is spending a week at High Bridge with her cousin, Mrs. Nelson R. Apgar.

Mrs. Mary A. Bailey, of Whitehouse Station, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Billerbeck and family, at Doylestown, Pa.

The Potterstown Sunday-school will give an organ fund entertainment Friday evening. Local talent will present the play, "Down in Maine."

Edward Stevenson returned to Somerville Tuesday after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dilley, at Whitehouse Station.

Midweek prayer services of the Whitehouse Station Reformed church will be omitted tonight.

Albert Fleming returned to New York Tuesday after a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fleming in East Whitehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Todd, of Quakertown, Pa., are guests of John Dawes, Jr., in Round Valley.

Mrs. John E. Seals entertained the Wishbone Improvement Society yesterday afternoon at her residence in East Whitehouse.

Mrs. William Shafer returned to Whitehouse Station Tuesday after a visit to her sister, Mrs. George Hall of Bound Brook.

William C. Melick entertained the Young People's Union of the Methodist church Tuesday night, at his home in East Whitehouse.

Mrs. Mary Longstreet returned to Somerville yesterday after visiting Mrs. Jennie Van Syckle at Whitehouse Station.

The school teachers of this section held a conference Tuesday afternoon in the public school building at Whitehouse Station. It was the first of a series of meetings to be held in the county by the county superintendent, Jason S. Hoffman, of Flemington.

Dr. and Mrs. John Smith returned to New York Tuesday after a visit to the doctor's sister, Mrs. William Caldwell, of Lebanon.

For the convenience of the taxpayers, Frank A. Cole, of Three Bridges, collector of Readington township, will be at Lane's store, in East Whitehouse, December 13, from 10 to 2 o'clock.

A three-act drama, "Just Plain Folks," will be presented in the Readington Reformed church, Friday and Saturday evenings, for the benefit of the Sunday-school library. The cast is made up of local talent.

William J. Manning, of Phillipsburg, is at Whitehouse Station.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Congressman John H. Capstick is early on the job at Washington. He has been doing everything possible to make himself acquainted with the duties of his office. He has been doing all in his power to establish a direct relation between himself and each constituent. Congressman Capstick will meet many difficulties confronting a new member. He has gone to Washington, however, to serve this district and his country. He has been notable for his ability to accomplish whatever he has set out to do. He may be expected to accomplish good results for those whom he represents. —Elizabeth Journal.

POLITICAL NOTES

It is doubtful if any recount ever held in Elizabeth has aroused as much interest as has the recount now in progress on the vote for excise commissioners. At the present proceedings in the courthouse, someone is always in evidence outside the railing who seems to be waiting with bated breath for the call of every ballot as it comes from the box. When the counting started William J. Dunn whose fate rests upon a scant fifteen votes, hung anxiously over the railing, and during the day John J. Stamler came in to carefully scan the return sheets of the counsel for the Democratic board. There are few minutes during the day when the watchful gallery is not present. Owing to the careful arrangements by the county authorities, however, the election officers are not hindered in their work no matter how large a crowd is present and the recount will probably progress more rapidly than usual.

One of the things which have been brought to light by the recount is the fact that the election officers in Elizabeth are usually neither accurate nor well informed. Votes which are rejected in the original count are oftentimes counted in the recount and there are very many ballots rejected by the county board which pass the scrutiny of the district election boards. While the complaint has been made that the county board is too rigid in its rulings, the opposite is true of the district boards.

More rumors are coming out of Hudson county concerning the activity of the fighting sheriff, Gene Kinkead. It is claimed now that his sensational raids on Sunday-selling in Hoboken are but the forerunner of an attempt to recall Mayor Patrick R. Griffin and the City Commissions in the mile-square city, who opposed the sheriff in his fight at the past election. Kinkead refuses to comment upon the raids, but continues to "saw wood."

Donald H. McLean stated yesterday morning that he was not a candidate for assistant secretary of the State or any other office in connection with the New Jersey Legislature. Mr. McLean had been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Senate position, which, it is understood, is to go to John W. Clift, of Summit.

WILLIAM A. FESMIER DIES AT ALLENDALE

Was Former Plainfielder, and Graduate of Stillman—Burial Here Saturday.

William Armstrong Fesmier, a native of this city, died early this morning at the home of his mother, Mrs William F. Coulter, of Allendale, Bergen county. He had been in failing health for the past year, and the family removed from Passaic to Allendale only a few days ago in the hope that a change might prove beneficial.

Mr. Fesmier was twenty-two years old and removed from Plainfield to Passaic about six years ago, following his mother's second marriage. He was a graduate of the Stillman Grammar School here, class of 1908, and was a sophomore in the Plainfield High School when he moved away from Plainfield. He was graduated from Passaic High School, and entered Cornell, but was forced to give up his studies because of impaired health. He was an unusually bright boy and gave promise of a brilliant future. He had a genial disposition as his many friends in Plainfield can verify. His summers for the past few years were spent at Lake Hopatcong where his mother and stepfather have a handsome home on Pine Tree Point. He is survived by a number of relatives in this city, one of whom is an uncle, Joseph C. Allen, of Sandford avenue.

The funeral will be held at Allendale at 12:30 Saturday noon, after which the body will be brought to this city by automobile for burial in Hillside cemetery. The funeral party will probably arrive at the graveside at 3 o'clock, and a further service will be held at that time for the benefit of local friends.

LOCAL Y. M. H. A. IS AFTER HUNDRED NEW MEMBERS

More than fifteen new members were reported at the meeting of the Y. M. H. A., of Plainfield, held last night. The organization is conducting a campaign for 100 new members and it s promised that this number will be secured within a short time. A meeting of the membership committee was held at noon today for a discussion of plans and new ideas for the teams at work will be outlined at the meeting of next Wednesday.

ELEVEN PATIENTS WERE ADMITTED DURING MONTH

Dr. John E. Runnells, superintendent of Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, in his monthly report, states that there were 99 patients at the institution on November 1, 71 men and 28 women. During the month eleven patients were admitted, eight men and three women. Of this number there was one male and one female in the moderately advanced stage and seven males and two females in the far advanced stage.

The largest number present at any time during the month was 104, smallest number 97; number present November 29, 104, 74 men and 30 women. The daily average was 99.6.

PLUCKEMIN FACTORY HAS BRIEF STRIKE OF EMPLOYES

The 150 employes of the Superior Thread and Yarn Works at Pluckemin went on strike at noon yesterday, demanding a reduction in working hours from ten hours a day to nine hours and an increase of twenty-five cents a week in pay. The company refused the request throughout the afternoon, but last night a conference was held in Kenilworth Inn, Pluckemin, at which an amicable agreement was reached. The employes accepted an increase of $1 per week in wages but without any reduction in the working hours.

The Superior Company manufactures yarns and threads from Chinese grass and is the only concern of the kind in the world that is operating today. All the others using Chinese grass have been closed down because of the European war. The factory is the main industry at Pluckemin.

HIGH SCHOOL WORK IN STATE IS IMPROVING

Trenton, Dec. 2.—High Schools and High School work in New Jersey are increasing at a marvelous rate, much more rapidly than the population, according to A. B. Meredith, of Plainfield, assistant State commissioner of education, in charge of High School work, as shown in his annual report just submitted to State Commissioner Kendall for transmission to the State Board of Education. The report is for the school year ending June 30, last.

The total enrollment in all classes of High Schools has increased from 28,479 in 1912, to 44,314 in 1915, or an increase of 55.6 per cent. The total enrollment of the State, exclusive of the High Schools, was 430,710 in 1912, and 475,566 in 1915. This is a gain of 10.4 per cent. in three years. During the same period the High School enrollment has increased 55.6 per cent., or in other words, the High School department is growing five times more rapidly than the remainder of the enrollment when taken together.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Daniel Husik, of Philadelphia, who was formerly Miss Margarete Boehm, spent yesterday with friends in this city.

Max Schrank, of Kasenhayn, N. J., visited friends in Plainfield yesterday.

A party of Plainfield people motored to Somerville last night to attend a dance given by Zion Camp, the guests of Henry Rosenbaum. Mr. Rosenbaum was called on for a short address by the Somerville people. Those who accompanied him were Oscar Cohen, S. Krautheimer, Max Oliner, Arthur Richards and Louis Rothberg.

Mrs. Michael Higgins, who underwent an operation at St. Elizabeth Hospital, will be removed to her home, 9 Grandview avenue, next Sunday.

RECREATION NOTES

An 18 Years' Test for

TRU-TRED SHOES

We began selling Tru-Tred Shoes to our patrons 18 years ago.

From that date to this, some folks have been wearing Tru-Treds to their decided delight and satisfaction.

Year by year more and more people have been adopting Tru-Treds, and year by year the evidence comes to us that these Shoes are adding tremendously to the comfort of those who wear them, relieving them from all foot ills, and adding to their capacity for walking and standing.

We need no stronger argument for Tru-Treds than the fact of their 18 years' record.

Tru-Tred Shoes Are Made for Men, Women and Children.

MRS. FREDERICK E. KEEP DIES AT BROOKLINE, MASS.

Older citizens of this city will learn with regret of the death last week of Mrs. Frederick E. Keep at her late home in Brookline, Mass. Mrs. Keep's maiden name was Sarah Vermeule. She was the elder daughter of the late Manning Vermeule, of West Front street, prominent as a business man and a deacon, for many years of the First Baptist church. After her marriage, Mrs. Keep went to New England, where her husband had large business interests. Subsequent to his death, Mr. Keep was the manager in Boston of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.

Mrs. Keep was a member of the First Baptist church until her removal to New England. For many years she was a member of the Harvard Congregational church, of Brookline. She is survived by a son, Dr. Charles M. Keep, of Boston, residing in Brookline. A brother, Charles Vermeule, of Asbury Park, also survives her.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

"Willard—The Man Who Grows,"—is a top-liner at Proctor's this week. It doesn't sound human does it? If it were not for Mr. Willard's pleasing personality and the risk of offending him we would be tempted to regard him as a freak, but nevertheless, freak or not, he certainly performs miraculous feats. Adele, a dainty bit of femininity, deserves special mention for the way in which she renders some difficult selections, and Henri & Russell, in their novelty entitled, "Texico," certainly are to be commended for their versatility. Rand & Pell, German comedians, offer a line of nonsense. Casey & Jones conclude with an offering that was received with warm appreciation. Robert B. Mantell, the noted Shakespearian actor, makes his debut in photo-plays by appearing in a William Fox feature entitled, "The Blindness of Devotion." Miss Genevieve Hamper, one of the most beautiful women on the stage, plays opposite Mr. Mantell. Toy matinee will be featured Saturday. A week for the presentation of the greatest photo-play spectacles ever produced is set aside starting Monday, December 6. On Monday and Tuesday, Triangle Plays will be introduced to the film fans of this vicinity, while Wednesday and Thursday the greatest photo-play spectacle of its kind will be presented. It is "The Battle Cry of Peace." A gorgeous production whose theme was derived from Hudson Maxim's world famous book "Defenseless America."

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Children of Eve,' featuring beautiful Viola Dana, the child actress, and produced with rare skill by Kleine-Edison Company, will be the chief dramatic photoplay at the U. S Astor Theatre this afternoon and tonight, heading a program of splendid photodramas and comedies. Besides being one of the prettiest stars in the cinema field, Miss Dana is an exceptionally clever little actress. Her remarkably expressive features and winsome figure make of her a character that soon wins the sympathies of the audience. The story is one of strong dramatic interest, and the producers have given Miss Dana a fine supporting cast. Tomorrow and Saturday the feature photo production will be "Rags," a delightful comedy starring Mary Pickford. An aded attraction today will be the final episode of "The Diamond from the Sky,' the thrilling serial, in which it is learned who gets the diamond.

ONE CENT SALE!

NOW GOING ON

A woman with buying to do never saves any time by omitting to read the advertisements. Nor does she always secure par-value for her dollar.

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

A Galley o' Fun!

A HIGHER FIELD.

It was the last of the season. Two figures were alone on the beach—one half-sad, half-stern in its attitude, the other eager, pleading, passionate.

There could be no doubt that she was a very pretty girl. Her tall, straight figure, her waving dark hair, her deep brown eyes and her regular classical features, produced a harmonious entity that the most critical of artists would have not passed by indefinitely.

"Of course," she said, "I understand how you feel, and deeply appreciate the honor you do me. How commonplace that sounds! Yet, indeed, I am greatly stirred by what you have said. I am sure, had not the determination never to marry become so much a part of my religion, that you would have won me long before this. But my resolution can not be shaken."

"It is so hard to argue a matter like this in cold blood with one who seems to be so much above the ordinary emotions," he said, "that I do not know quite how to reach you. I gather that you consider marriage a condition, while not perhaps beneath you, yet one which does not accord with your highest ideals."

"That is it," she responded. "Marriage for perhaps the average girl is at least the usual outcome of her surroundings and education. But for me it would not fulfill the highest life It would interfere. To me my Art is above all else; and, to perfect myself in it, I must avoid all the doubtful matrimonial drawbacks I must be free to put forth my best. My mission is all in all."

The young man sighed.

"I did not dream of this," he muttered. "I did not suppose you painted or were literary or especially musical"

And the girl at his side replied calmly: "I am merely fitting myself to lecture."

KING'S DAUGHTERS PLAN ANNIVERSARY

Result of Work to Increase Funds Will Be Reported On January 19.

The Board of Trustees of the City Union of King's Daughters met in the Day Nursery this morning and made arrangements for the raising of a fund to increase the work of the Nursery. It was decided to distribute "Tiding Stars" to the various members of the union and their friends, each star being large enough to hold ten dimes. Returns from same will be made by January 15, to Mrs. Stuart H. Patterson, who will make the presentation of the total receipts at the tea which will be given at the Nursery on January 19, in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the home.

Announcement was made this morning also that the Needlework Guild of the city had donated 717 articles to the children in the Nursery and that the children are having three afternoons of regular kindergarten work at present. Arrangements were also made to hold the annual Christmas party for the inmates.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON 'PREVENTION OF DEFORMITIES'

The Franklin Parent-Teacher Association held an enthusiastic meeting in the Franklin School last night over one hundred members and their friends attending. Dr. H. D. Corbusier gave an interesting illustrated lecture on the "Prevention of Deformities in Children and Their Correct Posture." Mrs. S. Frederick Smith president of the association, presided at the business meeting which followed. During the latter the members voted that a letter and flowers be sent to Miss Caroline Barbour, one of the teachers in the organization who is at present a patient in the Muhlenberg Hospital.

Announcement was made that an exhibition of the work of the opportunity class of the school would held afternoon and evening, in the Franklin School Auditorium, on Wednesday, December 15. The proceeds of the exhibit will be used in an effort to extend the work of the class.

Following the meeting last night a social hour was enjoyed by the attendants, during which dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. C H. Russell and Mrs. Fuller, chairmen of the refreshment committee.

UNIQUE GIFT FOR WILSON.

It Will Be a Reading Lamp Stand Incrusted With Alaska Nuggets.

Alaska citizens, from Nome to Ketchikan, are raising a fund for a unique wedding present to President Wilson and his bride. It is to be a reading lamp stand of small gold nuggets of both the northern and the Fairbanks variety.

L. A. Newton, goldsmith, of Juneau will do the work. The nuggets will be arranged on an upright standard modeled after the Alaskan fir tree. The first spreading of the limbs will contain the wires for tiny electric lights. The nuggets will be arranged on the tree trunk so that the light and dark colored will make the bark. The nuggets will cost $300.

Mrs. Swineford, postmaster at Ketchikan, originated the idea and started the subscription paper. Nearly every village and town has added to it.

BAD MAN BIG TAX ON STATE.

Whalen Twenty-four Years In Prisons at Cost of $20,000.

When George Whalen pleaded guilty of burglary before Judge Wadhams of New York court attaches took the trouble to figure out approximately the amount Whalen had cost the state in his criminal career.

His is fifty-five years old and has spent twenty-four years in various prisons. Including the cost of his food and care and of his various court appearances, the whole expense was estimated at $20,000.

His latest ill doing was to force a door at 234 Bowery, near the lodging house where he lived, and steal carpenter's tools. The prisoner said liquor had been his undoing and that in later years he had found it impossible to resist the temptation to steal.

FEW OUT FOR HUNT RUN.

A small field, numbering about a half dozen riders, followed the Watchung Hunt Club hounds yesterday. The meeting place was the South Plainfield Station, the route taking the hunters in the direction of Oak Tree.

Reading Character

is always interesting, but a study of a tradesman's business character as indicated by his advertising is even more interesting and always profitable.

Just glance over the advertisements in the Plainfield Daily Press of the merchants whose places you know.

Does not the merchant write his store character into his advertising? Is it not possible to form a pretty good idea of the store from the manner in which it makes its announcements in the newspapers?

Merchants are coming to realize more and more that when they write an advertisement they are painting a business portrait of themselves—indicating their business character.

They are more careful in their statements, more modest in their language and pay more attention to typography and illustration.

Advertising is prepared now-a-days more carefully than ever before and there is more of it every day.

And by the same token it is going to be more interesting and profitable to the readers.

If you mix knowledge and industry,
The product will be success.

SEASON PROGRAM OF GUN CLUBMEN

Log Cabin Gunners' Initial Shoot for Point Cup to Be Held Saturday.

SEASON ENDS MAR. 18

Events Planned For New Year's, Lincoln's and Washington's Birthdays, and For Six Saturdays—Conditions of Events.

Marksmen of the Log Cabin Gun Club will shoot in two competitions Saturday—in a 15-bird walk around event for the Take Home Cup, and in the season point contest. Shooting for the Point Cup will start at 3 p. m., and for the Take Home Cup at 4 p. m.

The Point Cup competition is held on each regularly scheduled shooting day, excepting holidays, and is at 25 targets. High gun each day earns five points, and three and one credits go to the second and third high guns, respectively. The cup goes to the competitor amassing the largest number of points during the season.

The Holiday Cup competition is also a 25-bird event. The first and second high guns each holiday qualify until February 22, when the final will be decided.

The shoot for a special holiday cup, postponed from Thanksgiving Day, will be held New Year's Day. All shoots are handicap affairs. The program for the season, announced by Field Captain Harvey Fisk, is as follows:

Sat., Dec. 4.—Point Cup, 3 p. m.; 15-bird walk around for Take Home Cup, 4 p. m.

Sat., Dec. 18.—Point Cup, 3 p. m.; 15-bird duck shoot for Take Home Cup, 4 p. m.

New Year's Day, Jan. 1.—Holiday Cup, 10 a. m.; 25-bird regular shoot for Take Home Cup, 2 p. m.

Sat., Jan. 15 and 29.—Point Cup, 3 p. m.; Take Home Cup, conditions to be announced later.

Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12.—Holiday Cup, 10 a. m.; Take Home Cup (15 singles and 5 doubles), 2 p. m.

Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22.—Holiday Cup, 10 a. m.; final shoot for Holiday Cup, 11 a. m.; regular 25-bird shoot for Take Home Cup, 2 p. m.

Sat., Mar. 4 and 18—Point Cup, 3 p. m.; Take Home Cup (conditions to be announced later), 4 p. m.

LINE-UPS FOR COURT MEETING OF POND MEN

Well Known Athletes to Take Part in Game at Hope Chapel Saturday.

Line-ups of the basketball teams that will represent the bachelors and benedicts of Pond's in the game at Hope chapel Saturday night were announced last evening.

The names of the players is an indication that the game will be something more than one of the usual married men-single men farces, for while the comedy end will not be missing, both teams are seriously desirous of victory, and sure-'nuff hard-fought battle is certain to ensue.

The married men will have two players who, if they can perform half as well on the basketball court as they can on the baseball diamond, will make their opponents hustle. They are Cliff Randolph, Plainfield's best pitcher, and Frank Sims, who twirled for a leading Paterson nine a few years back.

There will be experienced basketballers taking part in the game, although most of the men are out of practice. Dan Rudderman, who will play left forward for the benedicts, formerly captained the Rambler A. C., one of New York's major quintets. Jack Hallard, who will hold down a guard on the same team, is a former scholastic player, and comes from a family of basketball stars. His cousins, Jack and Tom Ricketts, both played with Plainfield High School a few winters ago. The bachelors' team will be made up of younger men, two of whom, Dave Wardrop and George Leighs, have played every season for a number of years on the Hope chapel team.

Jack Martin, Plainfield's one and only big league ball-tosser, who is now working in the "Safety First" department at Pond's, will referee the match. Ed Winey, the expert accountant of the plant, will be official scorekeeper.

The teams will line up as follows:

The game will start at 8 o'clock.

TO PICK ELKS' TEAM.

Lorenzo D. Townley, who will captain the Elks' Junior League bowling team this season, has called a meeting of his candidate for tomorrow night. Practice and selection of the team will be on the evening's program.

VIKINGS HERE SATURDAY.

What will probably be the last Saturday game of the local football season, will be the contest on Cricket Field Saturday between the Holy Cross Club, of this city, and the Vikings, of Bayonne.

BOROUGH SOPHS RETURN BEATING TO FRESHIES

The Sophomores, of North Plainfield High School, avenged the defeat which they recently suffered at the hands of the Freshmen, by defeating that team yesterday afternoon, in Saengerbund Hall, by the close margin of three points, the score being 34 to 31. Not until the last few minutes of play was the verdict decided, and then baskets by Burner and Force won the game.

Burner and Force led the attack of the winners with a quartet of field goals. O'Connor and Dunning excelled for the losers, with five field goals apiece, while the latter also scored seven fouls.

ELIZABETH ELKS HEAVY.

The team that represents Gus Bock's Imperial alleys in the Intercounty Alley Owners' League, which is the same bunch that represents Elizabeth in the Elks' Senior League, took second place in the sixteen-club league by winning three games on the Llewellyn alleys last night. The Elizabethans rolled the hefty totals of 1,003, 946 and 937. Mahoney rolled 213, 194 and 211; Keller, 164, 177 and 186; Feihl, 203, 180 and 182; Clauss, 198, 202 and 183, and Bock, 225, 193 and 181.

SHALLER BUSY BALL PLAYER.

Pacific Coast Star Plays In 220 Consecutive Games.

It is rare for a player to take part in all of the games played by a major league team during the championship season. A major league schedule calls for 154 games. In the Pacific Coast league the schedule calls for 210 championship games by each club.

It is remarkable for any player to participate in all of the contests for the pennant, but "Biff" Shaller, the San Francisco outfielder, has established a record of being in every championship game for two successive seasons.

In 1914 he was in 210 games, two of which resulted in ties scores, and this year he was in 208 games. During the past season he played through every contest except two.

NEW LINKS AT BERNARDSVILLE.

A new golf course is being laid out near Bernardsville, and will be known as the Somerset Hills Country Club. Options have been secured on about 200 acres of land, and Donald Ross has been engaged to do the designing work. There is already a nine-hole course in that vicinity, but it will be abandoned when the new circuit is ready for use. The membership will be limited, largely to residents of that section. While a great deal of preliminary work will be done within the next few months, it is hardly likely that the new links will be ready for use until the spring of 1917. Among those interested in the club are Joseph Harriman, Grant B. Schley, Colonel A. R. Kuser, Percy Pyne, Forest Dryden, James Brady, Ledyard Blair, Walter Bliss and Charles Chapin.

YALE REORGANIZATION.

Reform of Yale's football policy was last night placed in the hands of a special committee by the Yale Athletic Committee, who decided to turn the situation over to a trio of Yale's most distinguished former gridiron players, consisting of Vance McCormick, Brinckerhoff Thorne, and John Kilpatrick. They will frame a new system, recommend a new head coach, and will make such other recommendations as they deem wise to put Yale football once more on a successful basis. They were requested by the Athletic Committee to go into the situation exhaustively and they will report their recommendations to both the Athletic Committee and Corporation or University Trustee Board. The ratification will be merely a formality.

KNIGHTS' GAME OFF.

A letter received last night by George E. Howe, captain of the Watchung Council team, of the Knights of Columbus League, from the Jersey City Council team, which was scheduled to roll on the Plainfield knights' alleys tomorrow night, postponing the series. The date for the match will be settled later. A house tournament match will probably be arranged for Friday night on the local Columbus Club lanes.

SYRACUSE LICKS OREGON.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 2.—With the aid of a bewildering assortment of plays, the Syracuse University football team defeated the Oregon Agricultural College eleven here yesterday, 28 to 0.

TWO GAMES ON TABS' FLOOR.

A basketball double-header will take place on Tabs' court tomorrow night. The Abstainers' first team will play the Adeltas, and the second aggregation will take on the Mohawks.

GAMES' TOURNEY.

Members of the Boys' Club, Employed Boys and High School classes of the Y. M. C. A. will take part in a games' tourney tonight.

SPARROW REPLACES "DOC."

Joe Green will replace H. P. Greenwood on the Brown team of the five-man head-pin tournament at the Columbus Club.

LOCAL TABS BOWL AT ELIZABETH TONIGHT

Members and friends of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society to the number of about a hundred will journey by special trolley to Elizabeth this evening, for the local Tabs' annual bowling series on the alleys of the county seat Abstainers.

The Elizabeth Tabs, who do more bowling than their Plainfield brothers, who have no alleys in their clubhouse, invariably come out victorious, but this does not interfere with the Plainfielders' enjoyment of the social end of the affair, which is the main issue. The usual reception will follow the bowling match. A return series will be held in this city later in the season.

MARSTON IS SEASON'S LEADING GOLF WINNER

Maxwell R. Marston, of Cranford, is the leading winner of the season among the amateur golfers. Max won six tournaments, was a runner-up four times in important events, and was a medal winner in the national amateur championship. A poor putt robbed him of a chance to win the national title.

Marston beat Walter J. Travers at Garden City and carried off the New Jersey State championship. In the final at Manchester, Vt., Marston beat Parker Seeley, and a few days later defeated a field of classy players at the Mohawk Club, of Schenectady, N. Y. He won the amateur championship of Atlantic City, and in the final tournament of the season Saturday, he romped home a winner in the Lakewood tournament.

This was Marston's last season. He has decided to lay away his clubs until next spring. During the winter he will pastime at hockey and bowling with the Cranford Casino.

N. P. H. S. OUTPLAYED ON KEARNY'S FLOOR

Boroughites Are Sixth Team to Get Licked by Hudson Countyites.

The Kearny High School basketball team won its sixth consecutive victory of the season when it defeated North Plainfield High School by the score of 32-23, at Kearny yesterday afternoon. Excellent teamwork and unerring skill in converting shots into points, gave the home team victory.

The boroughites played a fighting game until the finish and at several stages only a slight margin separated the two teams. The local team had difficulty at the start of each half, but once fairly started, displayed some fine teamwork and carried the ball from their opponents' territory under their own goal.

Familiarity with the court was a decided advantage to the home team and a handicap the visitors could not overcome. A long cement floor, with a few feet separating the basket from the ceiling, made shooting difficult. The Kearny players had the faculty of running up a flight of cement stairs near the basket and shooting, many goals being made in this manner. The boroughites' defense was often drawn out of position in a clever manner, completely bewildering the players.

The contest was marked by clean playing, neither side resorting to any rough tactics, the Kearnyites winning by displaying a superior brand of the indoor sport.

Cook, at forward, and Shindell, at centre, did the bulk of the scoring for the winners, totaling six and five field goals, respectively, while all the borough players played a prominent part in the scoring line.

WYOMINGS NAVY CHAMPIONS.

By defeating the team from the battleship New Hampshire by a score of 6 to 0, the eleven representing the battleship Wyoming yesterday won the football championship of the Atlantic Fleet. The game was played at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and was witnessed by about 2,000 persons. The new champions were defeated in this city last month by the Holy Cross eleven. Cramer made the winning touchdown yesterday, in the final quarter. Norris failed to kick the goal.

FEW CHANGES IN AVERAGES

Plainfield Team's Mark in K. C. League Dops One Point.

CRIBBEN STILL IN LEAD

Newark Baseball Player Setting Pace With 195.7, and Also Holds Individual Record—Bayley Men Claim Team Honors.

Averages of the Knights of Columbus League pinners, announced today by the secretary, John E. Hastings, show little change from last week, at least in so far as Plainfield is concerned. The team average of Watchung Council fell one point, as did the mark of Captain Taylor, who leads the local quintet.

Luke Cribben, a Newark semi-pro baseball player, is still the league leader. His mark for nine games is 195.7, and his high score of 255 is still the record.

Bayley Council, of Elizabeth, has the best average and the high team score. Their average is 874.7, and their high record, 989.

BUSY DAY AHEAD FOR LOCAL DOCTORS

Next Wednesday is Examination Time in All Cities of the United States.

Next Wednesday will be a busy day for all of the physicians in Plainfield. Every man, woman and child will want to be examined, if plans of the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield are carried out, and there is every indication that a majority of those who make up the population will get in line with the movement.

One of the three big days in Tuberculosis Week, which will be observed in this city, as well as all others in the United States, is medical examination day. This is fixed for next Wednesday. The plan of those who are waging war on tuberculosis does not necessarily call for an examination on that day, but they hope to have every individual, especially adults, make arrangements for a thorough overhauling of their body by their physician. The real examination can be made later in the month. The intention is to popularize a movement that will result in the discovery of thousands of cases of tuberculosis and other diseases in the early stages and at a time when the body will respond to treatment. All physicians have long ago urged an annual examination of the body of their patients as the best means of preventing disease. In the case of factories, stores and offices where the employes are not at present examined periodically, the league urges the adoption of such a system.

PLACE RED CROSS SEALS IN HANDS OF PUPILS

Many Busy Young Merchants Will Help Local Anti-Tuberculosis Work.

Red Cross seals will be delivered to the pupils in the Plainfield and North Plainfield schools tomorrow and will be placed on general sale at a number of places about town, such as banks, stores, hotels and business houses, beginning on Saturday. Cards will be conspicuously displayed at points where seals can be found, and from time to time additional agencies will be established during the next ten days. George M. Holstein is chairman of the committee having the sale in charge, and he is being assisted by the following: Mr and Mrs. A. Willis West, schools; A. W. Ransome, merchants and factories; Miss Mary R. Sullivan, Catholic organizations; Seymour Perkins, Sunday schools; James Boyd Potter, fraternal societies; Mrs. William B. Tyler, public booths; Miss Lovell Charity Organization Society; Miss Caroline Iredell and Eastman Ire monger, special agents. A number of others will also assist, there having been over eighty last year who aided in the work, in addition to the scores of school pupils who took an active interest.

Last year Plainfielders bought about 80,000 of the seals, 85 per cent of the receipts going into the treasury of the local Anti-Tuberculosis League, and the balance going to the national society to help in their work and pay for the actual printing of the seals. This year it is hoped that the 100,000 mark will be topped, and Mr. Holstein and his assistants will use every means to try to accomplish that result.

Few people have any conception of the magnitude of the Red Cross Christmas Seal Campaign. Here are a few figures that will show what a gigantic movement this is. Already 225,000,000 seals have been printed and practically that entire number distributed to agents in every State and territory of the Union, from Alaska in the north to the Canal Zone in the south, and from Porto Rico in the East to Hawaii in the West. Advertising circulars, posters, cards, etc to the number of several million have also been distributed. Not less than 1,000,000 personal letters asking people to buy seals have been sent out. It is estimated that the army of workers, nearly all of whom are volunteers, engaged in selling the seals, numbers well over 500,000. The advertising and publicity donated to the campaign amounts to several hundred thousand dollars. Every effort is being put forth to sell 75,000,000 seals, or less than one for every man, woman and child in the United States. This will mean $750,000 for the anti-tuberculosis campaign in the United States, and particularly all of the 1,200 anti-tuberculosis associations of the country deriving their support from Red Cross seals.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSONS.

Buffalo, N. E-lecturettes

A series of eight articles describing the development of electricity to the present day, prepared for the ordinary layman to read. The week from November 29 to December 4 is being featured as Electrical Prosperity Week from one end of the country to the other, and the articles are printed in the Daily Press in order to give our readers, young and old, a splendid home course in electricity.

LORD KELVIN.

NO. 6.

The Inspiring Example of Lord Kelvin.

One of the most important figures in the world of electric invention is Lord Kelvin, English physicist and philosopher. He solved almost all the problems of submarine telegraphy. Not very many people are familiar with the history of this remarkable man, who died at his residence, Netherall-near-Largs, Scotland, on Dec. 17, 1907.

Unlike many men of monumental intellect and creative force, Lord Kelvin's life story lacks romantic atmosphere. He was born William Thomson, June 26, 1824, at Belfast, Ireland, the second son of James Thomson, a teacher of mathematics in the Royal Academical institution. From the very cradle William was under the profound influences of the classics. In 1832, James Thomson, the parent, migrated with his family to Glasgow to accept the chair of mathematics in the university. At the age of ten William Thomson, the son, matriculated in Glasgow university, and when he was twenty-two years old he accepted the chair of natural philosophy in his university. This he held for fifty-three years, attaining universal recognition as the greatest physicist of his time.

Two years before he had entered Peterhouse, Cambridge, where he took many high honors, but where his thirst for research work could not be appeased because of the few facilities for the study of experimental science. Thomson went to Paris, where he studied for a year in the laboratories of Regnault.

Since 1854, Lord Kelvin was most prominent among telegraphists. His remarkable researches gave to the world the recorders, the stranded form of conductors and many other important parts of submarine telegraphy. His work in connection with telegraphy led to the production in rapid succession of instruments for the measuring of electricity.

Current from the ten-thousandth of an ampere to 10,000 amperes and pressure from the fraction of a volt to 100,000 volts are measured by his instruments.

When electric lighting came Lord Kelvin's fertile brain evolved a new set of instruments for the electrical engineer. There is no quantity of electricity which his instruments are not called upon to measure. They are used in every power house and by electrical engineers every day.

Lord Kelvin ranks with the big men who have done big things to broaden the fields for the use of electrical energy. It has been said that his wonderful personality and the kindly encouragement he gave to students and others who came in contact with him have done more for the progress of physical discovery during the nineteenth century than the efforts of any other one man.

Extreme modesty, amounting to almost diffidence, was combined with the utmost kindliness in Lord Kelvin's bearing to the most humble student.

It is impossible more than briefly to sketch his life in this limited space, for one day he would be working out the mathematics of a profound problem, and next he would be designing an electric meter or dynamo, and, later still, he would be working over the mariner's compass, which he completely reconstructed. His deep sea sounding apparatus is second only to the compass in value to the sailor.

In acknowledgement of his services to transatlantic telegraph, Thomson was knighted in 1866, and in 1892 he was raised to the peerage, with the title of Lord Kelvin, baron of Largs. During his life many thousands of degrees and honors were bestowed upon him for his inventions and his additions to electrical science.

A remarkable demonstration in honor of Lord Kelvin was held at Glasgow university in 1896, the jubilee of his professorship. More than 2,500 scientists and members of the nobility gathered to honor the distinguished man. One of the features of the three-day celebration was a message sent through Newfoundland, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Florida and Washington. It was received by Lord Kelvin seven and a half minutes after being dispatched, having traveled more than 20,000 miles and twice crossing the Atlantic Ocean during the interval.

It is said that Lord Kelvin published more than 300 papers bearing upon nearly every branch of physical science. His life of unwearied industry did not cease when he resigned his chair. He continued until his death to take part in the proceedings of many learned scientific societies.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

THE COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS.

The Community Christmas plan is a big idea. It is bigger than a peace plan, bigger than most of the things we know about—bigger, almost, than Christmas itself. It means that we shall give, out of our plenty, a little, that those who have nothing shall enjoy a great deal.

A community Christmas movement in Plainfield makes one big family of all who live here. Those who have more than they need or have that which they can spare, divide with others less fortunate, as the father or the big brother of the family give to the baby child, brother or sister. It is the true Christmas spirit of "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

There is charity in all of us. No man could harden his heart to refuse a pittance to the poor and suffering on Christmas day. The problem is to bring cases of unfortunates before those that are able and willing to give, and this is solved by the Community plan. Every man or woman who gives to the general fund is a father, big brother or mother, and is giving that his or her little sister or mother may have a doll, a red wagon with shiny wheels, or a train that really runs, or may be a Christmas dinner. One dollar will make some ragged little boy or girl happy on the day of days. Who can find a better use for money?

Another piece of motor driven apparatus was added to the Plainfield fire department equipment yesterday, to be stationed at the West Fourth street house. It is a combination chemical and hose wagon, and will greatly improve the protection of the city in the section in which it is located. Had the Nott Fire Engine Company been able to deliver what they promised, the city would today be without any horse drawn apparatus except the hook and ladder truck. As it is, the best that the Netherwood people can expect is that as soon as possible the Council will advertise for bids and place a motor engine in that section of the city. On the whole, however, the Plainfield fire department is about twice as efficient as it was four years ago, and has proven by the way that it has coped with threatening blazes of late that we are as well protected as can be expected in a city of this size. An engine for the Netherwood section, for which the money is now available, and a tractor to pull the hook and ladder is all that is needed to complete the motorization.

Plainfield people have proven time and time again that they are always ready to answer any worthy appeal which is made for funds. The success which has been met by the women who are arranging to send a portable house to the Queen of Belgium is gratifying to everyone. This city has done more for the sufferers there than a good many communities much larger. In the same way responses have come in hundreds of other cases. All of this goes to prove that this is a community made up of broad-minded, liberal people, who realize that there are other ways to get pleasure out of life besides that which is afforded by social activities. "Plainfield knows how."

The death of James B. Guttridge removes from Plainfield one of the most progressive business men it has ever seen and at the same time deprives many local people of one of the best friends they ever had. His heart was as big as a pumpkin and it was always in the right place. He was a pioneer merchant in the Netherwood section and that district owes much to his energy and perseverance for its development. He knew that it was bound to grow and put his shoulder to the wheel at a time when it was most needed. His death at the age of fifty-three is untimely.

The New Brunswick Times has made the startling (?) discovery that autos hurt the livery business. That may be so in New Brunswick, but here in Plainfield the livery men are up to date, and have autos doing the work for which they formerly used horses and wagons.

It begins to look as if Germany is going to lose the war not because of any lack of arms and men, but because of the lack of food for the women and children at home. A true statement of the exact condition of affairs in Berlin would no doubt prove interesting.

"Henry Ford, Peacemaker," says a headline. It's a cinch that nothing he has ever turned out would entitle him to the dropping of a letter and having it read "Pacemaker."

Senator Smith's financial embarrassment will prove to be the saddest blow that the Democracy has had in Essex county.

One more day in which to do early shopping is gone. Did you take advantage of it? If not start out tomorrow.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

This afternoon will mark the change of program at the Plainfield Theatre and the bill for the last half of the week comes in with flattering notices from other cities. The feature number is the "Girly Girl Minstrels," a company of ten, presenting their own original musical melange, "A Night at the Cabaret." It is certain to be a knock-out as every one of the ten is an artist by herself. Special scenery and costumes enhance the appearance of the young women, all of whom work in white face.

Beside the "Girly Girl Minstrels," another feature number comes in the special added attraction of "The Manhattan Trio," presenting vaudeville's greatest singing act. This trio comes direct from the Colonial Theatre, New York, where they received a half dozen encores at every appearance. Other numbers on the bill are James Carney and Company, presenting "The Butler," absolutely a riot of laughter; LeRoy and Berry, comedy variety; Wiley and West, musicians de luxe; and the Doley sisters, three in number, presenting a dainty costumey singing novelty.

Beside six acts of vaudeville, every performance at the Plainfield Theatre carries enough moving pictures to satisfy the most ardent film fan. The Pathe semi-weekly is shown through the week beginning Mondays and Thursdays, the continuation of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" every Thursday, and other comedies and dramas new each day. The fun-making "Country Store," at which valuable presents are given away absolutely free, is held every Friday night.

C. OF C. MEETING.

The Chamber of Commerce will hold its monthly meeting in the Babcock building at 8:15 o'clock tonight, when a number of important matters will be considered.

—Those accustomed to getting SERVICE from the classified column would consider it a very foolish thing to do to pay too much rent, either for a store, a house, an apartment or a furnished room.

No Strangers

There ought to be no strangers in this little vale of tears;
I haven't seen a stranger's face for years and years and years.
I see, of course, some people that I never saw before,
But they're just like the others that
I've known in days of yore.
They've felt and known the self-same things the rest have known and felt,
They'll freeze up for unfriendly folks,
for kindly ones they'll melt.
They've each one had a sorrow that they thought they couldn't bear,
But bore it, just as people do with sorrows everywhere.

There ought to be no strangers, in this so-called world of woe!
I see new people that I love, just everywhere I go.
And every one has felt some joy that
I had felt some time;
And each has had his little dream
of higher slopes to climb;
And each has known the sweets of home at some time or another;
And nearly every man you meet will
rave about his mother.
They thrill at things that thrill me,
too, these friends I never met——
There ought to be no strangers in this misnamed world of fret!

Hay

Hay is what we are told to make while the sun shines.

Hay is divided into many kinds.

We used to help divide it, so that it would cure enough to be stacked or put into a mow.

It would be cruel to stack or store hay that was still ill or under the weather.

Sunshine and air in abundance will cure almost the sickest hay.

There are alfalfa, clover, timothy, redtop, peanut, cowpea and John Hay, Jr.

Alfalfa will produce almost as many crops of hay as a Kansas real estate agent will tell you it will.

Clover is hard to cure.

It is inclined to be sullen and despondent and often has to be handled with a sulky rake.

If permitted, it will settle down in a sad, black heap and rot utterly.

We know of few things any more depressing to the sight than a field striped with clover wind-rows when there have been two weeks of cold rain on it.

Hay like that makes a fine feed for a horse that one is anxious to lose.

Hay is also the first name of a popular brand of sneezy fever.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Hygienic Value Of A Thermostat

WHAT is called an equable climate is generally conceded salutary for the average individual. Certainly it is healthful to maintain a fairly equable temperature in the living-rooms throughout the winter months, because it is exposure to excessive warmth, more than anything else, that lowers one's natural resistance to that group of specific bacterial infections vulgarly known as "colds." These respiratory diseases are not cold air diseases; they prevail most widely in temperate climates, in moderate spring and fall weather more than in very cold winter, in the southern states more than in the extreme northern inhabited countries, per thousand population. The indoor plague, let us say, rather than "colds." When you catch the indoor plague you have been handed something very definite; but when you "catch cold" you merely have a delusion, if you think the great outdoors has anything to do with it.

Since the bacteria of the indoor plague survive best when the air is warmest, and since the human host thrives best when the air is fairly cool, most people have learned instinctively to regulate the indoor temperature by the thermometer, and to keep it between 60 and 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

But it takes a lot of patience, sometimes even unseemly language, to regulate the furnace by the thermometer. And besides there are often too many engineers in the family, and too many engineers will put out the fire.

A thermostat solves the problem. A good thermostat costs, installed, from $30 to $60, but we venture to say it is economical, not alone in its hygienic aspect, but as a fuel saver as well. Best of all, it saves father—or, in these days of equal suffrage, perhaps mother—the painful labor of rising in the cold, cold morning to turn on the drafts.

Figuring on the basis that each attack of indoor plague costs a family, on the average, $30, we conclude that a thermostat pays for itself inside of ninety days in this climate. It does so by converting the changeable indoor atmosphere into an ideally equable climate, fit for any invalid.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Baths And Fever

Please explain in detail why patients with fever are given ice-cold baths? This seems a cruel practice.

Answer—Never knew of such a treatment. The Brand bath treatment of typhoid fever is a good treatment. The bath is never below 60 degrees F., and it is usually started at 85 or 90 degrees, which is quite comfortable, then gradually lowered during the fifteen or more minutes by the addition of pieces of ice or colder water, but the thermometer in the tub is always under the nurse's eye and the water never becomes colder than 60 degrees, which is by no means cruel. Active friction of the skin throughout the bath maintains a reaction, and as a matter of fact patients enjoy the apparent "ice-cold" bath. But remember, baths are not given to bring down fever, but to rouse the dull nervous system and enliven the depressed circulation.

The Best Kind Of Corset

Is a high corset or a low one more hygienic?

Answer—A low one. The less of it the better.

DECEMBER

DECEMBER is a pleasant, steam-heated month whose principal missions are to wind up the calendar and the bank surplus. It is a more agreeable month than November, because while we expect the weather to be bad, it is sometimes fine, whereas in November we still hope for pleasant weather and what we get instead cannot be effectively commented upon in this great family newspaper.

In December man retires indoors and only uses the outside air while passing through it from one set of radiators to another. The icicle and snowball crops ripen and when a man stands on a street corner waiting for the dim future in the shape of a street car, he looks like an engine with a leaky steam pipe. December is one of the few months in which the human breath is visible and it is worthy of note that the breath is always pure white, no matter how it tastes to the producer. Dark brown and sulphur blue exhausts are only figments of literature.

In December, also, the sidewalks begin to become pugnacious. Nothing is more quiet than a sidewalk in July or more unreliable and bloodthirsty than a sidewalk in December after an ice storm. It is a common thing for a December sidewalk to approach a victim stealthily from behind and to leap upon his neck and shoulders with the ferocity of a young tiger. Thousands of people have suffered severe injury by being attacked by hostile sidewalks and porch steps in December. This country is now tolerably free from wolves and Indians, but until the man-eating sidewalk has been subdued, life will still continue to be sadly uncertain.

The most prominent feature of December is Christmas, which finally comes to a head on the 25th of the month. This festival has made December one of our most prominent and successful months. The younger half of the world spends the first part of December counting the days until Christmas and the older portion spends the last half of the month counting its money with a slightly dejected air. Neither half wastes time in counting anything after Christmas.

In December the days keep getting shorter, along with the people, until the 21st when winter is formally opened and the sun goes to bed before the banks close. The 21st is the shortest day of the year astronomically, but the 26th is shorter financially by a tremendous majority.

In December, the owner of the automobile wraps it in goose-grease and moth balls and packs it away until Spring. This has made December a delightful month in many respects, and has increased greatly the esteem in which it is held by pedestrians.

Views Of The Press

Britain Has No Lincoln

AN article in the Nineteenth Century Review, London, by J. Ellis Barker, dealing with the conscription measures resorted to, first by the Confederates and then by the Federal Government, to raise an adequate army during our Civil War, gives an estimate of Lincoln which can scarcely be that of the British people as a whole. He says: "The Union was saved by a man of sterling character, but of merely moderate ability; by a great citizen, but scarcely a statesman of the very first rank."

He then goes on to say that had almost any other man been in the presidential chair the result would not have been the same, that Lincoln "rallied the waverers, encouraged the down-hearted and created harmony among the quarreling powers," and "did not hesitate to exceed his constitutional powers to act as a dictator when the fate of his country was at stake," and, quoting Lord Bryce, "wielded more authority than any single Englishman has done since Oliver Cromwell."

A man who could do and did do all this, and who at the same time preserved peace with foreign countries in spite of the conflicting advice and disruptive acts of his Cabinet and radicals in Congress, who chose with unerring instinct and wisdom the right course both at home and abroad, must have been more than a man of "moderate ability" and entitled to be classed as a "statesman of the very first rank." England has not today in her supreme crisis a statesman at all comparable with him, possessing either in clarity of vision, depth of understanding of the people, wisdom in controlling inharmonious and quarreling elements, instinctive skill in statecraft, or firmness to do the right "as God gives us to see the right," displayed by Abraham Lincoln in our own great hour of trial. Yet England has leaders of more than "moderate ability," even if her statesmen do not size up to the "very first rank." The more Abraham Lincoln is compared with the Kings, Emperors, Presidents, Premiers, War Ministers and others on both sides of this cataclysmic struggle, the higher he stands in all those things in which this British writer denies him excellence. It would be a supreme blessing to England if she had today at the head of her government an Abraham Lincoln.—St. Louis Star.

People's Legal Friend

Bank Liable?—A Question

Q. I am a depositor in a certain bank. A general agent in my employ directed the bank to forward some money. The money was lost. Will the bank be liable?

A. The bank will be liable unless the method of forwarding was the usual method.

Board Of Health—Its Jurisdiction

Q. Does a local board of health have the power to pass ordinances and adopt regulations for the public good? If so, do such ordinances and regulations have the force of law?

A. The legislatures of the various states, acting within the sphere of their constitutional authority, frequently confer power upon boards of health in cities and towns to pass ordinances and enact rules and regulations in the interest of the public welfare. Such ordinances, rules and regulations must be obeyed by all citizens within the jurisdiction of such boards.

A Street Accident—Who Pays?

Q. A friend of mine was driving an automobile in a crowded part of the city and the machine was caught between two street cars. There is an ordinance limiting the rate of speed and the street car company seems to have been violating this ordinance. My friend was injured and wants to bring a suit. Do you think he will have a good case?

A. If the proximate or producing cause of the injury was the street car company's negligence in the operation of its cars, rather than your friend's negligence, he will be entitled to recover damages.

A Disagreeable Agreement

Q. Two men made a written agreement with each other and it was afterward found that it did not embody their ideas on the subject. One of these men seems inclined to rely on the written agreement, while the other contends that, as there has been a mistake, it should not be enforced. Will you please give me your opinion as to which man is right.

A. The courts will, under proper circumstances, reform a contract so as to give effect to the intention of the parties. In some cases, especially if injustice will otherwise result, the courts will compel the surrender and cancellation of contracts of this sort.

Different State Laws

Q. Do the laws all over the United States provide the same rules as to inheriting property? A. No.

First Cousin Marriages

Q. May first cousins marry?

A. In some states; not in others.

Influence

Just as soon as you begin to Think or Do something, you begin to have Influence. Influence is something you can't keep at home. And when it gets away from you, you can never recall it.

Your Influence makes you Something or Somebody else.

Influence has no boundaries. Once started, though it may seem ever so trifling, yet it may have as its destination the farthermost corners of the Earth. If you would get a conception of Power, realize the Influence of a Strong Man.

It is well to remember that what you have that you can't help but give away is your Influence.

Bear in mind that your Influence is never wholly absorbed, nor does it disappear into Nothingness. It Counts again and again. Influence has no end.

The three greatest objects in life—Friends, Happiness, Success—are each dependent upon proper Influence. So it is good to know that even the humblest person is, after all, master of his own Influence. He can send it out to scatter Sunshine or Shadows. It's his Choice.

A man's greatest Responsibility in this world lies in the way he acquires and gives out—his Influence.

Your Influence to-day is sure to have a tremendous bearing upon the total work of the world. Your Influence upon other people and the Influence of other people upon you is sure to become a Force and a Factor in the complete work of your day and theirs.

Current Poetry

Driftwood

It had drifted away from harbor
and bay,
Out of sight of tower and town;
An old, an empty and battered boat,
But that boat did not go down.
The sail still hung from its broken
mast,
And its painted pride was dimmed,
The salt seaweed clung round its bows
As it drifted with the wind.

Fierce storms had tossed it on mountains of foam,
Had swept o'er it billows of spray,
And the sun had gleamed through its tattered shrouds,
When its fury had passed away.
Still it floated on, by headland and
bay,
Out of sight of the busy town;
Good ships go down in stormy seas,
But these empty boats drift on.

The world hath lives like this drifting boat;
Hearts that are empty and sad,
That set their sails in the morning
of life
With songs that were joyous and glad;
But their anchor of hope is cast
away,
And their flag of faith is furled,
And they that sailed for the skies are now
But the driftwood of the world.

Household Hints..

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

If stoves that are to be put away for the season are thoroughly rubbed with vaseline they will not rust.

Cranberries will keep all winter in a drain of water in a cellar.

OYSTER HINTS

Select live oysters whenever possible. Be sure they are clear and solid. Never use salt or salty butter while cooking oysters. It shrivels, toughens and curdles oysters. Use sweet butter. Season when cooked. Always wash thoroughly and allow them to stand in cold water twenty minutes before using.

OYSTER COCKTAIL

Set in center of plate a wineglass about half full of cocktail mixture of catsup, lemon juice, red pepper and salt. Around this glass cover bottom of plate with ice broken very fine; on this lay your raw oysters. Eat by taking an oyster on oyster fork and dip into the mixture.

THE TABLE

Rolled Skirt Steak on Casserole—Remove fat and skin from steak and pound with edge of china saucer. Brush over with olive oil and vinegar (equal parts); roll, tie, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Try out three thin slices of fat salt pork in iron frying pan, put in meat, cook until entire surface is seared and browned, turning frequently (being sure not to pierce). Put in small casserole, add one-fourth cup boiling water, cover closely, cook in slow oven 1½ hours. Wash, pare small potatoes and brown in tried-out pork fat. Put in casserole and cook during last hour of cooking. Remove meat to hot platter, pour around stewed tomatoes and arrange potatoes at each end of roll.

Stuffed Peppers—Remove seeds from green sweet peppers. Put cream cheese through food chopper and stuff peppers. Slice with a sharp knife. Very nice to serve with toasted crackers for a salad course.

Syrup Pie—Into one cup of any kind of syrup stir one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon vanilla; pour the mixture into shell, dot with butter, bake until set.

Cheap but Delicious Fruit Cake—Put one-half cup lard in granite basin, bring to a boil with one cup each of hot water and brown sugar. Chop one cup each of raisins and currants, one-half cup each of pitted dates and nut meats, one-fourth cup sliced citron and orange peel; dredge all lightly with flour until each bit of fruit is coated. When liquid is lukewarm, stir in two cups flour which has been sifted twice, one heaping teaspoon cinnamon, one level teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon each of salt and ginger. All superfluous flour is quickly shaken out of fruit and a teaspoon of baking powder is thoroughly stirred in. This prevents the fruit from settling at bottom of cake. The fruit, with a teaspoon of lemon extract and half teaspoon almond extract, is beaten into the dough last of all. It requires about an hour to bake this cake in a moderate oven. Now is the time to make this for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Broiled Bacon—Have the bacon cut in very thin and even slices and place on the wires of double broiler. Close broiler and set same into an oven of moderate heat, with a dripping pan under the broiler. Cook until the bacon is a delicate brown and crisp, then serve immediately.

Egg Sauce—One-half cup butter, two tablespoons flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, one cup cold water, one hard cooked egg. Melt half the butter in a small pan, add the flour and salt and pepper and cook for several minutes. Then add the water and stir until mixture thickens and boils. After boiling for three or four minutes add the rest of the butter gradually, then mix in the egg, chopped fine.

Oatmeal Macaroons—One egg, beaten light, one-half cup sugar, one-half tablespoon melted butter, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one cup rolled oats, one-half cup corn flakes. Beat the sugar into the egg; add the other ingredients and beat all together thoroughly. Drop from a teaspoon onto a buttered pan and bake in a moderate oven.

Dignity.

People ought to be living with wise forethought and circumspection, in order that they may be respected when old—not carelessly lulled with the comforting belief that, no matter how foolish they are, age will bring dignity.

So, two, if parents did not so fatuously demand respect merely because they are parents, but would see to it that they deserve and win respect by such visible power and wisdom as the child must bow to, we might look for a much quicker advance in these desirable qualities.

A Savings Account.

What that is earnest and fine, happy and memorable, have we laid aside today for the children in our homes to remember in the years to come? It may be only a little thing—a word of perfect understanding, an example of honor, a glimpse of beauty, a bit of right thinking, a song sung or a guest warmly welcomed. Perhaps the day has been full of responsibility; but never so full, it seems to me, but there is time to add to the treasury of the years.

This is the month of our greatest home festival, and it seems fitting, as a gift to ourselves and our children, that we resolve that homes shall be peaceful, just, beautiful and happy to remembr.

The Sunday I Would Keep.

Says William C. Gannett: "May I sketch my ideal Sunday to you? It shall be the longest day of the week, if possible—have more waking and enjoying hours in it than a common weekday. That day I will hear the early bird-song. That day I will catch the dawn in the eastern sky. That day I will begin by knowing what morning-silence, morning-music, morning-freshness, mean. Then it shall be my home-day. I will make love over again to my home-maker. I will fall into love, possibly even into acquaintance, with my children. They shall know the feeling of my arms around them. I shall know the feeling of their little minds and hearts, and watch what happens in their eyes. Then, if I am wise—I may not be, but if I am—I shall be generally in my seat at church; not twice a day, however—only once. It almost seems to augur something empty in the home or self, if I can often twice on Sunday seek the church. But once, if I am wise, I will be there, in my best clothes and mind and heart. I want to meet my friends, whom all the week I have met, perhaps, in pushing and half-selfish ways; today it shall be in quiet, not in push. Today we shall face together the ideals. Today we shall be souls together. Today we shall worship—worship God. Somewhere in the day, a book—a real book, with great pages in it, a book that shall tax my mind to read, and that, read, shall give me mind. In the afternoon, outdoors—into the green of grass, into the shadows of trees, into the companionship of flowers, into the uplift and horizons of the hill-top. In the evening, friends. I confess that I see not how friends can leave their own home to come; but, if they will, when so welcome as on the day it is easiest to be real. This is the day for inward-going talks, the day for excursions of mind in twos and threes, the day for the mutual trusts which, because of confession, are revelation, inspiration. And, after a day like this—of morning-hush, of home, of worship, of books, of nature, of friends—how good to sink, thankful, trustful, into the silent, solemn night, into stars, into sleep, into God!"

EXHIBITION AT THE FAIR.

San Francisco, Dec. 2.—"Every child should have mud pies, grass hoppers, water bugs, tadpoles, frogs, mud turtles, elderberries, wild strawberries, acorns, chestnuts, trees to limb, brooks to wade in, water lilies, woodchucks, bats, bees, butterflies, various animals to pet, hay fields, pine cones, rocks to roll, sand, snakes, huckleberries, and hornets; and any child who has been deprived of these has been deprived of the best part of his education," writes Luther Burbank, the famous naturalist. To encourage the children of the Pacific coast along these lines, the San Francisco Exposition is today holding an exhibition of children's pets. From cats and dogs to snakes, lizards and turtles, the pets of thousands of boys and girls will be shown, and their tricks and training will be demonstrated by their proud masters will compete for the many prizes.

Daddy's Bedtime Story.—

Bibbley Wah's Great Adventure. She Runs Away.

The Two Girls Came to a Clearing.

"ONE beautiful November day, so mild it was like summer," daddy began. "Uncle Ben sent the boys on an errand. This left Bibbley Wah alone. Now, she was not really a runaway, but she could not bear loneliness. So she ran down the hill pellmell before Anne could spy her, her small mind all made up to play with Emile, the French baby, till the boys got back."

"She always gets her own way, doesn't she?" Evelyn smiled.

"Nearly always," daddy confessed. "But then she was a remarkably nice child. This runaway would probably have ended very simply if halfway down the hill Bibbley Wah had not met Ernestine, the oldest Frenchy, who was lugging a huge basket so heavy that she begged Bibbley Wah to help her."

"What was in the basket?" Jack wanted to know.

"Oh, baked beans, a quart of black coffee, a huge chunk of Mary Antoinette's cake, half a cheese and other good French food. You see, the little Frenchies' mother earned money by boarding ten men who worked on the farms near by, and it was Ernestine's job to carry luncheon to these men every day way off in the woods. So Bibbley Wah grabbed hold of one side of the basket and trudged off into the greatest adventure a small person ever had.

"The way to the men was very long, and two little girls would have hardly got there if a kind farmer had not given them a big ride on his cart. When the cart got to a huge hole in a rail fence way off in the wild country two miles from any house Ernestine jumped off the cart, dragged Bibbley Wah off and started up a wooded hill path, very rocky, all overhung with bushes, clogged with brambles and dry grass, with wild rabbits darting across in the bright sunshine. In about half an hour of steep climbing the two girls came to a clearing in the woods, where the ten men were making a charcoal pit."

"What's that?" cried the children.

"The men cut down trees, stacked the logs in a big pyramid, covered it with sods and then set fire to it through a little hole near the bottom. It was their work not to let the sticks burn, but to make them char slowly into charcoal for manufacturing uses. Every time a red flame burst up through the huge pile some man smothered it with a shovelful of earth, so that the quiet, sweet air was a reek of smoke and the burnt juices of ash, hickory and birch trees. These Frenchmen sang jolly songs as they worked and threw jokes at each other as they threw shovelfuls of sods, for there were four pits a-smoking, and the men were kept very busy watching their logs."

Daddy stopped, and the children knew it was time to be kissed good night.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. DWIGHT LEONARD

Molly's Return Brings Happiness to the Sutner Home.

"Oh, it's good to be at home. How long, how very long it seems since that night I went to bed sick." Molly gazed around the shabby sitting room in perfect content. John had done his best at "slicking up" before his wife's return. Even if he had left much to be desired, Molly saw nothing but a place where she was to have a chance to try again and see if her life could not spell something besides failure.

"Mrs. Ellson planned to come over and straighten the house. She said she had very little faith in my ability as a housekeeper, but I insisted that I could do it and wanted the chance. She has done so much for all of us I was determined not to impose on her any more." John gazed around entirely pleased with the labor of his hands.

"You did beautifully, and it was so nice not to have anyone else have a hand in it. Dear John, please go after Jack. It seems almost as if he would be changed in all the long time since I saw him."

As she spoke a knock sounded at the door, and John rushed to open it, saying:

"Here he is. They have brought him over."

"Come in," he called joyously. "Come and see how well Molly looks."

"Jack!" exclaimed Molly, holding out her arms. The boy ran into them and clasped his arms tight around her neck.

Olive Ellson stood watching the pair with shining eyes.

"How glad I am to see you, dear friend," said Molly, as she extended her hand over Jack's head. "How can I ever thank you for all your kindness to my little boy? Whatever would have become of him if you and Mrs. Morton had not taken him in, I cannot think."

"Oh, that was nothing. I really enjoyed having him with me, and the doctor will not be willing to stay at home now that he is gone. Such fun as they had together.

"You are looking remarkably well considering how short a time it is since you got up from a sick bed." Olive turned her to the light to inspect her more closely.

"Such care and nursing as I have had would bring a response from anyone not wholly dead. I surely am rich in friends, if poor in purse."

"I meant to come over and get the house all straight, but your husband would hear to nothing of the kind, and I see he was right in thinking he could do it. He is a better housekeeper than I supposed.

"I must go home and get the doctor's supper. He will be anxious to know how you stood the trip home. You will see him soon. Good-bye. I'll see you tomorrow." And she was gone. The three were alone in their home together.

"I brought home some oysters for a stew as a special treat tonight," said John, leading the way to the kitchen. "Jack and I will set the table while you make the stew. We'll help mamma all we can so she will not get sick again. Eh, Jack?" He picked up the child and kissed him from pure excess of joy.

When the doctor came in the three were still sitting around the table chatting cosily.

"I shall not need to prescribe anything. All the tonic you need is right here." He nodded at John's happy face.

"The doctor is right, John, dear. I feel as if I could lift tons." Molly went around the table and took John's face between her hands to kiss him.

ROGER TROWBRIDGE CHOSEN LEADER OF TRACK ATHLETES

The P. H. S. track team will be captained this year by Roger Trowbridge, who was elected at a meeting of the track candidates yesterday. He was a member of last year's squad, competing in several meets in the running broad and the hop, step and jump. He, together with Danielson, will furnish the nucleus for the team. Coach Tyree will coach this season. Although candidates for the position had been named, the manager will not be known until after the next meeting of the B. A. A., that body making the appointment.

N. B. H. S.-P. H. S. GIRLS' BASKETBALL GAME PUT OFF

The second game of the season for the P. H. S. girls' basketball team, which was scheduled for Friday afternoon with the New Brunswick maidens in the local High School gym, has been called off by the girls from the banks of the Raritan. Miss Elsa Palmer, the manager, is trying to obtain a game with Westfield to be played at that place, one to be played here later in the season being already scheduled.

EXPECT PENNOCK WILL BE RE-ELECTED P. H. S. CAPT.

The members of the P. H. S. football squad will meet within a short time to elect a captain for next year, and to have a picture taken. Pennock, this year's captain, seems to be the logical candidate for re-election. He will be a senior next year and has just finished his third season at guard.

WON'T NAME FED BACKERS.

At present there is nothing but conjecture as to the financial backers of the new Federal League Park in New York city. James A. Gilmore, president of the league, said yesterday that no announcement of the name of the owner would be made for three or four weeks and this, of course, means that the names of the manager and officers of the club will not be given out before that time.

ELIZABETH ELKS WIN ALL FROM RUTHERFORD

Post 945, 1011 and 950 on Own Alleys—Clauss Hits 221, 222 and 229.

There were some sensational tallies in the Elks' League bowling match at Elizabeth, last night. The home five, by capturing three games in a row from the Rutherford team, tightened its grip on first place. It has won thirteen games to date and lost but two.

The Betsytown bowlers started matters last night with a total of 945, the visitors being far in the rear. In the next encounter the home five jumped to 1,011, and Rutherford's score of 988 was insufficient. The last game saw the Rutherford bowlers drop to 832, and the Elizabeths, with 950, were far ahead.

Henry Clauss did some consistent pinning, with successive scores of 221, 222 and 229, for an average of 224. Joe Nolte rolled 222 and 210, and averaged 202-2. Maloney had 204. A. Walter rolled 226 for the Rutherford team, Clark had 210, and W. Walter 203.

The scores:

GIRLS TO PLAY BOYS A BASKETBALL MATCH

Saurer Young Men Will Oppose Pegs—Newark Normal Team at P. H. S.

Manager Clara Barton Smith, of the P. E. G. S., announces the appearance of the Newark Normal School basketball team against the "Pegs" next Wednesday night in the Plainfield High School gymnasium. The Newark girls, who are called the "State Six," have had an auspicious court season to date and come to this city next week to add other laurels to their string. The game will be the second of the season for the local girls, who have been holding weekly scrimmages in the P. H. S. gymnasium. The game will probably be a double-header, the Recreation boys' team lining up against another team during the intermission. Dancing will follow the game.

Miss Smith promises local fans a treat on December 15, when she will have her team line up against the Saurer young men. The latter, will inaugurate their season with this game and although restricted to a certain extent, promise the young women a hard tussle for the best side of the score.

NEW MANAGER OF HOPE CHAPEL COURT COMBINE

At a meeting of the Young Men's Association of Hope chapel last night Dave Warhop resigned as manager of the basketball team, and George E. Leighs, who has held this office for the last five years, was returned to his old position.

Manager Leighs' first official act was the announcement that he would not be responsible for any games scheduled with Hope Chapel this season unless he is notified before Saturday by the manager of the opposing team.

There will be a shake-up in the personnel of the Hope quintet, and it is likely that Guy Snyder will be the only member of last year's team to be a regular this winter.

BLACK NEW YALE LEADER.

Yale's football captain for next season will be Clinton Rutherford Black, Jr., of New York city, left guard in three games the last season and captain of the freshman team a year ago.

PEGS VS. P. H. S.

It was announced today that a game had been scheduled to take place on the Plainfield High School court Friday night, between the P. H. S. girls and the Pegs.

—It there's a new owner in charge of the little store down the street, the chances are that a "Business Opportunity" advertisement has been "at work."

Tomorrow night—Paterson at Jersey City.

With totals of 911 and 976, the Plainfield Elks won two games on their own alleys from Rahway last night, but the locals lost the second game by nine pins when the Rahways rolled 918, their highest total of the season. The victory put Plainfield in fifth place.

Captain Charles Koops turned in 223 and 243 as his first two efforts, and although he dropped to 157 in the last game, he had an average of $207.2 for the night.

Rahway led in the early innings of the first game. Plainfield passed the visitors in the fifth, and was never headed thereafter, finishing with the comfortable margin of 61 pins, which would have been larger but for the final wallops contributed by Koops. Frank Blatz covered his spares well, and finished two pins over the double century mark.

The beginning of the second fray looked like another Plainfield win, but the Rahway Antlers gradually wore down their opponents' advantage, and took the lead in the seventh. Another string of strikes by Koops figured largely in Rahway's showing.

The last game was a runaway, Plainfield having a lead of 102 pins going into the fifth.

Tonight—Red Men vs. Loyal Association.

A new individual record for the Westfield Bowling League was set up on the Westfield Theatre alleys last night, when Charley Limbert rolled 275 for the Westfield Club against the Royal Arcanums. Limbert's record total enabled his team to go over the thousand mark in the first game, the Westfield Club quintet posting 1,003, a new high team score for this season. The Arcanumites lost the odd game.

The W. C. pinners, with Limbert blazing the way, were ahead of the thousand mark all the way in the first game. They won by a margin of 198 pins. The Royals took the second, 889 to 847, but fell to 797 in the rubber, and lost by 66 points.

Townley showed an unusual exhibition of consistent pinning. He had two 192 games and another 193. Westerberg touched 221. The scores:

WOMAN KILLED BY TRAIN ON P. AND D.

Miss Audrey Creveling Meets Death and Carriage is Demolished.

Berkeley Heights, Dec. 1.—Miss Audrey Creveling, twenty-six years old, was killed by a train yesterday near the Berkeley Heights station. She had just driven her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Creveling, of Union avenue, Berkeley Heights, to the station, which is on the Passaic and Delaware division of the Lackawanna, and was returning home when the train struck her as her horse and carriage crossed the Plainfield avenue crossings.

Mr. and Mrs. Creveling, ignorant of the accident, got aboard the train and had no knowledge of their daughter's death until the delay in the start of the train caused them to get out and investigate. Mrs. Creveling, her nerves unstrung, refused to allow anyone but herself to take the body home. She insisted that the horse Miss Creveling had been driving and which had run home after the accident be brought back and hitched to another carriage. She then drove it home with the body.

The train was the 7:11, eastward bound on the Passaic and Delaware branch of the Lackawanna Railroad. It is the longest train that runs over the branch and in order to have all the cars in the station the engine and first car have to cross Plainfield avenue, east of the station. Failing to calculate on this, Miss Creveling drove directly across in the path of the engine. The horse got across safely, but the carriage was demolished. Miss Creveling was killed almost instantly.

When the delay caused Mr. and Mrs. Creveling to leave the train and investigate, the train crew was uncoupling the engine from the first car and taking out Miss Creveling's body.

Before the removal of the body Dr. T. W. Bebout, of Stirling, was called. He said that death had been instantaneous. Word was sent to Count Physician F. W. Westcott, who ordered the body removed to the Creveling home.

BIG ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVES.

Avery, Idaho, Dec. 1.—The big electric locomotive built for the Milwaukee road is given today the task of hauling an all-steel passenger train through to Livingston, Montana with no change and with only electricity for power. The motors are strong enough to pull the heavy train at a mile a minute, and its speed under a heavy load will be watched by the railroad world. The engine has no tender or boiler and uses no water. It is planned to install forty-three of the new electric engines, and by January all of the Milwaukee's traffic of freight and passengers will be handled over the mountain divisions by use of these electric monsters. Seven substations have been provided, so that if one division of the current fails another may be instantly switched on.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffing, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.—Adv.

One of the New Ones
Gypsy Bronze
$6.00

Paying for what you get is one thing—getting what you pay for is another.

Many a woman buy shoes for their style and has the style go back on her like a lead check.

The real charm about Van Arsdale's boots is that the style is as integral a part of it as a silk hairline in a greenback.

This style is not temporary, but permanent, not put in with a flatiron, but "tailored into it for keeps."

And if you don't know this—you ought to!

That few shoes sold in many stores, even at a $1.00 a pair more, give you so much all-around pleasure and satisfaction.

AMATEURS SCORE DISTINCT HIT

Cafe Concert Program Pleases Large Audience and Raises Substantial Sum.

FOR BELGIAN RELIEF

Mrs. Alson Abbott and Effingham Pinto in "High Brow Proposals," Carry Off Honors, While Mayor Calkins Appears As Auctioneer.

Plainfield's Belgian Relief Committee's fund of $2,500 to buy a portable house for orphan children in that stricken country was increased last night by a sum well over two hundred dollars, as a result of the Cafe Concert given at the Park Club. At the same time the large audience of society people present were given an opportunity to see a vaudeville show such as has probably never before been seen in this city. Twelve acts, if an auction conducted by Mayor Calkins can be called an "act," furnished an unusually diversified program, and many of them would have registered a hit on the legitimate stage.

The hit of the evening was scored by Mrs. Alson M. Abbott and Effingham Pinto, in "High Brow Proposals." Their interpretation of the way in which Shaw, Brieux, Sternberg, Maeterlink and "any modern author" would have "the question popped" kept the spectators in a roar of laughter from start to finish. Mr. Pinto, in his work on the professional stage, and Mrs. Abbott, as one of the most active members of the local Comedy Club, have registered many distinct hits in the past, but it is doubtful whether either before received a heartier or more enthusiastic reception than was accorded them last night.

Another feature was the singing of five solos by Miss Marie Boies, two of them, "The Elfman" and "Chubby Brown Hands," having been composed by Mrs. Elizabeth Bowen Foster, of this city, and as yet unpublished. These were especially popular with the audience and Mrs. Foster received many congratulations from those present. Stella Butler and Saidee Sandford also scored distinct hits in classical solo dances, and Miss Lilliam Lamson kept the audience in roars of laughter by telling several new humorous stories. Morris Roddy, in a chalk talk, displayed ability such as is seldom seen on the professional stage, with his rapid sketching of caricatures. Mrs. Morris Dumont and Miner Trowbridge presented a new ball room dance in a pleasing manner; Irvin; Manley sang two soprano solos, which drew forth enthusiastic applause, and the Misses Borden and Shoemaker and Messrs. Bellows, Butler, VanDeventer and Rolston in a dance originated by the latter were repeatedly encored. Ackerman and Brandagee, in a musical skit, and Hylan and Lewis, in a talking and singing act, were well received and rounded out the program, except for Mayor Calkins.

The Mayor had been asked to read and then auction off a letter which had been received from Lily Langtry, the "Jersey Lily," who is in New York, and had reserved a table for the dinner, but was unable to get here because of professional engagements. Being somewhat hazy as to just what he was to do, the Mayor amused the crowd by reading aloud the instructions that had been handed to him. He let it be understood that the letter was not to be sold for less than $10, although he was perfectly willing to receive a first bid for twenty-five cents, even if it had to come from Mrs. Calkins. The letter finally brought $10, Edward H. Ladd, Jr. being the purchaser.

The front half of the assembly room was given over to a number of tables, while in the rear a space was reserved for dancing between the acts. Ice cream and coffee were served by young society women who were dressed in the regulation black waitress costume. Those who assisted in this work were the Misses Edith Beers, Katharine Browne, Elizabeth Browne, Gertrude Butler, Katharine Drayton, Catherine Ginna, Gwendolyn Gough, Lelia Hedges, Helen Irons, Helen Joy, Dorothy Lyon, Elizabeth McGee, Mary Rushmore, Marian Schuyler, Monica Sharretts, Katherine Sill, Ruth Timpson, Annette Van Mater, Janet Van Vliet and Katharyn Yates.

The patronesses were Mesdames George L. Babcock, Frederic W. Butler, R. W. Charles, S. S. Carvalho, Leighton Calkins, William A. Conner, Chapman Fisk, Jabez Gilbert, Ellis Hedges, Augustus V. Heely, Henry Clay Irons, John H. Jewett, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Isaac Miller, D. J. Randall, Walter L. Righter, Percy H. Stewart, Lewis G. Timpson, Sydney Titsworth, William B. Tyler, Frederic W. Wallace, Frank D. Warren, John M. Whiton and Harold Van der Linde.

Among those who had tables were

BOARD OF TRADE TO STIR UP MEMBERS

Campaign for Better Attendance to Follow Annual Banquet.

Presentation and discussion of plans for the awakening of interest among the membership occupied the attention of members of the Plainfield Board of Trade at the meeting held last night. It was the regular monthly session of the Board, held in the Exempt Firemen's Hall.

The need of a campaign of this kind was shown in the attendance, said President William Newcorn, after looking over the dozen business men who were present at the meeting. A. E. Force and A. C. Pleydell were prominent in the discussions of the evening.

After the annual banquet, which will be arranged the first Wednesday in January, an effort will be made to enliven the monthly meetings so that a larger percentage of the membership will be drawn out. This plan is to be worked out by members of the board of trustees from suggestions made by the members. It will include the securing of an interesting speaker for each regular meeting night, according to a suggestion made last night, which was favorably received. The trustees will attend to securing a prominent Plainfield business man for an address on some topic of current interest and if the feature proves a popular one they will go outside for speakers later.

Another suggestion intended to bring about an increased attendance was that the meetings be changed back to the first Tuesday evening in each month. It was noted that the attendance had been falling off since the meeting night was shifted from Tuesday to Wednesday.

After the banquet a committee will be named to call on each member and find out why he does not attend regularly.

DEATH SUMMONS MRS. CHAS. E. SPIER

Well Known School Teacher of Watchung Passes Away at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Mrs. Milly Byham Spier, wife of Charles E. Spier, of Watchung, died this morning at Muhlenberg Hospital, following a week's illness with pleuro-pneumonia. She had been acting as substitute teacher in the Watchung school and contracted a cold which later developed into pleuro-pneumonia. She was removed to the hospital on Saturday. Mrs. Spier's death comes as a great shock to the residents of Watchung, who highly esteemed her and recall her many friendly acts.

Mrs. Spier was born in Guys Mills, Pa., May 13, 1879, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Byham. She was graduated from the Edinboro, Pa., Normal and other schools. Twelve years of her life were spent teaching in the public schools, eight years of which were in western schools. Six years ago she went to Watchung, where she taught for one year previous to her marriage to Mr. Spier, a native of that place.

Mrs. Spier was a member of the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church and took an active part in all its organizations. She was a leader of the Watchung choir and Girls' Chorus for five years and taught the young men's Bible class in the Sunday-school for several years. There survives a husband, a daughter, Elizabeth; three brothers, Clifton Byham, of Guys Mills; Morrison Byham, of Meadville, Pa.; Robert W. Byham, of Harrisburg, Pa.; five sisters, Mrs. James E. Miller, of Meadville; Mrs. Alfred J. Troedson, of Morgan, Oregon; Mrs. Thomas W. Jacobson, of Passaic; Mrs. George H. Spier, of Plainfield, and Mrs. Joseph L. Morrison, of Guys Mills. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church.

MR. GUTTRIDGE'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of James B. Guttridge, whose death occurred early yesterday morning, will be held at his late home, 1121 South avenue, tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock. Burial will be made Saturday morning in the cemetery at Rahway.

CITY'S NEW SIGNS TO PLEASE AUTOISTS

Blue Book Company Compliments Proposed Street Boards.

The city of Plainfield will earn the "lasting regard of all motorists who pass through here," when new signs now being prepared are put up, according to a letter received this morning by Mayor Leighton Calkins from the secretary of the Automobile Book Publishing Company, which prepares the automobile blue book for tourists.

The new signs are to be done in blue and white and will be put up just at the corporate limits on each important roadway leading into the city. They carry the names of every city of importance in the vicinity of Plainfield with directions as to the route and the number of miles to go.

Mayor Calkins recently sent a layout of the signs to the blue book company for disinterested criticism and the comment of experts in its employ was highly complimentary. The signs are yet to be finally approved by the public affairs committee of the City Council, but members of this body have been working with the Mayor in their preparation and will probably act within a short time.

ARMED MEN HOLD UP LONE WOMAN

Well Dressed Bandits Get $90 From Ticket Agent at Middlebush.

Somerville, Dec. 2.—A gruff command to stop interrupted Miss Margaret Martermor, station agent for the Pennsylvania Railway at Middlebush, last night, as she was counting up her cash for the day, and she looked up to face an ugly revolver held in the hands of a well dressed stranger. Miss Mortemer was so surprised that she could not act hastily. Thoughts of escape ran through her mind, and she unconsciously turned to the rear door, but as she did another armed man stepped into the room. The lone woman turned over all the cash in the office to the two bandits. Their loot was $90. No clue to their identity has been discovered.

HARRY WADE HICKS TO SPEAK AT MISSIONARY MEETING

Harry Wade Hicks, secretary of the Missionary Educational Movement, will be the speaker at the praise meeting of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

It is very seldom that Mr. Hicks, who is an able speaker with strong personality, can be secured for a meeting of this kind. Therefore, as he represents an interdenominational organization, and will speak of interesting interdenominational matters, a most cordial invitation is extended to the general public, and especially the members of the Federation of Missionary Societies. The address will be followed by a social hour.

TALENTED ARTISTS FOR CLAN MACKENZIE CONCERT

The Scottish concert and dance to be given in Columbus Auditorium Friday night, December 10, by Clan Mackenzie, Order Scottish Clans, promises to be the most successful in the history of the organization. The artists are all widely known. Among them will be the Davidson Troupe of prize-winning Highland dancers and a band of Highland pipers led by Major Peter Mackinnon, of Westfield, who is the clan piper and R. F. Faichney, the well-known Scottis comedian.

Mrs. Edith Hallett Frank, soprano, and William Holmes, baritone, are also included among the talented artists to appear. Immediately after the concert there will be a grand march and dancing. The committee in charge will meet at the office of Robert Murray, chairman, 326 West Front street, tomorrow evening and complete the details.

NEW AUTO ENGINE NOW IN SERVICE

Apparatus Delivered to the City Last Night by International Motor Co.

LOCATED IN WEST END

Machine Replaces Horse Drawn Vehicles Which Has Been in Use for Years—Will Undergo Test Before Final Acceptance.

The new automobile combination chemical and hose apparatus recently ordered by the Common Council for the West End firehouse, on West Fourth street, arrived in this city at 10 o'clock last night, coming overland under its own power from the Mack factory at Allentown, Pa. It was immediately placed in the West End quarters, and after a few preliminary adjustments will respond to all alarms covered by No. 3 Company. For the time being the apparatus will be in charge of Walter Zimmer, an expert driver in the employ of the International Motor Company, and he will run it during the official test previous to acceptance by the city. The date for the test will be set by the Councilmanic fire committee at a meeting to be held within the next few days.

The new apparatus supplants a horse-drawn chemical and hose wagon, which has done service in the West End for the past fifteen years. By the city's contract with the International Motor Company, which controls the Mack plant, the chemical tanks were lifted over from the old vehicle to the new, otherwise the latter is direct from the manufacturers. The auto has a speed of about thirty-five miles an hour, developed through a rating of 60 horsepower. The chemical tanks have a capacity of thirty-five gallons each, and the body of the vehicle will carry 2,000 feet of hose, in addition to a full complement of men. The old apparatus carried 1,200 feet of hose. The auto machine has been painted a bright red, and bears a number of original designs suggested by Chief T. O. Doane giving it a decidedly natty and "smoke-eating" appearance. Special attention has been given to the wheel base and body lines, that make it one of the most imposing machines in this vicinity. As soon as it is accepted by the city, William Jaeger who has been driver at the West End house for several years, and who has been connected with the local department for ten years, will be the official chauffeur. His assistants will be Edward Vail and Raymond Randolph all of whom are doing duty in the West End house under the supervision of Captain George Mehl. The International Motor Company will take over the discarded vehicle, and the old Alert hose wagon, which has been used by No. 3 Company as an exercise rig, will be retained for the present.

The introduction of the motor apparatus in the West End marks another step in the city's determination to have an absolutely modern equipment for fire fighting, and will give the residents of that section better service than ever before. It comes in, however, not without some regret on the part of many persons, who associate a response to alarms with the fine team of dashing horses. The West End has always had a handsome pair of grays to haul its wagons, and the ones slated to go are possessed of almost human intelligens. They are known as "Andy" and "Mac," the latter having been in the city's service for 15 years. He is now twenty years old, and according to present plans, will be pensioned off on the "Old Horse's Home" at the City Poor Farm, Rock avenue and Front street. "Andy," who is a much younger animal, will be brought up town for service in either No. 1 house or at headquarters while the remaining horse-drawn rigs are kept in use.

The engine is to cost the city of Plainfield $3,842.

ITALIAN MUST PAY CITY FINE OF $100

Shot at Man to Protect His Home, He Tells Judge DeMeza.

Alfred Langinese, the Italian who fired two shots at a member of his race in June, was arraigned before Judge William DeMeza in police court this morning and fined $100 for assault with a deadly weapon. Langinese told the Judge that he did not intend to kill the man, but merely to frighten him and end intimate relations between his wife and the other Italian. He left Plainfield soon after the shooting and was at large until last week, when he was arrested in Atlantic City and brought back here for trial by Captain Flynn, of the local police force. Attorney Frank Blatz represented Langinese and will make arrangements for the payment of the fine so that the Italian will not be forced to serve the ninety-day jail sentence that was imposed in lieu of the fine.

FORD RIDICULOUS, SAYS DR. C. A. EATON

New York Pastor Has Not Been Invited to Go to Europe.

Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, of New York, sees little hope for a successful ending of the Henry Ford peace mission to Europe. It was reported in Plainfield that Dr. Eaton had been invited to accompany Mr. Ford, but when he was called at his Watchung home by a Press reporter this morning he denied this.

"I have not been invited," said Dr. Eaton. He also intimated that he would not have considered an invitation had it been received. "Mr. Ford is a good man and he has good intentions, but he is making himself and his country very ridiculous."

SENATOR MARTINE TO ATTEND CORNERSTONE CEREMONY

Although Congress opens on Monday, United States Senator James E. Martine has decided not to return to Washington until Sunday, in order to be in Plainfield to attend the cornerstone laying of the new postoffice, which takes place Saturday afternoon. The Senator has taken a great interest in getting the work of the new postoffice under way, and has given his personal attention to many of the details of the plan. It was because of a change which he suggested which would much improve the interior arrangements, that the work on the office was delayed.

Mrs. Martine, who has been visiting in Boston for a few weeks, returned to this city day before yesterday, the Senator having gone to the Hub to escort her back. Her waist, which was broken by a fall shortly before she went away, is healing rapidly, and she expects to be able to use it soon.

FIVE PANHANDLERS ONCE MORE BECOME WANDERERS

The five strangers who alighed in Plainfield, Tuesday, once more became wanderers this morning, after spending the night in the police station and facing Judge De Meza in court today. They were arrested by Captain Flynn and a squad of patrolmen Tuesday evening, charged with panhandling. The band came into Plainfield early Tuesday morning and began a systematic canvass of the leading Hebrews of the city, to whom they told hard-luck stories, and from many they secured sums of money with which to pay their expenses back home. But for prompt action on the part of the police they would have secured a goodly sum here. They were given a warning by Judge DeMeza, and on their promise to leave Plainfield at once were released.

WHO IS GOING TO HELP MAKE KIDDIES HAPPY?

Community Christmas Needs Friends to Brighten the Day for Plainfielders.

Three or four hundred deserving children, members of some fifty or more families are going to be made happy on Christmas morning through the Plainfield Community Christmas Committee, which has actively launched its work for 1915. Not a child, if the want is known to any charity worker in the city, will awake to find that Santa Claus has forgotten him or her, and many families will also receive a generous supply of flour, coal or other necessities delivered at their doors, if present plans do not miscarry, and the members of the committee have determined that they shall not miscarry. Over a hundred persons afflicted with tuberculosis will have their holiday brightened, and the inmates of the Alms House will not be forgotten.

Plainfielders have never failed to appeals for aid. In the matter of the Community Christmas, the wholehearted way in which the residents of the city, rich and poor, have contributed their share to this good work, has been gratifying to all those who have done the work in past years. Working girls have sent in dollar bills, and small boys have opened their banks to add a quarter to the fund. The response has been liberal, and no person has ever been asked to aid the cause more than once, for once was all that was needed. This city is unique in that it has led the way in this movement for several years, and the plan is being copied now in many other places.

Contributions to aid this splendid work should be sent to DeWitt Hubbell, treasurer of the committee, at the Plainfield Trust Company. While the movement was started by the Federation of Men's Church Clubs, it has become a civic matter now, and everyone able to do so is asked to participate, no matter how small the sum.

TOWNSHIP IS READY TO DROP EATON CASE

Chairman Anderson Says Only Foliage Cut Was That Around Lights.

The Dr. Eaton case has been dropped, so far as officials of the township of North Plainfield are concerned, but it is likely that attorneys for the New York pastor will prosecute damage suits as a result of the cutting down of shrubbery on the Eaton estate at Watchung, yesterday morning.

William de L. R. Anderson, chairman of the Township Committee, said this morning that the township was satisfied with action taken by Dr. Moldenke in cutting away foliage that cut off rays from street lights put up by the municipality. He explained that the men who were employed cut just what Dr. Moldenke thought obstructed these lights and no more, and said that so far as the township was concerned the matter would be dropped.

PLAN BOWLING TOURNEY.

St. Mary's Social class held the monthly meeting of that organization in the T. A. B. S. Hall, last night, a large attendance being present. Basketball practice preceded the meeting and the young women have arranged to conduct a series of bowling contests for the members beginning the first of the year. The club also decided to produce a playlet as their first social event of the new year and the date will be announced at the next meeting of the society.

FLATLEY—HENRY.

The marriage of George Aloysius Flatley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Flatley, to Miss Harriette Grace Henry, took place Tuesday night in the rectory of St. Mary's church, the pastor, Rev. B. M. Bogan, performing the ceremony. The couple were attended by Mr. Suydam and Miss Hart.

AUSTRIANS MOVE ON MONTENEGRO

Scene of Carnage Shifts From Ruined Serbia to Little Neighbor.

ITALY MAY SEND HELP

Unless Allies Give Aid King Nicholas Will Soon Lose Armies and Country—British Losses for Year 510,230, Says War Office Report.

Amsterdam, Dec. 2.—With Serbia in ruins and her army of 300,000 men killed, captured or scattered, the Austrians, aided by parts of German armies, have begun a drive on little Montenegro that threatens to leave that country in a condition similar to Serbia.

All that can save the army and country of King Nickolas is prompt action upon the part of the Allies. It is believer by Montenegrins that Italy will send an army to the rescue. The queen of Italy is a daughter of King Nickolas. Confirmation of the fact that Italy has signed the agreement of the other Allies not to make a separate peace strengthens the belief that she will aid Montenegro.

From the beginning of the war the Montenegrins have had the better of the fighting with the Austrians. They have been across the frontier in many places. The annoyance to Austria has been serious and the Viena government is said to be determined to end it.

Overwhelming forces are reported to have been concentrated in the Sanjak of Novibazar for the campaign and today's advices say the plan is to make a clean sweep, along a sixty-mile front, completely across the country.

Artillery Duel in France.

Paris, Dec. 2.—French war statement:

"In the course of the night the artillery conflict was kept up with less intensity in various sectors, particularly in Artois in the region of Bretencourt, in the region of Prist, Fay Valley, of the Somme, and in Champagne near Tahure. Nothing of importance was reported on the rest of the front."

Two British Steamers Sunk.

London, Dec. 2.—The British steamers Orange Prince and Colenso have been sunk by German submarines in the Mediterranean. The crew of the Colenso was saved, but it is feared all of the fifty men of the Orange Prince were lost.

British Losses 510,230.

It is officially announced that the total British army and navy casualties for the year up to November 9, were 510,230, of whic 109,723 were killed or died.

4,000 Russians Taken.

Berlin, Dec. 2 (wireless).—German war statement:

"Balkan theatre—West of the Lim River, Boljamic, Plevije and Jabuna have been occupied. Southwest of Mitrovitza 4,000 prisoners and two cannon were taken.

"Western theatre—There has been artillery fire and mine warfare at different points.

"Eastern theatre—The general situation is unchanged."

ELKS' RETIRING TREASURER RECEIVES GOLD CARD CASE

At the meeting of Plainfield Lodge of Elks, last night, Harry B. MacDonald, who recently resigned as treasurer of the organization, was presented with a handsome gold card case, the gift of the lodge. It was presented by Exalted Ruler A. A. Prudhon, as a mark of appreciation for the faithful services rendered during Mr. MacDonald's term. In the regular business session, Frederick R. Haynes, of Dunellen, was elected treasurer to succeed Mr. MacDonald.

Plainfield Lodge was instituted on December 1, 1903, and as last night was the twelfth anniversary, the house committee served a repast late in the evening. There was also an informal social session during which reminiscences of the organization's early days were told by the older members.

DEATH OF INFANT DAUGHTER.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Reville have the sympathy of their friends in the loss of their infant daughter, who died yesterday morning. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon, and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Married.

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF JOHN VAN NEST LANE

The funeral of John VanNest Lane, of Plainfield, late sexton of the local Presbyterian church, was held in that church yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. The service was in charge of Rev. E. R. Brown, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church, of Plainfield, which Mr. Lane attended during his short residence in Plainfield. Mr. Brown spoke very highly of the departed. He said that he was one of the "old school," who made their living principally with their hands. Mr. Lane, Mr. Brown said, while sexton of the church, had occupied the humble position with dignity, and, as the Apostle Paul had said, magnified his position. Referring to Mr. Lane's Christian character, Mr. Brown said that he died in the faith.

Dr. Anderson spoke to the bereaved family. The pastors both offered prayers. Mrs. E. B. Leland and Miss Emma Marlow sang, "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder." They were accompanied by Mrs. W. S. Frederick at the organ. Interment was at Bound Brook. The pallbearers were: John P. Fenner, Sr., of Pluckemin; Charles Dunlaw, Fowler W. Vail, Paul Reusch, Paxton Van Arsdale and Charles Coriell, Sr.

H. W. MARSHALL TALKS TO PARENT-TEACHER ASS'N

At the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association held last night in the Lincoln School, H. W. Marshall, of Plainfield, gave an instructive talk on the advisability of establishing playgrounds for the pupils of the borough's respective schools. The committee in charge of procuring discarded clothing to be repaired for the school children, whose parents are unable to provide them with proper wearing apparel, reported that the people of the borough are contributing very liberally.

The social hour was featured by two recitations delivered by two boy pupils of the Second grade of the Lincoln School. LeRoy Updyke told a little story about "the johnny cake,' and Adolph Breyer recited "The Disobedient Turkey."

Joseph Gaff, of Front street, has taken a position with Frank Margentino.

Peter Fritts, of Penfield place, has taken a position with Charles Cark, the landscape artist.

W. S. Haselton, of Prospect avenue, has returned from a lengthy sojourn in the Adirondacks.

Walter Doyle, of Front street, submitted to an operation for appendicitis in the Muhlenburg Hospital yesterday afternoon. The operation was performed by Dr. C. A. Gesswein, of Plainfield.

Willard N. Apgar, of Lincoln avenue, resumed his carpentry duties yesterday after being incapacitated since Wednesday of last week with an injured back, which Mr. Apgar sustained while attempting to lift a piece of timber.

Joseph Maier, Jr., of North avenue has been detained from school by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dodd, of Bound Brook road, are the parents of a son who arrived yesterday.

MISS STITES IMPROVING.

Miss Belle Stites, daughter of Tax Collector Stites, is doing nicely in the Muhlenburg Hospital following an operation for mastoiditis on Monday. It was feared that another operation might be necessary, but Miss Stites condition has shown such improvement that the attending physicians are now hopeful that another one will not prove necessary.

RETURNS FROM OYSTER BAY.

Miss Anna Mohan, of Dunellen avenue, has returned from a week's visit at Oyster Bay, where she attended the wedding of a relative. Miss Mohan was accompanied home by her cousin, Miss Lacinthia Campbell who will pay her a short visit.

"OLD MAIDS CONVENTION."

At the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church, held yesterday afternoon, in the Baraca room, the ladies talked of holding an "Old Maids' Convention" in January.

John Logan, of Washington avenue, who has been suffering from a felon on his thumb, for some months is improving.

Mrs. Stanley R. Krom, of Penfield place, who has been suffering from nervous trouble for some time, has gone to the Colony Farm at Belle Mead for treatment.

TO UNDERGO OPERATION.

Miss Mabel Margentino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Margentino of North avenue, will be taken to the Somerset Hospital at Somerville tomorrow for an operation, which will be performed Saturday afternoon by a New York specialist, assisted by Dr. De Marco, of Somerville. The operation will be performed on a knee joint which was injured several months ago.

Miss Jacinthia Frescoln, the local librarian, has been spending the week at Reading, Pa., the guest of relatives. Miss Gertrude Day has been substituting for Miss Frescoln.

MRS. MEYERS IMPROVING.

Mrs. Albert J. Meyers, of Washington avenue, who submitted to an operation at Brookside Sanatorium, Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, is doing as well as can be expected. The operation was performed by Dr. Hellmuth, the noted New York surgeon, assisted by Dr. Roger L. Cooley. It proved to be of a very serious nature, and Mrs. Meyers was on the table for three hours.

A girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dauncy, of Dewey Park yesterday.

Emerson Platt, son of Dr. Platt, continues to improve from an attack of pneumonia.

PIPER—REIDY.

Miss Agnes Reidy, daughter of Michael Reidy, of Piscataway, was married to Charles Piper, son of Albert Piper, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at St. John's Catholic church, Dunellen, in the presence of members of the immediate families. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. E. J. Dunphy, rector of the church. The couple was attended by the brother and sister of the bride, Andrew and Helen Reidy. They will reside in Piscataway. The groom is employed as tilemaker at the plant of the American Cement Tile Manufacturing Company at Lincoln.

LOUIS WYCKOFF INJURED.

Louis Wyckoff, employed on the farm of John M. Evans, has been incapacitated since Saturday with two broken ribs. Mr. Wyckoff sustained his injury when he fell against the side of a wagon, the bottom of which had been made slippery by the rain. Dr. T. H. Platt is the attending physician.

Burtis Stillwaggon, son of Alex Stillwaggon, is ill with diphtheria. The home has been quarantined.

Mrs. Frank Henry, of Three Bridges, was a visitor here yesterday.

FANWOOD COUNCIL JOINS STATE LEAGUE

Decides to Lend Its Support to the Organization Which Favors Home Rule.

The Fanwood Council at its December meeting, last night, voted to join the New Jersey State League of Municipalities, the newly-organized body comprising representatives from a majority of the cities, boroughs and towns in the State. Mayor William H. Hoar, will represent Fanwood at a meeting of the league to be held in Trenton on January 19, when further information concerning the purpose of the organization will be obtained.

There has been a delay in the matter of installing two street lights on lower Martine avenue for the reason that it is necessary to secure the consent of the New Jersey Central before a pole can be removed from Martine and North avenues, it being on the railroad property. The matter will be adjusted within the next ten days.

The Council authorized the installation of two lights on Hunter avenue, between Paterson road and Midway avenue, in response to a petition from residents. The application of John Ford, Jr., for a hack license, was granted.

The treasurer reported cash on hand of $1,892.98. Bills amounting to $7,900 were passed, including the annual county tax of $3,936.31 and local school tax of $3,425.57. The former is an increase of but $51.24 over last year, but the borough share of the township tax has jumped from $2,166.40 to over one-third additional.

McCarty Brothers, who sell vegetables through the borough, were before the Council on complaint of Eugene Heptin, of Hunter avenue, who stated that he had purchased a barrel of potatoes, and failed to get full measure, because a bushel basket was found in the barrel. The McCartys promised to make good the shortage and were allowed to go with a reprimand.

Mayor William H. Hoar and Councilman Albert L. Riblet, who were elected at the last general election were sworn in by Clerk McAnnen last night. Augustus Sheelen is the only remaining one to take the oath of office. He will take the position left vacant by the retirement of Thomas W. Norton, who declined to run again after completing three terms, twice as president of the governing body.

Plans for the annual Christmas sale for the benefit of the All Saints Episcopal church were completed at a meeting held at the home of Mrs James Carter, of North avenue, yesterday afternoon. Tomorrow night and Saturday morning will be spent in decorating the hall and erecting booths at the Fanwood firehouse, where the sale will be held from 3 until 9 on Saturday.

Word has been received from Fred Coombs, who joined the U. S. Navy about a year ago. He left about a month ago on the battleship New York for Chinese waters and says he expects to be gone sometime.

Several improvements have just been completed on the Fanwood firehouse, including the strengthening and painting of the walls.

The choir practice, followed by a social hour, will be held in the lecture room of the Baptist church tomorrow night.

High Bridge-Califon.

Rev. Henry P. King, pastor of the Califon Methodist church, will preach Sunday afternoon at the Bunvale Schoolhouse.

Jerry Hoffman is building an addition to his peach basket factory at Califon.

Thomas M. Neigh and Samuel Neigh, of Califon, are spending the week in Newark and New York.

James Bulmer, of Vernoy, is ill.

A Men's Union Brotherhood meeting was held Sunday afternoon in Apgar's Hall, Califon, and these temporary officers were elected; President, Robert Morrell; vice-president Isaac H. Hoffman; secretary, Frank Moore; treasurer, Lester M. Apgar. Permanent organization will be effected December 5.

Having sold his farm near New Germantown, Isaac Hoffman will move to Califon about April 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey K. Trumpore of Califon, entertained this week Mr and Mrs. Ray Hoffman, of Hampton.

Rev. and Mrs. Enoch King, of Califon, left Tuesday for Oradell, where they will spend the winter with their son, Dr. Chester King.

Robert M. Honeyman, who has been conducting revival services in the Lower Valley Presbyterian and Califon Methodist churches, left Tuesday for Oxbow, N. Y., where he will stay two weeks before going to Wyoming, Pa. His free will offerings at the local churches amounted to $95.89.

Somerville

The local fire department responded to an alarm of fire this morning at 2:15, when the dwelling of John Cooper, located in the rear of Meyer Hodge's home on East High street, was destroyed. Cooper lost his horse, wagon, harness and other articles which brought the loss to about $600. It is the opinion of many of the residents that the fire was of incendiary origin, because chicken thieves have been working in this vicinity.

Angelo Demalie was struck by a jitney Tuesday evening in Raritan, sustaining slight injury to one of his legs. The jitney was operated by E. Kelley.

The Columbus Minstrel Company of this place, gave a performance in the Millstone Hall, last night, to a large audience.

Whitehouse

Miss Lottie Wilson, of Lebanon, is spending a week at High Bridge with her cousin, Mrs. Nelson R. Apgar.

Mrs. Mary A. Bailey, of Whitehouse Station, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Billerbeck and family, at Doylestown, Pa.

The Potterstown Sunday-school will give an organ fund entertainment Friday evening. Local talent will present the play, "Down in Maine."

Edward Stevenson returned to Somerville Tuesday after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dilley, at Whitehouse Station.

Midweek prayer services of the Whitehouse Station Reformed church will be omitted tonight.

Albert Fleming returned to New York Tuesday after a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fleming in East Whitehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Todd, of Quakertown, Pa., are guests of John Dawes, Jr., in Round Valley.

Mrs. John E. Seals entertained the Wishbone Improvement Society yesterday afternoon at her residence in East Whitehouse.

Mrs. William Shafer returned to Whitehouse Station Tuesday after a visit to her sister, Mrs. George Hall of Bound Brook.

William C. Melick entertained the Young People's Union of the Methodist church Tuesday night, at his home in East Whitehouse.

Mrs. Mary Longstreet returned to Somerville yesterday after visiting Mrs. Jennie Van Syckle at Whitehouse Station.

The school teachers of this section held a conference Tuesday afternoon in the public school building at Whitehouse Station. It was the first of a series of meetings to be held in the county by the county superintendent, Jason S. Hoffman, of Flemington.

Dr. and Mrs. John Smith returned to New York Tuesday after a visit to the doctor's sister, Mrs. William Caldwell, of Lebanon.

For the convenience of the taxpayers, Frank A. Cole, of Three Bridges, collector of Readington township, will be at Lane's store, in East Whitehouse, December 13, from 10 to 2 o'clock.

A three-act drama, "Just Plain Folks," will be presented in the Readington Reformed church, Friday and Saturday evenings, for the benefit of the Sunday-school library. The cast is made up of local talent.

William J. Manning, of Phillipsburg, is at Whitehouse Station.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Congressman John H. Capstick is early on the job at Washington. He has been doing everything possible to make himself acquainted with the duties of his office. He has been doing all in his power to establish a direct relation between himself and each constituent. Congressman Capstick will meet many difficulties confronting a new member. He has gone to Washington, however, to serve this district and his country. He has been notable for his ability to accomplish whatever he has set out to do. He may be expected to accomplish good results for those whom he represents. —Elizabeth Journal.

POLITICAL NOTES

It is doubtful if any recount ever held in Elizabeth has aroused as much interest as has the recount now in progress on the vote for excise commissioners. At the present proceedings in the courthouse, someone is always in evidence outside the railing who seems to be waiting with bated breath for the call of every ballot as it comes from the box. When the counting started William J. Dunn whose fate rests upon a scant fifteen votes, hung anxiously over the railing, and during the day John J. Stamler came in to carefully scan the return sheets of the counsel for the Democratic board. There are few minutes during the day when the watchful gallery is not present. Owing to the careful arrangements by the county authorities, however, the election officers are not hindered in their work no matter how large a crowd is present and the recount will probably progress more rapidly than usual.

One of the things which have been brought to light by the recount is the fact that the election officers in Elizabeth are usually neither accurate nor well informed. Votes which are rejected in the original count are oftentimes counted in the recount and there are very many ballots rejected by the county board which pass the scrutiny of the district election boards. While the complaint has been made that the county board is too rigid in its rulings, the opposite is true of the district boards.

More rumors are coming out of Hudson county concerning the activity of the fighting sheriff, Gene Kinkead. It is claimed now that his sensational raids on Sunday-selling in Hoboken are but the forerunner of an attempt to recall Mayor Patrick R. Griffin and the City Commissions in the mile-square city, who opposed the sheriff in his fight at the past election. Kinkead refuses to comment upon the raids, but continues to "saw wood."

Donald H. McLean stated yesterday morning that he was not a candidate for assistant secretary of the State or any other office in connection with the New Jersey Legislature. Mr. McLean had been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Senate position, which, it is understood, is to go to John W. Clift, of Summit.

WILLIAM A. FESMIER DIES AT ALLENDALE

Was Former Plainfielder, and Graduate of Stillman—Burial Here Saturday.

William Armstrong Fesmier, a native of this city, died early this morning at the home of his mother, Mrs William F. Coulter, of Allendale, Bergen county. He had been in failing health for the past year, and the family removed from Passaic to Allendale only a few days ago in the hope that a change might prove beneficial.

Mr. Fesmier was twenty-two years old and removed from Plainfield to Passaic about six years ago, following his mother's second marriage. He was a graduate of the Stillman Grammar School here, class of 1908, and was a sophomore in the Plainfield High School when he moved away from Plainfield. He was graduated from Passaic High School, and entered Cornell, but was forced to give up his studies because of impaired health. He was an unusually bright boy and gave promise of a brilliant future. He had a genial disposition as his many friends in Plainfield can verify. His summers for the past few years were spent at Lake Hopatcong where his mother and stepfather have a handsome home on Pine Tree Point. He is survived by a number of relatives in this city, one of whom is an uncle, Joseph C. Allen, of Sandford avenue.

The funeral will be held at Allendale at 12:30 Saturday noon, after which the body will be brought to this city by automobile for burial in Hillside cemetery. The funeral party will probably arrive at the graveside at 3 o'clock, and a further service will be held at that time for the benefit of local friends.

LOCAL Y. M. H. A. IS AFTER HUNDRED NEW MEMBERS

More than fifteen new members were reported at the meeting of the Y. M. H. A., of Plainfield, held last night. The organization is conducting a campaign for 100 new members and it s promised that this number will be secured within a short time. A meeting of the membership committee was held at noon today for a discussion of plans and new ideas for the teams at work will be outlined at the meeting of next Wednesday.

ELEVEN PATIENTS WERE ADMITTED DURING MONTH

Dr. John E. Runnells, superintendent of Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, in his monthly report, states that there were 99 patients at the institution on November 1, 71 men and 28 women. During the month eleven patients were admitted, eight men and three women. Of this number there was one male and one female in the moderately advanced stage and seven males and two females in the far advanced stage.

The largest number present at any time during the month was 104, smallest number 97; number present November 29, 104, 74 men and 30 women. The daily average was 99.6.

PLUCKEMIN FACTORY HAS BRIEF STRIKE OF EMPLOYES

The 150 employes of the Superior Thread and Yarn Works at Pluckemin went on strike at noon yesterday, demanding a reduction in working hours from ten hours a day to nine hours and an increase of twenty-five cents a week in pay. The company refused the request throughout the afternoon, but last night a conference was held in Kenilworth Inn, Pluckemin, at which an amicable agreement was reached. The employes accepted an increase of $1 per week in wages but without any reduction in the working hours.

The Superior Company manufactures yarns and threads from Chinese grass and is the only concern of the kind in the world that is operating today. All the others using Chinese grass have been closed down because of the European war. The factory is the main industry at Pluckemin.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Frederick W. Butler, Mrs. S. S. Carvalho, and Mrs. Henry C. White. Mr. White acted as stage manager.

HIGH SCHOOL WORK IN STATE IS IMPROVING

Trenton, Dec. 2.—High Schools and High School work in New Jersey are increasing at a marvelous rate, much more rapidly than the population, according to A. B. Meredith, of Plainfield, assistant State commissioner of education, in charge of High School work, as shown in his annual report just submitted to State Commissioner Kendall for transmission to the State Board of Education. The report is for the school year ending June 30, last.

The total enrollment in all classes of High Schools has increased from 28,479 in 1912, to 44,314 in 1915, or an increase of 55.6 per cent. The total enrollment of the State, exclusive of the High Schools, was 430,710 in 1912, and 475,566 in 1915. This is a gain of 10.4 per cent. in three years. During the same period the High School enrollment has increased 55.6 per cent., or in other words, the High School department is growing five times more rapidly than the remainder of the enrollment when taken together.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Daniel Husik, of Philadelphia, who was formerly Miss Margarete Boehm, spent yesterday with friends in this city.

Max Schrank, of Kasenhayn, N. J., visited friends in Plainfield yesterday.

A party of Plainfield people motored to Somerville last night to attend a dance given by Zion Camp, the guests of Henry Rosenbaum. Mr. Rosenbaum was called on for a short address by the Somerville people. Those who accompanied him were Oscar Cohen, S. Krautheimer, Max Oliner, Arthur Richards and Louis Rothberg.

Mrs. Michael Higgins, who underwent an operation at St. Elizabeth Hospital, will be removed to her home, 9 Grandview avenue, next Sunday.

RECREATION NOTES

The following will meet tomorrow night at the Washington School: The dressmaking class, the Dramatic Club and the Dunbar dance.

The pianoforte class will meet with Miss Lockwood tomorrow afternoon at the Franklin School.

The Guild of Play will meet tomorrow afternoon, and there will also be a rehearsal of the pageant at the Stillman School.

Y. W. C. A.

Rev. William C. O'Donnell will be the speaker at the vesper service at the association, Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. Charles Potter Titsworth will render a number of solos during the service.

The stenciling classes are just beginning at the association, and there are vacancies for any members who wish to join. Girls wishing to enter the course are requested to hand in their names at the office.

GOING ABROAD.

The following Plainfielders will sail on the S. S. Oscar 11, for Sweden, Saturday; Miss Helen Lundablack to Stockholm; Charles and Miss Emily Eliason, for Malmo, and the Misses Emma and Helen Tynell, for Helsingborg. Passage in each case was secured through the T. W. Hansson European Steamship Ticket Agency, at 122 Watchung avenue.

LOCAL MEN AT RUTGERS.

Among the large number of students enrolled in the Rutgers College winter short courses are the following young men from this city. Messrs. Harry Edgar Bronston and Arthur S. Whitney are students in the general agriculture and dairy farming class, while Charles Everett Banks is taking a course in fruit growing and market gardening.

RETURN TO EUROPE.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis DuBois, of Paris, France, who have been spending the past six months in this country, returned to Europe last Saturday, sailing on the American liner St. Paul. During their stay in America, part of the time was spent at the home of their relatives, Dr. Frances DuBois, of Netherwood.

TILNEY—WOOD.

Miss Addie Isabelle Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Wood, of Buffalo, and John Mason Tilney, a nephew of A. A. Tilney, of this city, were married on Monday in the First Presbyterian church, Buffalo. Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, formerly, of Plainfield, officiating.

TO SPEAK ON "EFFICIENCY."

Alexander Millar, of this city, who is connected with the Union Pacific Railroad in an official capacity, will speak at the Men's Association meeting in Warren chapel tomorrow night on "Efficiency." All men interested are invited.

YOUNG FRIENDS TO MEET.

The Young Friends' Association will meet tomorrow evening at the meeting house on Watchung avenue at 8 o'clock. The subject will be "The History of Friends."

TRU-TRED SHOES

We began selling Tru-Tred Shoes to our patrons 18 years ago.

From that date to this, some folks have been wearing Tru-Treds to their decided delight and satisfaction.

Year by year more and more people have been adopting Tru-Treds, and year by year the evidence comes to us that these Shoes are adding tremendously to the comfort of those who wear them, relieving them from all foot ills, and adding to their capacity for walking and standing.

We need no stronger argument for Tru-Treds than the fact of their 18 years' record.

Tru-Tred Shoes Are Made for Men, Women and Children.

MRS. FREDERICK E. KEEP DIES AT BROOKLINE, MASS.

Older citizens of this city will learn with regret of the death last week of Mrs. Frederick E. Keep at her late home in Brookline, Mass. Mrs. Keep's maiden name was Sarah Vermeule. She was the elder daughter of the late Manning Vermeule, of West Front street, prominent as a business man and a deacon, for many years of the First Baptist church. After her marriage, Mrs. Keep went to New England, where her husband had large business interests. Subsequent to his death, Mr. Keep was the manager in Boston of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.

Mrs. Keep was a member of the First Baptist church until her removal to New England. For many years she was a member of the Harvard Congregational church, of Brookline. She is survived by a son, Dr. Charles M. Keep, of Boston, residing in Brookline. A brother, Charles Vermeule, of Asbury Park, also survives her.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

"Willard—The Man Who Grows,"—is a top-liner at Proctor's this week. It doesn't sound human does it? If it were not for Mr. Willard's pleasing personality and the risk of offending him we would be tempted to regard him as a freak, but nevertheless, freak or not, he certainly performs miraculous feats. Adele, a dainty bit of femininity, deserves special mention for the way in which she renders some difficult selections, and Henri & Russell, in their novelty entitled, "Texico," certainly are to be commended for their versatility. Rand & Pell, German comedians, offer a line of nonsense. Casey & Jones conclude with an offering that was received with warm appreciation. Robert B. Mantell, the noted Shakespearian actor, makes his debut in photo-plays by appearing in a William Fox feature entitled, "The Blindness of Devotion." Miss Genevieve Hamper, one of the most beautiful women on the stage, plays opposite Mr. Mantell. Toy matinee will be featured Saturday. A week for the presentation of the greatest photo-play spectacles ever produced is set aside starting Monday, December 6. On Monday and Tuesday, Triangle Plays will be introduced to the film fans of this vicinity, while Wednesday and Thursday the greatest photo-play spectacle of its kind will be presented. It is "The Battle Cry of Peace." A gorgeous production whose theme was derived from Hudson Maxim's world famous book "Defenseless America."

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Children of Eve,' featuring beautiful Viola Dana, the child actress, and produced with rare skill by Kleine-Edison Company, will be the chief dramatic photoplay at the U. S Astor Theatre this afternoon and tonight, heading a program of splendid photodramas and comedies. Besides being one of the prettiest stars in the cinema field, Miss Dana is an exceptionally clever little actress. Her remarkably expressive features and winsome figure make of her a character that soon wins the sympathies of the audience. The story is one of strong dramatic interest, and the producers have given Miss Dana a fine supporting cast. Tomorrow and Saturday the feature photo production will be "Rags," a delightful comedy starring Mary Pickford. An aded attraction today will be the final episode of "The Diamond from the Sky,' the thrilling serial, in which it is learned who gets the diamond.

ONE CENT SALE!

NOW GOING ON

A woman with buying to do never saves any time by omitting to read the advertisements. Nor does she always secure par-value for her dollar.

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

A Galley o' Fun!

A HIGHER FIELD.

It was the last of the season. Two figures were alone on the beach—one half-sad, half-stern in its attitude, the other eager, pleading, passionate.

There could be no doubt that she was a very pretty girl. Her tall, straight figure, her waving dark hair, her deep brown eyes and her regular classical features, produced a harmonious entity that the most critical of artists would have not passed by indefinitely.

"Of course," she said, "I understand how you feel, and deeply appreciate the honor you do me. How commonplace that sounds! Yet, indeed, I am greatly stirred by what you have said. I am sure, had not the determination never to marry become so much a part of my religion, that you would have won me long before this. But my resolution can not be shaken."

"It is so hard to argue a matter like this in cold blood with one who seems to be so much above the ordinary emotions," he said, "that I do not know quite how to reach you. I gather that you consider marriage a condition, while not perhaps beneath you, yet one which does not accord with your highest ideals."

"That is it," she responded. "Marriage for perhaps the average girl is at least the usual outcome of her surroundings and education. But for me it would not fulfill the highest life It would interfere. To me my Art is above all else; and, to perfect myself in it, I must avoid all the doubtful matrimonial drawbacks I must be free to put forth my best. My mission is all in all."

The young man sighed.

"I did not dream of this," he muttered. "I did not suppose you painted or were literary or especially musical"

And the girl at his side replied calmly: "I am merely fitting myself to lecture."

KING'S DAUGHTERS PLAN ANNIVERSARY

Result of Work to Increase Funds Will Be Reported On January 19.

The Board of Trustees of the City Union of King's Daughters met in the Day Nursery this morning and made arrangements for the raising of a fund to increase the work of the Nursery. It was decided to distribute "Tiding Stars" to the various members of the union and their friends, each star being large enough to hold ten dimes. Returns from same will be made by January 15, to Mrs. Stuart H. Patterson, who will make the presentation of the total receipts at the tea which will be given at the Nursery on January 19, in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the home.

Announcement was made this morning also that the Needlework Guild of the city had donated 717 articles to the children in the Nursery and that the children are having three afternoons of regular kindergarten work at present. Arrangements were also made to hold the annual Christmas party for the inmates.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON 'PREVENTION OF DEFORMITIES'

The Franklin Parent-Teacher Association held an enthusiastic meeting in the Franklin School last night over one hundred members and their friends attending. Dr. H. D. Corbusier gave an interesting illustrated lecture on the "Prevention of Deformities in Children and Their Correct Posture." Mrs. S. Frederick Smith president of the association, presided at the business meeting which followed. During the latter the members voted that a letter and flowers be sent to Miss Caroline Barbour, one of the teachers in the organization who is at present a patient in the Muhlenberg Hospital.

Announcement was made that an exhibition of the work of the opportunity class of the school would held afternoon and evening, in the Franklin School Auditorium, on Wednesday, December 15. The proceeds of the exhibit will be used in an effort to extend the work of the class.

Following the meeting last night a social hour was enjoyed by the attendants, during which dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. C H. Russell and Mrs. Fuller, chairmen of the refreshment committee.

UNIQUE GIFT FOR WILSON.

It Will Be a Reading Lamp Stand Incrusted With Alaska Nuggets.

Alaska citizens, from Nome to Ketchikan, are raising a fund for a unique wedding present to President Wilson and his bride. It is to be a reading lamp stand of small gold nuggets of both the northern and the Fairbanks variety.

L. A. Newton, goldsmith, of Juneau will do the work. The nuggets will be arranged on an upright standard modeled after the Alaskan fir tree. The first spreading of the limbs will contain the wires for tiny electric lights. The nuggets will be arranged on the tree trunk so that the light and dark colored will make the bark. The nuggets will cost $300.

Mrs. Swineford, postmaster at Ketchikan, originated the idea and started the subscription paper. Nearly every village and town has added to it.

BAD MAN BIG TAX ON STATE.

Whalen Twenty-four Years In Prisons at Cost of $20,000.

When George Whalen pleaded guilty of burglary before Judge Wadhams of New York court attaches took the trouble to figure out approximately the amount Whalen had cost the state in his criminal career.

His is fifty-five years old and has spent twenty-four years in various prisons. Including the cost of his food and care and of his various court appearances, the whole expense was estimated at $20,000.

His latest ill doing was to force a door at 234 Bowery, near the lodging house where he lived, and steal carpenter's tools. The prisoner said liquor had been his undoing and that in later years he had found it impossible to resist the temptation to steal.

FEW OUT FOR HUNT RUN.

is always interesting, but a study of a tradesman's business character as indicated by his advertising is even more interesting and always profitable.

Just glance over the advertisements in the Plainfield Daily Press of the merchants whose places you know.

Does not the merchant write his store character into his advertising? Is it not possible to form a pretty good idea of the store from the manner in which it makes its announcements in the newspapers?

Merchants are coming to realize more and more that when they write an advertisement they are painting a business portrait of themselves—indicating their business character.

They are more careful in their statements, more modest in their language and pay more attention to typography and illustration.

Advertising is prepared now-a-days more carefully than ever before and there is more of it every day.

And by the same token it is going to be more interesting and profitable to the readers.

If you mix knowledge and industry,
The product will be success.

SEASON PROGRAM OF GUN CLUBMEN

SEASON ENDS MAR. 18

Events Planned For New Year's, Lincoln's and Washington's Birthdays, and For Six Saturdays—Conditions of Events.

Marksmen of the Log Cabin Gun Club will shoot in two competitions Saturday—in a 15-bird walk around event for the Take Home Cup, and in the season point contest. Shooting for the Point Cup will start at 3 p. m., and for the Take Home Cup at 4 p. m.

The Point Cup competition is held on each regularly scheduled shooting day, excepting holidays, and is at 25 targets. High gun each day earns five points, and three and one credits go to the second and third high guns, respectively. The cup goes to the competitor amassing the largest number of points during the season.

The Holiday Cup competition is also a 25-bird event. The first and second high guns each holiday qualify until February 22, when the final will be decided.

The shoot for a special holiday cup, postponed from Thanksgiving Day, will be held New Year's Day. All shoots are handicap affairs. The program for the season, announced by Field Captain Harvey Fisk, is as follows:

Sat., Dec. 4.—Point Cup, 3 p. m.; 15-bird walk around for Take Home Cup, 4 p. m.

Sat., Dec. 18.—Point Cup, 3 p. m.; 15-bird duck shoot for Take Home Cup, 4 p. m.

New Year's Day, Jan. 1.—Holiday Cup, 10 a. m.; 25-bird regular shoot for Take Home Cup, 2 p. m.

Sat., Jan. 15 and 29.—Point Cup, 3 p. m.; Take Home Cup, conditions to be announced later.

Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12.—Holiday Cup, 10 a. m.; Take Home Cup (15 singles and 5 doubles), 2 p. m.

Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22.—Holiday Cup, 10 a. m.; final shoot for Holiday Cup, 11 a. m.; regular 25-bird shoot for Take Home Cup, 2 p. m.

Sat., Mar. 4 and 18—Point Cup, 3 p. m.; Take Home Cup (conditions to be announced later), 4 p. m.

LINE-UPS FOR COURT MEETING OF POND MEN

Well Known Athletes to Take Part in Game at Hope Chapel Saturday.

Line-ups of the basketball teams that will represent the bachelors and benedicts of Pond's in the game at Hope chapel Saturday night were announced last evening.

The names of the players is an indication that the game will be something more than one of the usual married men-single men farces, for while the comedy end will not be missing, both teams are seriously desirous of victory, and sure-'nuff hard-fought battle is certain to ensue.

The married men will have two players who, if they can perform half as well on the basketball court as they can on the baseball diamond, will make their opponents hustle. They are Cliff Randolph, Plainfield's best pitcher, and Frank Sims, who twirled for a leading Paterson nine a few years back.

There will be experienced basketballers taking part in the game, although most of the men are out of practice. Dan Rudderman, who will play left forward for the benedicts, formerly captained the Rambler A. C., one of New York's major quintets. Jack Hallard, who will hold down a guard on the same team, is a former scholastic player, and comes from a family of basketball stars. His cousins, Jack and Tom Ricketts, both played with Plainfield High School a few winters ago. The bachelors' team will be made up of younger men, two of whom, Dave Wardrop and George Leighs, have played every season for a number of years on the Hope chapel team.

Jack Martin, Plainfield's one and only big league ball-tosser, who is now working in the "Safety First" department at Pond's, will referee the match. Ed Winey, the expert accountant of the plant, will be official scorekeeper.

The teams will line up as follows:

The game will start at 8 o'clock.

TO PICK ELKS' TEAM.

Lorenzo D. Townley, who will captain the Elks' Junior League bowling team this season, has called a meeting of his candidate for tomorrow night. Practice and selection of the team will be on the evening's program.

VIKINGS HERE SATURDAY.

What will probably be the last Saturday game of the local football season, will be the contest on Cricket Field Saturday between the Holy Cross Club, of this city, and the Vikings, of Bayonne.

BOROUGH SOPHS RETURN BEATING TO FRESHIES

The Sophomores, of North Plainfield High School, avenged the defeat which they recently suffered at the hands of the Freshmen, by defeating that team yesterday afternoon, in Saengerbund Hall, by the close margin of three points, the score being 34 to 31. Not until the last few minutes of play was the verdict decided, and then baskets by Burner and Force won the game.

Burner and Force led the attack of the winners with a quartet of field goals. O'Connor and Dunning excelled for the losers, with five field goals apiece, while the latter also scored seven fouls.

SHALLER BUSY BALL PLAYER.

Pacific Coast Star Plays In 220 Consecutive Games.

It is rare for a player to take part in all of the games played by a major league team during the championship season. A major league schedule calls for 154 games. In the Pacific Coast league the schedule calls for 210 championship games by each club.

It is remarkable for any player to participate in all of the contests for the pennant, but "Biff" Shaller, the San Francisco outfielder, has established a record of being in every championship game for two successive seasons.

In 1914 he was in 210 games, two of which resulted in ties scores, and this year he was in 208 games. During the past season he played through every contest except two.

NEW LINKS AT BERNARDSVILLE.

A new golf course is being laid out near Bernardsville, and will be known as the Somerset Hills Country Club. Options have been secured on about 200 acres of land, and Donald Ross has been engaged to do the designing work. There is already a nine-hole course in that vicinity, but it will be abandoned when the new circuit is ready for use. The membership will be limited, largely to residents of that section. While a great deal of preliminary work will be done within the next few months, it is hardly likely that the new links will be ready for use until the spring of 1917. Among those interested in the club are Joseph Harriman, Grant B. Schley, Colonel A. R. Kuser, Percy Pyne, Forest Dryden, James Brady, Ledyard Blair, Walter Bliss and Charles Chapin.

YALE REORGANIZATION.

Reform of Yale's football policy was last night placed in the hands of a special committee by the Yale Athletic Committee, who decided to turn the situation over to a trio of Yale's most distinguished former gridiron players, consisting of Vance McCormick, Brinckerhoff Thorne, and John Kilpatrick. They will frame a new system, recommend a new head coach, and will make such other recommendations as they deem wise to put Yale football once more on a successful basis. They were requested by the Athletic Committee to go into the situation exhaustively and they will report their recommendations to both the Athletic Committee and Corporation or University Trustee Board. The ratification will be merely a formality.

KNIGHTS' GAME OFF.

A letter received last night by George E. Howe, captain of the Watchung Council team, of the Knights of Columbus League, from the Jersey City Council team, which was scheduled to roll on the Plainfield knights' alleys tomorrow night, postponing the series. The date for the match will be settled later. A house tournament match will probably be arranged for Friday night on the local Columbus Club lanes.

SYRACUSE LICKS OREGON.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 2.—With the aid of a bewildering assortment of plays, the Syracuse University football team defeated the Oregon Agricultural College eleven here yesterday, 28 to 0.

TWO GAMES ON TABS' FLOOR.

A basketball double-header will take place on Tabs' court tomorrow night. The Abstainers' first team will play the Adeltas, and the second aggregation will take on the Mohawks.

GAMES' TOURNEY.

Members of the Boys' Club, Employed Boys and High School classes of the Y. M. C. A. will take part in a games' tourney tonight.

SPARROW REPLACES "DOC."

Joe Green will replace H. P. Greenwood on the Brown team of the five-man head-pin tournament at the Columbus Club.

Schedule.

Tomorrow night—Immediate Aid vs. Clinks.

Cellar rivals of the Westfield Bowling League met on the Westfield Theatre alleys last night. The Loyal Association five, which was in last place, two games behind the Red Men, reduced the breach to one game by winning the odd game. The bowling of Gus Stegmeier was the feature, his scores of 203 and 247 giving him an average of 203.1.

An unusual coincidence appeared in the last game, when three members of the Red Men each rolled the same score, 137, while two of the Loyals stopped at the same figure, 154.

LOCAL TABS BOWL AT ELIZABETH TONIGHT

Members and friends of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society to the number of about a hundred will journey by special trolley to Elizabeth this evening, for the local Tabs' annual bowling series on the alleys of the county seat Abstainers.

The Elizabeth Tabs, who do more bowling than their Plainfield brothers, who have no alleys in their clubhouse, invariably come out victorious, but this does not interfere with the Plainfielders' enjoyment of the social end of the affair, which is the main issue. The usual reception will follow the bowling match. A return series will be held in this city later in the season.

MARSTON IS SEASON'S LEADING GOLF WINNER

Maxwell R. Marston, of Cranford, is the leading winner of the season among the amateur golfers. Max won six tournaments, was a runner-up four times in important events, and was a medal winner in the national amateur championship. A poor putt robbed him of a chance to win the national title.

Marston beat Walter J. Travers at Garden City and carried off the New Jersey State championship. In the final at Manchester, Vt., Marston beat Parker Seeley, and a few days later defeated a field of classy players at the Mohawk Club, of Schenectady, N. Y. He won the amateur championship of Atlantic City, and in the final tournament of the season Saturday, he romped home a winner in the Lakewood tournament.

This was Marston's last season. He has decided to lay away his clubs until next spring. During the winter he will pastime at hockey and bowling with the Cranford Casino.

N. P. H. S. AT PRINCETON.

North Plainfield High School's basketball team will go to Princeton tomorrow to play the High School boys of that town.

ELIZABETHANS AT BAYONNE.

Bayley Council pinners will go to Bayonne this evening for a Knights of Columbus League series.

N. P. H. S. OUTPLAYED ON KEARNY'S FLOOR

Boroughites Are Sixth Team to Get Licked by Hudson Countyites.

The Kearny High School basketball team won its sixth consecutive victory of the season when it defeated North Plainfield High School by the score of 32-23, at Kearny yesterday afternoon. Excellent teamwork and unerring skill in converting shots into points, gave the home team victory.

The boroughites played a fighting game until the finish and at several stages only a slight margin separated the two teams. The local team had difficulty at the start of each half, but once fairly started, displayed some fine teamwork and carried the ball from their opponents' territory under their own goal.

Familiarity with the court was a decided advantage to the home team and a handicap the visitors could not overcome. A long cement floor, with a few feet separating the basket from the ceiling, made shooting difficult. The Kearny players had the faculty of running up a flight of cement stairs near the basket and shooting, many goals being made in this manner. The boroughites' defense was often drawn out of position in a clever manner, completely bewildering the players.

The contest was marked by clean playing, neither side resorting to any rough tactics, the Kearnyites winning by displaying a superior brand of the indoor sport.

Cook, at forward, and Shindell, at centre, did the bulk of the scoring for the winners, totaling six and five field goals, respectively, while all the borough players played a prominent part in the scoring line.

WYOMINGS NAVY CHAMPIONS.

By defeating the team from the battleship New Hampshire by a score of 6 to 0, the eleven representing the battleship Wyoming yesterday won the football championship of the Atlantic Fleet. The game was played at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and was witnessed by about 2,000 persons. The new champions were defeated in this city last month by the Holy Cross eleven. Cramer made the winning touchdown yesterday, in the final quarter. Norris failed to kick the goal.

FEW CHANGES IN AVERAGES

Plainfield Team's Mark in K. C. League Dops One Point.

CRIBBEN STILL IN LEAD

Newark Baseball Player Setting Pace With 195.7, and Also Holds Individual Record—Bayley Men Claim Team Honors.

Averages of the Knights of Columbus League pinners, announced today by the secretary, John E. Hastings, show little change from last week, at least in so far as Plainfield is concerned. The team average of Watchung Council fell one point, as did the mark of Captain Taylor, who leads the local quintet.

Luke Cribben, a Newark semi-pro baseball player, is still the league leader. His mark for nine games is 195.7, and his high score of 255 is still the record.

Bayley Council, of Elizabeth, has the best average and the high team score. Their average is 874.7, and their high record, 989.

The team records and the individual records of bowlers having an average of 160 or over, follow:

BUSY DAY AHEAD FOR LOCAL DOCTORS

Next Wednesday is Examination Time in All Cities of the United States.

Next Wednesday will be a busy day for all of the physicians in Plainfield. Every man, woman and child will want to be examined, if plans of the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield are carried out, and there is every indication that a majority of those who make up the population will get in line with the movement.

One of the three big days in Tuberculosis Week, which will be observed in this city, as well as all others in the United States, is medical examination day. This is fixed for next Wednesday. The plan of those who are waging war on tuberculosis does not necessarily call for an examination on that day, but they hope to have every individual, especially adults, make arrangements for a thorough overhauling of their body by their physician. The real examination can be made later in the month. The intention is to popularize a movement that will result in the discovery of thousands of cases of tuberculosis and other diseases in the early stages and at a time when the body will respond to treatment. All physicians have long ago urged an annual examination of the body of their patients as the best means of preventing disease. In the case of factories, stores and offices where the employes are not at present examined periodically, the league urges the adoption of such a system.

PLACE RED CROSS SEALS IN HANDS OF PUPILS

Many Busy Young Merchants Will Help Local Anti-Tuberculosis Work.

Red Cross seals will be delivered to the pupils in the Plainfield and North Plainfield schools tomorrow and will be placed on general sale at a number of places about town, such as banks, stores, hotels and business houses, beginning on Saturday. Cards will be conspicuously displayed at points where seals can be found, and from time to time additional agencies will be established during the next ten days. George M. Holstein is chairman of the committee having the sale in charge, and he is being assisted by the following: Mr and Mrs. A. Willis West, schools; A. W. Ransome, merchants and factories; Miss Mary R. Sullivan, Catholic organizations; Seymour Perkins, Sunday schools; James Boyd Potter, fraternal societies; Mrs. William B. Tyler, public booths; Miss Lovell Charity Organization Society; Miss Caroline Iredell and Eastman Ire monger, special agents. A number of others will also assist, there having been over eighty last year who aided in the work, in addition to the scores of school pupils who took an active interest.

Last year Plainfielders bought about 80,000 of the seals, 85 per cent of the receipts going into the treasury of the local Anti-Tuberculosis League, and the balance going to the national society to help in their work and pay for the actual printing of the seals. This year it is hoped that the 100,000 mark will be topped, and Mr. Holstein and his assistants will use every means to try to accomplish that result.

Few people have any conception of the magnitude of the Red Cross Christmas Seal Campaign. Here are a few figures that will show what a gigantic movement this is. Already 225,000,000 seals have been printed and practically that entire number distributed to agents in every State and territory of the Union, from Alaska in the north to the Canal Zone in the south, and from Porto Rico in the East to Hawaii in the West. Advertising circulars, posters, cards, etc to the number of several million have also been distributed. Not less than 1,000,000 personal letters asking people to buy seals have been sent out. It is estimated that the army of workers, nearly all of whom are volunteers, engaged in selling the seals, numbers well over 500,000. The advertising and publicity donated to the campaign amounts to several hundred thousand dollars. Every effort is being put forth to sell 75,000,000 seals, or less than one for every man, woman and child in the United States. This will mean $750,000 for the anti-tuberculosis campaign in the United States, and particularly all of the 1,200 anti-tuberculosis associations of the country deriving their support from Red Cross seals.

E-lecturettes

A series of eight articles describing the development of electricity to the present day, prepared for the ordinary layman to read. The week from November 29 to December 4 is being featured as Electrical Prosperity Week from one end of the country to the other, and the articles are printed in the Daily Press in order to give our readers, young and old, a splendid home course in electricity.

LORD KELVIN.

NO. 6.

The Inspiring Example of Lord Kelvin.

One of the most important figures in the world of electric invention is Lord Kelvin, English physicist and philosopher. He solved almost all the problems of submarine telegraphy. Not very many people are familiar with the history of this remarkable man, who died at his residence, Netherall-near-Largs, Scotland, on Dec. 17, 1907.

Unlike many men of monumental intellect and creative force, Lord Kelvin's life story lacks romantic atmosphere. He was born William Thomson, June 26, 1824, at Belfast, Ireland, the second son of James Thomson, a teacher of mathematics in the Royal Academical institution. From the very cradle William was under the profound influences of the classics. In 1832, James Thomson, the parent, migrated with his family to Glasgow to accept the chair of mathematics in the university. At the age of ten William Thomson, the son, matriculated in Glasgow university, and when he was twenty-two years old he accepted the chair of natural philosophy in his university. This he held for fifty-three years, attaining universal recognition as the greatest physicist of his time.

Two years before he had entered Peterhouse, Cambridge, where he took many high honors, but where his thirst for research work could not be appeased because of the few facilities for the study of experimental science. Thomson went to Paris, where he studied for a year in the laboratories of Regnault.

Since 1854, Lord Kelvin was most prominent among telegraphists. His remarkable researches gave to the world the recorders, the stranded form of conductors and many other important parts of submarine telegraphy. His work in connection with telegraphy led to the production in rapid succession of instruments for the measuring of electricity.

Current from the ten-thousandth of an ampere to 10,000 amperes and pressure from the fraction of a volt to 100,000 volts are measured by his instruments.

When electric lighting came Lord Kelvin's fertile brain evolved a new set of instruments for the electrical engineer. There is no quantity of electricity which his instruments are not called upon to measure. They are used in every power house and by electrical engineers every day.

Lord Kelvin ranks with the big men who have done big things to broaden the fields for the use of electrical energy. It has been said that his wonderful personality and the kindly encouragement he gave to students and others who came in contact with him have done more for the progress of physical discovery during the nineteenth century than the efforts of any other one man.

Extreme modesty, amounting to almost diffidence, was combined with the utmost kindliness in Lord Kelvin's bearing to the most humble student.

It is impossible more than briefly to sketch his life in this limited space, for one day he would be working out the mathematics of a profound problem, and next he would be designing an electric meter or dynamo, and, later still, he would be working over the mariner's compass, which he completely reconstructed. His deep sea sounding apparatus is second only to the compass in value to the sailor.

In acknowledgement of his services to transatlantic telegraph, Thomson was knighted in 1866, and in 1892 he was raised to the peerage, with the title of Lord Kelvin, baron of Largs. During his life many thousands of degrees and honors were bestowed upon him for his inventions and his additions to electrical science.

A remarkable demonstration in honor of Lord Kelvin was held at Glasgow university in 1896, the jubilee of his professorship. More than 2,500 scientists and members of the nobility gathered to honor the distinguished man. One of the features of the three-day celebration was a message sent through Newfoundland, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Florida and Washington. It was received by Lord Kelvin seven and a half minutes after being dispatched, having traveled more than 20,000 miles and twice crossing the Atlantic Ocean during the interval.

It is said that Lord Kelvin published more than 300 papers bearing upon nearly every branch of physical science. His life of unwearied industry did not cease when he resigned his chair. He continued until his death to take part in the proceedings of many learned scientific societies.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

Plainfield, N. J., December 2, 1915.

THE COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS.

The Community Christmas plan is a big idea. It is bigger than a peace plan, bigger than most of the things we know about—bigger, almost, than Christmas itself. It means that we shall give, out of our plenty, a little, that those who have nothing shall enjoy a great deal.

A community Christmas movement in Plainfield makes one big family of all who live here. Those who have more than they need or have that which they can spare, divide with others less fortunate, as the father or the big brother of the family give to the baby child, brother or sister. It is the true Christmas spirit of "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

There is charity in all of us. No man could harden his heart to refuse a pittance to the poor and suffering on Christmas day. The problem is to bring cases of unfortunates before those that are able and willing to give, and this is solved by the Community plan. Every man or woman who gives to the general fund is a father, big brother or mother, and is giving that his or her little sister or mother may have a doll, a red wagon with shiny wheels, or a train that really runs, or may be a Christmas dinner. One dollar will make some ragged little boy or girl happy on the day of days. Who can find a better use for money?

Another piece of motor driven apparatus was added to the Plainfield fire department equipment yesterday, to be stationed at the West Fourth street house. It is a combination chemical and hose wagon, and will greatly improve the protection of the city in the section in which it is located. Had the Nott Fire Engine Company been able to deliver what they promised, the city would today be without any horse drawn apparatus except the hook and ladder truck. As it is, the best that the Netherwood people can expect is that as soon as possible the Council will advertise for bids and place a motor engine in that section of the city. On the whole, however, the Plainfield fire department is about twice as efficient as it was four years ago, and has proven by the way that it has coped with threatening blazes of late that we are as well protected as can be expected in a city of this size. An engine for the Netherwood section, for which the money is now available, and a tractor to pull the hook and ladder is all that is needed to complete the motorization.

Plainfield people have proven time and time again that they are always ready to answer any worthy appeal which is made for funds. The success which has been met by the women who are arranging to send a portable house to the Queen of Belgium is gratifying to everyone. This city has done more for the sufferers there than a good many communities much larger. In the same way responses have come in hundreds of other cases. All of this goes to prove that this is a community made up of broad-minded, liberal people, who realize that there are other ways to get pleasure out of life besides that which is afforded by social activities. "Plainfield knows how."

The death of James B. Guttridge removes from Plainfield one of the most progressive business men it has ever seen and at the same time deprives many local people of one of the best friends they ever had. His heart was as big as a pumpkin and it was always in the right place. He was a pioneer merchant in the Netherwood section and that district owes much to his energy and perseverance for its development. He knew that it was bound to grow and put his shoulder to the wheel at a time when it was most needed. His death at the age of fifty-three is untimely.

The New Brunswick Times has made the startling (?) discovery that autos hurt the livery business. That may be so in New Brunswick, but here in Plainfield the livery men are up to date, and have autos doing the work for which they formerly used horses and wagons.

It begins to look as if Germany is going to lose the war not because of any lack of arms and men, but because of the lack of food for the women and children at home. A true statement of the exact condition of affairs in Berlin would no doubt prove interesting.

"Henry Ford, Peacemaker," says a headline. It's a cinch that nothing he has ever turned out would entitle him to the dropping of a letter and having it read "Pacemaker."

Senator Smith's financial embarrassment will prove to be the saddest blow that the Democracy has had in Essex county.

One more day in which to do early shopping is gone. Did you take advantage of it? If not start out tomorrow.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

This afternoon will mark the change of program at the Plainfield Theatre and the bill for the last half of the week comes in with flattering notices from other cities. The feature number is the "Girly Girl Minstrels," a company of ten, presenting their own original musical melange, "A Night at the Cabaret." It is certain to be a knock-out as every one of the ten is an artist by herself. Special scenery and costumes enhance the appearance of the young women, all of whom work in white face.

Beside the "Girly Girl Minstrels," another feature number comes in the special added attraction of "The Manhattan Trio," presenting vaudeville's greatest singing act. This trio comes direct from the Colonial Theatre, New York, where they received a half dozen encores at every appearance. Other numbers on the bill are James Carney and Company, presenting "The Butler," absolutely a riot of laughter; LeRoy and Berry, comedy variety; Wiley and West, musicians de luxe; and the Doley sisters, three in number, presenting a dainty costumey singing novelty.

Beside six acts of vaudeville, every performance at the Plainfield Theatre carries enough moving pictures to satisfy the most ardent film fan. The Pathe semi-weekly is shown through the week beginning Mondays and Thursdays, the continuation of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" every Thursday, and other comedies and dramas new each day. The fun-making "Country Store," at which valuable presents are given away absolutely free, is held every Friday night.

C. OF C. MEETING.

The Chamber of Commerce will hold its monthly meeting in the Babcock building at 8:15 o'clock tonight, when a number of important matters will be considered.

—Those accustomed to getting SERVICE from the classified column would consider it a very foolish thing to do to pay too much rent, either for a store, a house, an apartment or a furnished room.

No Strangers

There ought to be no strangers in
this little vale of tears;
I haven't seen a stranger's face for years and years and years.
I see, of course, some people that I
never saw before,
But they're just like the others that
I've known in days of yore.
They've felt and known the self-
same things the rest have known and felt,
They'll freeze up for unfriendly folks,
for kindly ones they'll melt.
They've each one had a sorrow that they thought they couldn't
bear,
But bore it, just as people do with sorrows everywhere.

There ought to be no strangers, in this so-called world of woe!
I see new people that I love, just everywhere I go.
And every one has felt some joy that
I had felt some time;
And each has had his little dream
of higher slopes to climb;
And each has known the sweets of
home at some time or another;
And nearly every man you meet will
rave about his mother.
They thrill at things that thrill me,
too, these friends I never met——
There ought to be no strangers in this misnamed world of fret!

Hay

Hay is what we are told to make while the sun shines.

Hay is divided into many kinds.

We used to help divide it, so that it would cure enough to be stacked or put into a mow.

It would be cruel to stack or store hay that was still ill or under the weather.

Sunshine and air in abundance will cure almost the sickest hay.

There are alfalfa, clover, timothy, redtop, peanut, cowpea and John Hay, Jr.

Alfalfa will produce almost as many crops of hay as a Kansas real estate agent will tell you it will.

Clover is hard to cure.

It is inclined to be sullen and despondent and often has to be handled with a sulky rake.

If permitted, it will settle down in a sad, black heap and rot utterly.

We know of few things any more depressing to the sight than a field striped with clover wind-rows when there have been two weeks of cold rain on it.

Hay like that makes a fine feed for a horse that one is anxious to lose.

Hay is also the first name of a popular brand of sneezy fever.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Hygienic Value Of A Thermostat

WHAT is called an equable climate is generally conceded salutary for the average individual. Certainly it is healthful to maintain a fairly equable temperature in the living-rooms throughout the winter months, because it is exposure to excessive warmth, more than anything else, that lowers one's natural resistance to that group of specific bacterial infections vulgarly known as "colds." These respiratory diseases are not cold air diseases; they prevail most widely in temperate climates, in moderate spring and fall weather more than in very cold winter, in the southern states more than in the extreme northern inhabited countries, per thousand population. The indoor plague, let us say, rather than "colds." When you catch the indoor plague you have been handed something very definite; but when you "catch cold" you merely have a delusion, if you think the great outdoors has anything to do with it.

Since the bacteria of the indoor plague survive best when the air is warmest, and since the human host thrives best when the air is fairly cool, most people have learned instinctively to regulate the indoor temperature by the thermometer, and to keep it between 60 and 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

But it takes a lot of patience, sometimes even unseemly language, to regulate the furnace by the thermometer. And besides there are often too many engineers in the family, and too many engineers will put out the fire.

A thermostat solves the problem. A good thermostat costs, installed, from $30 to $60, but we venture to say it is economical, not alone in its hygienic aspect, but as a fuel saver as well. Best of all, it saves father—or, in these days of equal suffrage, perhaps mother—the painful labor of rising in the cold, cold morning to turn on the drafts.

Figuring on the basis that each attack of indoor plague costs a family, on the average, $30, we conclude that a thermostat pays for itself inside of ninety days in this climate. It does so by converting the changeable indoor atmosphere into an ideally equable climate, fit for any invalid.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Baths And Fever

Please explain in detail why patients with fever are given ice-cold baths? This seems a cruel practice.

Answer—Never knew of such a treatment. The Brand bath treatment of typhoid fever is a good treatment. The bath is never below 60 degrees F., and it is usually started at 85 or 90 degrees, which is quite comfortable, then gradually lowered during the fifteen or more minutes by the addition of pieces of ice or colder water, but the thermometer in the tub is always under the nurse's eye and the water never becomes colder than 60 degrees, which is by no means cruel. Active friction of the skin throughout the bath maintains a reaction, and as a matter of fact patients enjoy the apparent "ice-cold" bath. But remember, baths are not given to bring down fever, but to rouse the dull nervous system and enliven the depressed circulation.

The Best Kind Of Corset

Is a high corset or a low one more hygienic?

Answer—A low one. The less of it the better.

DECEMBER

DECEMBER is a pleasant, steam-heated month whose principal missions are to wind up the calendar and the bank surplus. It is a more agreeable month than November, because while we expect the weather to be bad, it is sometimes fine, whereas in November we still hope for pleasant weather and what we get instead cannot be effectively commented upon in this great family newspaper.

In December man retires indoors and only uses the outside air while passing through it from one set of radiators to another. The icicle and snowball crops ripen and when a man stands on a street corner waiting for the dim future in the shape of a street car, he looks like an engine with a leaky steam pipe. December is one of the few months in which the human breath is visible and it is worthy of note that the breath is always pure white, no matter how it tastes to the producer. Dark brown and sulphur blue exhausts are only figments of literature.

In December, also, the sidewalks begin to become pugnacious. Nothing is more quiet than a sidewalk in July or more unreliable and bloodthirsty than a sidewalk in December after an ice storm. It is a common thing for a December sidewalk to approach a victim stealthily from behind and to leap upon his neck and shoulders with the ferocity of a young tiger. Thousands of people have suffered severe injury by being attacked by hostile sidewalks and porch steps in December. This country is now tolerably free from wolves and Indians, but until the man-eating sidewalk has been subdued, life will still continue to be sadly uncertain.

The most prominent feature of December is Christmas, which finally comes to a head on the 25th of the month. This festival has made December one of our most prominent and successful months. The younger half of the world spends the first part of December counting the days until Christmas and the older portion spends the last half of the month counting its money with a slightly dejected air. Neither half wastes time in counting anything after Christmas.

In December the days keep getting shorter, along with the people, until the 21st when winter is formally opened and the sun goes to bed before the banks close. The 21st is the shortest day of the year astronomically, but the 26th is shorter financially by a tremendous majority.

In December, the owner of the automobile wraps it in goose-grease and moth balls and packs it away until Spring. This has made December a delightful month in many respects, and has increased greatly the esteem in which it is held by pedestrians.

Views Of The Press

Britain Has No Lincoln

AN article in the Nineteenth Century Review, London, by J. Ellis Barker, dealing with the conscription measures resorted to, first by the Confederates and then by the Federal Government, to raise an adequate army during our Civil War, gives an estimate of Lincoln which can scarcely be that of the British people as a whole. He says: "The Union was saved by a man of sterling character, but of merely moderate ability; by a great citizen, but scarcely a statesman of the very first rank."

He then goes on to say that had almost any other man been in the presidential chair the result would not have been the same, that Lincoln "rallied the waverers, encouraged the down-hearted and created harmony among the quarreling powers," and "did not hesitate to exceed his constitutional powers to act as a dictator when the fate of his country was at stake," and, quoting Lord Bryce, "wielded more authority than any single Englishman has done since Oliver Cromwell."

A man who could do and did do all this, and who at the same time preserved peace with foreign countries in spite of the conflicting advice and disruptive acts of his Cabinet and radicals in Congress, who chose with unerring instinct and wisdom the right course both at home and abroad, must have been more than a man of "moderate ability" and entitled to be classed as a "statesman of the very first rank." England has not today in her supreme crisis a statesman at all comparable with him, possessing either in clarity of vision, depth of understanding of the people, wisdom in controlling inharmonious and quarreling elements, instinctive skill in statecraft, or firmness to do the right "as God gives us to see the right," displayed by Abraham Lincoln in our own great hour of trial. Yet England has leaders of more than "moderate ability," even if her statesmen do not size up to the "very first rank." The more Abraham Lincoln is compared with the Kings, Emperors, Presidents, Premiers, War Ministers and others on both sides of this cataclysmic struggle, the higher he stands in all those things in which this British writer denies him excellence. It would be a supreme blessing to England if she had today at the head of her government an Abraham Lincoln.—St. Louis Star.

Bank Liable?—A Question

Q. I am a depositor in a certain bank. A general agent in my employ directed the bank to forward some money. The money was lost. Will the bank be liable?

A. The bank will be liable unless the method of forwarding was the usual method.

Board Of Health—Its Jurisdiction

Q. Does a local board of health have the power to pass ordinances and adopt regulations for the public good? If so, do such ordinances and regulations have the force of law?

A. The legislatures of the various states, acting within the sphere of their constitutional authority, frequently confer power upon boards of health in cities and towns to pass ordinances and enact rules and regulations in the interest of the public welfare. Such ordinances, rules and regulations must be obeyed by all citizens within the jurisdiction of such boards.

A Street Accident—Who Pays?

Q. A friend of mine was driving an automobile in a crowded part of the city and the machine was caught between two street cars. There is an ordinance limiting the rate of speed and the street car company seems to have been violating this ordinance. My friend was injured and wants to bring a suit. Do you think he will have a good case?

A. If the proximate or producing cause of the injury was the street car company's negligence in the operation of its cars, rather than your friend's negligence, he will be entitled to recover damages.

A Disagreeable Agreement

Q. Two men made a written agreement with each other and it was afterward found that it did not embody their ideas on the subject. One of these men seems inclined to rely on the written agreement, while the other contends that, as there has been a mistake, it should not be enforced. Will you please give me your opinion as to which man is right.

A. The courts will, under proper circumstances, reform a contract so as to give effect to the intention of the parties. In some cases, especially if injustice will otherwise result, the courts will compel the surrender and cancellation of contracts of this sort.

Different State Laws

Q. Do the laws all over the United States provide the same rules as to inheriting property? A. No.

First Cousin Marriages

Q. May first cousins marry?

A. In some states; not in others.

Influence

Just as soon as you begin to Think or Do something, you begin to have Influence. Influence is something you can't keep at home. And when it gets away from you, you can never recall it.

Your Influence makes you Something or Somebody else.

Influence has no boundaries. Once started, though it may seem ever so trifling, yet it may have as its destination the farthermost corners of the Earth. If you would get a conception of Power, realize the Influence of a Strong Man.

It is well to remember that what you have that you can't help but give away is your Influence.

Bear in mind that your Influence is never wholly absorbed, nor does it disappear into Nothingness. It Counts again and again. Influence has no end.

The three greatest objects in life—Friends, Happiness, Success—are each dependent upon proper Influence. So it is good to know that even the humblest person is, after all, master of his own Influence. He can send it out to scatter Sunshine or Shadows. It's his Choice.

A man's greatest Responsibility in this world lies in the way he acquires and gives out—his Influence.

Your Influence to-day is sure to have a tremendous bearing upon the total work of the world. Your Influence upon other people and the Influence of other people upon you is sure to become a Force and a Factor in the complete work of your day and theirs.

Current Poetry

Driftwood

It had drifted away from harbor
and bay,
Out of sight of tower and town;
An old, an empty and battered boat,
But that boat did not go down.
The sail still hung from its broken
mast,
And its painted pride was dimmed,
The salt seaweed clung round its bows
As it drifted with the wind.

Fierce storms had tossed it on mountains of foam,
Had swept o'er it billows of spray,
And the sun had gleamed through
its tattered shrouds,
When its fury had passed away.
Still it floated on, by headland and
bay,
Out of sight of the busy town;
Good ships go down in stormy seas,
But these empty boats drift on.

The world hath lives like this drifting boat;
Hearts that are empty and sad,
That set their sails in the morning
of life
With songs that were joyous and
glad;
But their anchor of hope is cast
away,
And their flag of faith is furled,
And they that sailed for the skies are
now
But the driftwood of the world.

Household Hints..

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

If stoves that are to be put away for the season are thoroughly rubbed with vaseline they will not rust.

Cranberries will keep all winter in a jar in a cellar.

OYSTER HINTS

Select live oysters whenever possible. Be sure they are clear and mild. Never use salt or salty butter while cooking oysters. It shrivels, toughens and curdles oysters. Use sweet butter. Season when cooked. Always wash thoroughly and allow them to stand in cold water twenty minutes before using.

OYSTER COCKTAIL

Set in center of plate a wineglass about half full of cocktail mixture of catsup, lemon juice, red pepper and salt. Around this glass cover bottom of plate with ice broken very fine; on this lay your raw oysters. Eat by taking an oyster on oyster fork and dip into the mixture.

THE TABLE

Rolled Skirt Steak en Casserole—Remove fat and skin from steak and pound with edge of china saucer. Brush over with olive oil and vinegar (equal parts); roll, tie, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Try out three thin slices of fat salt pork in iron frying pan, put in meat, cook until entire surface is seared and browned, turning frequently (being sure not to pierce). Put in small casserole, add one-fourth cup boiling water, cover closely, cook in slow oven 1½ hours. Wash, pare small potatoes and brown in tried-out pork fat. Put in casserole and cook during last hour of cooking. Remove meat to hot platter, pour around stewed tomatoes and arrange potatoes at each end of roll.

Stuffed Peppers—Remove seeds from green sweet peppers. Put cream cheese through food chopper and stuff peppers. Slice with a sharp knife. Very nice to serve with toasted crackers for a salad course.

Syrup Pie—Into one cup of any kind of syrup stir one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon vanilla; pour the mixture into shell, dot with butter, bake until set.

Cheap but Delicious Fruit Cake—Put one-half cup lard in granite basin, bring to a boil with one cup each of hot water and brown sugar. Chop one cup each of raisins and currants, one-half cup each of pitted dates and nut meats, one-fourth cup sliced citron and orange peel; dredge all lightly with flour until each bit of fruit is coated. When liquid is lukewarm, stir in two cups flour which has been sifted twice, one heaping teaspoon cinnamon, one level teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon each of salt and ginger. All superfluous flour is quickly shaken out of fruit and a teaspoon of baking powder is thoroughly stirred in. This prevents the fruit from settling at bottom of cake. The fruit, with a teaspoon of lemon extract and half teaspoon almond extract, is beaten into the dough last of all. It requires about an hour to bake this cake in a moderate oven. Now is the time to make this for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Broiled Bacon—Have the bacon cut in very thin and even slices and place on the wires of double broiler. Close broiler and set same into an oven of moderate heat, with a dripping pan under the broiler. Cook until the bacon is a delicate brown and crisp, then serve immediately.

Egg Sauce—One-half cup butter, two tablespoons flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, one cup cold water, one hard cooked egg. Melt half the butter in a small pan, add the flour and salt and pepper and cook for several minutes. Then add the water and stir until mixture thickens and boils. After boiling for three or four minutes add the rest of the butter gradually, then mix in the egg, chopped fine.

Oatmeal Macaroons—One egg, beaten light, one-half cup sugar, one-half tablespoon melted butter, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one cup rolled oats, one-half cup corn flakes. Beat the sugar into the egg; add the other ingredients and beat all together thoroughly. Drop from a teaspoon onto a buttered pan and bake in a moderate oven.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. J. L. Evans.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

Pickpockets.

Peter's pants are giving out.
Billy needs a bat,
Dora, dear, is hunting round
For a Sunday hat.
Every single Saturday
Someone's buying shoes.
Betty's teeth need fixing up
Is the latest news.

Baby needs a teething-ring,
Mother, stationery,
And another pesky mantle
For the luminary;
Also, pins and postage—
Bless me! Is it strange
Daddies always find it hard
To keep a bit of change?

M. B. WHEELER.

The entire object of true education is to make people not only do the right things, but enjoy the right things.

RUSKIN.

Dignity.

People ought to be living with wise forethought and circumspection, in order that they may be respected when old—not carelessly lulled with the comforting belief that, no matter how foolish they are, age will bring dignity.

So, too, if parents did not so fatuously demand respect merely because they are parents, but would see to it that they deserve and win respect by such visible power and wisdom as the child must bow to, we might look for a much quicker advance in these desirable qualities.

CHARLOTTE GILMAN.

A Savings Account.

What that is earnest and fine, happy and memorable, have we laid aside today for the children in our homes to remember in the years to come? It may be only a little thing—a word of perfect understanding, an example of honor, a glimpse of beauty, a bit of right thinking, a song sung or a guest warmly welcomed. Perhaps the day has been full of responsibility; but never so full, it seems to me, but there is time to add to the treasury of the years.

This is the month of our greatest home festival, and it seems fitting, as a gift to ourselves and our children, that we resolve that homes shall be peaceful, just, beautiful and happy to remember.

The Sunday I Would Keep.

Says William C. Gannett: "May I sketch my ideal Sunday to you? It shall be the longest day of the week, if possible—have more waking and enjoying hours in it than a common weekday. That day I will hear the early bird-song. That day I will catch the dawn in the eastern sky. That day I will begin by knowing what morning-silence, morning-music, morning-freshness, mean. Then it shall be my home-day. I will make love over again to my home-maker. I will fall into love, possibly even into acquaintance, with my children. They shall know the feeling of my arms around them. I shall know the feeling of their little minds and hearts, and watch what happens in their eyes. Then, if I am wise—I may not be, but if I am—I shall be generally in my seat at church; not twice a day, however—only once. It almost seems to augur something empty in the home or self, if I can often twice on Sunday seek the church. But once, if I am wise, I will be there, in my best clothes and mind and heart. I want to meet my friends, whom all the week I have met, perhaps, in pushing and half-selfish ways; today it shall be in quiet, not in push. Today we shall face together the ideals. Today we shall be souls together. Today we shall worship—worship God. Somewhere in the day, a book—a real book, with great pages in it, a book that shall tax my mind to read, and that, read, shall give me mind. In the afternoon, outdoors—into the green of grass, into the shadows of trees, into the companionship of flowers, into the uplift and horizons of the hill-top. In the evening, friends. I confess that I see not how friends can leave their own home to come; but, if they will, when so welcome as on the day it is easiest to be real. This is the day for inward-going talks, the day for excursions of mind in twos and threes, the day for the mutual trusts which, because of confession, are revelation, inspiration. And, after a day like this—of morning-hush, of home, of worship, of books, of nature, of friends—how good to sink, thankful, trustful, into the silent, solemn night, into stars, into sleep, into God!"

New Providence.

John P. Genung, for sixteen years a farmer here, has announced his determination to retire. He will dispose of his implements at auction Thursday afternoon. He and Mrs. Genung will go to Montclair to spend the winter with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Condit.

EXHIBITION AT THE FAIR.

San Francisco, Dec. 2.—"Every child should have mud pies, grass hoppers, water bugs, tadpoles, frogs, mud turtles, elderberries, wild strawberries, acorns, chestnuts, trees to limb, brooks to wade in, water lilies, woodchucks, bats, bees, butterflies, various animals to pet, hay fields, pine cones, rocks to roll, sand, snakes, huckleberries, and hornets; and any child who has been deprived of these has been deprived of the best part of his education," writes Luther Burbank, the famous naturalist. To encourage the children of the Pacific coast along these lines, the San Francisco Exposition is today holding an exhibition of children's pets. From cats and dogs to snakes, lizards and turtles, the pets of thousands of boys and girls will be shown, and their tricks and training will be demonstrated by their proud masters will compete for the many prizes.

Daddy's Bedtime Story.—

Bibbley Wah's Great Adventure. She Runs Away.

The Two Girls Came to a Clearing.

"ONE beautiful November day, so mild it was like summer," daddy began, "Uncle Ben sent the boys on an errand. This left Bibbley Wah alone. Now, she was not really a runaway, but she could not bear loneliness. So she ran down the hill pellmell before Anne could spy her, her small mind all made up to play with Emile, the French baby, till the boys got back."

"She always gets her own way, doesn't she?" Evelyn smiled.

"Nearly always," daddy confessed. "But then she was a remarkably nice child. This runaway would probably have ended very simply if halfway down the hill Bibbley Wah had not met Ernestine, the oldest Frenchy, who was lugging a huge basket so heavy that she begged Bibbley Wah to help her."

"What was in the basket?" Jack wanted to know.

"Oh, baked beans, a quart of black coffee, a huge chunk of Mary Antoinette's cake, half a cheese and other good French food. You see, the little Frenchies' mother earned money by boarding ten men who worked on the farms near by, and it was Ernestine's job to carry luncheon to these men every day way off in the woods. So Bibbley Wah grabbed hold of one side of the basket and trudged off into the greatest adventure a small person ever had.

"The way to the men was very long, and two little girls would have hardly got there if a kind farmer had not given them a big ride on his cart. When the cart got to a huge hole in a rail fence way off in the wild country two miles from any house Ernestine jumped off the cart, dragged Bibbley Wah off and started up a wooded hill path, very rocky, all overhung with bushes, clogged with brambles and dry grass, with wild rabbits darting across in the bright sunshine. In about half an hour of steep climbing the two girls came to a clearing in the woods, where the ten men were making a charcoal pit."

"What's that?" cried the children.

"The men cut down trees, stacked the logs in a big pyramid, covered it with sods and then set fire to it through a little hole near the bottom. It was their work not to let the sticks burn, but to make them char slowly into charcoal for manufacturing uses. Every time a red flame burst up through the huge pile some man smothered it with a shovelful of earth, so that the quiet, sweet air was a reek of smoke and the burnt juices of ash, hickory and birch trees. These Frenchmen sang jolly songs as they worked and threw jokes at each other as they threw shovelfuls of sods, for there were four pits a-smoking, and the men were kept very busy watching their logs."

Daddy stopped, and the children knew it was time to be kissed good night.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Molly's Return Brings Happiness to the Sutner Home.

"Oh, it's good to be at home. How long, how very long it seems since that night I went to bed sick." Molly gazed around the shabby sitting room in perfect content. John had done his best at "slicking up" before his wife's return. Even if he had left much to be desired, Molly saw nothing but a place where she was to have a chance to try again and see if her life could not spell something besides failure.

"Mrs. Ellson planned to come over and straighten the house. She said she had very little faith in my ability as a housekeeper, but I insisted that I could do it and wanted the chance. She has done so much for all of us I was determined not to impose on her any more." John gazed around entirely pleased with the labor of his hands.

"You did beautifully, and it was so nice not to have anyone else have a hand in it. Dear John, please go after Jack. It seems almost as if he would be changed in all the long time since I saw him."

As she spoke a knock sounded at the door, and John rushed to open it, saying:

"Here he is. They have brought him over."

"Come in," he called joyously. "Come and see how well Molly looks."

"Jack!" exclaimed Molly, holding out her arms. The boy ran into them and clasped his arms tight around her neck.

Olive Ellson stood watching the pair with shining eyes.

"How glad I am to see you, dear friend," said Molly, as she extended her hand over Jack's head. "How can I ever thank you for all your kindness to my little boy? Whatever would have become of him if you and Mrs. Morton had not taken him in, I cannot think."

"Oh, that was nothing. I really enjoyed having him with me, and the doctor will not be willing to stay at home now that he is gone. Such fun as they had together.

"You are looking remarkably well considering how short a time it is since you got up from a sick bed." Olive turned her to the light to inspect her more closely.

"Such care and nursing as I have had would bring a response from anyone not wholly dead. I surely am rich in friends, if poor in purse."

"I meant to come over and get the house all straight, but your husband would hear to nothing of the kind, and I see he was right in thinking he could do it. He is a better housekeeper than I supposed.

"I must go home and get the doctor's supper. He will be anxious to know how you stood the trip home. You will see him soon. Good-bye. I'll see you tomorrow." And she was gone. The three were alone in their home together.

"I brought home some oysters for a stew as a special treat tonight," said John, leading the way to the kitchen. "Jack and I will set the table while you make the stew. We'll help mamma all we can so she will not get sick again. Eh, Jack?" He picked up the child and kissed him from pure excess of joy.

When the doctor came in the three were still sitting around the table chatting cosily.

"I shall not need to prescribe anything. All the tonic you need is right here." He nodded at John's happy face.

"The doctor is right, John, dear. I feel as if I could lift tons." Molly went around the table and took John's face between her hands to kiss him.

—Finding work for workers and workers for work is a quest for which the classified advertisements are peculiarly adapted.

Westfield.

The Board of Park Commissioners and the finance committee of the Council have decided to ask the Council to issue bonds to the amount of $30,000, to pay for the improvement of the Broad street Park.

A performance will be given tonight at the Playhouse for the benefit of the Children's Country Home at Mountainside.

A meeting in the interest of tax reform was held last night at the residence of A. J. Beckley, Elm street. Gladwin Bouton was the speaker of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Irving left yesterday for their winter home, Melrose, Fla.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

Lime Your Lawn

NOW IS THE TIME to apply lime to your lawn, garden or field.

In the Spring the soil will be in condition to produce the best crops.

Agricultural authorities are agreed that Hydrated Lime, as an acid re-agent for sweetening and purifying the soil is nearly twice as effective as ground limestone. That is, it takes about one half the quantity and is quicker in its action, thus producing results at the minimum expense.

Our Hydrated Lime is put up in 50-lb bags at ..50c per bag

300 NEW FAMILIES FOR PLAINFIELD

The Chamber of Commerce Brought Many of Them, its Members Report.

CREDIT TO PAUL BURNS

He Will Not be Candidate for Re-election as President, He Says; But Success of His Advertising Campaign Makes Him Favorite.

That three hundred new families have come to reside in Plainfield within the past year, was the assertion P. J. McDonough made last night to members of the Chamber of Commerce at the regular meeting of the body held in the rooms of the chamber in the Babcock building.

"One year ago there were 600 vacant residences in Plainfield," said Mr. McDonough, and he is in a position to know, being at the head of a leading firm of building supply dealers and close to real estate men. "Today you can find less than one hundred, and they are the less desirable of the lot. This means that 500 homes have been rented during the year, and more than 300 of them are occupied by families that have come from other cities."

Mr. McDonough declared that the new residents had been brought here principally through the advertising of the chamber and other members agreed that it had at least been a potent factor in the development. They gave credit for this work principally to P. H. Burns, president of the association, although official recognition of the work of Secretary Garret Keating was given. The chamber also expressed its hearty appreciation of the co-operation of President Besler, of the New Jersey Central Railroad, in the advertising work conducted by the local organization.

During the year the chamber circulated 25,000 cards among people interested in Plainfield which they urged to send on to a person who might be influenced to come here. More than fifteen thousand of these were given out on the trains between Plainfield and New York. They were handed to commuters from this city with a request that they be mailed out to friends who commute from New York but do not live in Plainfield, and a large percentage were remailed, as shown by the follow-up system used by Mr. Burns during the first month. In that short time he traced twelve families that were brought here as a direct result of the advertising. About 10,000 more cards were mailed out by Mr. Burns and

DECRIES SYSTEM OF CONSPIRACIES

Miss Janet Richards Says It's One of the Most Dastardly Outrages in Conflict.

STATE OF WAR EXISTS

Congress Will Convene On Monday to Consider Grave Problems That Now Confront the Country, Says Speaker—America's Patience Tried

"One of the most dastardly outrages occasioned by this war is the contemptible system of conspiracies going on in America today to blow up our factories and take human life," declared Miss Janet E. Richards yesterday afternoon in her semi-monthly talk before a large audience of women in the Hartridge Auditorium. The speaker called attention particularly to the recent explosion in the Dupont Powder Works, in which thirty-five young men in the bloom of youth were ruthlessly shattered to death by the explosion, whose origin is unknown. Despite the precautions taken by increasing the number of guards around these works, the explosions continue, and the perpetrators laugh behind our backs at all our threats and efforts to locate the instigators of these outrages.

"Because of this fact, it is not disputed among officials in Washington that literally speaking a state of war exists in America today, and it is with such daily occurrences," said Miss Richards, "the sixty-fourth Congress will convene in Washington on Monday, and at the assembled session of the Senate and the House of Representatives on Tuesday the President will deliver his message—a message believed by many to be the most important and concerned with more grave problems, such as have never confronted any President since the days of Abraham Lincoln. Congress will assemble to view all these late developments, and keen interest is felt on all sides as to the ultimate settlement of these difficulties, inasmuch as the officials in the House are so divided in their viewpoints."

Outlining recent developments in Europe briefly, Miss Richards voiced her belief that there is not the slightest danger of our getting embroiled in this war, firstly because of the rapid exhaustion of men in the nations already involved, and secondly none of the belligerents want America to get in the war, realizing the fact that she is more helpful as a neutral than as an ally. "The patience of the American nation has been sorely tried. The policy of 'sink or

Masonic Lodges Will Lay Cornerstone of New Postoffice Tomorrow

Under the auspices of the Masonic fraternities of the city, the cornerstone of Plainfield's new Federal building will be laid with appropriate ceremonies at two thirty o'clock tomorrow afternoon. All plans have been completed, and it is quite probable that many State and county dignitaries will be included in the large gathering which will assemble for the purpose. Most Worshipful Grand Master E. M. Searing, of Dover, has been designated by the Masonic brethren as the official to place the stone in position. He will be escorted by the Masonic Grand Lodge officials, of whom there will be a full quota.

Former Congressman Charles Newell Fowler, of Elizabeth, who secured the original appropriation of $100,000 to defray the cost of the ground and building while he was representing the Fifth district in the House of Representatives, will be the only speaker. The ceremonies in themselves will be very brief, owing to the fact that a corner-stone banquet is to be held in the Masonic Hall tomorrow night. Documents, newspapers and other articles of a historical or sentimental value are to be placed in the receptacle which the stone encloses. Music for the occasion is to be furnished by the Dutch Arms Band. The members of the various Masonic organizations are to meet in Masonic Hall at 2 o'clock, from which place they will proceed in a body to the new postoffice site, located at East Second street and Watchung avenue. Grand Master Searing and his staff will be escorted by Trinity Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar, wearing parade uniform. The staff of the grand master will be composed of the following: Right Worshipful Theodore B. Townley, grand secretary of Trenton; Right Worshipful P. E. Thompson, of Red Bank; Right Worshipful Herbert C. Rorrick, of Newark.

At the banquet in the evening covers will be laid for 100. Assemblyman William N. Runyon, of this city, is a past worshipful master of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M. The list of invited speakers includes United States Senator James Edgar Martine, Mayor Leighton Calkins, Postmaster A. E. Hoagland and Arthur H. Osmun, of this city; Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, and former Congressman William E. Tuttle, of Westfield. An appropriate program of music will be discoursed during the evening.

While the two Plainfield blue lodges, Jerusalem, No. 26, and Anchor, No. 149, are directly in charge of the arrangements, the committee has been drafted from all the Masonic fraternities, and is composed of the following: Arthur Osmun, chairman; B. Frank Coriell, secretary; George T. Caskey, treasurer; F. L. Soper, Jr., J. M. Lewis, William N. Runyon, E. H. Bird and Samuel Hollingsworth. In addition to these there are twenty-one sub-committees, each with a separate chairman.

As will be seen by the picture, the postoffice will be a classic building of Italian renaissance design, having a colonaded front. It will be one-story high, about one hundred feet square, with splendid interior accommodations for the postal business in Plainfield. The public lobby will have a terrazzo floor, marble wainscot, cast metal screen and windows. The room set apart for the postmaster will have the usual office finish and will have every convenience.

The work room will have wood wainscot and terrazzo floors. The remaining interior finishins will be in harmony with the whole general decorative scheme. As previously stated the building will face Watchung avenue.

PLAINFIELD MEN IN NEW CONCERN

Reorganized Greenwich, Conn., Press Co., Has Ralph L. Morrow as Its Head.

JAS. M'NAMEE EDITOR

Both Former Local Men Directors in the Firm Backed by Wealthy Residents of "The Billion Dollar Town."

Negotiations that have been under way for several months at Greenwich, Conn., came to a conclusion in that place yesterday, and made Ralph Leighton Morrow, formerly city editor of the Greenwich Press Company, which publishes the leading paper in that town. A former organization was completely disposed of by the deal, and in the new company Mr. Morrow has been made president, treasurer and manager. James J. McNamee, who until two weeks ago was connected with the Plainfield Daily Press, with which he had been associated for four years, was named city editor of the new paper, and is one of the three directors and stockholders. The old corporation, bearing the same title, which has been under the management of Norman Talcott, was dissolved last Monday, and the new company was granted a charter, under the State of Connecticut laws after paying off the creditors of the old concern. The policy of the new paper, which is strongly backed financially by multi-millionaires, will be independent, and will be dedicated to community service in Greenwich, a town of 20,000 inhabitants, boasting a two billion dollar wealth.

The news of Mr. Morrow's success in his new field will be received with appreciation on the part of his many local friends. What he has accomplished in the past few months is the results of the indomitable energy of which he is possessed. His interest in the direction of Greenwich came first a year ago, when Rev. Dr. Charles F. Taylor, pastor of the leading Greenwich church, and a former Plainfielder, cabled to Morrow, who

TAXI DRIVER HAS LICENSE REVOKED

William Hall Will Not Be Allowed to Drive Autos in the Future.

William Hall, colored driver of a Plainfield taxicab, made his last trip last night when he hauled two women on a call. Judge DeMeza this morning revoked Hall's license when he was arraigned in court on a charge of driving fast, driving without a tail light and driving while under the influence of liquor.

There were two women in the car with Hall, according to the story of the arresting officer, and they were boisterous. The driver denied that he was drunk, but after hearing all the evidence Judge De Meza decided to revoke his license, and Hall will not be permitted to drive again.

ENTRIES FOR COUNTY SHOW CLOSE MONDAY

Entries for the Union County Poultry Show, to be held in the spacious Elizabeth armory, December 15 to 18 inclusive, close Monday with the show secretary, William E. Briggs, 39 Albert street, this city. An unusually attractive prize list is expected to draw a record number of entries.

W. D. FLANDERS TO WED MISS HELEN H. IRONS

Formal announcement of the engagement of Miss Helen H. Irons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Irons, of West Eighth street, to William D. Flanders, of this city, has been made following the introduction of Miss Irons to society at a reception given at the Hartridge Auditorium last week.

In honor of the event a luncheon was given at the Irons residence Wednesday, to which a number of young people were invited. Included among those who assisted were the young women who received with Miss Irons last week. The bride-elect is a graduate of the Hartridge School and Miss Master's School at Dobbs Ferry. Mr. Flanders is a grandson of the late Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, for a half century pastor of the First Baptist church.

DANCING CONTEST A FEATURE

Arrangements have been completed for a The Dansant to be given in the Park Club, tomorrow afternoon from 3:30 to 7 o'clock, under the auspices of the Unity Circle of King's Daughters. A feature of the affair will be a dancing contest, the music will be furnished by Frantzen's orchestra, of New York city. Tea and cake will be served throughout the afternoon, and the committee assures all attendants of a pleasant afternoon of entertainment.

COMMUNITY XMAS FUNDS ARE NEEDED

Treasurer Hubbell Wants More Contributions to Brighten Holiday.

DeWitt Hubbell, treasurer of the Community Christmas Committee which is hoping to make four hundred children glad, is waiting with confidence in the generosity of the Plainfield public to receive donations for the fund.

Plainfield men and women have always shown themselves glad of an opportunity to give of their means to any worthy object, and they have never shown stint where the little ones are concerned. Christmastime has always opened the hearts and purse-strings of men and women of this city, and last year at this time great numbers rejoiced to know that hundreds of little lads and lassies had a real Christmas, with good dinners, plenty of oranges and nuts, toys and picture books, and were made as happy for once as the children of the well-to-do and the rich who lived in big houses.

The parents of the poor children will not be forgotten either, for they, too, will receive useful Christmas gifts, and it is the desire of the committee that there shall not be a hungry or unhappy man, woman or child in the city of plenty during the festive season.

Contributions may be sent to Mr. Hubbell at the Plainfield Trust Company.

FACE BADLY CUT BY FALLING TROLLEY WIRE

E. J. Von Wagner, of 1116 West Seventh street, was seriously cut about the face at noon yesterday while standing at the corner of Fourth and Watchun avenues. A trolley feed wire broke while a street car was passing, and the falling wire snapped a guide wire, which struck Mr. Von Wagner in the face. The wire struck him just below the eye, but it is not believed that the eye was seriously damaged. A deep gash was cut in his cheek. Von Wagner was sent to his home.

Class No. 2, of Trinity Reformed church, enjoyed a social Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Henrick, on West Front street. Games were played and refreshments served.

JOHN COSE IS AFTER JOB AS FILE CLERK

Republican Committee Meets Monday to Frame Recommendations.

Chairman William Newcorn, of the Union County Republican Committee, has called a meeting of the executive committee for Monday morning, when recommendations for legislative jobs are to be discussed. The meeting will be held in Elizabeth. Union county will name men for three jobs, one journal clerk, one file clerk and three doorkeepers.

A fight has developed for the position of file clerk. This was held at the last session by Robert Newton Crane, the local attorney, and it was believed that he would be without opposition again this year, but it is understood that John H. Cose has announced his intention of going after the committee recommendation for Crane's job. George Johnson, who was journal clerk at the last session, is still the only aspirant for that job.

MR. AND MRS. G. H. FROST OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Frost, of Plainfield, are today celebrating their forty-eighth wedding anniversary. Mr. Frost is the well known local publisher, founder of The Engineering News, and father of the present publisher of the Courer-News, of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Frost were married December 3, 1868. Mrs. Frost was Miss Louisa Hunt, of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Frost are receiving many congratulations on the event.

MRS. H. V. LEWIS GIVES A DELIGHTFUL MUSICALE

Mrs. Howard V. Lewis, of Third place, who is soon to remove to Fitchburg, Mass., where her husband is now located in business, gave a delightful farewell musicale at her home this afternoon, the affair being arranged for about thirty intimate friends from Cranford and Plainfield.

The program was presented by Mrs. Harry Johnson, pianist and Mrs. Noel G. Evans, violinist, while Mrs. Lewis before coming to Plainfield resided at Cranford for some time.

NURSING SOLDIERS IN FRENCH HOSPITAL

The Misses Maida and Frances Hyde, of This City, Helping to Care for Wounded.

Plainfielders will be interested to learn that among those who have been helping to care for the wounded soldiers who were fighting for the Allies are the Misses Maida and Frances Hyde, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Hyde, formerly of this city. The young women have been rendering valuable service in a French hospital in Paris, and through friends word of their devotion to the cause of the Allies, and especially the French soldiers, have reached this city.

The Hyde family went abroad seven years ago, first going to Switzerland, where they remained for some time. Later they went to Montreux. While the Misses Hyde have been engaged in nursing in a French hospital, their parents, with two younger children, were in England, where the children were attending school.

HOPE C. E. HOLDING A SUCCESSFUL FAIR

A large attendance helped to make the Christian Endeavor fair at Hope chapel last night a complete success. The fair will be continued tonight.

An orchestra of four pieces furnished music for the occasion.

The committees in charge are as follows: General committee—David Wardrop chairman, Miss Mary Mortimer and Miss Eunice Eckert; fancy booth, Miss Lona Becker, Miss Mary Mortimer; apron booth, Misses Elizabeth Becker, Agnes Leighs; cake counter, Misses Bessie McMillan, Amelia Slorah, Grace Brown; tea and cocoa stand, Misses Margaret Mortimer, Beatrice Overbaugh, Eunice Eckert; novelty booth, Misses Ruth Deliahunt, Margaret Doig; candy booth, Misses Josephine Snyder, Ethel Vincent, Bessie Brodie; ice cream booth, Richard Schott, Marcus Bradford.

TRADE BOARD IN LIVELY MEETING

Dunellen Business Men Hear Many Very Inspiring Addresses.

125 ATTENDED DINNER

National Preparedness, Civic Duty, Town Boosting and Many Other Topics Are Discussed By Men Who Are Leaders In Their Lines.

The fifth annual banquet of the Dunellen Board of Trade was held last night at the Eiseman Heights Inn at New Market, one hundred and twenty-five members attending. The affair was featured by music by an orchestra, vocal solos, and addresses by a number of prominent business men.

The journey from the Borough Hall, Dunellen, to the Inn was made in autos, a special service being arranged for the occasion. The dinner began at 8 o'clock, and was prepared in the best style of Proprietor Edward Greenwald. President Joseph C. Waltno, of the Board of Trade, acted as toastmaster.

Mayor Ernest B. Latham was introduced as the man who had been twice chosen as chief executive of his municipality without opposition. He complimented the Board on the work it has done and particularly on its co-operation with the borough government. In fact so valued are its services and advice, he said, that it is practically regarded as an unofficial branch of the government. Mr Latham called attention to the fact that Dunellen had been spending much money on big public improvements and the sanitary sewerage system, which once seemed only a dream, will probably be completed before the next Board of Trade banquet. There rests on the Board of Trade a new duty, he said, which is to take up the advertising of the borough, build it up, bring more people and advance local interests in every way.

George M. La Monte, State commissioner of banking and insurance, spoke in a humorous vein at first, later emphasizing the value of the work of a board of trade or chamber of commerce in a municipality. His home borough of Bound Brook had been brought from 3,000 to 5,000 in ten years largely through the activities of the Board of Trade, he said, and the co-operation and helpfulness of the New Jersey Central Railroad. Dunellen can practically achieve any ambition which it fosters, he promised. "If we aspire to 10,000 population," said the speaker, "we can achieve it, but only if all pull together and the Board of Trade receives from the people the support which is its due."

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, who is vice president of the National Advisory Board, spoke on "Preparedness." He advocated material increase in the army and navy, declaring that the United States is a great industrial country, as is shown by the annual consumption of coal per capita, which is five tons, and is highly organized for peace, but hardly as well organized for war, which is the only sure way of keeping peace.

Dr. Saunders told that a belligerent nation had endeavored to buy the Danish West Indies so as to be within striking distance of the Panama Canal, and of reading in a German scientific paper since the war began ominous references of hostility to the Monroe Doctrine, which keeps Germany from colonizing South America.

President William G. Besler, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, read a written speech in which he dealt with railroad matters, giving many statistics in reference to Dunellen and also making a plea for a different attitude on the part of Legislatures toward the transportation interests of the country. He said that in 1907 anti-railroad legislation had started and become more and more virulent each year until the roads were harassed and business in general interfered with until to succeed at railroading was little less than a crime. He told of the necessity of railroads in national defense and approved the proposition to have a board composed of government and railroad experts to devise a system whereby the roads could be taken over by the government, as far as the transportation of soldiers and supplies is concerned, in time of war.

State Senator William E. Forance, of New Brunswick, spoke next. He is a polished and versatile orator and made many humorous local references before plunging into his address.

He was of the opinion that there had been too much legislation affecting business for a while, but called attention to the fact that the American people never drop a quetion until it is settled right. Thus with the railroads. They had gone on and on regardless of the rights of the people, and in arrogance, until the people had called a halt on their methods. This has probably resulted, he admitted, in the pendulum of legislation swinging the other way. The speaker made a plea for downright Americanism, free from all allegiance abroad.

George F. Brensinger, director of finance of Jersey City, also spoke on preparedness or rather militarism, sounding the note of caution which should go with the hysteria and alarm of fear of war. He cited cases of the liberties of peoples being overthrown by their own armies and claimed that a strong navy, moderate army and good militia are all that America needs.

The last speaker of the evening was George Bibber, the humorist of Boston and New York, who entertained with his inimitable stories.

We have with us to-day—

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

All plans have been completed by the Alumni Association for the "frivol" to be tendered the members of the senior class in the High School Auditorium tomorrow night. An entertainment will be given, and dancing will also be enjoyed.

A meeting of the senior class was held yesterday to make preparations for the part the class will take in the Christmas exercises. A committee, with Florence Neilson, as chairman, and Dickerman Williams, Alfred Seal August Allen and Clarence Eder as the other members, has been appointed to make up the "stings" and "knocks" to be doled out to the juniors. There will also be original songs by members of the class.

At the next meeting of the German Society, composed of the pupils in the advanced classes of P. H. S., the constitution committee, comprising, Gerald Linke, Helen Wirtz, Dickerman Williams, Olive Lawrence and Richmond Ritterbusch, will present the constitution and bylaws. The committee appointed to arrange for a Christmas entertainment is progressing favorably.

MAIL EARLY, URGES LOCAL POSTMASTER

Instructions to Those Who Will Send Christmas Letters or Packages.

Just before Christmas of last year the Plainfield postoffice handled 60,000 letters and 13,000 packages daily, according to a statement issued by Postmaster A. E. Hoagland today, and if users of Uncle Sam's mail expect good service they must be willing to co-operate by mailing their letters and packages early.

The statement of Mr. Hoagland contains many things but running through it is the one idea—mail early. He calls attention to the fact that Christmas stamps, whether tuberculosis seals, or other decorative expressions of the season, must be attached to the back of letters, never on the address side. All countries forbid delivery of letters with Christmas stamps on their address side but will allow them on the back. "Do not open until Christmas" may be written on all parcel post packages.

All postal cards with tinsel must be enclosed in sealed envelopes and require two cents postage. Last year 600 tinseled postcards mailed by Plainfield residents were held up in the local office because they were not enclosed and the prospective recipients waited in vain for the Yuletide greetings that had been sent them.

PERSONAL.

John Dickson and family have removed from Duer stret to Grandview avenue.

Leonce Texier and family, who have been stopping at the Hotel Kensington for the past few months, have taken up the residence on Craig place, in the house recently vacated by Joseph Haynes and family, who have moved to Emerson avenue.

Ronald Conroy, of the borough, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis in Muhlenberg Hospital, is reported as rapidly improving.

Miss Caroline Barber, who is a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital, is reported as much improved.

RECREATION NOTES

The Dunbar dance, the dressmaking class, under Miss Scarborough, and a rehearsal of "Brown of Harvard," at the Dramatic Club, will be held at the Washington School this evening.

The pianoforte classes will meet with Miss Lockwood this afternoon and tomorrow morning.

There will be a rehearsal of the pageant this afternoon and tomorrow morning at the Stillman School.

FINED $10 FOR SPEEDING.

Harry J. Miller, arraigned this morning in police court on a charge of fast and reckless driving, was fined $10 by Judge DeMeza. Miller was arrested by Lieutenant Higgins last night for exceeding the speed limit on a downtown street.

—Going to build? See Saturday' Press.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day in Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

The O. Z. Fraternity meets with Allen Frederick, of Dunellen avenue, this evening.

Mrs. Edward Herlich, of Dunellen avenue, is entertaining her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Predmore, of Barnegat.

Councilman and Mrs. Richard M. Ryan have returned from New London, Conn., where they spent ten days as the guests of their daughter, Mrs. G. Elston Lowrie, Jr.

Miss Sarah Taylor, of Lincoln avenue, is entertaining her cousin, Miss Edna Marshall, of Shamokin, Pa.

Margery Vliet, daughter of Clarence Vliet, of Lincoln avenue, is ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Julius Breyer, of Front street, is entertaining her brother, Stanley Rich, of Nashville, Tenn.

The Misses Mohan, of Dunellen avenue, are entertaining their cousin, Miss Nellie Leonard, of Oyster Bay.

Willie Taylor, of Lincoln avenue, has resigned his position with George Kuldoshes, the local plumber, to take a position in the office of a Bound Brook concern.

Marion Griggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Griggs, of North avenue, has a slight attack of scarlet fever.

John Kochen, of Front street, who has been incapacitated for the past three weeks, is able to be out again.

H. T. Murray, of Madison avenue, who was fined $20, before Recorder Campbell, Monday evening, for interfering with Officer Smalley in making an arrest, wishes to deny that he took the officer's club away from him.

Margaret Dean, of Prospect avenue, has returned to school, after a visit at Binghamton, N. Y.

UNDERGOES FIFTH OPERATION.

Edward Maier, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Maier, has been confined to the Muhlenberg Hospital since Tuesday, when he underwent an operation for mastoidites and the removal of adenoids. This makes the fifth operation that has been performed on the child for mastoidites.

Walter Penrose has accepted a position with the New Market Grain Company.

The Farters Lights Missionary Society will meet with Miss Bertha Nelson at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. John Gray has returned to her home at Trenton, following a pleasant visit here with her parents, former Freeholder and Mrs. George Bunting.

The Hallett family are moving to their recently completed residence on Lakeview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Nuis will leave for Florida on the twentieth.

Stanley Day is recovering from an attack of the grip.

POSTPONE MEETING.

The all-day sewing meeting, which the W. C. T. U was going to hold at the home of Mrs. George K. Post, yesterday, was postponed on account of Mr. Post having been taken ill with neuritis.

Mrs. Margaret Higgins attended the funeral of Mrs. Dennis Higgins, wife of D. T. Higgins, at Greenville, Jersey City, yesterday. Burial was made in the family plot, Jersey City.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The recently appointed borough sewer committee will probably hold its first joint meeting next week with the committee from Plainfield, and following the meeting the local authorities will be able to take some definite steps. G. W. Fuller has offered to draw the necessary plans for the laying of the sewer, as has Frank A. Dunham, the borough engineer. The project faced by the borough in the laying of the sewer will not be very complicated, as there will be no sewer disposal plant. The two main trunk lines will run along the south and north side of the railroad tracks and connect with Plainfield's lines at Terril road. Already the committee has received letters from bonding companies offering to bond the contractors.

The annual Christmas fair and sale for the benefit of All Saints' Episcopal church, will be held in the Fanwood firehouse tomorrow afternoon and night from 3 until 9. With the exception of the grocery booth, which will be conducted by the Young Men's class of the church, the entire affair will, as usual, be in charge of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. The majority of the things on the booths, including fancy and notion articles, canned goods, candy and baked stuff will be home-made. Between the hours of 6 and 8 a turkey supper will be served by the women.

Mrs. William S. Corey, of Park avenue, has returned from visiting friends in Northern New York State.

The semi-monthly meeting of the local Jr. O. U. A. M. was held in the Excelsior Hall lodge rooms last night.

Councilman William G. Britten, of Terril road, is entertaining his father, David Britten, of Chicago.

Two cases of scarlet fever have been reported in Scotch Plains to the Board of Health. They are on two different sides of the town, one being on Westfield avenue, and the other on Stanberry avenue. The two dwellings have been quarantined, and the Board of Health is taking every precaution possible. It will not affect the sessions of the local school at present anyway.

Mrs. Fred Clark, of Front street, is in Muhlenberg Hospital recovering from the effects of an operation performed earlier in the week.

By failing to take advantage of the opportunity offered to use Company K Armory in Plainfield to practice in, the Fanwood Rifle Club will not be able to be active during the coming winter. The weather has become so that outdoor meetings can no longer be held, and the chances are that nothing more will be done until spring.

Warrenville.

Rev. George Hauser is erecting a large barn on the land he recently purchased from Frank Cleaves.

A birthday surprise party was given at the home of Henry Williams on Monday evening, in honor of his son, Milton, among those present being, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ortman and son, Everett; Mrs. Bornmann, Misses Myrtle Cooper, Rachel Winn, Viola Hauser, Gertrude Bornmann, Lillian and Marion Williams, Owen Thorp, William and Edward Cooper, Carl and Erhardt Hauser, Bert and Irving Toms, Tom Conshay, Raymond Bornmann and Rudolph Wandorf.

J. C. Cooper and family have moved from Warrenville to 14 Willow avenue, North Plainfield.

Harry Williams has returned to his home in Morristown, after spending the week-end with his parents.

Miss Myrtle Cooper has returned from a short visit with friends in Jersey City.

Miss Bertha Steffens has been detained at home by illness.

The Misses Margaret and Sadie Nash, of Brooklyn, have returned home after a week-end visit with friends in Warrenville.

Watchung.

The Christian Endeavor meeting will be held tonight in the church. The leaders will be J. LeRoy Herrmann and Clarence B. Schmidt and the topic will be "Golden Fruits of Prayer Life." There will be special music.

The funeral services for Mrs. Charles E. Spier, who died yesterday morning, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church. Rev. Mebane Ramsay will be in charge.

George W. Winans entertained the Pleasant Word Workers at his home, Wednesday evening. In addition to the business meeting a prayer service was held.

Rev. Mebane Ramsay will have charge of the services in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church Sunday. In the morning a communion service will be held.

Miss Edith Lane, of Roselle, has been the guest of Miss Elsie Schmidt.

The friends of Joshua B. Meyers will be shocked to hear of his death, which occurred at his home in Roselle Park on Tuesday last. Mr. Meyers spent the past summer in Watchung.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

The two divisions of the physics classes were visitors at the artificial ice plant in Arlington avenue yesterday afternoon. The process of freezing ice had recently been studied in the class room, and the pupils were able to see a practical demonstration of the work.

Mr. Smith, the singing instructor, has been drilling an orchestra of ten members, which will offer selections in the Christmas exercises.

The executive committee has decided to hold the annual Christmas entertainment, Wednesday evening, December 2, in Saengerbund Hall. The playlet which was to be given has been excluded from the program, but other interesting parts have been added.

Secretary Keating in New York to people who might be interested. In addition to this several advertisements were carried in New York papers.

Those who attended last night's meeting were well satisfied with the work of the year, although they lamented the small attendance at regular meetings of the chamber. The meeting was attended by President Burns, Secretary Keating, W. S. Angleman, P. J. McDonough and C. B. Repp.

President Burns announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election when new officers were selected at the next meeting, which will be held the first Thursday night in January. An attempt was made to dissuade him from this position, and it will be continued. He expressed his appreciation of the honor of the office, but explained that his business in New York required all of his attention during the day and asked that a Plainfield business man be selected as the new president so that he will be on the job both day and night.

A resolution was adopted urging the government to pay railroads a fair price for carrying the mails and parcels post. This is the result of agitation on the part of railroads against the Moon bill, which will come up for final passage at the coming session of Congress.

The chamber committee named to co-operate with a citizens' committee in arranging for the entertainment and reception of members of the New Jersey Letter Carriers' Association, who meet here May 30, made a report on the progress of preliminary work. The citizens' committee is meeting once each week in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce. Members of the finance committee are called for tonight.

It was announced that the foreign trade committee had made arrangements for an address to be made by a representative of the National City Bank to be delivered to the export men of Plainfield manufacturing plants at an early date. This address will be on the importance of foreign trade to the future business of the United States.

C. B. Repp was named as an official delegate to the annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce, which will be held in Washington in February.

Referendums being circulated by the national body for the purpose of determining the opinion of American business men on Wilson's preparedness policy and the government of foreign trade matters by a non-political body of business men were referred to a committee with power to cast the vote of the Plainfield chamber.

DECRIES CONSPIRACIES

seize' has gone on continuously with all disregard of threats. Great Britain has wantonly interfered with American shipping rights, and though such an act in 1812 would cause immediate war, she has calmly told the world that her desperate circumstances and suspicions of all on the sea have compelled her to disregard all international law; in fact, the attitude of the British people toward us is that they are fighting our battle for us. On the other hand, Germany has aggravated us repeatedly by her ruthless taking of human life on the sea."

Transferring her talk to the latest theatre of war in the Balkans, Miss Richards gave a pathetic picture of the need in that section. She particularly appealed to the women present to contribute to the American Red Cross in their wonderful work among the Montenegrins, who are at present the most devastated of people in Europe today.

Speaking of the Ford peace ship, which will sail from Hoboken tomorrow, Miss Richards told of a recent address she attended in Washington, at which time she had the opportunity to observe the man at close range. She was impressed by his features, and said that his heart and soul were in the project, and he should have the support of every American. Those who think the mission is a grandstand advertisement, Miss Richards said, are entirely wide of the mark, for the man has the heart of the philanthropist.

Concluding her talk Miss Richards dwelt for a short time on the question of preparedness, and expressed herself in the same position with Speaker Clarke—namely a rational and reasonable preparedness program. The remainder of her time was devoted to a resume of the Western trip she took last summer, when she made a tour of the entire Western coast of the United States, visiting the two fairs.

FEAST OF LIGHTS IN JEWISH HOMES

Elaborate Ceremonies Mark the Observance of Annual Hebrew Festival.

With the lighting last evening of the first light on the Menona, or Hanukkah lamp, the feast of lights of the Jewish year 5676 began. Each day in every home during the octave of the festival an additional light will be lighted on the eight-branched lamp.

This custom, from which the occasion has received the name of feast of lights, recalls the national struggle under the Maccabees to free Palestine from the Syrian yoke and the temple from the profane action it sustained under Antiochus Epiphanes. At the final overthrow of the Syrians the tempte at Jerusalem was purified and its re-dedication with solemn rites gave the festival its other name of Hanukkah (dedication).

The week of rejoicing is especially a home festival. But in the synagogues also the lights on the menard lamp are kindled one by one each evening. In some of the synagogues the services will be marked by special music.

In conformity with the ancient customs of observing the festival, one of the most beautiful features of the celebration is participated in by the children. In reality it is a children's holiday, and the children of the religious schools celebrate it with elaborate festivities. In the homes songs will accompany the kindling of the lights and the ritualistic service of the synagogue will be enhanced by the recital of selected Psalms.

SOMERSET SCHOOL BOARD TO HOLD A CONFERENCE

Announcement has been made that a meeting of the Somerset County School Board Association will be held in the Court House, Somerville, Saturday, December 11. The members of every Board of Education in the county will attend the meeting, and important matters pertaining to different educational systems will be taken up. The election of officers will also be held at that time. George W. Hope, district clerk of the Raritan Board of Education, is the present head of the association.

County Superintendent H. C. Kreis has announced that teachers of the seventh and eighth grade classes of all the county schools will meet to discuss the teaching of history and geography in the Washington School, at Bound Brook, Saturday. Professor Krebs will be the lecturer on this occasion.

NO ONE AUTHORIZED TO BEG FOR THE CHILDREN'S HOME

Householders are warned not to give anything to people who may come to the door and ask for subscriptions or supplies for the Children's Home on Westervelt avenue. Panhandlers who claim they are soliciting for this worthy institution have been busy in at least two sections of the city, and the managers have asked the newspapers to warn against them. Two children have been soliciting in the name of the Home in the vicinity of Second and Richmond streets, and on East Front street, and a man has been trying the same game on Compton avenue. If they call at any other house in the city, the managers of the Home hope that the police will be notified.

—If there's a new owner in charge of the little store down the street, the chances are that a "Business Opportunity" advertisement has been "at work."

NATIONAL DEFENSE MEETING PLANNED

Dr. Saunders and Henry A. Wise Wood to Speak Here on December 15.

"National Preparedness" will be discussed at a meeting to be held in Columbus Auditorium, Wednesday evening, December 15, the speakers being Dr. William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, and Henry A. Wise Wood, both of whom are members of Secretary Daniel's Naval Advisory Board. The meeting will be under the auspices of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, and will be made interesting and educational as the speakers will be prepared to answer all questions bearing on the subject.

National preparedness has been an absorbing topic at Columbus Club, and when it was proposed that a meeting be held to hear the subject discussed first hand it was enthusiastically received by the members. The committee in charge of the meeting comprise Andrew E. Kenney, chairman; A. Arthur Cannon, John J. Carty, Peter McDonough, George J. Tobin, Francis J. Blatz, John J. McCaffrey, Thomas J. Hughes, M. D. O'Keefe, T. A. Meaney and Joseph F. O'Keefe. Many prominent citizens of Plainfield have been invited to co-operate with the committee and an invitation will be extended to the many civic and fraternal organizations throughout the city and borough.

LOCAL MEN IN NEW CONCERN

was then at Panama, after a brief stay in South America, asking him to tell what was wrong with the Greenwich Press, a paper in which he had just then obtained control. Morrow appeared on the scene early in December, 1914, and started at once to build up an advertising business. For years the newspaper had sunk money, and within three months Morrow put it on a paying basis. In five months he had it on a 6 per cent basis. It was at this point that the stockholders dismissed the former manager and placed Morrow in control of their affairs. Bankruptcy proceedings would have been the easiest step, but Morrow determined that every cridtor should get dollar for dollar on accumulated debts over and above the assets, amounting to several thousands of dollars. By working fifteen hours a day, acting as manager, editor, chief reporter, book-keeper and a few other things he struggled along paying cash for everything purchased, and broke even.

Shortly after the former Plainfield newspaper man took hold of things in Greenwich the then leading paper the News, formed a combination with the Graphic, and the merger, backed by the Republican and Democratic machines, was placed in charge of Nelson Barton, formerly of the Elizabeth Times. The latter concern was sanguine of putting the Press "out of business" in two months, but its expectation fell short. Today the Press is carrying as much advertising as the News and Graphic combined, and is printing double the volume of local news. Morrow has introduced in each issue original ideas which have taken the town by storm and put the paper in first place of public favor, whereas before he took hold it was much opposed. He tripled the advertising business and also the job printing.

Greenwich has fifty-seven multi-millionaires, and most of them read the Press religiously. A number of them learned of Mr. Morrow's long hours of work at a nominal salary to stave off bankruptcy, and were among the first to give him backing for the purpose of providing the town with an up-to-date and progressive paper. This accounts for the fact that the old Greenwich Press went out of existance on Monday after paying dollar for dollar to the creditors. In the new corporation Mr. Morrow will act as editor and manager, and Mr. McNamee will be city editor. These two, with Harry McKnight, conceded to be the best printer in that part of Connecticut, will be the directers. Mr. McKnight will also be the secretary, and former Attorney General John H. Light will act as counsel.

EDWARD BROMBERG WILL SING RUSSIAN FOLK SONGS

The Monday Afternoon Club announces an interesting entertainment for Monday afternoon at the parish house of the Congregational church, when Edward Bromberg, the well-known basso, who is a native of Russia, will appear at a concert illustrating the famous folk songs of his country.

The club's program of study deals chiefly with Russia and the coming affair should prove of unusual interest. Mr. Bromberg's recital will be accompanied by explanatory remarks. The concert will be open to the public.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MRS. J. R. HEATON HELD

The funeral of Mrs. Louise Fowler Heaton, wife of John R. Heaton, was held at her late home, 954 West Fouth street, last night. The Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, pastor of the Monroe Avenue Methodist church, was the officiating clergyman and the house was filled with a gathering of relatives, friends and neighbors. During the service, Dr. Randolph read a hymn, "Shepherd, Show Me How to Go," a great favorite with Mrs. Heaton and one which she recited the day before she died. A large number of floral tributes, many of them being beautiful set pieces, were proffered by relatives and friends as an evidence of their sympathy and loss. Burial was made today in the cemetery at Modena, Ulster county, New York, Ulster county being Mrs. Heaton's native place.

CELEBRATION OF FEAST.

Arrangements have been completed for a celebration of the feast of Hanukkah, which will be given Sunday evening in the Y. M. H. A. Hall by the local Hebrew school. An interesting sketch will be presented by the children dealing with the various tendencies in Jewish life. Prizes will be awarded and a musical program rendered. Recitations and poems delivered by the pupils will be a feature of the occasion. The speaker of the evening will be Rabbin S. Golstein, of New York. The proceeds will be used to maintain the school.

MEMORIAL SERVICE DEC. 9.

The date for the memorial service to be held in honor of Booker T. Washington and to be given under the auspices of the local colored Ministers' Union, has been changed from Friday to Thursday, December 9. It will be held in the Washington School auditorium.

LOCAL TABS LOSE SERIES AT ELIZABETH

About seventy-five members and friends of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society took a special trolley to Elizabeth, last night, for their annual bowling took a special trolley to Elizabeth Tabs' home. Elizabeth won the two games that were rolled.

After the bowling, dancing and singing were enjoyed, and refreshments were served. A return match will be rolled here in January, when the new alleys in the local Tabs clubhouse will be completed.

Many beautifuly colored slides will be used in the boys' meting, Sunday afternoon, illustrating the life of Jesus. "That Sweet Story of Old" will be the subject of the address, and all boys over 12, whether members or not, are invited.

The cup for the photography competition offered by the State Boys Camp at Lake Wawayanda has just been awarded to Parker Newell, of this city. Three of his pictures were exceptionally fine, showing the campus from the landing of the ferry the cabin and headquarters and a group of all the leaders and boys.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Mary Pickford, the darling of the motion picture fans, will be seen again at the U. S. Astor Theatre this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow in her greatest success, "Rags," which comes direct from the Strand Theatre, New York. Mary Pickford has in this subject just the type of character that suits her talents. She is a little ragged tomboy of the mountains. In the supporting cast will be seen that brilliant young screen star, Marshall Neilan, who in the past few Pickford films, has played opposite the little heroine. Mr. Neilan is a splendid actor, and makes a very fine foil for Little Mary. There is also abundant scenic beauty. All together the subject is one of the finest in which Miss Pickford has ever appeared.

Never to Over-Estimate a Quality

AND

Never to Over-State the Price

This is the high steel wall around this business. It MUST be, and a wall that nothing shall break down.

For some people this fixed fact takes a certain kind of interest out of advertising. They prefer the drum and the brass band, and the old way of printing—"Usual value, $25, sale price $13.98," or "was $5, now $1.98."

All storekeepers after the Civil War, when prices were lowered, got into the habit, as a flock of sheep gets into the mud by following a foolish leader; and some seem to think that the old war is not over yet, as they mark up the goods to war-time prices and mark them down for sensational sales.

If there is anything else in this Store but a straight road we do not know it.

Open evenings.

BRIDGE WHIST IN AID OF ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH

A delightful bridge whist party was held at the home of Mrs. William Wallace Coriell on Belvidere avenue, on Wednesday afternoon, the object of which was to raise money for the emergency fund of St. Stephen's Episcopal church. One hundred society women played and winners at the various tables were awarded handsome silk work bags donated by the women. A feature of the afternoon was a doll table in charge of Mrs. S. B. Joost and Mrs. J. M. Charles, and from the sale of which over $100 was netted. The total receipts for the afternoon were $200.

During the afternoon tea was served by Mrs. Otto Ahrens and Mrs. Henry Mesier, wife of the rector of the church, pouring. Assisting Mrs. W. W. Coriell in receiving and later in serving tea in the dining room were the following women: Mrs. W. L. Lockwood, Mrs. A. G. Hagerdorn Miss Coleman and Mrs. E. E. Tremonger. Mrs. James F. Fielder, wife of Governor Fielder, was one of the guests during the afternoon. The entire affair was arranged by Mrs. Coriell.

JEWISH FLAG DAY TO BE OBSERVED SUNDAY

Jewish Flag Day will be celebrated throughout the United States, Sunday, at which time, wherever there are inhabitants local Jewish committees will collect funds for the relief of stricken Palestine, which at present is isolated from the entire world and which looks to America for aid.

The Jewish National Fund has undertaken the task of redeeming the soil of Palestine for the Jews willing to cultivate it and live on it and its effort is to get all the land possible in Palestine which will be permanent and inalienable property of the Jewish people. The capital of the Jewish National Fund at the end of June, 1914, has reached the sum over 5,000,000 francs, about 73% of which were invested in Palestine.

CLASS GAMES AT N. P. H. S.

Basketball League Schedule Will Be Inaugurated Next Thursday.

SENIORS NOT ENTERED

Team From Grades Will Take Place of Fourth Year Classmen, Who Will Meet Winner of Tournament at the Close of Season.

The schedule for the inter-class basketball league of North Plainfield High School has been completed. Twelve games are carded, each team facing each opponent twice during the season. The rivalry between the different classes is intense, and a close race will probably ensue.

The present senior class, which has won the title for the past three years, will not be represented, as most of the players who played formerly are now on the school team. The grades have been substituted in their place, which should equalize matters considerably.

The winner of the league will challenge the fourth year classmen for the undisputed title of the school.

The schedule follows:

Dec. 9—Grades vs. Freshmen.
Dec. 15—Sophomores vs. Juniors.
Dec. 17—Grades vs. Sophomores.
Jan. 3—Grades vs. Juniors.
Jan. 10—Grades vs. Juniors.
Jan. 14—Freshmen vs. Sophomores.
Jan. 18—Freshmen vs. Grades.
Jan. 20—Sophomores vs. Juniors.
Jan. 24—Grades vs. Sophomores.
Feb. 1—Freshmen vs. Juniors.
Feb. 18—Grades vs. Juniors.
Feb. 25—Freshmen vs. Sophomores.

VIKINGS PLAY HOLY CROSS TOMORROW

Longstreet, Famous Bayonne Back, Will Be One of the Stars With Visitors.

The Holy Cross footballers will oppose their old rivals, the Vikings, of Bayonne, on Cricket Field tomorrow afternoon, and a hot battle is promised, for there never has been any love lost between these two aggregations, and this year both teams are setting a faster pace than ever before.

The visitors will have with them tomorrow most of their old players, including Longstreet, who two years ago made himself famous here by completing a record long-distance forward pass. The Vikings defeated the Franklins, of Newark, this year by a score of 9 to 7, while the locals lost to the Franklins by a score of 6 to 0, but the Plainfielders have been improving steadily since Election Day, when they played the Franklins, and they are confident of annexing a victory tomorrow.

Ed Stalling will have his charges out for a final practice tonight, and he expects to work in some new plays for the game tomorrow. The game will be called promptly at 3:15, and, as previously announced by the Holy Cross management, tickets procured for Thanksgiving's game will be honored tomorrow.

The teams will line up as follows:

Vikings.	Holy Cross.
Noonan	Brown

LOG CABIN GUN CLUB TO HOLD SHOOT TOMORROW

Log Cabin Gun Club members will face their traps out Woodland avenue tomorrow, when the first shoot for the Point Cup will take place. The competition, a 25-bird season point event, will start at 3 o'clock, and a 15-bird walk around for a cup will begin at 4 o'clock.

MAY MANAGE N. Y. FEDS.

Harry Sinclair, chairman of the Federal League's financial board and one of the chief backers of the circuit, announced yesterday that the backers of the New York Federal League would endeavor to obtain Hughey Jennings to manage the team that the Gilmore circuit proposes to have in New York. According to Sinclair, the contract which Hughey Jennings has with the Detroit American League club as manager does not hold him for 1916.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD A DISTRICT GATHERING

Twenty Candidates Initiated by Trenton Degree Team.

Noah Dove Encampment, No. 28, I. O. F., conducted a district meeting its quarters in the Babcock building last night, at which a class initiation was a feature. Twenty candidates from this city, Trenton Perth Amboy and Elizabeth were ushered into the mysteries of the order, the work being done by the degree team from the Trenton Encampment. There were twenty-five of the Trenton visitors in all, and they made the trip to this city by auto bus. Chief Patriarch William Harper, of Noah Dove Encampment, was the presiding officer during the evening with the exception of the time while the degree was being conferred. At the conclusion of the work there was a short session of speechmaking, after which adjournment was taken to the banquet hall, where supper was served under the auspices of the committee, composed of Stephen Schlief, Elmrod Horton and Peter Doeringer. With visiting delegations from Perth Amboy, Elizabeth and Newark beside that of Trenton, the attendance at the gathering numbered over 60. The Plainfielders present included Joseph Kingston, who is the oldest member of Noah Dove Encampment, having been enrolled at second meeting.

PREPARES COMFORT KITS.

The Prince of Wales Society for the relief of wounded soldiers and sailors, met in the parish house of the Grace church yesterday morning and prepared sixty-five comfort kits for the soldiers which will be sent abroad. Up-to-date the the New Jersey branch has shipped 90,000 articles.

SENIOR CLASS DANCE.

The senior class of Muhlenberg Hospital held an informal social in the Nurse's Home last night. Dancing and musical selections were enjoyed and refreshments were served.

TRENTON ODD FELLOWS ALMOST LOSE THEIR BUS

Twenty-five members of the Order of Odd Fellows, who came to this city from Trenton last night by auto bus, came near having to stay over night or go home by train. While their machine, which is owned by the Worcester Transit Company, of Trenton, was standing on Madison avenue just south of front street, at 11:30, it caught fire under the body from some unknown cause. The flames were discovered by Patrolman Muir, who turned in an alarm from box No. 12.

The fire department was quickly on the scene, and one tank of chemicals was sufficient to put out the blaze. The damage was placed at $50. After a half hour's adjusting, the driver of the vehicle found that his motor worked all right, and the Odd Fellows were able to go home the way they came.

GERMANS TAKE MORE SERBS.

Berlin, Dec. 3 (via wireless).—German war statement: "Balkan theatre—Victorious engagements were fought yesterday with isolated Serb detachments southwest of Mitrovitza, more than 1,200 Serbians were captured. Western theatre—Two monitors of the enemy shelled Westende without effect. French lookout post, at Lombaertzyde, near Nieuport, were surprised and several prisoners were taken. Eastern theatre—German troops of the army of Gen. Von Linsingen attacked Russian detachments near Podezarevieze on the Styr River."

TO PRESENT "THE TRUTH."

One of the features to be presented at the annual charity ball to be given under the auspices of the Y. M. H. A., January 1, in Columbus Auditorium, will be the production of a sketch entitled, "The Truth," written by A. H. Richards, of this city. The characters will be impersonated by the following people: John D. Levitt, Gustav Lang, Miss Dorothy Augenblick, Max Rosenthal and Arthur H. Richards. Rehearsals have been held weekly and indications point to a most successful presentation.

ALONZO WILLIAMS IS FOUND GUILTY

Convict Murderer Sentenced to Die the Week Beginning January 10.

In the Somerset County Court at Somerville this afternoon, Supreme Court Justice Charles H. Parker imposed the death sentence on Alonzo Williams, a negro, found guilty of murder in the first degree for the killing of Daniel Wooley, in the State convict camp at Rocky Hill on May 7 last.

The electrocution was picked for the week beginning January 10. William V. Steele, representing the defendant, made a motion for a new trial, and presented affidavits signed by twelve people, of whom ten were jurymen who had found Williams guilty.

When the vote was taken in the jury room, the twelve men added a plea for mercy, and also decided that in the event of Justice Parker's refusal to grant mercy, that they add their plea for a new trial. Justice Parker refused to accept the mercy plea or allow a new trial, stating that the Court of Errors and Appeals had made it decisive as to what constituted first degree murder, and there was no alternative.

BRIDGE OVER THE RARITAN IS CONDEMNED AS UNSAFE

Bound Brook, Dec. 3.—The bridge over the Raritan River, between here and South Bound Brook, has been condemned as extremely unsafe by E. R. Collins & Son, of Westfield who were called in by the Borough Council of South Bound Brook to see if the bridge was strong enough to stand up under a windshield.

E. R. Collins, with Joshua Doughty, county engineer of Somerset county, and Louis A. Deitz, a bridge expert of New York, made a careful inspection of the structure and found that through neglect and lack of repair it had become a menace to traffic. The bridge was built in 1875. It is of steel and is 406 feet long. A copy of the engineer's report was sent to the Somerset County Board of Freeholders.

ERRORS COURT ARISES AND CONCLUDES NOVEMBER TERM

Trenton, Dec. 3.—The Court of Errors and Appeals arose for the November term at the conclusion of the opening session yesterday. The last case argued was an appeal of Clement DeR. Leonard, a lawyer in Jersey City, from a verdict of $300 obtained against him in the Hudson Circuit by Anthony La Porta in an action for slander.

The suit was the outcome of remarks made by Leonard in the recorder's room at the City Hall, Hoboken. It was alleged that La Porta told Leonard he had disgraced himself as a member of the bar and charged that both he and a client had committed perjury.

The court reconvened in the afternoon for a conference on cases submitted during the term.

MRS. FRANK WILL SING AT SCOTTISH CONCERT

Among the artists who will appear at the annual concert to be given at Columbus Auditorium, Friday night December 10, under the auspices of Clan Mackenzie, Order Scottish Clans, will be Mrs. Edith Hallett Frank, soprano soloist at the First Baptist church. Mrs. Frank, before coming to this city, was the soloist at the Washington Avenue Baptist church, New York, and she has been heard on many occasions in concert work throughout the Metropolitan district as well as elsewhere. She will be remembered by many who heard her in a concert given by the clan two years ago.

Mrs. Wright, of the New York Rescue Mission, will be the speaker at the Rescue Mission tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Woman's Relief Corps will hold a clam chowder supper this evening in Reform Hall on Second street.

TRY PLAINFIELD FIRST FOR YOUR CHRISTMAS PURCHASES

There is Nothing in the Line of Novelties That You Cannot Buy From the Plainfield Merchants

BUSINESS MENS ASSOCIATION OF PLAINFIELD — RELIABILITY, QUALITY, SERVICE, VALUE — MEMBER

Look for this sign in the window. You are dealing with a reliable merchant where you see this sign.

It is inexplicable why some people think they must go out of town to shop during the holiday season. There are myriads of reasons why you should do your Christmas shopping at home. Here are some powerful ones:

You know with whom you are dealing.

If you are not suited you can make a ready exchange.

You will save time, car fare and shoe leather.

And you can buy just as cheaply, if not cheaper.

If you did your Christmas shopping out of town in former years don't make another mistake this year.

Which of the stores can serve you most usefully today—that is one thing you may learn from reading today's advertisements.

Sometimes a store will decide to perform a real "stunt" in value-giving on some special line. You may be sure that in all such instances the ad-readers will have earliest knowledge of the details.

Buying for the home cannot be done wisely and economically unless the "buyer" is a student of the advertisements—no more than a store may be made prosperous without advertising.

The housewife is the "official buyer" for the home—in almost all families. She is, consequently, the official "ad reader" for the home.

The shopper may often reduce the VALUE-GETTING POWER of her dollar to fifty cents—simply through neglecting to read the ads, or to know values—and by buying at "the nearest place."

Did you decide, not long ago, that you could not buy some particular thing because the price was a little too high? See if the store advertisements bring to you today any interesting "news" on this question.

FAVOR PLAN TO PUT PRISONERS TO WORK

A Resolution to That Effect is Adopted at Charity Conference in Elizabeth.

The Union county conference on "Public Money and Public Care" took place at the Courthouse, Elizabeth, yesterday, in two general meetings. The Circuit Court room was decorated with flags and a large audience attended both sessions. Assemblyman A. N. Pierson introduced the first meeting on the subject, "What Will Our Taxes Buy for the Poor?" Henry C. Wright, first deputy commissioner of charities of New York city, made the principal address. His chief point was that the point of view had changed in charity work, and that the public charities, like private charities, had begun to realize that the dependents and criminals were not men who had fallen through "cussedness," but that almost all of them were subject to defects of heredity or environment. To help such cases we must get at the cause and remove that. If it could not be removed, these people should be treated more as patients than as offenders.

Mayor Mravlag, of Elizabeth, opened the discussion by laying particular emphasis on the sins which society committed in allowing the poor to live in such an environment that the defects of heredity were not overcome, but were indeed increased.

Dr. W. H. Murray, of this city, spoke of the splendid work which the sanatorium at Bonnie Burn is doing, but urged that the freeholders increase the equipment so that preventive work could be done, especially in regard to children who came from tubercular homes. Such work would save the county money eventually. George G. Teller, chairman of the committee of freeholders, which has in charge the dispensing of the county's money to widowed women with dependent children, gave a very interesting account of this work. Mr. Teller stated that since the act went into operation in October, 1913, $27,000 had been spent. The county is now spending $1,700 a month. Assemblyman William N Runyon summed up the whole discussion in an interesting and impressive way. Overseers of the poor and officials from all over the county were present, as well as persons interested in private charity, and Mr. Runyon said that he felt the whole work of helping the poor in their homes would be improved on account of this conference.

The conference reconvened at 8 o'clock in the evening to consider the subject of putting offenders to work. Judge James C. Connolly presided and made interesting remarks. The chief speaker was E. R. Cass, of the Prison Association, New York, who had made a study of the Union county jail. He said that all that could be said of it was that it was reasonably clean. It belonged to the old type of jails, however, and in the matter of ventilation and sanitation and all modern ideas in jail construction, it is greatly to be deplored. The amount of air space for instance, allowed each prisoner in a cell is only about half that which is required by law in New York city for men who sleep in lodging houses.

Mr. Cass said that the present jail should not be enlarged, but that new ground and new buildings should be secured outside of the city, where the prisoners might be employed in farm work and possibly in crushing stone. Warden Hughson seconded the remarks of Mr. Cass, and showed that he was doing all he could with the present plant to secure better conditions. Judge Abe J. David gave a telling account of the exact process of bringing a prisoner to justice, so-called. The expense of such a proceeding amazed the meeting and Judge David showed that it was the community that paid the bill and had to take care of the prisoner's family besides.

William Bedlington, secretary of the Building Trades Council, told the meeting that organized labor would not oppose the prisoners being put to work if the products of their manufacture were not put in competition with the products of honest labor. The result of the meeting was that Judge David proposed a resolution which was amended by Samuel T. Carter, Jr., of this city, to the effect that a committee of five be appointed by the chairman to take up the matter with the Charity Organization and to inform the Board of Freeholders of this county that it was the sentiment of this conference that the offenders should be put to work in such a way and at such places as might be for the best without placing the products of their labor in competition with the products of outside labor. Judge Connolly appointed on this committee Judge David, Samuel T. Carter, Jr., Plainfield; Mr. Day, president of the Charity Organization Society, Elizabeth; Dr. Frank Moore, superintendent of State Reformatory and Mr. William Bedlington.

GERMANS ARE TO BE SENTENCED TOMORROW

New York, Dec. 3.—Dr. Karl Buenz and the three other defendants in the Hamburg-American case against whom a verdict of guilty was brought in by the jury late Thursday night were arraigned before Judge Howe in the U. S. District Court this morning. William Rand, Jr., of counsel for the defense, said that he and his associates had been up most of the night. He asked then for an adjournment until tomorrow before any further proceedings were carried out by the court. Judge Howe granted a postponement until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and continued the bail of each one of the four men in $5,000.

RECEPTION GIVEN IN HONOR OF NEWLYWEDS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Palmer, of East Second street, gave a reception at their home last night in honor of their son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Palmer, who have just returned from a wedding trip. The couple was married two weeks ago in Brooklyn, the bride being Miss Elsie Cuff, of that city.

There were about fifty guests at the reception, including relatives and friends from New York, Brooklyn and this city. The program of the evening was an informal one during which the bride and bridegroom received congratulations and supper was served. The newlyweds will go to housekeeping in this city in the spring. Mr. Palmer is an expert accountant with headquarters in New York city.

LOWER RATES ARE ASKED.

Washington, Dec. 3.—In order to meet the water competition through the Panama Canal in the inter-mountain districts of the west in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Nevada, and water and rail traffic to those destinations via Galveston, representatives of trans-continental railroads today petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for a further reduction in class C freight rates from eastern points to Pacific coast terminals. At present the rates are fixed on a percentage basis of the aggregate of intermediate rates.

—It's a safe guess that the first real estate transaction made in town today was influenced and brought about through "the classified."

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Starting Monday, December 6, the management of Proctor's Theatre has arranged to introduce Triangle plays to the Plainfield public, and the entire week has been set aside as feature photoplay week. On Monday and Tuesday these Triangle plays will be presented: Douglas Fairbanks in "The Lamb" and Charles Murray in "A Game Old Knight." On Wednesday and Thursday, the world-famous spectacle, "The Battle Cry of Peace" will be shown, coming direct from the Vitagraph Theatre, New York. On Friday and Saturday, Triangle plays will again be offered and will include Dustin Farnum in "The Iron Strain," and Raymond Hitchcock in "My Valet." "The Lamb," in which Douglas Fairbanks is starred, was produced by David W. Griffiths, the same genius who produced the "Birth of a Nation." On Monday and Tuesday, in conjunction with "The Lamb," a Triangle comedy will be shown, entitled, "A Game O' Knight," featuring Charles Murray the famous comedian and musical comedy star. On Friday and Saturday Dustin Farnum will be featured in "The Iron Strain," a vehicle particularly suited to Mr. Farnum's talents. It depicts the rugged life in the Alaskan gold fields, and is replete with thrills and hair-raising situations. Raymond Hitchcock is now appearing in photoplays, and he will appear in conjunction with "The Iron Strain," and will be seen in a veritable riot of fun, entitled, "My Valet." He has for a co-star, Mabel Normand, the greatest comedienne of the screen. These pictures are to be presented both afternoon and evening at the general admission price.

RED CROSS SEALS NOW ON SALE IN PLAINFIELD

None of Proceeds Will Be Used for War Relief Purposes.

None of the proceeds from the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals, which were placed in the hands of the local school children today, and will be put on general sale tomorrow for the benefit of the anti-tuberculosis movement, will be used for any war relief purposes, according to a statement by Ernest P. Bicknell, national director of the American Red Cross.

Mr. Bicknell says: "The American Red Cross is deeply appreciative of the sympathetic interest which has inspired the suggestion from various parts of the United States that a certain percentage of the Red Cross Seal Sales Fund, which has been used for the last seven years exclusively for the prevention and treatment of tuberculosis in the United States, be expended this year to aid the European war sufferers. While the Red Cross is desirous of securing contributions which will increase this war relief fund, we do not feel justified in adopting any policy which will tend to cripple the tuberculosis work in this country, dependent as it is for support to so large an extent on the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals. The announcement that a percentage of the Red Cross Seal money would go to our war relief fund might possibly increase the sale; but, in our opinion, the final results would show a distinct loss in that part of the proceeds going for tuberculosis work.

"At the present time there are over 1,200 anti-tuberculosis societies distributed through nearly every state in the Union and even in Porto Rico the Canal Zone and far off Hawaii, which are dependent almost entirely upon the receipts from the Red Cross Seal sale for their work during the year 1916. The people of the United States must support this local war against tuberculosis, which annually kills 200,000 people, and at the present time is leaving a trail of a million wounded."

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

THE PLAINFIELD CASE.

It is true, as stated in the brief of counsel for a number of municipalities, that the agreement under which Newark receives 5 per cent. of the gross receipts of the trolley company would be vitiated should the Court of Errors sustain the Supreme Court's finding that Plainfield is not entitled to have its municipal offices lighted free of charge by the Public Service.

Newark, therefore, in case the Plainfield decision should be to the effect that concessions given by public utilities to municipalities in return for the privileges of using the streets were voided by the passage of the utility act, would lose the right to collect the 5 per cent. from the trolley company directly, but it would still receive the money through State tax channels.

The city would lose one advantage though, by such a change, for now the payment of the cash is provided for by contract, while the franchise tax would be collected under statute which is subject to repeal at any time the Legislature may so desire.

There are many other issues involved in the litigation that are of more importance than the 5 per cent feature, and they concern not only Newark, but nearly every municipality served in any way by a public utility. Counsel for the municipalities might amend their brief and strengthen it.—Newark News.

3 PAIR OF SILK STOCKINGS.

One of the most noteworthy productions of Newark's present theatrical season will occur at the Sam S. Shubert Theatre, beginning next Monday night. Winthrop Ames the million dollar theatrical producer will present for the first time in Newark his international comedy success, "A Pair of Silk Stockings." This unique and daring but nevertheless charming farce was the great sensation of Mr. Ames' Little Theatre in New York city, all last season. In this delightful little playhouse, it was the pet fad of New York's smartest set—the so-called "400"—who gurgled with delight over its brilliant dialogue, gasped at its daring bedroom scene, repeated its scintillating epigrams and adored its smart gowns. All these manifold attractions are to be offered Newark and local patrons all next week, as the play has not been changed one whit since it ran for over one year in London and an entire season at Mr. Ames' theatre in New York. An exceptionally fine cast, headed by the English comedian, Sam Sothern, a member of the noted theatrical family of that name, and a younger brother of Edward H. Sothern, will be seen.

IMPORTANCE OF BOY SCOUTS.

When the Boy Scout movement first started in Plainfield few people had any idea of the magnitude that it would reach in a very few years. There are nearly a score of patrols under the jurisdiction of the local council, and many of them have been developed to a high state of efficiency. At first no one associated them with the work of preparedness, although their motto is "Be Prepared." But the European war put the matter in an entirely different light, and now the movement is being taken seriously by a large number of men throughout the country, who are assisting the boys in every way that they can.

In all of the countries now at war, even including Turkey, the juvenile organization has proven of great service to the regular army. The boys play no part as members of the military force, but their training has been such that they are able in many cases to do the work of men at home, and to aid in the important hospital work which is constantly demanding more helpers.

The Newark Eagle calls attention to the fact that the great value of the Boy Scout in this country is to give direction, discipline and method to the activities of American boys and teach them interests in things outside of their local environments. In the Boy Scout organization we now perceive an admirable preparatory school for training and bringing up youths who will be fitted to man the defenses of the nation. This idea is rapidly growing, and it is well believed that the Boy Scout organization, under the great stimulus of national preparedness, will soon thousands and to hundreds of thousands. This will be very greatly for the moral and physical betterment of American boyhood and manhood and the building up of the best material for a national militia.

But a still greater benefit, as the Eagle points out, lies in the fact that there are enrolled in the scouts boys of all races and nationalities and the organization will do better what the public schools are now doing, welding the different races into American citizenship, training the foreign-born youth in American ideas and imparting to them a love of the country and its institutions.

Contracts have been awarded for the building of a glass partition around the back of the Assembly chamber at Trenton, immediately behind the last row of seats occupied by the legislators. Just what the bosses will do, who have heretofore used that space in which to stand and give their henchmen orders, is now problematical. Judging from the way in which Dal and Davy have been able to twist most of the majority around their fingers before the session has even opened, it is probable that they will be given the privilege of the floor, so that they can keep in personal touch with those whom they have so carefully trained to do their bidding. The erection of the partition will tend to make the legislators give a little more attention to business, and will also make things much quieter in the house.

For two years or more the Public Service Corporation has been trying to educate the traveling public as to the necessity for taking precautions. The "safety first" campaign has been conducted by men employed to do that work, and that it tends to greatly reduce the number of accidents is not disputed. Because the subject is timely and to give our readers some idea as to what is being done to educate the general public on this subject, we have asked A. J. VanBrunt, the director of Safety Education of the Public Service Corporation, to prepare the Saturday editorial for this week, and he will present some very interesting information.

Do not confuse the Community Christmas movement with the tree celebration that was held in the City Park last year on Christmas eve. The money which is given for the general movement is not used in any way toward the expense of conducting the tree ceremonies. They were managed by the Plainfield Sunday-school superintendents, who paid the bill out of their own pocket, and made that celebration their good will offering to the community. Every cent which goes to the Community Christmas committee is used for making the day, and subsequent days, happier for those whose lot is hard.

There is soon to be a glorious chance for some of the politicians who think they know how to run a newspaper better than men trained in the work. The Newark Star will be sold at auction, and some of the men with fat bank rolls can try their hand at the job that everyone knows how to do more satisfactorily than does the editor who has made a life study for the work.

And while you are thinking of doing things early for Christmas, bear in mind that the clerks in the post-office will be twice as happy if the packages are mailed earlier and marked "not to be opened until Christmas," than they will be if everyone waits until the last minute to get things off.

Plainfield police might take a tip from Long Branch. Last Saturday night thirteen auto drivers were arrested in that city for traffic law violations.

Isn't it nearly time to start another campaign for the abolition of the useless county tax boards?

Have YOU sent your contribution to the Community Christmas fund yet? If not, do it NOW.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Exophthalmic Goitre

EXOPHTHALMIC goitre (exophthalmos means prominent or staring eyeballs) is peculiar in this respect: The general disturbance of health is usually much more manifest than the local enlargement of the thyroid gland, if indeed the gland is appreciably enlarged at all. Many cases of exophthalmic goitre are not diagnosed properly because the goitre itself escapes observation, the nervous and circulatory symptoms overshadowing the thyroid gland disturbance.

As we have already explained in a previous article, the characteristic symptoms of exophthalmic goitre are: (1) Protruding or prominent or staring, frightened-looking eyes, with widely opened eyelids which uncover the entire iris or colored part of the eye; (2) a fine tremor of the fingers and hands; (3) a very rapid pulse rate with frequent or more or less continuous palpitation or excitability of the heart; (4) great nervousness and restlessness. In short, the victim of exophthalmic goitre suffers severely from general symptoms and little or none from the enlargement of the thyroid gland. All of these symptoms are due to the excessive secretion of thyroid substance by the diseased gland.

In the treatment of a case of exophthalmic goitre the one indispensable agent is REST. In severe cases this means absolute rest in bed, a sort of S. Weir Mitchell rest cure. It also means avoidance of every kind of mental worry or annoyance, pleasant surroundings, gentle care and kindly management. Not that patients cannot or do not recover in time without such care, but that the over-activity of the thyroid gland is best controlled by such means. The course of exophthalmic goitre is a matter of months or years, under the best of treatment. Its onset is gradual, as a rule; and so it gradually disappears.

When rest and suitable medical treatment fail to control the disease after a reasonable trial, or when the case is severe from the start, then the question of surgical removal of a portion of the thyroid gland arises. As this is a major operation requiring great skill and judgment we would emphasize the importance of relying upon the advice of the physician who has observed and studied the individual case, in conjunction with the advice of the surgeon whom he suggests. One of the most unfortunate errors patients with exophthalmic goitre make is running off to a so-called "goitre specialist" and accepting his advice without the wise counsel of the family doctor. As already explained, the general condition, and not the condition of the thyroid gland, must be the guide in determining what is the best line of treatment.

Answer—We have. Send along your stamped, addressed envelope for the monograph. It also tells what to do for frostbite.

Meal Poultice Best

We have been advised by a neighbor to keep a jar of antiphlogistine in the house to apply for burns, colds, sore throat and the like. Do you approve of the remedy?

Answer—We can see no virtues in it. We believe in the old-fashioned flaxseed meal poultice, when a poultice is needed.

LIGHTNING

LIGHTNING is a natural phenomenon for which man is not responsible and over which he has little control. It is swift and terrible to look at, like that other great natural phenomenon, T. Roosevelt, and is a fluid which travels from place to place producing terrific disturbances. Mr. Roosevelt is a solid, but otherwise in the resultant business lightning has very little on him.

Lightning inhabits the sky and, like an aeroplane, is harmless as long as it stays there. It is only when it descends to earth that it becomes fatal to man. A man who takes hold of an adult lightning bolt by the tail may look a trifle better afterwards, than the man who tries to fry a stick of dynamite, but he is of no more use to society. The man who can survive the kick of a jagged streak of lightning would be hardy enough to vote the Republican ticket in Mississippi again and again.

Lightning is composed of millions of volts of electricity, complicated with amperes and ohms. It travels 175,000 miles a second and yet the longest distance a lightning bolt usually travels is about a mile. Thus it has plenty of time on its way to travel down a chimney, rip up the shingles, shuffle the fireplace bricks, rearrange the plumbing, change the lock on the front door, tie the kitchen poker into a bow knot, hang a pair of shoes on the chandelier, singe the cat, call up central on the telephone, pull a dozen teeth out of the guest-room comb and blondine the cook's hair. Lightning is very eccentric in ways like this, principally because it has so much spare time on its hands.

No one has ever succeeded in training lightning to do anything useful. Benjamin Franklin once caught a bottle full with a kite, wire and a key, but owing to the poor canning facilities of the times was unable to preserve it. Enough electricity is wasted in an ordinary storm to wipe out the gas bills of the world for six months, but until some means of turning it on and off with a button can be invented, it will continue to be an uncovered resource.

It is only when it descends to earth that it becomes fatal to man

Lightning kills about one person out of 10,000,000 each year. A good many people worry a great deal about it on this account, though lightning does not kill as many people as bath tubs do. Still, a great many people are terribly afraid of bath tubs, too.

Views Of The Press

"The Most Popular Sin"

A NEW YORK CITY pastor sought the opinion of a number of people of not as to what is the "most popular sin." At an evening service he read the letters he had received from the various diagnosticians, says the United Presbyterian. Here are a few: Dr. Anna Shaw, the suffrage leader: "The sin of selfishness. Because every crime that is committed is done with a selfish desire to gratify some emotion or desire. Take away from sin all thought of selfish interest and you would eliminate sin." George W. Wickersham, former attorney general: "Selfishness. It shows itself in the constantly increasing love of personal ease and comfort and corresponding unwillingness to do anything which interferes with one's own habits and luxuries." James K. Hackett, star actor: "Malicious gossip. Because of the many known lives that have been ruined by it." Fred Smith, Y. M. C. A. leader: "The cheap cry for cheap fun. We are mad with it." Fleming H. Revell, publisher: "Not dancing, not the theater, not intemperance, not licentiousness, not avarice, but it is the failure to recognize God, because this sin breeds all others." John A. Sleicher, editor of Leslie's: "Envy. Because everyone indulges in it. It is a common weakness." William C. Freeman: "Living beyond one's income. Because it causes unrest, unhappiness, and has a tendency to develop deception, one of the worst of all sins." Henry Heide: "All sin is destructive because sin is an offense against God and consequently is a violation of all that is good. Some forms of sin, being more deadly, will lead to perdition more quickly than others." The answers to the question as to what remedy should be applied, and by what means, varied as in the diagnosis. Commonly the church was recognized as the most effective medium through which to attempt a cure. There was no going to the root of the matter from a Biblical or catechetical point of view.—Emporia Gazette.

Suppressing A London Paper

THE Globe, of London, which has been put out of business, at least temporarily, by the British authorities under the powers of the censorship, is owned by Hildebrand Harmsworth, the youngest brother of Lord Northcliffe; and for years it has been noted for its extreme partisanship. There are three other Harmsworth brothers—all Liberals. Two of them are, or have been, Liberal members of Parliament; while the third, Lord Rothemere, owns a string of Liberal newspapers. Lord Northcliffe, the eldest of the five brothers, is the owner of three powerful daily newspapers in London—the Times, the Mail and the Evening News, not to mention the widely circulated Weekly Despatch. There is not much doubt but that it is his darling ambition to smash up the present British government; and brother Hildebrand, in trying to help him along in the enterprise, has got himself into trouble. The summary suppression in England of a daily newspaper by executive order is a very startling incident in the development of the war.—Manitoba Free Press.

People's Legal Friend

BY E. R. BRANSON

Reno-Itis

Q. (1) What are the laws concerning divorce cases, in South Dakota? How long is a person required to live in the county in order to sue for a divorce? (2) May one of the parties leave and work in a different state and still claim citizenship? (3) May the parties correspond with each other? (4) Does one party have a right to receive money from the other while the divorce suit is going on?

A. (1) and (2). A divorce cannot be granted unless the plaintiff has been a bona fide resident of the State of South Dakota for at least six months next preceding the commencement of the suit. If the defendant is a non-resident, a divorce cannot be granted unless the plaintiff has been a bona fide resident of South Dakota for one year next preceding, except where personal service has been made upon the defendant within the state, or the summons with a copy of the complaint has been served upon him or her personally outside the state, after order of publication has been duly made. (3) and (4). A divorce will be denied if there has been collusion between the parties. Whether such collusion exists in fact must depend upon the evidence. While a suit for divorce is pending, the court may, in its discretion, require the husband to pay as alimony any money necessary to enable the wife to support herself and her children or to prosecute or defend the action.

Over The Border But Not Free

Q. My wife and I were residents of Tennessee, and during such time a lawsuit was brought against us. We have since removed to Arkansas. Some of our furniture was attached. May we claim exemption under the law of Arkansas as to this furniture? A. No.

To Collect A Note

Q. A note is sent to a bank for collection, but there are no instructions as to the method to be employed by the bank in collecting it. How should the bank proceed?

A. The bank should protest it and give notice of dishonor.

Is A Bicycle A Vehicle?

Q. Kindly inform me whether a bicycle is regarded, in law, as a vehicle?

A. In many respects it is regarded as a vehicle and is put in the same category with carriages and other conveyances. This is especially true with reference to the use of the highways. In some other respects, however, a bicycle is not considered a vehicle. For example, it has been held not to be a vehicle, within the meaning of a policy of insurance, and it has been treated differently from other vehicles with respect to ordinances forbidding its use on sidewalks.

The Strongest Grounds For Divorce

Q. Please tell me whether the conduct or behavior of a husband or wife is ever taken into consideration, in a divorce proceeding, in awarding alimony.

A. It certainly is.

A Debt May Be Paid To Agent

Q. If one owes a debt and pays the creditor's agent, will this be sufficient?

A. Yes. Payment should be made, however, to a duly authorized agent.

Padlocking His Words

Q. Is it possible to protect, by means of a copyright, the oral delivery of sermons? A. Yes.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

Pepper Talks

Capacity

Your Capacity is the stored-up Power that you have available for your Everyday Doing as well as for the various Emergencies of your Life. Also, Capacity is the Valuation chalked up as your Real Assets which you and you alone know as your own.

Capacity is Possibility.

The very knowledge that you possess Capacity is in itself an inspiration most extraordinary. It enables you to tread your way bravely and under cover of Smiles with Sunshine streaming into every corner of your Heart. For you to know that you have Capacity to go through a piece of work or to the accomplishment of a certain Purpose or Ideal is to you more than Wealth.

Capacity is Possibility.

Many a man has turned away from his employ many a worker whose Capacity he took no time to investigate, but which later had to be reckoned with in Competition. When the late Marshall Field discovered unusual Capacity in a worker, he recognized it and later joined it to his business in the shape of a Partner.

Capacity is Possibility.

Study yourself as you would a masterful piece of machinery, for you are the most wonderful Handiwork that has ever been put together. Each day should find you more familiar with your Abilities and Capacity than the day before. Your latent and undiscovered or unrealized Capacity may now be holding you in Mediocrity. Ask yourself if this is true. Find out what your Capacity suggests and you can be about what you determine to be.

Current Poetry

The Old Town

The city lights are gold and red and strung in garlands overhead.
They whirl and dance and turn and spread till night's like day, Till all the wild that's part of you comes leaping from the heart of you
And swings you all a-quiver down
the flashing way:
But oh, the little old lights, not garlanded nor gold lights,
One by one they petaled out, the pleasant lights you knew,
As up and down the pavement's hem the old man limped a-lighting them,
The old lamps in the old town when the sleepy day was through.

The city streets are straight and wide, and hurrying on every side
The people crowd and cross and ride and elbow past,
Till down the pavement's noise and beat your feet keep time to swifter feet,
The pulses of the city as it
hastens fast:
But oh, the little town streets, the rambling up and down streets,
All the twists and turns are just the way they used to be:
You'd think the very dead you knew might round a lane and smile at you
And nod a careless welcome in the old way cheerily.

The city's gay and wild and kind,
and full of joy for you to find,
And all its ways that cross and wind are blithe each one,
It's like a sweetheart beckoning:
and, laughing at the reckoning,
You spring to follow after till your youthtime's done:
But glad of you and sad of you, the little wistful lad of you
Leaps up to greet the old place when you're grown too old to roam!
It's like your mother calling you—whatever is befalling you
The little old town's waiting till you're ready to come home.

PANAMA-PACIFIC FAIR WILL CLOSE TOMORROW

San Francisco, Dec. 3.—The great Panama-Pacific Exposition comes to an end at midnight tomorrow night after a long and highly successful run. Eighteen millions of people have passed through the gates into the fair since it opened in February. These millions represent all classes of people from all sections of the world. The notables of the country have come and have been honored. The war has interfered with the fullest plans in this regard, for not only has President Wilson been tied to his office by the events of the times, but many thousands from Europe, including the great figures of our day, have been prevented by the war events from coming to the Fair.

The Exposition has eclipsed the three previous expositions held in the United States—at Philadelphia in 1876, at Chicago in 1893 and at St. Louis in 1904—by making a record as a financial success. It has been officially predicted that the Exposition will complete its run tomorrow night with a profit of from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.

The ceremonies of closing the Exposition have been arranged, and at midnight tomorrow night the lights will be shut off, officially ending the Fair. Tomorrow will be "Auld Lang Syne Day" on the Exposition grounds. President Wilson has written a toast containing an expression on the achievement of the Fair. The farewell exercises will be held in the various State and foreign buildings during the day, the representatives of all the big cities of this section will be present at the formal snapping off of the lights.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

AT THE COLUMBIA.

Two new one-act burlesques and an unusually attractive vaudeville bill constitute the offering at the Columbia Theatre the week beginning Monday afternoon, December 6. The presenting company is favorably known to patrons of that house as the New Star and Garter Show, and its annual weekly engagements are looked forward to with unusual interest. The first part is called "At Saratoga Springs," and humorously portrays incidents connected with the race track and the cosmopolitan hotel life at the famous spa. The second act is called "A Night in India," with harem in the palace of the rajah. The opportunities for a beautiful display of scenery and costumes furnished by the locale of both of these pieces are said to have been fully taken advantage of, resulting, it is claimed, in a furnishment hitherto unequalled on the stage of the Columbia. Preceding the second act, there is a vaudeville program that starts with a reproduction of the famous canvas called "The Great Deluge," with living models representing the painted figures, and with rain, wind and lightning effects that are described as extremely realistic. Another pretentious specialty is called the Aeroplane Girl, in a miniature air craft makes a detour of the auditorium. Other acts are Wolfe and Lee, vocalists, and Anderson and Tallman, in burlesques of tragedies. Those who will appear in the principal characters of the one-act skits are Don M. Clark, Bert Rose, James Coughlin, Margaret Lee, Jacquelin Tallman, Sherry Ward, Mae Delisle, Margie Martin and Edith LeFlar, and there is the usual chorus of lively girls.

NOSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH

Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

Ah! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid. —Adv.

TO DEVOTE SUNDAY TO PUBLIC HEALTH

Tuberculosis Week Will End With Religious Observance, December 12.

Tuberculosis week in Plainfield will end Sunday, December 12, when all churches in the city and other religious and semi-religious bodies will devote at least a part of their services to public health work. The day will be known over the entire United States as Tuberculosis Sunday.

Tuberculosis Sunday is an undenominational and non-sectarian movement. It has in past years, and will this year, reach Jew and Gentile, Protestant and Catholic, and all possible religious groups within these organizations. It has received the endorsement of leading church dignitaries of almost every creed and denomination, and the elasticity of the celebration of the day is emphasized by the fact that those worshipping on Saturday are to observe December 11, instead of 12.

But few, if any, special sermons are to be preached in this city on that day, but the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield is urging that a brief talk in connection with some service, a discussion before a young people's society, or some other special group, an oral or printed announcement be made on the day appointed and its members have received assurance that this program will be carried out.

MOBILIZING FORCES FOR BIG CAMPAIGN

State Endeavorers Will Strive for Large Increase in Membership.

The Christian Endeavor organizations throughout the State are mobilizing their forces for the big "Campaign for Millions," as outlined in Dr. Clark's message at Chicago, and which has had the enthusiastic indorsement of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union. The preliminary guns of the campaign were fired at the recent State executive committee meeting, held in Newark. State President John T. Sproull, of Arlington, has introduced a very systematic schedule, setting forth each county's share of the various goals to be attained. Copies of this schedule will be issued to all the societies of the State, accompanied by a letter from President Sproull, in which he will urge every society to take up this splendid campaign.

Since the State C. E. convention at Elizabeth, two active Young People's organizations of that city have adopted the Christian Endeavor pledge, thereby becoming a Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. One of these organizations is connected with the old First Presbyterian church, and the other with the East Baptist church. In addition to these, numerous other C. E. societies have already been organized throughout the State, giving the movement a very healthy and encouraging outlook at a period so early in the season.

Hunterdon county has plans under way for converting the county executive committee in to a "Flying Squadron," for the purpose of awakening and strengthening the work, particularly in the sections of the county where access is difficult. At a recent convention, one society was forced to travel nineteen miles, while another motored twenty-eight miles by auto truck in order to be represented. It was impossible for many others to come at all, and it is these that the squadron expects to reach during the season.

Benjamin H. Bugbee, of Trenton, heads the State finance committee for 1915-1916. Mr. Bugbee and his committee are at work on the details of the budget in order that the completed document may be presented to the State executive committee at its next session to be held January 17, 1916, at the Newark Y. M. C. A.

TO REORGANIZE COMMERCE.

New York, Dec. 3.—When the National Association of Manufacturers meets here next Monday, in conference with exporters, importers and foreign commissioners, it is expected that international commerce will undergo reorganization. For three days next week the International Trade Conference will be held under the auspices of the American manufacturers. Virtually every large manufacturing concern in this country will be represented, and many of their executives have consented to speak. A dozen foreign countries are sending representatives, including South American manufacturers, Chinese and Japanese firms, and various European houses. The main value of the coming conference is the opportunity afforded every manufacturer to put forth his own particular problem under the present abnormal conditions, and to reap the benefit of the experience of others. Many of the most competent authorities on international commercial relations will address the sessions of the conference.

E-lecturettes

A series of eight articles describing the development of electricity to the present day, prepared for the ordinary layman to read. The week from November 29 to December 4 is being featured as Electrical Prosperity Week from one end of the country to the other, and the articles are printed in the Daily Press in order to give our readers, young and old, a splendid home course in electricity.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN.

No. 7.

The Dawn of America's Electrical Genius.

One of the distinguished figures in early American history is Benjamin Franklin. Of all the great men whose lives are linked with the development of electricity, except perhaps Edison, Franklin is best known to the average schoolboy. It was Franklin who obtained sparks from a wet kite during a thunderstorm—an experiment that inspired the invention of the lightning rod. As a writer, philosopher and scientist Franklin occupies a unique place in American history. His career and achievements as a diplomatist and statesman are not less impressive.

Born in Boston in 1706, Franklin was the fifteenth of a family of seventeen. He died in 1790. A a boy he worked in his father's tallow chandlery, later becoming an apprentice to his brother, James, who was a printer of no little reputation, and who established one of the earliest newspapers in the United States.

Franklin's family intended him for the ministry, but their hopes were soon dashed against his love for his printing trade, which he mastered very early in life. Owing to a disagreement with his brother, Franklin ran away to sea. Reaching New York, he could obtain no work, so he journeyed to Philadelphia, where he arrived penniless in 1723.

Franklin was a good worker and soon obtained employment at his trade from Samuel Keimer. Six years later he gained control over the Pennsylvania Gazette, which Keimer started. In 1730 he married miss Deborah Read, the daughter of the man with whom he lodged when he first arrived in Philadelphia.

The dignified and clever manner in which Franklin conducted the publication soon gained for him many friends and a position of prominence in the colonies.

While on a visit to Boston in 1746 Franklin saw Dr. Spence, a scientist recently arrived from Scotland, perform a number of electrical experiments. He became deeply interested in electricity and experimented with several tubes under the direction of Peter Collinson, of London. Franklin had an idea that electricity was not created by friction and that lightning was an electrical phenomenon.

In a letter to Collinson in 1749 Franklin outlined his theories. He said:

"To determine the question whether the clouds that contain lightning are electrified or not I would propose an experiment to be tried where it may be done conveniently. On the top of some high tower or steeple place a kind of sentry box big enough to contain a man and an electrical stand.

"From the middle of the stand let an iron rod rise and pass, bending, out of the door and then upright twenty or thirty feet, pointing very sharp at the end. If the electrical stand be kept clean and dry a man standing on it when such clouds are passing low might be electrified and afford sparks, the rod drawing the fire to him from a cloud."

In June, 1752, Franklin decided to test his ideas by the aid of a kite. Assisted by his son, the only person who knew of the experiments, Franklin constructed a kite by fastening together two cross stocks to a silken handkerchief. To the upright stick he affixed an iron point. The string was made of hemp with the exception of the lower end, which was of silk. Where the hempen string terminated Franklin placed a key.

Taking their places under a shed father and son raised the kite. A thundercloud passed over it, but no signs of electricity appeared. Franklin had given up hope and was about to pull down his kite when he observed the loose fibers of his string move toward an upright position.

Franklin pressed his knuckle against the key and received a strong shock. When the string became thoroughly wet electricity became abundant, and repeated sparks were drawn from the key. A vial was charged and all the other experiments made which are usually performed with electricity.

The demonstration of the lightning theory was made in France a month before Franklin made his successful experiments in Philadelphia, although Franklin had not heard of it.

Thousands of houses are now protected from lightning through Franklin's ideas. Lightning rods offer protection when they have good metallic connection to the earth at a depth where the ground is permanently moist.

Cupid Watched the Race Jealously.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Daphne Turned Into a Laurel Tree.

"I WISH we could have a Greek story tonight, daddy," said Evelyn.

"All right," daddy agreed. "There was once a beautiful Greek boy, Apollo, who was god of music. He was also very skillful with the use of bows and arrows, and one day when he saw Cupid, the little god of love, playing with his quiver he was so jealous that he cried, 'What have you to do with my weapons, you saucy boy?' Now, Venus, Cupid's mother, heard this and was very angry. 'Your arrows may strike all things, Apollo, but Cupid's shall strike you!' she threatened him. So she told Cupid to take two arrows, one to cause love and the other to escape it. One was gold and sharp pointed and one was lead and dull tipped. With the lead dart Cupid struck Daphne, the girl Apollo loved, and with the gold dart he shot Apollo right through the heart. So that ever afterward Apollo was even more in love with Daphne, while she, beautiful wood nymph, hated the thought of love.

"She was the daughter of a river god, and she delighted in woodland sports and hunting. Many beautiful Greek boys loved her, but she wished only to be free to live in the beautiful woods and go where she pleased. With the gold dart in his heart Apollo loved her all the time. He saw her in river mists and in starshine and in the woodland dells, and every time he followed her she only ran from him and tried to hide. Swift as the wind, she always escaped him, and the young god who was able to do such magnificent deeds for others was quite unable to help himself now.

"'Wait, oh, beautiful Daphne!' he would call after her, fleeing from him. 'Jupiter is my father, and I am no clown, but lord of Delphos. I also know the past and the future, and I am the god of medicine. But, alas, I suffer an illness that no balm can heal!'

"But Daphne always fled from him before he had finished pleading, and the farther she fled the more she charmed him.

"One day Apollo grew very impatient to find his love thrown away. So he just chased Daphne—chased her till her beautiful hair unbound and streamed loose behind her and her garments blew back in the wind. Cupid watched the race jealously as Apollo on the wings of love and Daphne on the wings of fear sped through the woodland. When the nymph felt Apollo's breath in her hair she cried to her father, the river god, to save her, and just as Apollo was going to put his arms around her her strength failed, her body became bark, her arms graceful branches, her hair beautiful tender leaves and her face a tree top, while her toes struck into the ground like rootlets, and she became a little laurel tree that trembled when Apollo touched it. So he made the laurel leaves the sign of all victory and always wore a sprig on his quiver."

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

The Sinister Tyler Accuses John S... of a Grave Crime.

"Excuse me, Mr. Jaynes, may I have a private word with you?" Tyler stood in the office door with a bunch of papers in his hand.

"Come in, Tyler. What can I do for you?" Jaynes wheeled around on his office chair and waved his hand at a seat.

Tyler seated himself and spread his papers out on the table.

"Look here! There is a cash shortage of three hundred dollars," he blurted, without any beating about the bush. Jaynes gave a low whistle and seized the papers and began examining them.

"What's your theory?" he began, fixing a keen look on Tyler's face.

"It is a very serious matter to mention anyone's name in connection with such a thing, but it seems reasonable to suppose that it must be someone who knows the safe combination." Jaynes nodded. "You know how hard up Sutner has been all the fall——"

"That has nothing to do with it," interrupted Jaynes. "A man may be hard pressed and honest. Sutner seems to be making a great effort to pay his honest debts."

"Oh, certainly; and I am not making any accusation, of course. I merely wished to say that I heard him say he would sell his soul for three hundred dollars. Then, too, I saw his wife come to the office in a very expensive silk dress a few weeks ago; just before she was taken sick, in fact."

Jaynes frowned. "I do not like that. I thought they were living in the most careful way to get square with the world."

"Of course his wife's sickness has heaped up expense heavier than ever," insinuated the cashier.

Jaynes drummed on the table with his fingers.

"Have you gone over the books to see if they have been tampered with?" Jaynes rose to his feet and began pacing the room.

"It would take an expert to tell that for a certainty, but I found two or three suspicious places."

Jaynes opened the office door and called:

"Send Sutner to me at once, will you?" and resumed his march up and down the office.

Nothing more was said till the door opened and Sutner stepped in.

"You wished to speak with me?" he asked looking from one to the other.

"Yes; sit down." Jaynes motioned to a chair.

"I have a very painful matter to take up with you, Mr. Sutner. Mr. Tyler has just informed me that there is a shortage of three hundred dollars in the accounts." Jaynes was watching Sutner very closely and he noticed that he turned very pale.

"Of course there are only yourself and Tyler here who have the safe combination. That fact taken in connection with the knowledge of your debts makes me feel that I must go into this case very thoroughly."

The room was swimming before John's eyes. Jaynes's voice seemed to be coming from a long distance away. Suddenly it ceased and he realized that he was expected to say something in his own defence.

"Mr. Jaynes," he began. His voice sounded as if it came from another part of the room. "I know nothing of this. My books are all right. The person who has done this is trying to lay it at my door."

"If you have taken this money because of your financial straits, it will be by far the wisest couse to confess all and plead for mercy. In that case I should not prosecute." Jaynes's voice was low and kind.

"Mr. Jaynes, I repeat, I know nothing of this matter." Sutner rose and left the room.

Household Hints

BAKING

Chocolate Sponge Cake—One-half cupful butter melted with section of chocolate, two cupfuls brown sugar, two eggs well beaten, one-half cupful sour milk, one teaspoon soda, two cups flour, one teaspoon vanilla and lastly one cupful of boiling water.

Quick Muffins—One and one-half cups flour, one cup sweet milk, one heaping teaspoon butter, one tablespoon sugar, two teaspoons baking powder. Mix sugar and shortening to a cream, add milk, then flour with baking powder sifted into it. Beat well, heat gem irons, grease and fill nearly full. Bake twenty minutes.

Filled Cookies—One egg, one cupful sugar, one-half cupful butter, one-half cupful milk, one teaspoon vanilla extract, one teaspoon baking soda, two teaspoons baking powder, three and one-half cupfuls flour, one-half teaspoon salt. For filling: One cupful chopped raisins, one tablespoon flour, one-half cupful sugar, one-half cupful water, one-half cupful chopped walnut meats. For cookies: Cream butter and sugar, add salt, egg well beaten, milk, vanilla and flour sifted with baking powder and soda. Mix and turn out on floured baking board. Roll very thin and cut out with cookie cutter. Spread one-half of cookies with filling, then place remaining cookies on top and press edges together. Bake in moderately hot oven fifteen minutes. For filling: Mix sugar and flour in saucepan, add raisins, nuts and water, stir and cook until thick. Cool before using.

Dried Apple Pudding—One cupful dried apples put through a food chopper, two-thirds cupful raisins also put through a food chopper. Cook in saucepan until apples are tender, adding water as necessary. When apples are tender add one cup of sugar, and the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Put all in buttered baking dish and bake until slightly brown. For sauce: One-half pint of milk, the yolks of the eggs, one-third cup of sugar, one teaspoon vanilla and a pinch of soda. Cook in saucepan until slightly thickened. The soda will prevent the custard from curdling.

Baked Custard—Scald quart of rich milk, beat four egg yolks with four tablespoons sugar and pinch salt, beat whites, add to yolks, pour on scalding milk, pour into baking dish, set same in pan of hot water, then bake very slowly, watching carefully. These can be made in cups or one big bowl.

Bran Bread—Bran, two cups; white flour, one cup; molasses, one-half cup; soda, one small teaspoon; baking powder, one teaspoon; salt, one large teaspoon; sweet milk, one cup; seedless raisins cut in two, one-half cup. Bake one hour in a moderate oven.

Graham Muffins—One cup graham flour, one-half cup white flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half tablespoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon molasses, one tablespoon butter, one egg, one and one-third cups sweet milk. Sift white flour and baking powder, add graham flour, salt, sugar, molasses, butter, egg well beaten and milk. Stir well and bake in hot, greased gem pans about twenty minutes.

THE TABLE

Chile Concarne—One pound hamburg steak floured and fried very brown in butter and lard. Into this put three cloves of garlic. Have cooked one pint of Mexican chile beans, one quart tomatoes. Put all together in kettle, salt; use Mexican chile peppers or red peppers to suit taste; cook slowly one hour. One can of red kidney beans may be used if the Mexican beans cannot be obtained. Dry rice is usually served with this.

PENSIONS ARE SOUGHT BY PLAINFIELD WIDOWS

Thirty-two petitions for "widowed mothers' pensions will be heard by Judge Connolly in the Court of Common Pleas next Monday, beginning at 10 o'clock. The petitions have been investigated by the State Board of Children's Guardians, and the applicants have been notified to appear in court.

According to the law, the amount of the pension depends upon the number of children under the age of sixteen years dependent upon such a mother. A maximum of $9 a month is allowed for a widow with one child and $3 a month for each additional child coming within the age limit.

Among those from Plainfield and the number of children follows: Maud Woods, three; Mary A. Smith, Augusta Krog, one; Lottie Parson, four; Emily E. Randolph, four.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.—Adv.

GERMANS SENT TO ATLANTA PRISON

Heads of Hamburg-American Line Found Guilty of Conspiracy.

MUST SERVE 1½ YEARS

Dr. Karl Buenz One of Those Convicted—U. S. Asks Recall of German Military and Naval Attaches for Improper Activities.

New York, Dec. 4.—Judge Howe, in the U. S. District Court, this morning sentenced Dr. Karl Buenz, George Koetter and Adolph Hachmeister each to one and one half years in the Federal prison at Atlanta. They were convicted of a violation of the laws of the United States in connection with false manifests and clearances for ships engaged in coaling and provisioning German cruisers. Joseph Poeppinhaus, who was merely a supercargo, was given one year and a day sentence in the Federal prison at Atlanta. None of the defendants are to pay the cost of prosecution and no fines were assessed, except in the case of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company itself, which had also been indicted. The Hamburg-American line was fined one dollar. In fining the company, Judge Howe said that the less odor in the case the better. Bail in $5,000 each was continued and the customary formality connected with the arrangement for an appeal was then attended to.

U. S. Asks Recall of German Attaches

Washington, Dec. 4.—Secretary Lansing yesterday issued the following statement:

"On account of what this government considers improper activities in military and naval matters, this government has requested the immediate recall of Capt. Boy-Ed, the German naval attache, and Capt. Von Papen, the German military attache, as they are no longer acceptable to this government.' Mr. Lansing, Secretary of State, made the announcement following a conference with Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador Safe conduct for the attaches across the seas to Germany is assured by the United States. It is understood that Count Von Bernstorff informed Mr. Lansing of the readiness of his government to recall the two members of its embassy staff. Both officers are now in New York, and they probably will leave the United States within a few days.

Germans Take Malaria.

Amsterdam, Dec. 4.—The Germans on the sector of the eastern front in the Pripet marshes are suffering severely from malaria. Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's army in the vicinity of Riga is being strongly reinforced. Recently 60,000 troops were transported from Koenigsberg in East Prussia to Tufilitm in the rear of the German line, attacking the Russians defending Riga.

British Admit Defeat.

London, Dec. 4.—The British War Office in an official announcement confirms the news already given out at Constantinople of a British reverse in Mesopotamia. The statement admits that the British, heavily outnumbered, retired from Otesiphon and that their closses were 4,567.

STOLE ARTICLES WHILE FAMILY WAS MOVING

Frederick Frachtenberg reported to the police yesterday afternoon that someone had stolen some household articles out of a house on Liberty street, in which he was moving. He moved a load of furniture in the house early in the morning and went after another one. When he returned three gas globes, some dishes and a lace curtain had been taken. The police are investigating.

CHARLES A. REED IS FIFTY-EIGHT TODAY

Corporation Counsel is Quietly Observing Anniversary of His Birthday.

In addition to receiving acknowledgements from his family and other relatives, Corporation Counsel Charles Arthur Reed, is today being congratulated by his many friends on the fifty-eighth anniversary of his birth. The former State Senator has been accepting all the good wishes in his usual affable manner and his appearance indicates that he will have many "happy returns of the day." Outside of the personal touch at home, he is holding no celebration of the event.

Although Mr. Reed at the present time is one of the foremost members of the New Jersey bar, and has been identified with the public affairs of Plainfield and North Plainfield for more than two decades, he is not a native of this State. He was born at Fort Wayne, Ind., December 4, 1857, and after being educated in the public schools, entered Rutgers College at New Brunswick, in the class of 1878. He lived on a farm near Somerville from 1866 to 1882, when he was admitted to the bar of New Jersey. He was appointed a special examiner in the United States Pension Bureau in 1883 and served as such until July, 1885. He was president for many years of the Somerset County Bar Association and was one of the first trustees of the New Jersey State Bar Association.

In 1895, Mr. Reed ran for Assembly on the Republican ticket in Somerset county, and North Plainfield gave him one of the largest majorities ever received by a candidate from that borough, the exact figures being 587. One year later the entire force of the opposition was directed against him as the nominee for the State Senate, but his plurality in the county was 1,390. Again in 1899 he demonstrated his popularity when he was re-elected to the Senate by a plurality of 1,007 over his Democratic opponent, former speaker, now Supreme Court Justice James J. Bergen. He was president of the Senate in 1899, and discharged his duties in an able, dignified and impartial manner, making a record for himself which had not been surpassed by any of his predecessors.

Senator Reed's law practice has been unusually extensive, although his office has always been maintained in this city. He was associated for a long time with former Judge William A. Coddington, under the firm name of Reed & Coddington. The firm was dissolved a few years ago, to permit Mr. Reed to undertake a trip to Japan and other European countries in the interests of large American concerns which retained him as special representative. He was in charge of North Plainfield's legal affairs from 1888 until 1910. Three years ago he was appointed corporation counsel for Plainfield. Shortly afterward he formed a partnership with Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., the latter being numbered among Union county's most progressive followers or Blackstone. Mr. Hetfield was named as assistant corporation counsel and the city has profited by the combination of legal experts. Mr. Reed is a member of several local clubs and lodges and is affiliated with organizations of various kinds throughout the State. His home at the present time is on Woodland avenue.

NAGLE TAKES OVER ZELLER DRUG STORE

Forecloses on $4,666 Mortgage Held Against Store and Fixtures.

C. M. Nagle last night foreclosed a chattel mortgage held on the drug store of Frederick Zeller at 332 West Front street and this morning is in full possession of the property. Mr. Nagle sold the drug store and fixtures to Zeller about two years ago.

The amount of the chattel mortgage on which a foreclosure was taken was $4,666. Because of financial difficulties, Mr. Zeller was unable to meet this. Action was taken with full knowledge and consent of creditors of the druggist, who held a meeting in New York this week. Other claims against the store, exclusive of the mortgage, amount to approximately $2,900, making a total liability of about $7,000. Attorney George W. V. Moy, former mayor of Plainfield, represented Mr. Nagle in the action, and also the largest creditor, a Brooklyn wholesale drug store. The store and fixtures will be offered for sale to satisfy the mortgage and other claims at 10 a. m. Tuesday of next week.

DR. EATON NOT TO QUIT FIGHTING

Will Formally Demand His Rights of Township Committee.

INJUNCTION IN SIGHT

Former Judge Coddington Preparing Communication for Client Which Will Probably Be Presented at Meeting on Thursday Night.

Dr. Charles A. Eaton has not dropped his controversy with the township of North Plainfield, according to a statement made by his attorney, former Judge William A. Coddington, this morning.

Mr. Coddington is preparing a formal demand to be made upon the Township Committee, in which the rights of Dr. Eaton will be set out. The township will be asked to recognize these rights and to guarantee that they will not be denied him in the future. If Dr. Eaton is not assured that his trees ad shrubbery will remain unharmed and his property be left free of trespass, he will file application for an injunction in the courts of Trenton at once.

The demand will probably be presented at a meeting of the Township Committee to be held Thursday night of next week. Chairman William De La R. Anderson stated this morning that the committee would be glad to consider the demands of Dr. Eaton at any time. The committee meets in regular session next Thursday, and it is believed that Mr. Coddington will have his communication ready by that time.

"The Township Committee will see that the rights of Dr. Eaton are conserved. It will see that the rights of every citizen of the township are conserved," said Chairman Anderson this morning. "It was with this idea in view that action was taken to force Dr. Eaton to clear his shrubbery so that public street lights might shed their rays on thoroughfares for which they were intended. We are the most peace-loving community in the State of New Jersey, and anything will be done that can be done for any citizen of the township, consistent to the welfare of the whole."

Engineers are busily engaged in making a survey of the Eaton estate and the roadway. Their reports are to be embodied in the demand now being prepared by Mr. Coddington, as Dr. Eaton's contention is that Dr. Molenke and his men violated their authority when they cut down trees that were off the roadway.

WILSON WEDDING SET FOR DEC. 18

Will Take Place at Home of Mrs. Galt—No Invitations Issued.

Washington, Dec. 4.—It was announced at the White House today that the marriage of Mrs. Galt and the President will take place on Saturday, the eighteenth of December. As previously stated, the ceremony will be performed at Mrs. Galt's home, 1308 Twentieth street, N. W. The only guests will be Mrs. Galt's mother, her brothers and sisters, the President's brother and sisters, his daughters, and the members of his immediate household. No invitations will be issued.

DR. CRESSEY TO PREACH.

Rev. George Crosswell Cressey, S. T. D., minister of the Church of the Redeemer, New Brighton, N. Y., will preach at All Souls' church tomorrow morning in exchange with the pastor, Rev. John Baltzly. Dr. Cressey once was minister of the Unitarian church at Northampton Mass., and afterward served an English Unitarian church. The church at New Brighton is the one that the late Hobart Clark, once minister of All Souls' church, went to on leaving Plainfield, and served until his death.

LECTURE POSTPONED.

On account of the special services of the Christian and Missionary Alliance at the German Reformed church, the meeting at which Prof. Schulte, principal of the Morton Street School, Newark, was to deliver an address, has been postponed from tomorrow to Sunday night, December 12, at the German Reformed church. He will speak in English on "A Summer Month in Germany During the War."

DEFER PICTURE TAKING.

The taking of the Plainfield High School football picture, which was scheduled for yesterday, was postponed indefinitely owing to the absence of several of the squad.

ELKS WILL HOLD "LODGE OF SORROW"

Attractive Program for Annual Memorial Service at the Plainfield Theatre.

Members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., will unite with brother Elks throughout the country tomorrow night, in celebrating the annual memorial service for the departed members of the lodge. An attractive order of exercises has been arranged for the event, which will be observed in the Plainfield Theatre at 8 o'clock. Local Elks will assemble at the Watchung avenue clubhouse at 7:30 and will go in a body to the West Second street theatre, where a portion of the orchestra has been reserved for them. It is anticipated that a large audience of friends will be on hand to participate in the service. The first Sunday in December of each year is designated and dedicated as a day on which shall be cemmemorated by every Lodge of Elks in sacred session, the memories of departed brothers.

Former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth Lodge, No. 289, will be the memorial orator; Assemblyman William N. Runyon will be the eulogist and Rev. Frank Fletcher will be the chaplain during the evening. Assisting artists during the musical program will be the following: Miss Edythe V. Gibson, soprano; Madam Genevieve Farley Stewart, contralto; H. R. Speir at the piano; male quartet, Messrs. Elmer D. Cutting, first tenor; William J. Tallamy, second tenor; B. F. Tallamy, first bass; Joseph C. Martin, second bass. The orchestra will be under the direction of Harry Wetton.

The program follows: Prelude, orchestra; quartet, "Softly Now the Light of Day," from A. J. Holden; hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee;" opening ceremonies; soprano solo, "Gloria," from Buzzi Pecia, by Miss Edythe V. Gibson; opening ode, by the lodge; invocation, Rev. Frank Fletcher; duet (soprano and contralto), "O That We Two Were Maying," from Neidlinger, by Miss Edythe V. Gibson and Madam Genevieve Farley Stewart; memorial address, Charles N. Fowler; interlude, "Traumerei," quartet, "Crossing the Bar," from J. C. Macy, by Elks' quartet; eulogy, William N. Runyon; closing ceremonies; contralto solo, "O Rest in the Lord" (Elijah), from Mendelssohn, by Madam Genevieve Farley Stewart, hymn, "Abide With Me;" benediction; doxolgy; postlude, orchestra.

During the past year the following members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, died: Brothers James Stewart, John W. Dent, Clarence E. Teel, P. E. R., Gustave O. Keller and William C. Kinney. The complete list of departed members beside those mentioned is as follows: Daniel Detweiler, Herbert S. Taylor, Robert L. Thomae, Olin L. Jenkins, Herbert B. Brooks, Charles C. Burnet, Maze Edwards, Joseph W. Reinhart, William W. Winn, Alexander H. Small, John A. Lawrence, Herbert L. Overbaugh, Elmer E. Runyon, James H. Daly, David J. Carney, John H. Kitchen, Clarence T. Brokaw and Frederick Sandford.

The list of officers of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, are the following: Exalted ruler, Alfred A. Prudhon, esteemed leading knight, Walter S. Marder; esteemed loyal knight, Francis J. Blatz; esteemed lecturing knight, Chalmers L. Crist; secretary, William R. Townsend; treasurer, Frederick R. Haynes; esquire, William C. Mulvey; chaplain, Edward J. Harding, Jr.; inner guard, George W. Pope; tyler, Edward C. Searing; organist, William C. Smith, Jr.; trustees, S. P. T. Wilbur, Vincent W. Nash, Jr., and Chauncey F. Stout; district deputy grand exalted ruler for New Jersey Northeast, Brother John H. Cose, P. E. R.

MISS SLAUSON MAKES HER DEBUT

Popular Young Woman is Introduced at Reception Given By Her Mother.

MANY FLORAL GIFTS

Those Who Assisted in Receiving Are Entertained at Dinner After Which the Young Folks Enjoy An Informal Dance.

Miss Carolyn Gale Slauson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Slauson, of 215 East Ninth street, was formally introduced at a large reception given yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at her parents' home. There were about four hundred guests from New York, Brooklyn, Newark, the Oranges, Elizabeth, Roselle and this city, all joining in hearty congratulations to the debutante.

Mrs. Slauson and her daughter were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Harry Munn Slauson, of Roselle; Mrs. William A. Garrigues, Mrs. William A. Connor, Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, Mrs. Lamar Van Syckel, Miss Florence Tweedy, Miss Sadie Hayes, Miss Weber, Mrs. E. Arthur Janke, Mrs. H. V. Borden, of this city, and Mrs. Horace Benedict and Mrs. Morton Pierson, of Roselle; Miss Elizabeth Phillips, Miss Mildred Miller, Miss Edith Beers, Miss Mary Radford, Miss Pauline Gates, Miss Margaret Russell, Miss Katherine Borden, Miss Marie Sullivan, Miss Edith Ogden, of this city; Miss Marjorie Gallagher, of Summit; Miss Elizabeth Reed, of New York, and Miss Marguerite Solney, of Jersey City.

The debutante was gowned in white silk, trimmed with white maline and carried a sheaf bouquet of red roses. Mrs. Slauson, her mother, wore a gown of black Chantilly lace over black satin, and she also carried red roses. The gowns of those in the receiving party were all very attractive.

The decorations throughout the home were most attractive, there being a pleasing combination of roses, chrysanthemums and smilax in the reception room, while the dining room was entirely in yellow. The table was garnished with beautiful silver.

Miss Slauson was the recipient of many floral and other gifts. She has been a favorite in the younger society set of the city. She was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the Class of 1913, and later was graduated from the School of Ethical Culture, New York.

Following the reception yesterday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Slauson gave a dinner party for the members of the receiving party and in the evening the young people remained and enjoyed a dance.

UNION PRAISE SERVICE AND TEA IS ENJOYED

Under the auspices of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church the annual union praise service was held yesterday afternoon. The speaker was Harry Wade Hicks, secretary of the Missionary Education Movement, which is interdenominational. Mr. Hicks told in an interesting way what is being done to advance the cause of education among people of all denominations and he showed that much progress is being made.

Mrs. I. C. Pierson presided at the meeting, taking charge of the devotional exercises. Afterward tea was served. Mrs. Deuse N. Van Vliet and Mrs. Leslie R. Fort poured and they were assisted in serving by Miss Van Vliet, Miss Hedges, Miss Terry, Miss Mackenzie and Miss Elsie Harman.

MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETS.

Dr. John Rogers, who is associated with the Cornell Medical School in New York, was the guest of the Plainfield Medical Society at its quarterly meeting at the Homestead on Thursday night. The address followed a dinner served by Mrs. Henry Johnson. Dr. Ray T. Munger presided at the meeting. There were about twenty-five members of the society present. The society will hold its next meeting in February.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES MARK THE LAYING OF CORNER-STONE

Grand Lodge of Masons of New Jersey and Local Masonic Lodges in Charge of Interesting Event—Former Congressman Fowler Makes Address—Banquet to Follow.

The laying of the corner-stone of Plainfield's Federal building at Watchung avenue and East Second street this afternoon is being marked with impressive ceremonies conducted by the Grand Lodge of Masons of New Jersey. Included among those attending the interesting affair are representatives of the local Masonic lodges, as well as those from nearby towns; also city and county officials. The Dutch Arms Band headed the Masonic procession to the postoffice site.

The stone is being laid by Most Worshipful Grand Master Edward M. Searing, of Dover, and attending him is the following members of his staff.

William R. Meakle, William M. Thompson, Herbert C. Rorick, William F. Burke, Theodore B. Townley, Rev. L. H. Lighthipe, Philip F. Botzong, Henry S. Haines, William Otto, Joseph P. Peters, A. M. Hoagland, historical sketch, list of postal employes and series of stamps in use at this time, roster of city of Plainfield and borough of North Plainfield, with names of city and borough officials; roster of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R.; series of 1915 coins presented by State Trust Company, copies the Plainfield Daily Press and Courier-News, Three Great Lights of Masonry; lambskin apron, together with the names of the following: United States Senator James E. Martine, Congressman J. H. Capstick, Contractor Charles L. Gilpin, W. S. VanAsdlen, superintendent for contractor; George Brown, superintendent in charge for contractor; S. H. Nealy, supervising architect in charge; copy of program and invitation and map of Plainfield, presented by H. C. VanEmburgh.

SEWER CONTRACTS NEARING COMPLETION

Borough Pays Out $11,113 for Work During November—Other Business.

At last night's meeting of the Common Council of the borough of North Plainfield payments amounting to $11,113 on the joint sewer were authorized by resolutions for work done during the month of November, and it was reported that the sewer contracts were nearing completion. Work on the filtering plant at Bound Brook is also progressing rapidly.

Expenditures for the month of November were distributed as follows: Contract No. 1, $5,627; contract No. 2, $4,696; George W. Fuller Company, engineers, $788. Ninety-nine per cent. of the work to be done on contract No. 1 has been completed, according to the report of the engineer, and 85 per cent. of the work on contract No. 2. On contract No. 1 there is yet about 299 feet of sewer main to be put down, and on the other contract all is completed except the laying of a macadam surface on the Harrison avenue roadway. The first contract will be completed by December 15.

An advance of $200 was allowed the overseer of the poor on his account for the month.

Bills for the month of November, as approved by the finance committee and ordered paid, were: Streets, $4,412.19; police, $788.76; fire, $199.48.

A resolution authorized the Mayor and clerk to pay $500 as interest on the fire building bonds. They were also authorized to pay $5,000 on the special school tax for the year as soon as funds of the borough would warrant the expenditure.

Mayor Clark appointed Charles C. Arnold as special marshal for the year. The appointment was approved by the Council. The meeting was adjourned until December 22, 1915.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS.

Miss Cora M. Rudy, of Nyack, N. Y., began a series of evangelists meetings in the German Reformed church, Craig place and Duer street, last night, under the auspices of the Christian and Missionary Alliance. The attendance was good and every one was impressed by the speaker. There will be further meetings at 7:30 tonight, 3:30 tomorrow afternoon and 7:30 tomorrow night, the last one concluding the series. The public is cordially invited.

NO WORTHY FAMILY WILL BE OVERLOOKED

Community Christmas Committee to Provide Generously for City's Poor.

Unless the people of Plainfield are generous with their contributions to the Community Christmas Fund there will be many poor families who will miss the happiness of the Christmas season. The committee in charge of this work is planning to provide for at least four hundred children, while the parents of these children will not be overlooked. They will receive useful gifts and it is the purpose of the committee to see that no worthy family is forgteen in the distribution of good things.

DeWitt Hubbell, of the Plainfield Trust Company, is the treasurer of the Community Christmas committee and he will be glad to receive contributions, both small and large, toward the fund. While a number of contributions have already been sent to the treasurer a great deal more money will be needed to carry out the original plans and it is believed that the people of Plainfield will be as generous as they have in the past.

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF ATTEMPTED ASSAULT

Charles Drake was arrested by the police last night on a charge of disorderly conduct and attempted assault. The arrest was made on complaint of Daniel Belott, who charges that Drake attempted to beat him as the result of an argument over a trivial matter. The case was continued by Judge DeMeza when called this morning in police court. It will be tried the first of next week.

W. N. RUNYON TO SPEAK.

The East End Civic Association will meet at the Netherwood Reformed church, Tuesday evening. Assemblyman William N. Runyon will be the speaker and refreshments will be served by the women of the church.

CASE GOES OVER ONE WEEK.

Joseph Lacosto was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct, but on request of his attorney, the case was allowed to go over for one week.

THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE AT PROCTOR'S

Great Vitagraph Picture is Call to Arms Against War —Here Dec. 8 and 9.

On Wednesday and Thursday, December 8 and 9, Proctor's Theatre will present that widely discussed film spectacle, "The Battle Cry of Peace." This is the same picture now playing at the Vitagraph Theatre, New York city, where it has drawn capacity audiences since it began its run sometime ago. "The Battle Cry of Peace" was produced by the Vitagraph Company under the personal supervision of J. Stuart Blackton, and its theme was partly derived from Hudson Maxim's "Defenseless America." It is a call to arms against war and the lesson it teaches is an inspired revelation of this country's unpreparedness.

At the beginning America is shown at peace. New York city, with its 25, 30, 40 and 50 story buildings, is reproduced, the Gay White Way, the crowds along Broadway, the boats plying up and down the rivers and bays, everybody enjoying themselves, everybody is happy, and then—a fleet of hostile battleships is seen approaching the coast, fortifications are seen getting ready to resist their attack, the ships come to a stop just outside of Sandy Hook, and then the first gun belches forth, followed by hundreds of others—they are attacking the forts, our guns are not of sufficient range to offer resistance, shells and shrapnel is seen bursting in the air, striking fortifications and destroying them. They destroy our defenses and aim at New York city. A shell strikes the Singer tower and knocks it into a thousand atoms, another building is struck, and another. People are seen terror-stricken, helpless, blinded, maimed and murdered. The buildings fall in ruins, the Gay White Way becomes a place of death and desolation, a place of horror and awe, no longer do the boats ply the waters around New York, no longer do the people enjoy themselves in the cabarets, the theatres, the dance halls, for these are all a mass of ruins, of tangled wreckage, covering thousands and thousands of helpless men and women, thousands of innocent children.

The East Side comes in for its share of terror and desolation. The poor as well as the rich are helpless before the withering fire of the merciless enemy.

But why, thinks the spectator, can't we resist the attack, why do we allow our friends and relatives, our dear ones to be maimed and mangled before our eyes, why do we allow our buildings and institutions to be destroyed, why do we allow our fortifications to be levelled to the ground? Why has all this happened? Simply this, we are unprepared for war. If we were we could have stopped the enemy's ships and turned them back far out of range of our coast. This is all shown in "The Battle Cry of Peace," a vividly dramatic production, touching the heart strings of emotions, awakening sympathies, hatred, love and patriotism.

It will be shown at Proctor's for only two days, Wednesday and Thursday, December 8 and 9. It will be presented continuously from 2 to 11 p. m., and all the seats at all performances will be 25 cents. Throughout all this chaos and desolation of war, a bit of romance is injected into the production which tends to arouse the sympathy of the spectators. Charles Richman is the star and is ably supported by Norma Talmadge and a cast of eminent Vitagraph stars.

A CALL TO ARMS AGAINST WAR

Thousands of soldiers are seen fighting on the battlefields. The city of New York is seen razed to the ground by the enemy's shells and cannon. Hostile naval fleets are seen in action. It is the last word in motion pictures. You are awed with the magnitude and greatness of it.

This is absolutely the first time that this wonderful spectacle has been shown in the State of New Jersey and it was only by special arrangement that the Proctor management were able to secure this masterpiece.

Take advantage of this, which may be your last opportunity of witnessing one of the Greatest Features Produced and one of International Interest and Importance. This is your chance —Grasp it!

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should Be Answered Easily By Plainfield People.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow-citizens, of people you know, or depend on statements made by utter strangers residing in far-away places? Read the following:

C. L. Treat, painter and paperhanger, 411 East Third street, Plainfield, says: "I suffered for a long time from kidney trouble and for years couldn't get relief. My back ached constantly and I had pain across my kidneys. My kidneys were in bad shape and I was all run down, in fact, was almost a physical wreck. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply at Randolph's drug store and my experience was so satisfactory that I cannot make my endorsement too strong. I simply wouldn't be without Doan's Kidney Pills on hand."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Treat had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

The shopper may often reduce the VALUE-GETTING POWER of her dollar to fifty cents—simply through neglecting to read the ads, or to know values—and by buying at "the nearest place."

Did you decide, not long ago, that you could not buy some particular thing because the price was a little too high? See if the store advertisements bring to you today any interesting "news" on this question.

NEW NEWARK TEMPLE FORMALLY DEDICATED

Many Plainfielders Attend Ceremonies There Last Evening.

A group of Plainfielders last night attended the dedication of the new Temple B'nai Jeshurun, at Waverley avenue and High street in Newark. Those who went from here were Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Tepper, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schuldenfrei, Mr. and Mrs. William Schloss, Miss Helen Mosliner and Samuel Rothberg.

The Newark temple is said to be one of the finest in the entire world, and is the last word in architectural beauty. The dedication services were attended by many people from all parts of the State. During the evening Governor James F. Fielder and Mayor Thomas L. Raymond in brief addresses congratulated the congregation on the beautiful edifice.

The response and address of welcome was given by Joseph Goetz, president of the congregation. Rabbi Leucht delivered the invocation, and the dedicatory was preached by Rabbi Foster. Others who spoke were Rev. Dr. Samuel Schulman, of New York city; Rev. Dr. David Philipson, of Cincinnati. The Sabbath evening service was by Rev. Cowan, and the adoration and kaddish by Rev. Leucht. The benediction was by Rabbi Julius Silberfield, of the Congregation B'nai Abraham. The musical program was under the direction of C. Wenham Smith, organist. Besides the regular choir it was augmented by twelve prominent vocalists. The other officers besides Messrs. Goetz and Lindeman are Abraham Metzger, treasurer, and Joseph Korn, secretary.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The members of the Alpha Literary Society of the High School will conduct a debate on the subject, "Should Congress Strengthen the Army and Navy?" in the auditorium of the school at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The affirmative side of the question will be argued by Miss Irma Goed, Joseph Mutnick and Joseph Gallagher as leader. Clarence Eder will lead the negative side, with Miss Elizabeth Heideloff and Richard Borden to help him. The members of the Omega Literary Society have been invited, and have accepted the invitation, to attend the debate. It is expected that a member of the faculty of Rutgers College will be present to speak concerning the formation of a Union County High School Debating League. Both of the High School's societies will be represented.

The High School Commercial Club held a business meeting yesterday afternoon and later enjoyed a social hour.

Holmes Clawson, P. H. S. baseball manager for 1916, has already secured half of the games for his schedule, which will consist of twenty-one games. The first games with N. P. H. S. is set for Saturday, May 13, on Parker Field, while the second one will be played at Hyde Oval on Saturday, June 3. If a third one is necessary the field will be decided by a toss of a coin.

John Cottrell, who was a member of last June's graduating class of the Plainfield High School, played left halfback on the Alfred University football team during the season just closed, and was one of the most consistent players on the team. It is his first year at the college and as he was not out of high school football when a student here, his work is all the more praiseworthy.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Mary Pickford will be seen for the last time today at the U. S. Astor Theatre in the Famous Players' Film Company's comedy drama, "Rags," acclaimed by film critics to be her greatest screen achievement. In addition there will be a pretentious program of photo-dramatic features. "The Yellow Streak" will be the feature attraction Monday and Tuesday, featuring Lionel Barrymore. It unfolds a tale of strong dramatic interest and gives the clever Mr. Barrymore abundant chance to put into effect all his histrionic ability. "Sold," with beautiful Pauline Frederick, will be the principal fim feature Wednesday and Thursday and on Friday and Saturday, Blanche Sweet will be seen in "The Secret Orchard."

BIBLE DISTRIBUTION.

New York, Dec. 4.—Tomorrow is "Universal Bible Sunday," and it marks the completion of a hundred years of organized Bible distribution at the hands of the American Bible Society. Many ministers and congregations will join in the observance of the day. During the year 1914 the distribution was 6,406,323 volumes. And during its first century the society will have circulated, it is estimated, 115,000,000 Bibles or parts of Bibles.

When Were You Born?

If we want to celebrate our birthdays no matter how old we may be, and wear a stone symbolic of the month in which we were born. We not alone ought to wear our birthstones, but we must wear them if we want good luck. If you were born in January you should wear a garnet stone to your beyond. That, you know, is the stone of constancy. If both man and woman wear each will be loved well and faithfully by the other. The owner of the gem will never lack true friends and goodness while she wears her stone.

February claims the amethyst, which stands for sincerity and humility. If February is your month and you wear your stone faithfully, you will be assured a peaceful, quiet life, free from troubled care. Should you neglect to wear it with you, you will fall into trouble as the result of some headstrong act.

Other Interesting Symbols.

If your birthday falls in March, wear the stone to protect you from the violente disposition which is yours; without it you will lead a hard and cruel stone life. Your stone, too, will make you wise in facing the many dangers before you.

Are you interested in a career? If so, your chance to be a successful lawyer for the diamond promises great success in lawsuits to a person born in April. As the emblem of innocence and unshakable faith, it will also resist evil, baffle magic and keep away unhappiness.

The emerald is the charm which protects those born in May and assures them of great success in life and happiness in love as long as they wear it. It has the gift of divination and ought to be consulted by its owner in his choice of friends; for it loses its lustre when near undesirable acquaintances.

A long and peaceful life is the promise given by the agate to its wearer. As the guardian stone of June it will bring its ward no end of health and prosperity.

For Happiness.

Did you know that the ruby, which watches over July, can protect you against anxiety and the evils of magic? If you were born in that month, the ruby will keep you from vain thoughts, quarrels and illness. It can also help to choose your friends wisely; for it will lose its brightness at the approach of false friends.

Were you born in August and are you single? If so, a sardonyx can help you find a husband quickly. If you are already married, it will keep him faithful and assure you of perfect happiness in your life together; for the sardonyx is the stone of sincerity. Worn around the neck it will protect you from bad dreams.

Beware, if you are a September child; for you have a black future before you unless you carry a sapphire. Contagious diseases, madness, and sudden death are apt to overtake you if you do not wear it. As a charm it can free you from much sadness.

Last Quarter of the Year.

It may surprise you to know that, in spite of its reputation as a bearer of evil, the opal has quite the opposite effect when worn by one born in October. As the jewel of hope, it undertakes to protect its wearer from a life of misery and woe.

Whoever is born in November is ruled by the topaz, the emblem of fidelity. His kind and thoughtful nature will cause him to always be surrounded by true friends.

Every one may well envy the December child; for all the luck of the year is his, without any of the sorrow. Don't you wish that you, too, might be ruled by the turquoise, which always carries with it health, happiness and everything else worth having?

The Nagging Woman

You are the woman who nags. You are the mother whose children are first on the streets in the morning. They are glad to get out of the house. Your husband is the earliest man in the office and the last one out. He hates to come home.

You make the atmosphere of an ice house seem agreeable by contrast to the frigid zones of your neighborhood. You will alienate affection, all kindly interest and sympathy by exposing them to the blight and chill that you create.

Effect On Men.

A rubber laid on a chair, cigar ashes dropped on a lapel, a spot of gravy on the tablecloth, a boyish burst of enthusiasm, anything, everything provokes your evil born habit of activity.

Can you not see that Satan took a personal interest in the formation of the nagging habit? It is his masterpiece.

You and women like you create a demand for affinities. You drive men to them. No man of any spirit will endure the society of a nagging wife even if his sense of duty does make him pay her bills.

Has it ever occurred to you that a good many drunkards and men careless of the moral obligations are wife made? They are often the finished work of the nagging wife. Rasped till they are sore mentally, goaded constantly by the rebukes and remonstrances that greet every small deflection from the wife prescribed rules of conduct, they fly to any experiment and diversion, any source that affords them relief or forgetfulness.

A man whose wife nags never feels at home in his own house. He is afraid he will kick up the corner of the rug or turn the gas too high. He is constantly dodging a nagging.

Destroy the Habit Now.

Is it any wonder that, between the discomfort of erpecting the nag and the misery of getting it, he is driven to any excess, any change?

Besides every cure or hospital for inebriates, there should be an institute for nagging wives. It is the modern substitute for the old-time ducking stool.

Woman who nags, you are honeycombing the very foundation of your married structure with the burrowing evil that will cause it to collapse. You should take yourself in hand before it is too late.

As you value your home, your husband's love, your children's respect, you should break yourself of the habit that will, without the shadow of a doubt, rob you of all.

A BIT OF FORE-THOUGHT.

Just inside the door of the medicine closet keep a card index of simple remedies for the more common ills and accidents. Then no matter how excited one gets, or if it is the head of the family that is in need the children know where to look for help. The usual remedies and bandages and plasters are to be found in the closet.

All poisons are strikingly labeled and have corks tied in, then are kept on the back of the shelves.

ACCESSORIES FOR THE BRIDE'S WORKBOX.

Mother-of-pearl, sterling silver and white celluloid enter largely in the construction of work basket accessories which are pretty for the bride's workbox. One of the other of these materials is employed for the tips of tape measure, for glove-menders, stock darner handles, stillettos and for the base of emery balls.

Sterling silver, mother-of-pearl or crystal initials or monograms are on the needlebooks having suede covers and suede colored leaves of French flannel exquisitely embroidered about the edges and labeled, respectively, "darning," "embroidery," and "ordinary sewing."

TO CLEAN AN ENAMEL TEAPOT.

Put the teapot in a saucepan which will give it plenty of room. Fill the saucepan with cold water, and put in two or three handfuls of washing soda. Set this on the stove for three or four hours. Then wash the teapot in the water in which it has been boiled and scrub it with fine brick-dust. When clean rinse well in hot and then cold water.

SLIGHTLY SOILED GLOVES.

To clean kid gloves when slightly soiled take a tespoonful of powdered French chalk. Put the gloves on the hands and the chalk into the palm of one glove and rub the hands and fingers together as if washing your hands. Take off the gloves without shaking them and lay them aside for a night. Put them on and clap the hands or wipe the gloves with a clean cloth. Fuller's earth will do nearly as well.

Woman as a Leader

"Woman the leader of deeds." A casual glance at this quotation might lead one to infer that it was taken from the impassioned speech of some champion of woman in the 20th century. On the contrary, this special attribute was given to woman by the great poet Virgil, before the dawn of the Christian era.

The acknowledgment of this inherent quality of our sex by the famous Virgil, should not be such a surprise to us, for woman's achievements and wonderful deeds are emblazoned in the world's history.

Whether it may be to don male attire and lead an army to victory against overwhelming odds—to minister to the wounded in battle where her own life is in imminent danger—to take care of her family at home while their protector is fighting for his country—or to stand on the deck of a sinking vessel facing death—woman's heroism and bravery have manifested themselves, thus widely proclaiming her—leader of deeds.

Woman's Worth Today.

Woman's work goes on, and she is still a leader; it may be within the narrow confines of her household or in the broader fields of education.

When we reflect that in the schools of Massachusetts, alone, there are nearly 50,000 women teachers, we can partially realize her influence upon the future citizenship of this country through the schoolhouse; and we may reasonably hope that the moral courage and high ideals of these teachers will do much to elevate the human race.

In other words, the woman of today, in her varied interests and occupations, shows that she is worthy of the same distinction that was given to her more than 2,000 years ago by Virgil.

Suggestions for Marketing

Always go to market yourself.

Do not order until you have looked around the market; the string beans you intended to have may not be first class, and you can substitute.

Always ask the price, and if quoted to you by the pound be sure you understand how much it would be by the bushel or whatever measure you are used to.

Use Home Scales.

Buy in quantities as far as possible. Even in small families who live in apartments some things can safely be bought in this way. A saving of from two to fifty per cent. can be made in this way. Tea, coffee (unground), sugar, ham and bacon, soap by the box, and canned vegetables by the dozen are among the things which are safe to buy in quantities.

Have good scales, and let your market man know that you use them.

Have your vegetables and fruit selected while you are in the market, or the best may be gone before your order is filled.

Always select your own meat; you will get a much better piece if you do this. Ask for the trimmings to be sent with your meat. You have paid for them and are entitled to them.

In buying beef, if the fat is hard and skinny, the beef is inferior; the fat should be white, and the grain of the beef a good color and not too close, but mixed with some fat.

About Other Meats.

Mutton must be firm and fine in grain, of good color and the fat firm and white. Lamb does not keep long, and when not fresh the knuckle is not firm and the kidney has an odor.

Pork should have a thin rind, and the meat should be smooth and fair. Bacon, like pork, should have a thin rind, and the fat should be firm and inclined to a reddish color.

When purchasing a ham, have a knife stuck into it to the bone, which, if the ham be well cured, may be drawn out without having any of the meat adhering to it. It should be free from any disagreeable odor. A short ham is considered best.

RAINY DAY AMUSEMENT.

The rainy day cupboard should be a part of every nursery, to be patronized only on rainy days, the contents of which should amuse the children and bring peace and quiet to the mother. Keep the door of this closet locked, and on no account allow it to be opened on a bright, sunshiny day, when the children can go out-of-doors.

Occasionally add something new to the contents of the closet and let the children know that there is the chance of a surprise on opening it. This will add great zest to the treat. There are all manner of things of an alluring nature to put in these rainy day cupboards.

Old magazines with pictures to be cut out and to be painted either before or after they have been cut out. There are always fascinating beads of all varieties to be strung as fancy dictates, worsted of many hues to knit into reins on spools; puzzles to be solved, crepe paper, too, to use in dressing paper dolls and in all manner of ways, very good books of instruction, some for transferring crepe paper into all sorts of attractive things.

Modeling clay, too, ever delightful to children, and develops, if it exists, any artistic tendency they may have. These are only a few suggestions of the thousand and one delightful and, at the same time, inexpensive things that may be stored away in the rainy day cupboard for the children's amusement.

THE TOOTHPICK HABIT.

Nothing is more disgusting to non-users of the toothpick than to have some one near sit and pick his teeth until the onlooker is really nauseated. Instead of being beneficial and helping preserve the teeth, they are first aids to dentists, so far as making cavities in the teeth are concerned. A little "will power" will do wonders in correcting this bad little habit.

Getting the Home Ready for Winter

Most homemakers find it a hard task to get their homes in order for the winter. This will appear difficult unless you take it up systematically and do a little each day. It makes little difference where you begin so long as you work systematically.

One way of commencing is to take pencil and note book in hand and go from room to room jotting down notes on repairs and work that must actually be done over. This may mean the papering or cleaning the walls of one room, having the kitchen floor painted and having some furniture mended in a third.

The summer curtains, portieres and blinds should be taken down, well shaken, looked over to see if any repairing is necessary and the winter ones are brought out and well brushed. Remember the curtains wear out first at the edges where the hooks go when they are hung and where they are pegged in the washing and cleaning. If you find any that are past mending, you can use them for sash curtains.

Small Tasks.

You can store your summer spreads and thin blankets and bring out the winter things in their stead. After you have finished this you can examine the kitchen utensils and the things stored away for the summer. If you find that some of the flatirons and other utensils made of iron have become rusty, boil them in strong soap and soda.

After this dry and scour them on sand paper or bath brick on a board. Should you come upon some old linen sheets, cut out the good pieces and store them away for emergency bandages and for other uses. You can keep your pieces of white muslin for straining soups, gravies or making petticoats. If neatly patched they make excellent bags for covering up delicate evening and dinner dresses.

Discarding Old Clothes.

Before you begin to replenish your wardrobe and that of your children, separate your garments into piles in some such way as this: Clothes to be repaired, made up for one of the younger children or given away. Unless you are confident that you are going to make use of last season's garments now or at some time, do not hoard them because you feel it is your duty to keep your possessions for all eternity.

When you once make up your mind that neither you nor the children are going to make use of certain clothes, it is your business to look around for somebody who will turn these garments to good account.

After you have taken stock of your clothes investigate your emergency cupboard, where you keep your canned goods, preserved fruits and vegetables.

WANAMAKER'S
The Christmas Store

Broadway at Ninth Street | 'Phone 4700 Stuyvesant | Store open 8:30 to 6

Please Try to Remember, Monday Begins the Second Week of December

Christmas shopping has begun in good earnest.

There are some decided advantages in shopping in the two great buildings that do not have to be adjusted to the excessive crowds of holiday time.

Were any of the out-of-town people to ask what the advantages of a store are that is the only store in Manhattan with an entrance direct from a subway station, you can safely say—

a. The store is the largest in Greater New York.
b. Its special features are—its buildings were constructed for safety and the convenience of customers.
c. Nine wide staircases run from the top of the two buildings.
d. Two bridges and two wide tunnels on the Subway floor join the two buildings.
e. All floors are level and clear.
f. The street doors open upon five wide streets at twenty-one different points.
g. All aisles are wide, light and straight.
h. Healthful ventilation.
i. No bad air, smells or dust.

These are all simple things.

There are eleven banks of elevators solely for passengers, numbering thirty-seven cars, besides other elevators used for freight and employes, consisting of seven more.

It seems proper for the public to know, when they put their feet inside of our buildings, that they are not at the mercy of chances for safety—that every point has been guarded from the human view.

The Store is Easily Reached

The Interborough Subway comes to our door, making it easy of access for people from Long Island, Staten Island, Westchester, and North of New York.

The Broadway, Seventh Avenue, Lexington Avenue, Fourth Avenue, Madison Avenue, and Eighth Street cars all pass the store.

The Third, Sixth and Ninth Avenue elevated cars, the Hudson tubes, and the Fifth Avenue stage and 'bus lines are close at hand.

The hospitalities of the Store, originally introduced here, are very attractive and are free.

In case of illness, the well-equipped hospital for the more than 6,000 of us employed under one roof, is at the instant service of our visiting customers.

It is a special pleasure to announce that we have beautiful stocks of goods.

A large majority of our salespeople are of those who have been well trained and had long service in the Store.

And we have more than usual pleasure in inviting people to visit, inspect and avail themselves of any privileges that we can command.

Diamond Jewelry

A six-pointed diamond, pure, without stain, with pronounced and sharp edges, of a beautiful shade, light, with well-formed facets, without defects, illuminating space with its fire and with the reflection of a rainbow, a diamond of this kind is not easy to find in the earth. Hindu gem treatise.

Diamonds such as are not easy to find, pure white, brilliant, exquisitely set, are in the Jewelry Store.

Diamonds set befitting their rank as the sun gem, with lace of platinum with cunning work of artist jewelers, the designs being exclusive.

Attention is called to the new bar brooches, in which important diamonds are introduced surrounded by a radiance of many small stones; also to the new, very charming rings.

Prices upon comparison will be found extremely moderate.

A Fortunate Purchase of Diamonds

In addition to our large regular collections, we have been fortunate in securing the mounted stocks of diamond jewelry from two manufacturing jewelers. These fine pieces are offered at discounts of 20 to 30 per cent. from current rates.

Jewelry Store, Main floor, Old Building.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC AT HOME

The New Style

Lindeman Piano at $220

The outside is new. Inside, it is the same fine old piano that was first built in New York City 79 years ago—the second oldest in America.

The case is mahogany, double-veneered; genuine ivory keys; full scale of 7¼ octaves; 5 feet 4 inches high, 5 feet 1 inch wide; 2 feet 3 inches deep.

Lindeman Player-Piano One Model, $395

If you realized how good this 79-year-old piano is, and how simple and expressive the player-action, you would not be without it.

It is, in our judgment, the best moderate-priced player-piano produced today.

No Instruments Can Compare With Either at These Prices

Either may be purchased on very convenient terms. A small first payment today, and the instrument you want is yours, in your home, at once.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN--PLEASE NOTE!

Nearly All Clothing Advertising Today, Local or National, is Addressed to the Young Man.

Now, we are second to none in our admiration for youth, but to read clothing advertising today one would think there wasn't such a person on earth as a man of middle-age.

And we just want to go on record that we specialize on clothes for men of middle-age, who want to combine the dash of youth with the dignity of years. Speaking from experience, father has it all over the son for wisdom—and if he wears Rothberg clothes he need take no back-talk on the score of style.

PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY IN PLAINFIFLD

WOULD STABILIZE MATERIAL PRICES

Far Reaching Efforts Being Made by J. B. Rose, Head of Brick Concern.

TALK OF FIXED PRICE

There Are About 95 Active Plants in the Hudson Valley Supplying New York and Vicinity With Brick Operating 510 Machines.

New York, Dec. 4.—One of the biggest and most far-reaching efforts to stabilize the Eastern building materials market is being negotiated at this time by former Senator John B. Rose, president of the Greater New York Brick Company, himself the largest brickmaker in the Hudson River district. The plan involves paying outright $7 a thousand for brick now stored in the Hudson River district, when the current market price is only $6.75 or under, on a chance that conditions now shaping themselves will make the price of this building commodity to dealers after navigation closes on the Hudson, on or about December 15 to $8 a thousand or higher.

There are about 95 active plants in the Hudson valley supplying New York and vicinity with brick, operating about 510 machines. In normal times these plants turn out about a billion brick a year. Last year only 102 of these machines were operated. The total output in the district was only about 400,000,000 brick. There is now about 300,000,000 brick available for winter and early spring requirements. This is about 30,000,000 less than were in shed at this time last year. At this time last year dealers were well stocked. Barges at public docks were plentiful.

Today most of the barges moving out of the West Fifty-second street wholesale docks are moving to private docks and the contents are being stacked. These barges, as soon as they are emptied, are being besought by steamship and railroad companies for use as temporary storage floats for materials taken from tied-up trains in the Jersey meadows at rates of $12 a day, including the cost of a man.

The effect of this condition upon the brick market is that it will not pay brickmakers to cover brick at a cost of $300 per barge a month in this market when they can get $360 at least, not including the saving in the cost of manning the boat during the winter.

Furthermore, with the shortage of boats in this market, and the fact that navigation generally closes around December 15, there has been a great demand for tugs, and practically all the ice breaking tugs formerly maintained in the upper Hudson harbors have been requisitioned and put into service in the harbor of New York this winter. Towing charges in the face of these conditions are likely to be high, especially since there will be fewer barges to bring down, and instead of towing costing $1.12½ a thousand, it may go to higher levels.

In the metropolitan district dealers have not, until the last week, taken serious notice of the conditions and have not stacked against this emergency, although warnings have been given in these columns for several months of the increasing congestion in the market.

As for the probable condition of the brick market here, the answer is found in the state of the building and real estate markets. Operations that have been slated to proceed for more than sixteen months are now coming forward. There was $65,000,000 worth of construction held up on October 30 of last year in this city. In the district it amounted to $81,000,000. Up to November 15, $12,989,919 of this delayed construction had been made active in the city, and $61,911,003 in the district. Of these totals about $25,000,000 may be said to be actually under way in the city and $40,708,000 in the district, embracing a radius of fifty miles from the Battery.

In the light of this condition and the general advance in the price of building materials in practically every department, it is considered probable that common brick prices will advance sharply. Conditions are not wholly unlike those prevailing in 1906, when the brick prices went to $11.20 a thousand in May of that year, and if the building situation continues to stiffen as it has in the last four months, it is entirely possible for quotations to range at least near $8. On the other hand, a sudden stopping of the war and a resultant shaking of the money market might cause a reaction, and the first commodity to be affected would be common brick.

Those interested in the enterprise are reticent about discussing it, but the move was defended on these grounds:

"The trouble with the brick market has been over-competition. There are instances where a low bidder on a job has gone into the buyer's office and actually underbid his own figure fifty cents a thousand in order to get the business. The time has come for stopping these tactics, because builders have been taking advantage of this eagerness of the brick contractor and have bid one against the other until brick has been sold in this market at prices below the cost of getting it here.

"At the present time it costs about $6.25 to put a thousand brick into the wholesale market. It was only on August 1 that prices for brick in this market were down to $5.50 a thousand. Then competition was tight, there was no thought of the quantity of brick available, and contractors, feeling the general improvement in conditions, played the underbidding tactic until the price was put down to ruinous figures. Is it reasonable for the brickmaker to continue to make brick at a loss? Only last year there were some who had not been able to take care of the paper they floated for starting their plants in the previous year, who were obliged to sell barges in order to get started, only to be forced to make brick below cost again.

"This is no attempt to corner the brick market. It is merely a plan for stopping this ruinous price cutting. Times happen to be favorable to bringing the issue to a head. Other building material prices are going up, why not have the brick manufacturers take advantage of it?"

As the week closed the reports were that the majority of the brick makers were in favor of the plan. The plan includes only the Hudson River interests, the Raritan river brick plants, comprising the Sayre & Fisher, the Matawan and similar establishments not so far having become signatories to the arrangement.

BUILDING PERMITS UP IN THE BOROUGH COUNCIL

At last night's meeting of the Common Council of the Borough of North Plainfield resolutions were passed authorizing the following changes in building and erections of new buildings:

William Titus, Stonybrook place, to build garage.

David E. Flammer, to erect barn and shed.

John Lamar, 11 Stone street, to erect garage.

Mrs. Coddington, Fairview avenue, to erect garage.

Mary Fitzgerald, Fairview avenue, to make addition to house.

WANT TO ERECT BIG BILLBOARD IN BOROUGH

Application for a permit to erect a big billboard on Somerset street at Somerset place is being held up by the fire committee of the Common Council of the Borough of North Plainfield. The Newark Sand Company wants to put up the billboard and proposes to make it entirely of steel. Residents in that section have objected to its erection because they believe it would prove unsightly. Action will be taken within a few days.

REALTY TRANSFERS

The following local real estate transfers were recorded at the office of the Union county register during the past week:

Floyd T. Woodhull et ux to Edson C. Martin, southerly corner mill race in Alvah Gardner's, easterly side Webster's, Plainfield, $1,000.

Boice Runyon Co. to Edward F. Feickert, southwesterly side Park avenue, 50 feet northwesterly Cen. Railroad Co., Plainfield, $1.

Edward F. Feickert et ux. to Anna E. Boice, same as above, $1.

Nathan R. Compton et ux to Mary J Mathews, northeasterly side Carlton avenue, 175 feet northerly Putnam avenue, Plainfield, $1.

Mary J. Mathews to Nellie L Compton, same as above, $1.

The following Middlesex transfers of interest to local people were recorded at New Brunswick during the past week:

Cameo Realty Corp. to Domenico Giusto and wife, 2 lots in Piscataway township.

Margaret McLoughlin and husband to Mickell Chinchar and wife, property in Raritan township; consideration, $800.

Henry Wrage and wife to Wendinante N. Damker, property on North avenue, Dunellen.

Clarence M. Haight and wife to George Plant, 6.3 acre tract of land in Piscataway township.

NEW BUILDINGS ALMOST DOUBLED

Permits for November Give Proof of Progress of Plainfield.

TOTAL IS $57,060

Work Done as Shown by Records at Fire Headquarters Almost Double That for the Same Month Last Year.

Further proof of the progress of Plainfield is shown in the big increase in building permits of last month over those of the same month in last year.

In November, 1914, the total amount cost of new buildings for Plainfield and repairs on old ones was $29,725, while last month this work amounted to $57,060, or almost double the figures for a year ago.

The amount of building going on is always an indication of progress, and real estate men and others who keep in touch with the growth of their community do this by carefully watching building permits. They are highly pleased with Plainfield's showing for this year, especially figures for the month of November, which ended this week.

New buildings were erected at a total cost of $49,760, according to figures secured from fire headquarters and repairs on old buildings totaled $57,060.

Comparison of permits for November of 1914 and 1915, by wards, is as follows:

NOVEMBER, 1914.

	New Bldgs.	Alter.	Tl.

BERFELDEN MILLS MAY BE ENLARGED

Proprietor Rosenthal Plans Big Addition When Property Title is Cleared.

A report in circulation during the past few weeks to the effect that a local baking company had purchased the factory building on Washington avenue, occupied by the Berfelden Mills, was denied yesterday by S. M. Rosenthal, proprietor of the Berfelden concern. According to Mr. Rosenthal the property is held by Perrine & Co., of France, but with whom he has a contract for its purchase. When he leased the building he was given the option of buying it at the expiration of a certain period, but the Perrine company did not recognize this when the time arrived. The matter is now in the Court of Chancery awaiting a decision.

Mr. Rosenthal further stated that as the property in reality belonged to him, he would continue to occupy the factory and when the court gave him a clear title he proposed to put up another structure adjoining the present one and double its capacity. The lot has a frontage of about 180 feet running south from Green brook. The Berfelden Mills manufacture silk products and with the new addition as planned by Mr. Rosenthal it will make an important local industry.

BUILDING BEING ALTERED.

William H. Abbott, owner of the building in the rear of the Pittis property on East Front street, is having extensive alterations made to the structure for the benefit of Mosher & Carpenter, automobile dealers, who use it as a repair shop. A new side door is to be one of the changes. George Ferguson is doing the carpentering work and John T. Caulfield the masonry.

PLANNING A GATEHOUSE.

J. J. O'Donohue, who occupies the former Maltby property on lower Plainfield avenue and Maltby avenue is planning to build an ornate gatehouse for the premises. The plans are being drawn by Architects Wylie and White.

T. A. B. ADDITION NEARING COMPLETION

Completed Structure Will Give West End Society a Fine Club Home.

Contractor Michael D. O'Keefe is now engaged in putting the finishing touches to the commodious addition to the T. A. B. S. Hall on West Fourth street. At the rate progress is now being made it will be turned over to the T. A. B. Society in about three weeks and will give the organization one of the finest club homes in the city. The completed structure will be formally opened during the week of January 3, at which time the T. A. B.'s will conduct a big fair.

The addition to the old structure is on the west side and in dimensions is 120x22 feet. Beside two regulation bowling alleys, which are now being installed, the floor space includes a reception room, pool and billiard room, completely furnished kitchen, card room and shower baths. The wall between the old and new parts is to be retained and the original hall will be kept as it is for entertainments and dances. It underwent complete re-decoration last winter.

The new bowling alleys will have their first series of games rolled during the fair week of January 3. The opposing side will be the Elizabeth T. A. B. team, with which the Plainfielders inaugurated a series last Thursday night. The alleys are being put in by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender people, and will be second to none in Plainfield.

SHERIFF SEBRING BUYS HOME IN THE BOROUGH

Through a real estate deal consummated yesterday, Charles Sebring, sheriff of Somerset county, becomes the owner of the residence known as the French property at Somerset and Pearl streets in the Borough of North Plainfield. The property was purchased from Judge and Mrs. Daniel Beekman and Edwin Snover, of Somerville. Mr. Sebring has already moved into the home. The price has not been announced, but Judge Beekman recently paid $12,000 for the residence and grounds.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

Sheriff George C. Otto, Wednesday afternoon, at the weekly sale of property involved in foreclosure proceedings in the Court of Chancery, sold the tract of land at West Front street and De Kalb avenue, Plainfield, in an action by Henry Twombly against the Fairview Corporation, sold to the complainant for $1,000.

BOSTON HAS NEW DEFENDER.

Boston, Dec. 4.—Col. Thomas Ridgway, U. S. A., takes charge today of the coast defense of Boston, with headquarters at Fort Warren. He relieves Lieut-Col. William G. Haan, who goes to Fort Thompson on Long Island, where he will have command of the coast defenses of New York harbor. Col. Ridgway, the new defender of Boston, was transferred by order of the war department from Fort Barrancas, Fla. Lieut-Col. Haan, who goes to the defences of New York, prepared a strategic report of the Russo-Japanese War for the War Department, and he was one of the army officers recommended for promotion for distinguished service in the Philippine campaign under General Otis.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

There is an old expression that there is nothing new under the sun but it has been proven that this does not apply to the Plainfield Theatre, where Manager Shannon is continually putting across something original. His latest idea is an "Oriental Night," which will be tried for the first time at the performances in the Second street playhouse next Tuesday evening.

Hashim Rajah Ali, a noble from the Far East, has been engaged to come to this city and conduct the affair. The theatre will be decorated in Oriental style and the stage will have a special setting for the occasion. Under the direction of the Oriental gentleman, a fine collection of Oriental rugs, tapestries, laces and other importations will be given away to people in the audience. Nothing like it has ever been seen in this section and it is needless to say that it will prove popular with local people. According to present plans every Tuesday night will be set aside for a succeeding Oriental occasion.

The present vaudeville bill will be concluded tonight and next Monday an entire new change will be introduced. Six big acts, direct from the New York houses, will make up the program, together with feature photoplays. Friday night of each week will mark the "Country Store" as heretofore.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

On Monday and Tuesday the following Triangle Plays will be presented at Proctor's playhouse: Douglas Fairbanks, in "The Lamb," and Charles Murray, in "A Game Old Knight." In "The Lamb," Fairbanks finds play for all the enthusiasm and magnetic qualities which he has shown in his legitimate work. As a worthless young son of a rich eastern family he wins the love of a hand some girl, Seena Owen. Disappointed in her estimate of him when a husky westerner appears, she goes to the ranch country with a house party. Fairbanks eventually follows but falls into the hands of a tribe of Yaqui Indians. His fiancee shares a similar fate and they meet as prisoners in an Indian village that is attacked by a force of Mexicans. The Mexicans driven off, the Yaqui chief turns his attention to his white prisoners. Fairbanks and Miss Owen, with a machine gun that has been left behind by the Mexican troopers, hold their captors at bay until the arrival of a company of United States cavalry. Fairbanks is thus restored to the affections of his fiancee. This picture was produced by David W. Griffith, the producer of the "Birth of a Nation." Charles Murray, who is featured in "A Game Old Knight," is one of the best comedians now appearing on the screen. This picture is an uproar and deals with the days "When Knighthood Was In Flower." It is a burlesque on life in the olden days and Murray as a knight gains the disfavor of the king, who has him thrown into the torture chambers. These scenes are the funniest ever depicted on the screen and will cause the audience to go into paroxysms of laughter. A comedy well worthy of the name Triangle. These pictures will be shown continuously from 2 to 11 p. m., at the general admission price for all seats.

SON FACES ELECTRIC CHAIR.

New York, Dec. 4.—Petres Corneelius Van de Corput, the scapegrace son of an aristocratic Holland family, who killed a woman a year ago and was captured and tried in October, must die in the electric chair next week. Corput used the name of John Hendrick to shield his family from the disgrace he brought upon it. He was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Barbara Wright, by whom he had been employed.

CLERICUS TO MEET.

The Plainfield Clericus will meet at 11 o'clock Monday morning as the guest of Rev. James M. Smith, of St. Paul's church, Westfield. Rev. Oscar S. Michael, of Scotch Plains, will read the paper on "Psychology of Pseudology." Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock in the parish house.

E-lecturettes

A series of eight articles describing the development of electricity to the present day, prepared for the ordinary layman to read. The week from November 29 to December 4 is being featured as Electrical Prosperity Week from one end of the country to the other, and the articles are printed in the Daily Press in order to give our readers, young and old, a splendid home course in electricity.

THOMAS A. EDISON.

NO. 8.

The Wizard of Menlo Park.

"Stuff! I tell you genius is hard work, stick-to-it-ive-ness and common sense!"

In this short and trite sentence Thomas A. Edison, the Wizard of Menlo Park, sums up his successful career. But this versatile and brilliant inventor should have added genius is indefatigable in research, experiment and discovery and exhibits intense concentration of mind and love of learning.

Thomas A. Edison was born at Milan, O., in 1847, but when he was seven years of age his family moved to Port Huron, Mich., where he passed his boyhood. Edison spent but three months in the public schools, but received a thorough schooling at his mother's knee. Before he reached the age of twelve he had read Gibbon's "Rome," Hume's "History of England," Sears' "History of the World" and the "Dictionary of the Sciences."

The most important of Edison's inventions is the electric incandescent lamp, which was publicly exhibited in 1880. The new lamp proved an immediate success.

Like Faraday, Edison was a newsboy; but, unlike Faraday, Edison never knew the pangs of hunger in his early youth. They came later, and then came in the great big city of New York.

When about ten years old Edison constructed his first laboratory in the cellar of his home in Port Huron, Mich., and began experiments with a crude chemical outfit. To obtain funds with which to continue his experiments on a larger scale young Edison obtained permission to peddle newspapers on the Grand Trunk Railroad.

Edison was successful from the very start of his work. He often took in $8 or $10 a day, $1 of which was always turned over to his mother.

The lure of the laboratory kept Edison's mind on experiments. As he had plenty of leisure time during the two daily runs, Edison arranged for quite an elaborate workshop in his quarters, which he equipped with an extraordinary array of apparatus.

This laboratory on wheels was the cause of a disaster which probably had more to do with the shaping of Edison's career than any other one thing. One day a violent lurch of the train knocked a stick of phosphorus from the shelf, which burst into flames. The timely arrival of the train crew with water saved the car from complete destruction, and the embryo inventor and his beloved laboratory, printing plant and stock in trade were put off at the next stop.

Edison temporarily discontinued his research while he took up the study of telegraphy and after a short time became a brilliant operator. His fun loving and adventuresome spirit kept him roving from State to State. He spent many arduous years in the middle west before he reached Boston. His skill as a telegrapher soon obtained for him a place in the New England city, where he began his long list of successful inventions.

Edison perfected his early stock printer and went to New York in 1868 to sell his invention. He met with financial reverses and soon was without funds and on the ragged edge of starvation.

Few changes in fortune are more sudden or more dramatic in any career than that which placed an ill clad, half starved youth in charge of Dr. Laws' manufacturing plant at a salary of $300 a month. Edison had undertaken to repair a ticker apparatus that distributed stock market news to subscribers. He studied the indicator thoroughly. He readily sensed where the trouble ought to be found and had the apparatus in working condition within two hours. On learning of the skill and ease with which Edison had handled the machine Dr. Laws offered him the responsible position

In 1886 the laboratory at Orange was built, and then followed invention after invention until today the "Wizard of Menlo Park" stands unique among the men of the nineteenth century who have adapted scientific discoveries to the use of man. His phonograph and motion picture inventions have more audiences in a week than all the theatres in America have for an entire year. His storage battery is most unique in design and of great commercial value.

Foreign governments and international expositions have showered honors on the modest man whose electrical inventions and discoveries have done so much to bring about the present advanced condition of the electrical industry.

"SAFETY FIRST."

"Safety First." How frequently this phrase catches the eye, or greets the ear these days. Wherever one goes the admonition is met with and yet, how many persons give serious thought to the full meaning of the expression or take unto themselves the significance of the warning it conveys. The many repetitions of it may even prompt the thoughtless to regard it as a mere slogan, or catch phrase, to be treated lightly or ignored, but to the person who thinks, or who is at all interested in promoting the well-being and happiness of his fellows by the minimizing or eliminating of needless distress and suffering, the two words have a world of meaning.

"Safety First" embodies the purpose of a movement which is nation-wide in scope and which, primarily, has for its object the conservation of human lives, and the prevention of happenings which render men and women, boys and girls, physically incapacitated, either wholly or partially, seriously handicap them in life's race, reduce their earning power, and in many cases leave them a charge upon the community or upon society in general.

It has been said, and with more than a shadow of truth, that accidents do not "happen." There is an underlying cause for every mishap which robs an individual of life, or of even a percentage of his or her efficiency. It may be the result of a lack of proper safeguards about dangerous machinery; a want of adequate examination or supervision that otherwise would have led to the detection of defective apparatus; a failure to observe ordinary care under circumstances that call for exercise of caution or prudence, or it may be attributed to thoughtlessness. Whatever the underlying cause, it is pretty safe to say that probably nine "accidents" out of every ten that have "happened" might have been averted if the victim had been schooled to think of "Safety First" and had governed his actions in accordance with that theory.

Without definite statistics being available, it may be too broad a statement to assert that street mishaps, that is, injuries resulting to individuals on the highways or in the open, far outnumber those that occur indoors. Whether such a statement could be supported or not, is beside the question. The fact remains that such mishaps are altogether too numerous and in the aggregate, exact a terrible toll from the hapless victims. It is equally true that the vast majority of such mishaps can be reasonably charged to carelessness or thoughtlessness, either on the part of the one causing them or the one who suffers the consequences. In other words, most so-called accidents are preventable, but unless this thought can be fixed in the public mind to an extent that a goodly number of persons will give heed to it, mere knowledge of the fact will be of little avail. Such knowledge, at least, will offer no consolation to the victim after the mishap has occurred.

That earnest efforts are being put forward to spread the doctrine of "Safety First" as a means of reducing the accident hazard is attested by the widespread publicity given to activities along that line. Within the last few years many of the large corporations employing thousands of hands, the steam railroads, the street railways, organizations formed for the purpose and individuals have not only been insistently preaching "Safety First" but have been systematically practicing the same doctrine. Protecting devices have been fashioned for and installed about all kinds of machinery, warning signs have been posted in all sorts of places where danger lurks, and educational campaigns have been carried on along well-thought out lines, involving an expenditure of large sums of money, all for the purpose of saving life and limb and preventing economic waste.

To be effective, this educational work must be carried on continuously. It will not do to let it lag. Spasmodic efforts give only indifferent results, for people are prone to quickly forget. The very fact that the sources of danger are increasing makes it essential that the application of preventive measures shall not be relaxed. This is specially true in the case of street accidents, for the number of motor driven vehicles in daily use is steadily mounting and traffic conditions present new elements of danger. It seems strange to say that adults need to be reminded to be careful of their own safety, but it is true nevertheless. And if it is true of adults, it is doubly true of children. A man hurrying for a train or a street car, or to keep an appointment, is apt to "take a chance" and sometimes his hurry or his heedlessness is attended with dire consequences to himself. Children also "take chances," because they do not know any better, or because they are too young to appreciate the danger involved. When an accident "happens" to a child under such circumstances, sympathy goes out to the little sufferer. It is sympathy well placed and from the heart, too, but how much better it would be if every child were warned early enough and often enough to shun the dangerous places and thus keep out of harm's way. There would be fewer little cripples then, and not so many young lives would be bereft of happiness.

The schools are doing commendable work along these lines, for boys and girls are being taught to think of "Safety First." Public playgrounds are vastly better than public highways as recreation places for the little ones, for the playground is a haven of safety, whereas the street is at best a danger zone. But so far as the child is concerned, the duty of inculcating the lesson of "Safety First" goes beyond the classroom and the playfield. It devolves upon the parent, the natural guardians of the child. The average mother is quick to protect her offspring from attacks by disease. She should be equally diligent in guarding the child against sources of attack that are often more swift than any malady and not infrequently more terrible and more lasting in their effects. Most diseases are curable and are but setbacks of a temporary character, whereas an "accident" which deprives a boy or girl of a leg or an arm, imposes a handicap which can never be overcome, and which causes mental anguish of the keenest sort, and life long regrets.

Is it not worth while? Should not all parents resolve to play their part in the great movement which is sweeping over the country and which has both humanitarian and economic aspects of the highest character, by instilling into the minds of their children, the vital teachings of the doctrine of "Safety First.?"

A Surprising Episode

I bade him build, for hungry me,
A sandwich filled with ham.
I stood right there where I could see,
Shrewd buyer that I am!

He took two slabs of splendid bread
And buttered them just right,
Then through the ham his sharp knife fled
With all its little might.

The lean ham o'er the slices spread,
Till every bit was hid;
You don't believe a word I've said,
But that's just what it did.

The moral of this tale is this:
Far oftener we get
A square deal, than that deal we miss;
We love to growl and fret

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Cystic Goitre

THE largest, the most hideous appearing and the most harmless kind of goitre is the cystic goitre. Cyst means a swelling containing some fluid. In cystic goitre the enlargement of the neck is often monstrous, and the enlargement within the normal outline of the neck is sometimes as great as the visible outward growth. However, outside of the appearance and the annoyance of the enlarged neck, there is no influence upon the general health.

As for remedies, we have never observed the slightest benefit from any remedy whatever in cases of true cystic goitre, although simple goitre and exophthalmic goitre do respond to treatment in most instances.

A cystic goitre, in our humble opinion, is as amenable to local or internal medication, charms or incantations as a wen on the scalp—and a wen utterly refuses to disappear until it is neatly and painlessly excised.

There are three monstrosities which people carry through life in preference to undergoing a simple operation—fatty tumors, wens and cystic goitres. Of course it is up to the owner of the monstrosity, if he or she prefers the blemish to a wee bit of safe, aseptic, shockless, painless modern surgery.

For our part, though cowardly as the next doctor, we would not harbor one of these three unpleasant things a single day if we knew a good surgeon who would take the job seriously.

The large size attained by a cystic goitre is no bar to operative cure. Indeed the surgical removal of an exceedingly large cystic goitre weighing many pounds is a minor feat compared with the operation done for a case of exophthalmic goitre of scarcely noticeable size. The patient's general physical health not being affected by the goitre, it is all smooth sailing for the skilled operator.

Any one afflicted with a cystic goitre, if otherwise healthy and not already advanced in age, should consider the question of surgical cure intelligently and with due regard for the mental comfort to be anticipated in an absolute and permanent cure of the condition which cannot but handicap and ruin a useful life. There is no more excuse for harboring such a thing than there is for nursing wens or preserving simple fatty tumors; for modern surgery, despite the cunning insinuations of the fake "goitre specialist" is safe and efficient—and that is something no other alleged remedy for cystic goitre can claim to be.

WIVES

WIVES are what fiancées become when they have descended from the seventh heaven into a kitchen and a gingham apron.

A wife is a divider of man's sorrow, a multiplier of his joys, an adder to his family, a subtractor from his surplus and a compound, complex and major fraction of his existence. No home is complete without a wife. She can take a one-room cabin, and in her winsome way can make a paradise out of it with a few kind words and some curtains. But she can also take a ninety-six room mansion and make a purgatory out of it, by going to Europe and only returning for Christmas every third year.

Wives are very ornamental and are the very finest possible home decorations. They are not so successful as street ornaments. A woman can embellish a home with a smile that doesn't cost anything per candle power at all, and yet after she has gone down the street in $1,150 worth of imported clothes and has done her very best to improve the thoroughfare, it is no better for it and the clothes aren't either.

Wives are common in all parts of the world and too blamed common in some parts, such as Turkey and Utah. If women ever get suspicious and particular, wives will become much rarer than they are now. Most men acquire wives at an early age under the belief that two can live as cheaply as one. They find later that not only can two live as cheaply as one, but that they have to do it. As in the case of an automobile the first cost of a wife is a mere bagatelle. It is the upkeep which counts. The ordinary income goes into a wife once with nothing left over. But those who have tried to keep an automobile in mufflers, hoods, jackets, collars, shoes, belts and aprons declare that a wife is by far the most satisfactory investment. No automobile has yet been invented which will come and sit in your lap when you are tired and will tell you that if you had your just deserts you would be elected president, vice-president and member of congress for life.

No automobile has yet been invented which will come and sit in your lap when you are tired

The first wife was EVE. She cost Adam a rib, but he got off easily at that, for he didn't have to match American beauties with some rival for her. The finest collections of wives in history were accumulated by Solomon and Henry the Eighth. Wives are famous as conversationalists and many a man who has spent his entire afternoon with his feet on his desk talking baseball has remarked that a woman never seems to get through talking at the supper table.

Obstructing The Street

Q. Please inform me whether a private citizen who has caused an obstruction in a street may be sued for damages for an injury caused by such obstruction, or is the city alone liable?

A. The individual will be liable if he has caused or created an unlawful obstruction and injuries are thereby occasioned. The courts have held that he will be so liable, notwithstanding that the person injured might also bring an action against the city or village.

The Law's Purpose

Q. What is the purpose of the law in providing for the administration of an estate?

A. One of the principal and prime objects is to provide for the payment of debts.

Why He Drank

Q. Kindly inform me whether the states have something like uniform laws on the subject of intoxication as a ground for divorce?

A. Although the statutes of the different states differ more or less in enumerating the grounds for divorce, habitual drunkenness is nearly always included.

He Admitted Payment

Q. Where a creditor has admitted that certain payments have been made to him, will such statements be binding upon him?

A. Yes, usually.

Naturalized Enough For That

Q. If a person is residing in the United States, but has never been naturalized, is it possible for him to be adjudged a bankrupt, under our laws? A. Yes.

An Elevator Accident

Q. My cousin had occasion to visit a professional man in an office building. The elevators were not in good condition and, on account of a defect in one of the elevators, my cousin was badly injured. Couldn't he bring a suit?

A. If his injury was occasioned proximately by a defect in the elevator or machinery, and the proprietor knew of such defect or could, in the observance of the proper degree of care, have known of it, there will be a liability.

"Seal"

Q. If one signs his name to a legal document, and the word "seal" is prefixed to the blank line upon which his signature appears, what will be the legal effect?

A. It is generally held that, by signing an instrument of this character, the seal is adopted by the signer.

Poise

Poise is Success already worked out. For there can be no Success without Poise. Poise is keeping your head when everybody else loses theirs.

Poise is Power—square jawed and firm set.

When Blame all seems to come your way; when the fingers of Faultfinders all seem centered in front of your face; when Failure after Failure files into your door; when former Friends form into foes; when Clouds creep onward, black and threatening—then's the time for Poise!

Then's the time to face the Crowd and cut the air with your command of Confidence and—Poise.

The Cool heads are the Battle winners.

And you who are ruling and conserving through the art of Poise, you are "making Hay while the Sun shines," you are preserving Peace by being prepared for War.

The Strong Man always Listens—and Thinks. In such an attitude he can consider and weigh with Justice and rare Freedom the most puzzling problems. Poise to such a man is like going to the bank with funds to Invest.

Poise put into a Character balances and proportions it—makes it fit and formidable.

How many times you have seen the Man of Action at his desk, calm and collected—with plenty of time for anything important—while about him is confusion and an atmosphere of importance that is, after all, charged with very little importance.

Study out and apply the Power of Poise. Poise starts when you begin to eliminate Fear and Disorder.

Same Old Story

"History, and nature too, repeat themselves, they say.
Men are only habit's slaves; we see it every day.
Life has done its best for me. I find it tiresome still;
For nothing's anything at all, and ev'rything is nil.

"Same old get-up, dress and tub.
Same old breakfast; same old club;
Same old feeling; same old blue;
Same old story—nothing new.

"Life consists of paying bills as long as you have health.
Woman? She'll be fond of you—as long as you have wealth.
Think sometimes of marriage, if the right girl I could strike;
But the more I see of girls, the more they are alike.

"Same old giggles, smiles and eyes;
Same old kisses; same old sighs;
Same old quarrel; same adieu;
Same old story—nothing new.

"Go to theatres sometimes to see the latest plays—
Same old plots I played with in my happy childhood days.
Hero same; same villain; same old heroine in tears,
Starving, homeless in the snow—with diamonds in her ears.

"Same stern father, making bluffs;
Leading man all teeth and cuffs;
Same soubrettes—still twenty-two;
Same old jokes, too—nothing new.

"Friend of mine got married, in a year or so, a boy!
Father simply foolish in his fond paternal joy.
Talked about his 'kiddy,' and became a fearful bore.
Just as if a baby never had been born before.

"Same old crying—only more;
Same old business, walking floor;
Same old 'kitchy-coochy-coo.'
Same old baby—nothing new."

Mother Bibbins Told Them Stories.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How the Little Bibbinses Spent Their Holiday.

"TELL us about the little Bibbinses' holiday, daddy," cried Jack and Evelyn.

When Mother Bibbins, who lived on the mountain with her family, sat up in bed and saw the three rattlers which had entered her house, she soon made up her mind that her only hope of safety was the ladder leading up to the loft. So she very carefully woke Abner, her oldest child, and told him he must very quietly do as she told him. He found that by stepping on a chair near the bed he could reach the ladder. Then Mother Bibbins carefully awoke Sallie, the biggest girl, and together they carried the sleeping children across the beds as noiselessly as mice and handed them to Abner, who, crawling through the trapdoor, laid them on the cold floor.

"Didn't a single one wake up?" cried Jack.

"They were sound asleep," daddy assured him. "Mother Bibbins intended to take up with her some clothes and bread and a patchwork quilt to wrap the children in when she crawled up through the door herself. But almost before the last baby was safe the rattlers, aroused by the noise in the room and thawed out by the warm fireplace, began to dart around on the floor and wiggle their rattling tails. This frightened poor Mother Bibbins so that she scampered up the ladder without waiting to see a thing.

"The cold night wind whistled in through cracks in the old roof, and soon the small children woke up, whimpering with the cold. The baby cried for his milk, and there was none to give him. They all huddled together to keep warm, but their little bodies were very thin and the night very cold. Mother Bibbins told them stories to keep them happy and brave. Sometime they all peeked down through the trapdoor and by the dim light on the fireplace saw the rattlers crawling around their beds.

"Finally a faint strip of light crept through the little attic window, so Abner and Sallie, shivering in their nightgowns, took turns watching for help while the children shivered on the floor. But the little home was very far from other houses, and half of the next morning had passed before far down the road Abner saw two farmers coming, driving a pair of oxen. When they got nearer Mother Bibbins shouted for them to save her. The men broke open her kitchen door and with their long lashed cartwhips killed the rattlers. Then the little Bibbinses all crawled down the ladder. Mother Bibbins soon had a fire started and some mush cooked for them while they scrambled into their clothes. And you can't help but try to imagine what a glad, happy holiday they managed to have on nothing but bread and red apples."

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Julia Osgood Has Her Suspicions As to Who Stole the Money.

"What has happened?" asked Julia Osgood, as John Sutner sank into the chair by his desk, white and shaking, and dropped his head on his arm. There was no answer and she went hastily over to his side. They were alone in the room.

"Do tell me what it is," she repeated. "Have you lost your position?"

"Worse than that," came unsteadily from his white lips. "It's Tyler."

"Tyler!" she repeated. "I do not understand."

"I was called to the office. Jaynes was there closeted with Tyler. He accused me of taking three hundred dollars from the safe!"

"No! Not actually accused you! Can't be." The girl was swept off her feet with excitement. "Tell me more. Tell me everything." She drew up a chair with trembling eagerness.

"The minute I opened the door I knew something dreadful had happened. Tyler sat there with that sinister look on his face. Jaynes motioned me to a seat and fixed a piercing look on me. 'Mr. Tyler informs me that there is a shortage of something like three hundred dollars, Mr. Sutner. Of course there are only youresif and Tyler here who have the safe combination. That and the knowledge of your debts makes me feel that I must go into this case very thoroughly.' I could only say feebly that my books were all right and that I knew nothing about the matter. I suppose they took my panic and confusion for signs of guilt. I felt utterly helpless; perfectly at the mercy of that man who is at the bottom of this, I am sure."

"Did he say nothing else to you? Did he refuse to believe what you said?" asked the girl indignantly.

"Mr. Jaynes said if I had taken the money because of my financial straits it would be my wisest course to confess, as in that case he would not prosecute me," said Sutner with great bitterness.

"Don't you remember the night I saw the light in the office?" The girl leaned forward and asked the question in a low tone. "If that man is trying to fix a theft on you be sure he is the thief and he has fixed your books so that it will look as if you were trying to cover your tracks."

"If he has, I could not prove that I did not do it. If my books are tampered with it would be evidence against me, not him."

"That is what he was doing here that night. I am sure of it. Do you remember how he looked when I told him about my seeing the light?" Julia's eyes were shining with excitement.

"You may believe it and I know I am innocent, but how is that going to help me? No one knows me here. I am known to greatly need three hundred dollars to pay my debts. You see he has the exact sum I owe."

"Doubtless he heard you say you needed three hundred dollars the time you were talking about your troubles. We saw him standing listening at the door," interrupted Julia.

"You warned me at the time that I was airing my views pretty freely, I remember," replied John bitterly.

"Is there nothing you can do to prove your innocence?" asked the girl.

"I can think of nothing. In fact I cannot think at all. My brain seems paralyzed."

"Dr. Ellson is a friend of yours. Tell him about it. Perhaps he can help you," suggested Julia, rising. "Something has got to be done. You are not going to sit still and let them railroad you to jail."

"I suppose I must tell him, but how can I? How can I tell him I am accused of being a common thief, and Molly!" he gasped. "How can I ever tell her?"

AND THE WORST IS YET TO CO ME--

Household Hints..

SULPHURED APPLES.

Take half bushel basket of pared apples cut into small quarters, and an airtight barrel.

Put old kettle in barrel, in which burn some paper. When paper is burnt, put two tablespoons of sulphur on paper. Have apples in basket, fasten a strap to basket handle, then to stick, and hang in barrel with stick across top of barrel. Cover top of barrel air tight and let them sulphur twenty-four hours. Then take from barrel and pour into clean crock. When crock is full, tie cloth over top of crock and apples will keep till all are used.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES

CORNS—Placing one drop of diluted nitric acid upon the corn will hasten its removal. Soft corns between the toes are more obstinate. Place a little carborated vaseline on a piece of cotton batting between the toes; a good remedy and relief.

CHILBLAINS—Soak feet in alum water as hot as can be borne for twenty minutes before bedtime; or, use potato water instead of alum; or, use a good cider vinegar. Any one is good.

WARTS—Oil of cinnamon dropped on warts three or four times a day will cause the mto disappear, however hard, large or dense they may be. The application causes no pain and no suppuration.

THE TABLE

Creamed Oysters—Allow four to six small oysters to each person. Drain off liquor and wash. Put in shallow pan over low fire and let simmer until oysters become plump. Make a cream sauce in proportion of two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon flour, three-fourths cup milk, dash of paprika and salt to taste. Add hot liquor from oysters, then add oysters. Serve at once in patty shells.

Date Bars—One cupful sugar, two eggs, one cupful English walnuts, meats chopped, one pound dates, one cupful flour, one teaspoonful baking powder and pinch of salt. Beat egg yolks, combine with sugar, and stir until creamy. Mix together the flour, baking powder, and salt; add nuts and dates, stoned and quartered; beat the egg whites stiff and add alternately with the flour mixture to the yolks and sugar. Bake in a sheet in small dripping pan about thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Remove from oven and cut into bars; ice with chocolate icing and decorate with nut meats and bits of dates.

Persimmon Cake—One cup persimmon pulp, one-half cup sugar, one egg, one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon soda, butter size of walnut. Bake forty minutes in moderate oven. For a soft pudding leave out egg. For a custard leave out flour and baking powder.

MENUS FOR THANKSGIVING

BREAKFAST

Baked Sweet Potatoes and Tiny Pork Sausages.
Johnnycake. Apple Sauce. Coffee.

Baked Sweet Potatoes and Sausages—Cut cold boiled sweet potatoes lengthwise and lay in shallow pan with sprinkling of sugar and nutmeg and a wee sausage on each side slice. Toast golden brown in oven and serve.

FEAST OF HANUKAH CELEBRATED HERE

Newcorn Tells of Importance of Event to All the World.

The Friday evening services were held at Temple Sholem, Grove street, last night. The choir rendered sacred music appropriate to the Feast of Hanukah. President William Newcorn officiated and spoke upon the subject of Hanukah, its history and object lesson. Among other things he said:

"The Feast of Hanukah is celebrated to commemorate the victory of Judah Maccabee and his compatriots over the Syrian armies and the purification and rededication of the Temple Solomon in Jerusalem. In order to thoroughly understand the significance of this important event and its bearing upon the future civilization of mankind, a slight resume of the condition existing at the time would be appropriate.

"Prior to this event Alexander the Great had conquered the then known world, and when succeeded by Philip of Macedon, the glory of Israel and its former greatness was dimmed. The kingdom established by Solomon and David and their successors was weakened and decayed. The Israelites were the only nation on the face of the earth who believed and worshipped God. They were surrounded by the Persians, who worshipped the sun; the Syrians, who worshipped graven images; the Greeks, Romans and Egyptians, who made planets into Gods, and idolatry was supreme throughout the land. When Antichious became King of Syria he insisted upon the Jews forsaking the faith of their fathers. Thousands of Israelites were set out in front of the altars, and upon their refusal to worship as dictated by their masters they were slaughtered. The nation was continually oppressed. This condition continued until 175 years before the Christian Era, when Mattathias, High Priest of Israel, who lived in Modiom, rose up and by his example and courage infused new life into the Hebrew nation. His son, Judah Maccabee, gathered together a few courageous spirits and worked continually until 163 B. C., waging a relentless war from their mountain fastness upon their appressors until finally they annihilated the vast armies of the Syrians and captured Jerusalem, their first task being to purify and dedicate the Holy Temple, kindling the sacred fire with the sacred oil, and giving thanks to God for his aid and support during the trials and tribulations they had passed through.

"The victories of Judah Maccabee and his followers, culminating as it did in the recapture of Jerusalem and the rekindling of the sacred fire in the temple, drew the people close and closer together and proved the greatness and omnipresence of God.

"Upon the success of the Maccabees depended not only the welfare but the religious salvation of the world, the re-establishment of the worship of God; led to events and incidents in the history of the world which is beyond comprehension, and which only time has been able to prove and demonstrate. It is therefore appropriate that not only we of the Jewish race, but the entire civilized world should view with admiration and respect the valor and piety of that handful of patriots who fought so valiantly, upholding the principles of patriotism and religion, who were the means of preventing the extinguishment of truth and religion, and preserved for all time to come the doctrine of the unity of God and the brotherhood of mankind."

HEART FAILURE ENDS MRS. SMITH'S LIFE

Well Known West End Woman Passed Away After Attack This Morning.

Mrs. Sophia Smith, wife of Samuel Smith, died suddenly at her home, 412 Spooner avenue, shortly after midnight this morning, from an attack of hear failure. She was alone in her apartment at the time, her husband being employed at night at the Spicer plant, and she would have received no assistance by for the fact that Mrs. John Sullivan, living in an apartment below, heard her moans. On discovering what was the matter Mrs. Sullivan summoned Dr. Yood, but the sufferer was beyond aid before the physician arrived. Mrs Smith had been in rather poor health for the past year, but was about as usual yesterday, even to making a shopping trip in the business district. Her death was entirely unexpected, and will come as a great shock to her friends, of whom she had a great many in the city and borough. She was a native of England, but had been a resident of Plainfield for the past twenty-five years, with the exception of a brief stay at Providence, R. I. She was a member of Hope chapel and a consistent Christian. In the early days of Hope chapel she was a prominent worker in the Ladies' Aid Society and other organizations.

Beside her husband, Mrs. Smith is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Nellie Barnes, of West Fifth street, and Mrs. Sophia Howarth, of Providence, R. I.; also two sons, Charles Hall, of South avenue, and John R. H. Hall of Netherwood avenue. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

BOROUGH P.-T. ASS'N HOLDS SUCCESSFUL FAIR

The first fair held under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' Association of North Plainfield drew large throngs to Debele's Hall yesterday afternoon and evening. About $175 was netted for the benefit of the Recreation Hall fund, the fair being so successful that it will probably be held annually.

Dancing was a feature in the evening. Mrs. E. P. Wisch was chairman of the grab-bag committee, those in charge of tables being: Fancy work Mrs. Judd Stewart; apron, Mrs. D. R. Douglass; utility, Mrs. L. D. Townley; cake, Mrs. Warren Townley; candy, Mr. J. R. Blair.

Rev. Eward S. Ralston, pastor, will preach at the Netherwood Reformed church tomorrow morning and evening. In the evening his topic will be, "Peace; God's and the World's."

MANY MOURNERS ATTEND J. B. GUTTRIDGE'S FUNERAL

In the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends which more than filled the house to overflowing, the funeral of James Belson Guttridge was held at the late home on South avenue last night. It was conducted by Rev. Henry Mesier, rector of St. Stephen's church, the simple Episcopal service being used. The friends present included delegations from the Elizabeth lodge of Elks, Plainfield Council Royal Arcanum and Perseverance Lodge, K of P. These organizations contributed handsome floral pieces while many others were given by friends.

A further service for the family was held at the house this morning and burial was made later in the cemetery at Rahway. Members of the family carried the casket to its final resting place.

MR. AND MRS. RUSHMORE CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Rushmore of Stelle avenue, entertained a gathering of relatives at their home, last night, in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. There were fifty persons present in all and they enjoyed a program of vocal and instrumental music furnished by professional talent from New York. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

Mr. and Mrs. Rushmore were married in this city on December 3, 1890, the ceremony being performed by the late Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, then pastor of the Crescent Avenue church. Mrs. Rushmore was formerly Miss Jean Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray, of Central avenue.

ALEXANDER MILLAR TALKS TO MEN ON "EFFICIENCY"

"Efficiency" was the subject of a highly interesting address delivered before the Men's Club of Warren chapel last evening by Alexander Millar, secretary of the Union Pacific Railroad. Efficiency as it relates to railroading and agriculture was touched upon by Mr. Millar. A general discussion followed the talk. Refreshments were served.

A short business meeting of the club preceded the address, routine business being transacted. A letter from the McAll Mission in France was read.

BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE.

A barn on Leland avenue, near North avenue, belonging to John Kate, colored, caught fire in some mysterious manner shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The fire department responded to an alarm from box 56, but the structure was in flames before they reached the scene. A horse left in one of the stalls was quite badly burned before it was gotten out by Mr. Kates' son. The animals is being attended by a veterinary, and will probably be saved. The damage to the structure was placed at $00

SETTLE HOD CARRIER DISPUTE.

A joint arbitration board, representing the Building Trades Council and the Master Builders' Association, conferred in Trades Council Hall, last night, on a report that B. F. Tallamy and Bro. were not paying the union scale to hod carriers. The matter was argued at considerable length, but at the conclusion everything was satisfactorily adjusted and clearance was given to all jobs now being finished by the Tallamy concern.

NAVAL MAN SUED BY WOMAN.

Newport, R. I., Dec. 4.—A breach of promise suit brought against William H. Schools, chief master of arms at the Naval Training Station, by Miss Oral L. Menalder, of Chicago and New York, will be called for trial next Monday. Scholls has been for 25 years in the naval service. The couple met last summer during the visit of Miss Menalder, who is said to be a nurse. She alleges Schools represented himself as single and a man of means, and declares he promised to marry her.

PROBE GIRL'S CHARGES.

Sallisaw, Okla., Dec. 4.—A special grand jury has been summoned for next Monday to investigate the charges filed against former County Judge L. C. McNabb by the seventeen-year-old daughter of Charles Ross, a prominent resident of this city. McNabb resigned as a result of the charges. The girl's father circulated the petition, which caused the convening of a special jury.

A SLIGHT FIRE.

The city fire department was called out at 12:30 this noon on an alarm from box 37 for a slight fire in the home of Den. J. Galbraith, at Essex street and Darrow avenue. There was practically no damage.

E. B. MAYNARD SELLS OUT.

FACTORY MEN PLAY ON HOPE COURT TONIGHT

A basketball game will be staked in the Hope Chapel gymnasium tonight, between two teams of Pond employes. The game, which will start at 8 o'clock, will be refereed by Jack Martin.

The teams will line up as follows:

Benedicts—Sims and Rudderman, forwards; Moore, center; Hallard and Randolph, guards.

Bachelors—Carmichael and Wardrop, forwards; Fitzgerald, center, Anderson and Leighs, guards.

NOW ON ROAD TO RECOVERY.

Friends of George Low will be mighty glad to hear that the popular Baltusrol professional is on the rapid road to recovery from an attack of pneumonia. It will be a couple or three weeks, however, before he can resume his duties at the club.

ALBIN LEADS PARK CLUB FIVE-BACKERS

Overton Has Score of 70 in One Game—Handicaps For Next Week.

L. D. Albin was first, Tone Overton second, and Mr. Burnett was third in the weekly five-back bowling at the Park Club, Thursday night. C. A. Rice, as usual, had the best score, but his small handicap kept him from being in the running for the points. Overton rolled 70 in his second game, the highest of the evening.

The handicaps for next week based on this week's scores, will be as follows: Rice, 2; Rogers, 16; Overton, 17; Gilman, 28; Albin, 29; Robison, 30; Weeks, 34; Clawson, 34; Smith, 36; Hamman, 36; Burnett, 36; Hall, 37; Sandford, 40; Russell, 40; Cregar, 40.

The scores made in each game, the total, and the total including the handicap, follow:

Albin	52	47	55	154	186
Overton	35	70	52	157	175
Burnett	49	48	49	137	177

SPORTING NOTES

The six-day bicycle race in New York, which begins on Monday next, brings a new rule into prominence. A staff of doctors will go over the riders and unless each individual rider is well trained and in perfect condition, he will be eliminated.

Mike Gibbons boxes Young Ahearn at St. Paul next Friday night. The Eastern battler expects to down Gibbons in his own home town.

The big college regatta at Poughkeepsie will be held on June 17 next summer, it has been decided. This date is ten days earlier than usual, and is set because of the tides.

The New England cross country championship is being run off today at Franklin Park, Boston. The winner of the race and the team winning first place will compete in the national cross-country championships at New York next Saturday.

The New Orleans Mardi Gras gets the first Willard match since he became heavyweight champion. Unless the wire pullers change their minds, big Fred Fulton, of Minnesota, will be his opponent.

TABS GARNER EASY WIN OVER ADELTAS

Coach Lidgate Gets Into the Fray and Proves to Be Whole Team.

St. Mary's T. A. B. S. was victorious over the Adeltas, of North Plainfield, last evening, defeating that team by the overwhelming score of 41 to 22. The borough players were not given much opportunity to do much shooting, the ball being in the winners' territory nearly all the time.

Eugene Lidgate, the Tabs' coach, played a forward position, and was a tower of strength to his team, the club players being unable to guard him. Liddy made nine pretty field goals.

ANOTHER REVERSAL FOR N. P. H. S. BOYS

Dilts Only Boroughite Who Took His Shooting Eye to Princeton Last Night.

North Plainfield High School suffered another defeat last evening at Princeton, succumbing to the High School team of that place by the score of 27 to 17. This marks the fourth defeat in a row for the boroughites, all the games, with one exception, being played on their opponents' courts.

The game was marred last evening by the infliction of many fouls by the strict referee, several of the players on each side coming dangerously close to being disqualified for having personal fouls opposite their name. The frequency with which these were levied tended to have an effect on the game, the players being unable to show to their best advantage.

The Princetonians were well trained in the art of dribbling, several baskets being made in this manner. N. P. H. S. had an off night in the shooting line, Dilts being the only consistent shooter, while both the borough forward were unable to rely upon their usual accuracy.

The last period was closely waged the visitors being outwitted by one point, while they held the upper hand during the latter period of play, displaying their best passing and shooting during this stretch.

Study this dissected-tire illustration — from "life." Note the plies of Sea Island cotton duck; the thick cushion; the strong breaker strip; the special binder strip and the thick, tough tread of white rubber.
These materials, the finest used in tire making, are built in by hand—slowly and with the greatest care, by expert tire makers.
TEMPERED QUAKER RUBBER
Our secret and exclusive process of tempering the rubber gives QUAKER TIRES the exact necessary degrees of hardness, toughness, resiliency and tensile strength, and adds extraordinary endurance.
These are some of the reasons why users report mileage of 8,000, 10,000, 12,000 miles, and even more.

DR. HUDSON ENTERS UPON SECOND YEAR OF PASTORATE

Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, who has just completed the first year of his pastorate at the Park Avenue Baptist church, enters upon his second year tomorrow, at which time twenty-five new members will be received at the communion service in the morning. Dr. Hudson will preach on "Why Join the Church?" In the evening he will speak on the words "They Say."

During Dr. Hudson's pastorate here seventy-one new members have been received, forty-seven of which were by baptism. The church has had one of the most successful years in its history and the future is promising.

RUB RHEUMATISM PAIN FROM SORE, ACHING JOINTS

Rub pain away with small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

What's Rheumatism? Pain only. Stop drugging! Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism and sciatica liniment, which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle from your druggist, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic and sciatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. Old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains and swellings.—Adv.

TRIBUTE OF ELKS TO DEPARTED ONES

Judge Runyon Lays Oral Wreaths Upon Memory of Those Gone Before.

23 LIGHTS GO OUT

Former Congressman Fowler Is Memorial Orator At Local Lodge of Sorrow—Plainfield Theatre Crowded for Services.

Plainfield Elks, their wives and friends, assembled at the Plainfield Theatre last night to lay oral wreaths upon the memory of their departed brothers and friends in the impressive lodge of sorrow that is a part of each year in Elkdom.

There were twenty-three lights in the wreathed star that hung above lodge officers assembled on the platform, and twenty-three lights went out as the names of departed members were solemnly read by Secretary William R. Townsend. Those for whom the services were held and to whose memory tribute was paid last night were: Daniel Detweiler, Herbert S. Taylor, Robert L. Thomae, Olin L. Jenkins, Herbert B. Brooks, Charles C. Burnet, Maze Edwards, Joseph W. Reinhart, William W. Winn, Alexander H. Small, John A. [illegible], Herbert L. Overbaugh, Elmer E. Runyon, James H. Daly, David J. Carney, John H. LOST $16,000 IN HIS CELL AT CITY JAIL Wanted Reporter to Help Him Find it, But it Was too Early in the Day.

"I want to surrender," was the matter-of-statement of Mack Davis, aged 52, of 328 East Fourth street, as he walked into the police station early Sunday morning and stepped up to Sergeant Flynn at the desk.

"A German regiment just killed my wife and I was afraid you might blame it on me."

A patrolman was hurriedly sent to the Davis home to view the body of the murdered wife. Instead, however, he met Mrs. Davis in the flesh. "Where is that man?" she asked, when told that Davis was circulating stories of her death. "I have been looking for him for two days. Send him home."

But the police didn't send him home for he had begun to tell strange tales that caused them to doubt his sanity and they held him for Judge De Meza. When a Press reporter stopped at his cell this morning, Davis was busily engaged in a search. "Help me find it, will you?" he asked the scribe.

"Find what?" the reporter was willing to look for most anything, but was ashamed to confess an acquaintance with jail cells familiar enough to note a missing object.

"Why, I just dropped $16,000 here somewhere. It doesn't make any difference to me, but I don't like to leave money laying around like that. Some of the careless cops might not know what to do with it." The reporter tried to imagine Morris Hizgig, Martin Welch or John Kelly [illegible] after they had found $16,000, but he couldn't. He awoke to a realization that such thoughts laid him liable for arraignment along with the occupant of the cell, and he beat a retreat, but not before Davis told him:

"You know Senator Martine left me $50,000,000 the other day. I made a million last week and could make a million more this week if I needed it."

But such dreams were not for a reporter, at least not so early in the morning.

Dr. Currie and Dr. Tomlinson have pronounced Davis a victim of insanity and he will be committed to Morris Plains tomorrow morning.

MRS. ANDERSON WINS DIVORCE AND CHILD

Mrs. Evelyn Anderson has been awarded a decree of divorce by the Court of Chancery from her husband, Clifford W. Anderson. She is also awarded the custody of Howard Anderson, the infant child of the marriage. The divorce was granted on the grounds of desertion. She was represented in this proceeding by Robert Newton Crane.

TURKS REPORT VICTORY

Claim Campaign on Bagdad Has Been Completely Routed.—British Suffer Terrific Losses and Are Still Falling Back.

The Hague, Dec. 6.—In German Parliamentary circles it is believed that the peace talk in the Reichstag will assume considerable proportions. The Socialist leader will introduce an interpolation on the subject at length.

British Campaign Fails.

Constantinople, Dec. 6.—The Mesopotamia campaign of the British has ended in failure, according to the Turkish War Office. No further fears for the safety of Bagdad are felt, although British reinforcements are on their way to the Tigris Valley. Late advices from the Irha front emphasizes the importance of the Turkish victory between Ctesiphon and Kut El Amara, says the official report. "the Mesapotamia campaign of the British has ended in a failure. Bagdad is regarded as completely safe. The British are still falling back, having suffered terrific losses."

GEORGE H. BURGESS DIES IN 54TH YEAR

Well Known Plainfielder Passes Away After a Long Illness.

George H. Burgess, aged 54 years, a resident of this city for forty-three years, died yesterday at his home, 1057 Central avenue. He had been in poor health for the past five years, and his death was not wholly unexpected. Mr. Burgess was born in Jersey City, coming to this city when a boy.

For several years he held a position with the Bank of New York, later going with the Standard Oil Company. He retired from buiness eighteen years ago. For many years he was an active member of the First M. E. church, serving as a trustee and treasurer. He was a regular atendant at the services until his ill health prevented.

There survives but one sister, Mrs Joseph B. Yerkes, with whom Mr Burgess lived. The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and will be in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church. The burial will be private.

TWO ORGANIZATIONS JOIN HANDS TO PRODUCE PLAY

St. Joseph's Holy Name Society will join hands with the St. Joseph's Club in the presentation of a comedy, "Snobson's Stag Party" it was decided at a meeting held yesterday. The production, which is being given under the direction of Miss Mary O'Connor, will be staged in St. Joseph's Hall next Monday evening, and will be followed by a reception and dance in Debele's Hall. Refreshments will be served, and the committees in charge of the affair promise a highly enjoyable evening to all who attend.

MRS. ANNA FRITTS DIES AT HOME OF HER SON

Mrs. Anna E. Fritts, aged 67, died this morning at the home of her son, Melvin E. Fritts, 239 Dunellen avenue, Dunellen. Mrs. Fritts had been a resident of this county for the past twenty-five years. She moved to Dunellen from High Bridge. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. Funeral services will be held from the residence of her son at 7.30 Tuesday evening, also at the First M. E. church of High Bridge, at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Interment will be in Evergreen Cemetery in Clinton. Besides her son Mrs. Fritts is survived by one sister, Mrs. Minnie Apgar, of Dunellen, and one brother, who lives at High Bridge.

BIRTH OF A DAUGHTER.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Gaskill, of West Sixth street, are rejoicing over the arrival of a girl, who arrived at their home yesterday morning.

JOHNSTON INDORSED FOR JOURNAL CLERK

No Action Taken by Republicans on Candidacy of Robert N. Crane.

George H. Johnston, of Scotch Plains, was indorsed for journal clerk of the General Assembly at a meeting of the Union county Republican executive committee held in Elizabeth this morning. John W. Cliff, of Summit, was indorsed for secretary of the Senate.

No action was taken on the candidacy of Robert Newton Crane, of this city, for file clerk. Crane held this position last year and is apparently without opposition. Reports from Elizabeth this morning were to the effect that a majority of members of the committee were for Mr. Crane but a decision on this race was postponed for two weeks.

WHO WILL MAKE XMAS BRIGHT FOR THESE KIDS

Only One Case of Many That Community Movement Plans to Relieve.

There is a deserving mother of four children in Plainfield who hold out little or no encouragement to the youngsters that Santa Claus will visit them unless the Community Christmas movement takes care of the case. The woman has been deserted by her husband, and the children have had whooping cough and other sickness which has made it impossible to place them in the Day Nursery, which would make it possible for the mother to go out and earn something to take care of the family. As a result Christmas cheer can only come to that home through the Community movement, which generous Plainfielders are going to make possible. And this case is merely a typical one taken from the records of the Charity Organization Society, there being a score or more equally pathetic. All told there are probably four hundred youngsters and their parents who will not believe that there is a Santa Claus unless the representatives of that patron saint pay them a visit the day before with an automobile loaded down with the toys for the youngsters, and the more substantial things, such as flour, for the whole family.

Treasurer DeWitt Hubbell, who gets more pleasure out of acknowledging subscriptions for the cause than out of any other thing he does, is at his office in the Plainfield Trust Company every day in the week. It will give him as much satisfaction to acknowledge a nickel from some youngster, who is giving all he can afford, as it will to acknowledge a check ten times as large as that. Some of those who have already sent in their contributions include Councilman Richard A. Claybrook, Dr and Mrs. W. H. Murray, W. T. Talifero, Charles A. Rice, Charles H. Frost, W. R. P. Veysey, A. Mellick Tweedy, Ernest R. Ackerman, George H. Belser, George H. Frost, Charles A. Reed, Mrs. Henry E. Bowen, William T. Kaufman and E. H. Booth. About $300 is on hand, but it is expected that from $1,500 to $2,000 will be needed. Checks can be sent direct to Mr. Hubbell.

SENATOR AND MRS. MARTINE RETURN TO WASHINGTON

United States Senator and Mrs. James E. Martine left yesterday morning for Washington, from which city they will not return until Congress again adjourns. The Senator has been much in demand at the capital, but has steadfastly refused to leave Plainfield, in spite of a large number of telegraphic requests to do so, until after the laying of the cornerstone of the postoffice. One day last week he received twenty-one requests by wire and a number of telephone calls urging his attendance at a Democratic caucus. Mrs. Martine, who fell some time ago while alighting from an automobile, and broke her wrist, is much improved, and is now able to use the injured member to a limited extent, the plaster cast having been removed. The visit which the Senator has just concluded to Plainfield is the longest that he has made to his home town since he was sworn in five years ago. While here he has made a large number of speeches and visits to various parts of the State, and between times has directed the improving of the house and grounds at "Cedarbrook," the family homestead.

RASORES TO MEET

The Rasores will meet tomorrow morning with Mrs. Horace G. Phillips, of Kensington avenue.

SAFFORD BEGS TO BE FREED--100 REASONS

Hotel Clerk Files Assignment of Error in Famous "Osborne" Case.

Franklin Safford, the Plainfield hotel clerk who figured prominently in the Osborne trials, and was sentenced to serve nine months in prison for perjury because he testified that James W. Osborne was the same person who, under the name of Oliver Osborne, visited the Kensington Hotel here in the company of Rae Tanzer on October 18, 1914, has begun another fight to clear his name.

Safford Saturday filed a brief with the Circuit Court of Appeals of New York in which his attorneys give 100 reasons why his conviction should be set aside.

Safford is now at liberty under bond. In urging that he be freed his attorneys call attention to the statement of the Judge who convicted him, who said in passing sentence: "I personally am convinced from the evidence that this particular defendant is a very small cog in the several wheels."

MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL DANCE NEW YEAR'S EVE

A dance given under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary Board for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital, will be held at the High School Auditorium on New Year's eve. The committee arranging the dance promise some new and thrilling features to celebrate the arrival of 1916 and hope that everyone interested in the hospital—and incidentally in a good time—will make a special effort to be present.

The committee in charge is as follows: Miss Eva Browne, chairman; Mrs. J. Whitney Baker, Mrs. Henry Brower, Mrs. Frederick Goddard, Miss Helen Harman, Mrs. Sherman Joost, Mrs. Walter Righter, Mrs. William B. Tyler, Mrs. Edward Waring.

BRIEF ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH OF MRS. SAXTON

Mrs. Margaret A. Saxton, wife of Newton H. Saxton, died at her home 1322 West Eighth street, this morning, following an illness of only two days. She was sixty-seven years old and had resided in this city practically all her life. Beside her husband, who was engaged in the lumber business on East Fourth street for many years, she leaves one daughter, Mrs. Harold Clark, of West Eighth street, with whom she lived. There are also surviving one sister Mrs. Catherine Manning, of Myrtle avenue, and two brothers, Estelle Elliott, of this city, and Benjamin Elliott, of Scotch Plains. Mrs. Saxton was a member of the First Baptist church and was a devoted worker for many years. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

TWO SLIGHT FIRES.

The city fire department responded to two alarms Saturday afternoon and evening, both of them being for chimney fires. The first was at 5:30 in the Quaker Candy Shop, on East Front street, and the other at the home of Mrs. C. P. Leggitt, of 922 Madison avenue, shortly before 8 o'clock. There was no damage in either case.

LAMP CAUSES FIRE.

An overheated lamp which was left burning while the members of the family were out caused a small stair blaze on the second floor of Charles Bimble's home in Jefferson avenue, North Plainfield, Saturday night. The fire was extinguished by chemicals.

RUNYON AND NASH LEASE NEW OFFICES

Will Move to Depew Building as Soon As Suite is Altered.

The exodus from the Vanderbeek building will begin shortly after the new year. Judge William N. Runyon and Vincent W. Nash, Jr., attorneys, who occupy the suite of offices next to the editorial rooms of the Press, have signed a lease on a suite of five rooms in the Depew building, and they will probably be the first to move. Their lease on the new offices dates from the first of the new year, although it is not known when the change will be made. Extensive alterations are to be made in the new offices before they will be occupied. Other tenants in the Vanderbeek building are also preparing to move.

KIELY GOES AFTER BURGLAR SUSPECT

Legal Fight for Extradition of Blauvelt on in Albany.

Police Chief Kiely, of the local police force, went to Albany last night to secure requisition papers for Bradford Blauvelt, who is wanted here on charges of burglary and assault. Blauvelt is the man upon whom the police have fixed the crime of assaulting William T. Grier at the latter's home on Grant avenue and West Seventh street on the night of November 2. A burglar was surprised by Mr. Grier in his home that night and the intruder asaulted Mr. Grier with a blackjack. He escaped and it was not until more than a week later that the police secured a clue to his identity.

Through clever detective work on the part of Capt. Flynn and Lieut. Higgins it was learned that Bauvelt was around the Grier home on the night of the crime and he was arrested in New York. He refused to come out of the State without the necessary legal papers and the fight for his extradition began at Albany this morning, with Chief Kiely representing the city of Plainfield.

800 SEE K. C. PLAY GIVEN FOR CHARITY

A goodly sum was raised for charity yesterday afternoon, when members of the dramatic club of the Knights of Columbus presented "Ye Old Village Skewl" for the second time in the auditorium of the club building. More than eight hundred persons attended the performance, he money will be used among the poor and unfortunate during the Christmas holidays.

POSTMASTER SPOKE AT ROUND TABLE CLUB TODAY

Postmaster A. E. Hoagland spoke to the members of the Round Table Club at the weekly luncheon this noon at the Queen City Hotel. He told them in brief of the plans for the forthcoming convention of the letter carriers of the State, which is to be held on Decoration Day in this city. Plans are under way for a souvenir booklet, and it will be necessary to raise about $1,200 to entertain the visitors.

TWO NEW HOUSES TO BE BUILT ON KENSINGTON AVENUE

Former Councilman Frank L. Holt will break ground for a handsome new residence on Kensington avenue tomorrow. His property is located about half-way between Watchung and Propect avenues. A. L. C. Marsh is the architect. H. A. Robinson, who now resides on Prospect avenue, will also soon build on the same block on Kensington avenue having purchased half of the lot which at one time was owned by the Board of Education. Wilder and White are preparing Mr. Robinson's plans.

DANCE PERMITS.

Permits have been issued for three dances to be held in the borough, two of them this month and the third in January. St. Joseph's church will run a dance in Debele's Hall next Saturday evening, the Chelsea Social Club will gather in Saengerbund Hall next Friday night, and the Ten Bell Social Club affair will be held in Saengerbund Hall, January 7.

CLOSE CORNER-STONE CEREMONIES WITH ORATORY AT BANQUET

United States Senator, Two Former Congressmen, Mayors, Postmaster and Others Express Pride Over New Edifice Now Being Erected—No Hitch to Afternoon Ceremony, Which Drew Large Crowd.

Terminating what Assemblyman William N. Runyon declared to be "a red letter day for Plainfield," a banquet was held on Saturday night, under the auspices of the local Masonic lodges in the Babcock building, to fittingly celebrate the laying of the cornerstone of the new postoffice. About one hundred guests, most of them members of the organization, including many from out of town, sat down to a hearty meal, and listened afterward to a number of speakers, after each had been well introduced by Mr. Runyon, who acted as toastmaster.

The first speakers called upon were two grand chaplains of the grand lodge of the Masonic fraternity in the State, who spoke largely about the position which the fraternity holds in the country, and complimented the Plainfielders on their new postoffice, which they declared would serve as a constant reminder of the government, and would act as a summons for all who passed it to a deeper and truer national spirit, based upon the citizens' duty to the country and the upholding of the flag. These were Messrs. Johnson and Cross.

Senator James F. Martine who remained in Plainfield until after the cornerstone laying in spite of insistent demands that he return to Washington, was introduced by Assemblyman Runyon as the man whom "Plainfielders loved as farmer Jim, as a candidate for every office under the sun, and as the senior United States Senator from New Jersey." Just as the Senator started to talk Judge Runyon's chair collapsed under him, which caused the speaker to say that he had heard of men being talked deaf, dumb and blind, but he had never before heard of anyone talking the legs off a chair. He told how infinitely proud and happy he was of Plainfield with her prospective great government building, which was to prove a real monument to the grandest country on God's footstool. He then proposed a toast to President Wilson, which was drunk standing by all present.

Warming up to his subject, the Senator launched into what was probably as able a speech as he has ever made in this city. He reminisced about the former postmasters, who "dodged around like shadows" with their offices, and wondered what they

REWARDS FOR PUPILS WHO SELL T.-B. SEALS

School Children Striving to Get Distinctive Markers Offered by League.

Never before have the school children shown such a desire to sell Red Cross seals in Plainfield as has already been evidenced this year. George M. Holstein, chairman of the committee of the local Anti-Tuberculosis League having the sale in charge, has worked out a plan which is making every youngster try to get rid of a large number of the seals. Every boy or girl who disposes of twenty-five of the little holiday stickers will receive a button with the double red cross, the insignia of the league, and those who sell 200 or more are to be given attractive pins which they can take great pride in wearing. This method of stimulating sales is being tried for the first time anywhere this year, and the youthful aids in this splendid work have started in with twice the energy that has been shown in past years.

So much interest has been displayed by one friend of the work that he has broken forth into verse about it, and this little couplet is going the rounds of those who are working to sell 100,000 seals in Plainfield this year, breaking last year's record by 20,000.

Hippity hop to the Christmas shop
To buy some Red Cross seals.
With one on each letter
Of course you feel better.
You've heeded your brother's appeal.

As has been told before, none of the money received from the sale of the seals goes in the Red Cross work abroad. Eighty-five per cent. is turned over to the treasury of the local Anti-Tuberculosis League, and the balance goes to the State and National Societies, so that this is "home missionary work" in every way. Seals will be found on sale at banks and business houses wherever the red and green sign is displayed in the window.

JOHN ABBOTT INJURED CRANKING UP AUTOMOBILE

After cranking up the auto bus which he drives between this city and South Plainfield, John Abbott, of West Fourth street, attempted to advance the gasoline without taking his seat as the car stood alongside of Martin's garage on Park avenue, Saturday afternoon. In doing so, he accidentall, released the brakes and was thrown beneath the forward wheels as the bus started ahead.

The heavy vehicle passed half way over his body, after which he was dragged forward through his clothing catching in the grease pan. He would undoubtedly have been seriously injured but for the front wheels turning, causing the bus to run against the brick wall of the garage. Beside a number of severe cuts and bruises and a stiffened limb, he escaped unhurt. The only damage sustained by the bus was a broken lamp.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DIES AT HIGH BRIDGE

Frank Conde, Well Known in Musical Circles, Passes Away Suddenly.

Frank Conde, who until twenty years ago was a prominent resident here, and who occupied a front position in the ranks of local musicians, died suddenly at his home in High Bridge, Friday night. He had been living at the latter place since leaving Plainfield, due to his employment at the Taylor, Wharton Iron and Steel Works. The body will be brought here tomorrow and the funeral service will be held in the undertaking parlors at 200 West Second street, in charge of Rev. George Hauser. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Conde, who was fifty-eight years old, was prominent in Plainfield for a long time. When the Plainfield Cornet Band, which he organized, was in its prime, he acted as leader from 1886 to 1895, and during that time also acted as leader and first tenor of the Gesang and Turn Verein singing section. He had an unusually complete musical education, being master of a number of instruments as well as versed in composition. While he did not follow music as a profession it was his chief pastime. Beside his band work he conducted an orchestra that is remembered by hundreds of Plainfielders. After going to High Bridge, he acted as leader of the town's representative band until a short time ago.

Mr. Conde was a charter member of Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., and also a member of Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Court Plainfield, I. O. F., and the Union Wharton Employes' Beneficial Association.

Beside his wife, who was Miss Anna E. Giese, daughter of the late Charles Giese, for many years one of Plainfield's policemen, Mr. Conde leaves one daughter and two sons. They are Mrs. Rosewell C. Woodruff, of Bloomfield, and C. Walter and B. Frank Conde, of Easton, Pa.; also one brother, Jacob Conde. P. Ludwig Conde, the professional violinist, who resided in Plainfield for a long time and who is now in Denver, Colorado, is a cousin of the deceased.

HENRY DRESSELT WILL WED MISS DAISY OPDYKE

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Opdycke, of New Germantown, today announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Daisy Opdycke, to Henry Dresselt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dresselt, of Lincoln place, North Plainfield.

Miss Opdycke is well-known in New Germantown and this place, where she has visited frequently. Mr. Dresselt is employed as a linotype operator at the office of the Plainfield Daily Press and is also well-known both in the city and borough. The date for the wedding has not been set.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The annual Christmas sale for the benefit of All Saints' Episcopal church was held in the Fanwood firehouse Saturday afternoon and night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. Although expenses have not yet been totaled and full reports of receipts have not been received, it is expected that the sum realized will be in excess of $250. Practically everything was sold, in some cases the table being cleared an hour before the fair closed at 9 o'clock. One of the novelties that was introduced with success was a postoffice, where parcels were received for two cents and delivered to the proper person, who had to give another two cents. Nearly seventy-five turkey suppers were served between the hours of 6 and 8 and during the entire afternoon and evening. Those who were at the various booths or otherwise contributed to the success of the affair are as follows: Cake table, Mrs. James Morgan and Mrs. James Mineszek; fancy goods table, Mrs. Frances Christopher, Mrs. Henry Jesperson and Mrs. John Riblet; apron table, Mrs. George Kyte, Mrs. Porter and Miss Ida Whitehead; candy table, Mrs. Richard Tull, Mrs. William Taber, Mrs. Samuel McAnneny, Mrs. Arnold Urner and Miss Ethel Kyte; toy table, Mrs. Albert Riblet, Albert Riblet, Miss Bent; parcel post, Miss Kennedy, Mrs. Charles Briggs and Mrs. Townsend; tea table, Mrs. Robert Thrane and Mrs. Charles Thrane. The supper committee included Mrs. Charles Bent, Mrs. Ernest Keib, Mrs. William Head, Mrs. Louis Garder and Mrs. J. Hudson Thompson, while the waitresses were the Misses Olive Garder, Katherine and Mariette McAnneny, Beatrice and Gertrude Head, Rosamond Jonez and Ruth and Francis Barrett.

Mrs. Mildred Sheldon Bass-Anderton, of Paterson, will give a dramatic reading of the French play, "Monsieur Beaucaire," in the Fanwood firehouse tomorrow night.

Mrs. R. C. Tullock, of Park avenue, gave an exhibit at her home on Saturday afternoon and evening of hand-painted china. She showed a large collection of her own work that was of excellent merit, and pleased everyone who was present.

Fred Clark, who has conducted a candy and confectionery store on Park avenue, opposite Front street, for the past five years, has sold his business to Harry Flannery, another local young man, who took possession last week.

Amono Paul, of Brazil, is spending some time in the township as the guest of Reginald M. Huse, of Westfield road. He arrived in this country some time ago to complete his education, and already can speak English fluently.

This increase in membership is due to the recent activities of the association and it is hoped that all of the old members will be present tonight to welcome the new ones.

SHOT BREAKS GLASS OVER SLEEPING BABY

Spent Bullet Fired by Careless Boys Enters Sperry Home.

A bullet from a rifle in the hands of some small boys Saturday afternoon broke a window in the home of Mrs. Sperry, 1281 East Second street, and but for the fact that it had come from a long distance would have struck a baby carriage in which was sleeping a small child.

The bullet was spent when it hit the window and after breaking the window pane did not have force enough left to penetrate a flimsy lace curtain. Capt. Flynn and Patrolman Welsh made an investigation as soon as the shot was reported to police headquarters and they learned of some small boys playing in the neighborhood, but could not find anyone who could identify them.

MEMORIAL SERVICES OF SOMERVILLE ELKS

Somerville, Dec. 6.—Somerville Lodge of Elks observed Memorial Sunday last night at the Regent Theatre. An introductory address was made by George V. W. Voorhees, Rev. C. W. Hoffman delivered a prayer, Judge A. M. Beekman eulogized the departed members and former Governor Edward Casper Stokes delivered the oration. The benediction was given by Rev. Frederick A. Leonardo. Music was furnished by a trumpet quartette, and Mrs. W. A. Coddington and Donald Chalmers sang several selections. Miss Dorothy Flynn played a violin solo.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Never in the history of local theatricals has there been such a wonderful combination of comedy and dramatic films shown to such large audiences as those to be presented at Proctor's tonight and this afternoon. Douglas Fairbanks in "The Lamb" finds play for all of the enthusiasm and magnetic qualities that made him a stage favorite. As a worthless young son of a rich Eastern family, he wins the love of a handsome girl. Disappointed in her estimate of him she goes to the ranch country with a house party. Fairbanks eventually follows and falls into the hands of a tribe of Yacqui Indians. His fiancee shares a similar fate, and they meet as prisoners in an Indian village that is attacked by a Mexican force. The Mexicans are driven off. The Indian chief returns to his white prisoners. Fairbanks and Miss Owen with a machine gun that has been left behind, hold their captors at bay until the arrival of U. S. Cavalry, and Fairbanks is thus restored to the affections of his fiancee. The Keystone comedy is of the side-splitting variety, and Charles Murray is the star, and it contains a large number of new features in fildom, that just keeps the audience is a half-hour of continuous laughter. These big features will be shown today and Tuesday for the last time. Wednesday and Thursday "The Battle Cry o. Peace" will hold the boards at Proctor's and Friday and Saturday will bring Triangle Plays, again starring Dustin Farnum in "The Iron Strain" and Raymond Hitchcock in the Keystone Komedy, 'My Valet,," a comedy scream. The public and press have given the "Battle Cry of Peace" a reception unique in the annals of motion pictures. The story deals with the subject nearest the heart of every American citizen today. It portrays the defenseless condition of our country. The consequence to which this condition may lead. The way to avoid the consequences.

Twenty-five soldiers are shown in the picture. A total of 50,000 persos are shown and 1,000 horses. The invasion of New York and the capture of Washington alone are worth many times the price of admission. "The Birth of a Nation," even in all its great spectacular features, is not more massive and elaborate than this wonderful production. It is only because of the fact that this wonderful feature has been purchased outright for all of the Proctor Theatres that it can be shown for the low price of admission. It will be presented Wednesday and Thursday this week.

C. E. MEETING.

The monthly business meeting of the Trinity Reformed church Christian Endeavor Society will be held this evening. Every member is urged to be present as this is a very important meeting. New members' names will be put before the society at this time.

P. T. ASSOCIATION MEETING.

The Washinfiton School Parent-Teacher Association will hold a meeting Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, a feature of which will be the reading of reports from the recent convention held in Trenton and tableau from "The Bird's Christmas Carol."

Miss Teenie Texier, of Watchung, is confined to her home with an attack of the grip.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Cowling, of Regent street, are parents of a girl born to them Saturday.

ITALIAN HELD FOR INSULTING WOMEN

Man Who Has Been Appearing on Roadway in Nude Condition is Caught.

Somerville, Dec. 6.—In the arrest of Nick Charivialano here Saturday evening Somerset county authorities believe they have put an end to the terrorizing of young women in this vicinity.

For weeks lone women who have used the highways of Somerset county have suddenly been confronted by a nude man. County Detective George Totton has been conducting a search for the degenerate and after an exciting chase he caught Charivialon. The Italian is 28 years of age, and is employed as a weaver at the Raritan mills. He confessed his guilt.

CHAMP CLARK IS RE-ELECTED SPEAKER

Representative Talbot, Oldest Democratic Member, Administers Oath.

Washington, Dec. 6—Champ Clark was re-elected speaker at the opening of Congress today, by a vote of 221. Representative Mann, the Republican leader, received 194 votes. Speaker Clark took the oath of office at 1:54 o'clock this afternoon. The oath was administered by Representative Talbot, the oldest Democratic member. The house then proceeded with swearing in of members by States.

Representative A. E. Gardner, of Massachusetts, introduced a resolution providing for the appointment of a select committee of five members of the house to inquire into the organization membership expenditures, receipts and sources thereof of the Navy League, Labors' Peace Council, the National Security League, and the Defense Society. The resolution was referred to the committee on rules.

KING'S DAUGHTERS CONDUCT A SUCCESSFUL DANSANT

The dansant given in the Park Club Saturday afternoon, from 3:30 until 7 o'clock, under the auspices of Unity Circle of King's Daughters proved a delightful and successful affair. The attendance was large and a substantial sum was netted for the Circle's treasury. The dancing contest, in charge of Miss Katharine Browne, was won by Junior Vanderventer and Miss Dorothy White. Tea was served in conclusion.

The dansant was directly in charge of Miss Anna Yerkes, president of the Circle, and she was assisted by Miss Mary Rushmore.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

This week's feature of the Plainfield Theatre will be Oriental Night, on Tuesday evening, when all who attend will be introduced to an entirely new entertainment for Plainfield Theatre-goers. The orchestra and stage will be decorated in draperies from the Orient, and handsome prizes are to be given away to holders of seats. These will be Oriental rugs, tapestries, b ric-a-brac and other valuable articles from the markets of the Far East. Awards will conducted on the same plan that proved so popular at country stores at the Plainfield, and every holder of a seat has an opportunity to get one of these handsome souvenirs of the evening.

The vaudeville bill will be featured by a novelty act direct from the American Theatre in New York. George M. Brown and company is the style of the act, and it is headed by Brown, who is champion walker of the world. A carload of scenic effects are carried, and the offering is sensational. There will be five other acts.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Lionel Barrymore, member of the famous family of thespians, will be featured in "The Yellow Streak," a film drama of gripping interest, at the U. S. Astor theatre today and tomorrow. Mr. Barrymore has had long experience in screen work, but never has he appeared to better advantage, it is said, than in the vehicle in which h ewill be seen at the Astor. In addition there will be the usual supplementary program of selected features.

ENTERTAINED YOUNG PEOPLE.

A score of young people enjoyed Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hagan, 951 South Second street. Games and singing were a feature of the affair and refreshments were served. Those present included the Misses Mary Hagan, Esther Boland, Eleanor McDonnell, Catherine McClinton, Loretta Westneski, Susan Cogger, Violate Brown, Mary Boland, Alice Hagan, Margaret Finnerty, and the Masters Rosevelt Traynor, B. Fitzpatrick, Andrew Fitzpatrick, J. J. Hagan, M. Connoughton, Jr., Alfred Boland, T. Traynor and J. Howell.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

COUNTY UNIT SCHOOLS.

That not the school district, nor the township, but rather the county, should be the unit in rural school administration is the contention of Dr. J. J. Savitz, now superintendent at Westfield, and until last June assistant commissioner of education. The day of county rural school control appears to be pretty far off, despite the manifest merits of the idea, its chief enemy being not local pride in community, but the log-rolling spirit manifest in many district and township boards.

No sane man can doubt that such a system would make for uniformity in aim, effort and opportunity, as Dr Savitz points out, or that great financial savings could be accomplished by it. Duplication of courses would be avoided, and schools devoted to particular ends would arise where most needed. Vicious evils would readily be avoided in the transportation system, such as those revealed within a week in Warren county, where two parents were paid at the rate of $140 a year to carry to school one child each of their own, and that by traversing the same road.

Great good in this State is now being accomplished by the county superintendents, despite their somewhat limited powers. But this is largely due to the fact that they are appointees of the State Board of Education rather than elective officers in their respective sections. Any county unit system that would take the control of a man responsible to the State Board and vest it in one chosen for political reasons, would, despite the other advantages in the scheme, be reactionary enough to damn the whole proceeding.—Newark Evening News.

Chopping down shade trees to save a street from litter is about the limit of official foolishness. The party that killed the goose that laid the golden egg had nothing on the Township Committeeman of North Plainfield who ordered the felling of twenty-five trees in front of a residence because the owner had failed to clean up the leaves and twigs in front of his place, as provided for by ordinance. This was not only foolish, but it was an act of vandalism for which there can be no adequate recovery, even though severe punishment should be meted out to the official responsible. His course shows, no matter how great may have been the provocation, that he is not the kind of a man to be trusted with public duty. If he had any right to issue the order, a question the courts are to determine, he still should have restrained himself from robbing the town of a part of its leafy glory—Newark Evening News.

BANQUET CLOSES CEREMONIES

would think of Plainfield now. He quoted statistics secured from the local postoffice which show that it does a business of $93,000 a year, handling 17,000 letters daily, and 60,000 for each of five days before Christmas, saying that these figures showed the real progress of the city.

"I have but one purpose in the Senate," declared Mr. Martine, "and that is to advance the well being of our country and to better mankind. A speaker this afternoon said that the American spirit is sleeping, and I declare to you that it is not sleeping and is never dead so long as the splendid men who make up our manhood continue to grow." He then expressed his pleasure at being able to greet those present as neighbors, and urged all to "raise their voices in praise of this country."

Former Congressman Charles N. Fowler was the next speaker. Among other things he said that he had been deeply impressed by the faces of those whom he noticed attending the exercises at the postoffice in the afternoon, and that he could not help but feel that all stood for an uplifting force in the community and for the betterment of the land. He declared that the postoffice would stand as a daily monitor of those who passed by it, and should act as a great stimulant to a show of patriotism, which he declared should be a revival, in much the same way that religious revivals are conducted.

That he shared in the great pride which Plainfielders feel in acquiring the new postoffice, was declared by former Congressman Tuttle, who was next called. He came to the defense of the government, and said that the people were entirely too prone to criticize the postoffice department and the pork barrel expenditures. Figures were quoted to show that the postoffice is not in every sense a money-losing proposition, and that when it was taken into consideration that the business doubles every ten years and is only second to the Prussian railway system as the greatest government operated institution in the world, he declared that there was no cause for criticism. He said that the time has come to stop criticising officials and to support them.

Postmaster Hoagland spoke briefly, during which time he thanked the Masons for their work of laying the cornerstone, and took occasion to pay a tribute to the postoffice employes whom he declared are doing the best that they can to give efficient service.

Mayor Calkins, who was the next speaker, said that he felt that the new postoffice building stands for the birth of a new sense of civic pride in Plainfield, which might soon result in a decision to do something about a city hall. The laying of the cornerstone of the postoffice focussed attention on the necessity of other municipal buildings, the widening of streets and other plans with the welfare of posterity in view. In his belief improvements should be made with the future need in mind. The creation of parks should not be delayed, as the matter is just as much up to those of today as it is up to those who come hereafter. The Mayor declared that if civic pride was lacking, as some have intimated, it was due to the presence of two elements, the so-called "local" and "commuter." He said that these two do not understand each other, and that he is convinced that the business man would like to understand the other fellow better, but that the commuter apparently does not want to know the business man better. He urged all his hearers to work individually and collectively for the best interests of the city.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of the borough, was the last called upon by Assemblyman Runyon, who paid him a high tribute as a man and an official. North Plainfielders, he said, feel just as much pride in the postoffice as do those in the city. After speaking of the lesson in patriotism which the new postoffice must necessarily teach, the Mayor expressed regret that more people do not take an interest in civic affairs. He said that there are entirely too few who care what is done by their officials, a case of "what is everybody's business is nobody's business."

At the conclusion of the dinner all joined hands and sang "Auld Lang Syne," the whole gathering adjourning at 9 o'clock.

CROWD STANDS IN COLD AT CORNERSTONE LAYING

While hundreds of citizens, many of them women, stood with bared heads in a biting December wind that penetrated even through the thickest of coats and furs, the corner-stone of Plainfield's new postoffice building was laid Saturday afternoon, with ceremonies conducted by the Grand Lodge of Masons of the State of New Jersey.

The exercises at the postoffice corner were preceded by an imposing parade along Front street and Watchung avenue, headed by a platoon of Plainfield police, under Lieutenant Higgins. Following the patrolmen came the Dutch Arms Band, and after them Most Worshipful Grand Master Edward M. Searing, of Dover followed by members of his staff, local Masons, representatives of the United States Government and local officials, who took part in the ceremony.

After a short prayer, Assemblyman William N. Runyon opened the exercises with what was to have been a chorus of voices in "America," but there were few in the crowd that responded because of the cold, and it was almost a solo.

Mr. Searing guided the cornerstone into place after the cavity had been filled with historical data, copies of local papers and other articles that will serve as a record of the time for future generations.

Former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, made a plea for an awakening of the true American spirit in his address. He said that the building should be an inspiration to all American citizens. Recent events have given rise to a doubt as to whether the patriotism of America is real, declared Mr. Fowler, but he assured his hearers that citizens would be aroused in a crisis, and that the spirit of the Revolution still burned in the hearts of each man or woman who lived under the Stars and Stripes today. The Swiss spirit is awakened, he said; the Japanese spirit is alive; Germans are imbued with a love for country that dominates every act of their lives, and even the dormant patriotism of the slow-thinking Englishman had been aroused, but Americans have yet to realize the imperative need of a unity of citizenship. His address was a plea for preparedness of spirit, rather than militarism.

TRINITY MISSION GUILD TO STUDY "KING'S HIGHWAY"

The Mission Guild, of Trinity Reformed church, has decided to take up the study of Mrs. Helen Montgomery's new book, "The King's Highway," the first of the year. This matter was discussed at a meeting of the guild on Friday at the home of Miss Winifred Rapalje on Carlton avenue. Mrs. A. B. Cole, the president, was in charge of the business meeting.

Miss Frances Davis, field secretary of the Young Women's Branch of Foreign Missions, was present and gave an interesting talk on what the young people are doing. A social time followed the meeting.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MRS. CHAS. E. SPIER HELD

The funeral of Mrs. Charles E. Spier was held at the Wilson Memorial church, Watchung, Saturday afternoon, being largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Mebane Ramsay, pastor of the church, was in charge.

The Girls' Chorus sang, "On the Solid Rock I Stand," and the choir sang, "The Christian's Good Night," both favorite hymns of the deceased. There were many floral tributes. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the bearers, members of Mrs. Spier's Bible class of young men, were Douglas A. Demler, Edward F. Bodin, Thomas Fetherstone, J. LeRoy Hermann, Edward Marfinz and Clarence B. Schmidt.

As big as "THE BIRTH OF A NATION"

TRIBUTE TO DEPARTED ONES

O. Keller, William C. Kinney.

Former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, delivered the memorial address, and Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, was the eulogist, who read their virtues from tablets of love and memory. The address of Mr. Fowler was an interpretation of Elkdom.

"Tragic, sad and fearful as the conditions are everywhere on this globe tonight, nevertheless the world is better than it was at its last birthday one hundred years ago," he said. "Man for man, and woman for woman, 1915 finds the conditions of life vastly better than 1815, and they will be immeasurably better in 2015.

"Ten thousand statutes, some in almost every nation, breathing the spirit of charity, justice, fidelity and brotherly love, have come to exalt and ennoble the functions of human government.

World Growing Better.

"Noble impulses, generous thoughts and righteous deeds have penetrated the political opinions of mankind, the soil from which concrete expression must spring in its myriad forms of humanitarian blessings. As the growth of the field and forest flow back into the earth to enrich the sources of next year's more fragrant flowers and still richer fruits, so the deeds of charity, the acts of justice, the lives of fidelity and the ministrations of brotherly love each successive year broaden the vision of human welfare, until the seemingly unusual of one year is only the usual the next; until the seemingly extraordinary act of kindness of one year is only the ordinary of the next; until the occasional helping hand is a continuously outstretched arm, the constant and steady support of the weak. Let us hope that this will continue until mutual interests shall soften and sweeten life in all its relationships, and the world shall move and work in universal harmony.

"The Son of Man was born in a manger in Bethlehem, far removed from royal robes and the insignia of imperial rule, and yet His influence promises to permeate and determine the thought of the whole world.

"There was no bending of the knee no doffing the hat to a crown, no service royalty, but the simple service to humanity. His humility and His human touch are the crowning characteristics that mark the Carpenter of Galilee as God in Man, for God is Nature's law, therefore God is in Man, and all men bear a spark of the Divine in a greater or less degree of intensity.

Lincoln's Humble Home.

"What more sacred, what more inspiring spot can one visit than the log house where Abraham Lincoln first saw the light. When we recall this man of men, this divinely human man, and pause and linger with the thought that the cold, harsh wind of that February morning whistled through the poorly clinked logs of that Kentucky hut, we instinctively, involuntarily think of the manger in Bethlehem.

"What power the sympathetic humanity and the overwhelming humility of these divinely appointed spirits to the holy mission on this earth are exerting in the affairs of life is beyond the vision of man; for they fill all the upper air and are leading us along the pathway of our better natures to those purer and nobler sentiments that sanctify the soul."

"Why is Elkdom so potential for good? It is simply because it is so truly, so essentially and so intensely human. It rests upon the very fundamentals of human society and national patriotism. It is essentially an American institution, the flag of four cornerstones: Charity, Justice Fidelity and Brotherly Love. It was left for our order to transmute the transcendent colors of our country's flag and the matchless beauty of its form into a spiritualized code of life.

"To us the purity of its white symbolizes the sweetest of all human impulses—charity.

"Behold the constellation in the azure of our flag. May the stars of the States shine forever with honor and justice, eternal as the stars in the blue of the vault of heaven. Bound together in the closest unity for the cause of common humanity, these stars of light and glory, set in the field of Fidelity, sympolize for our order, Brotherly Love—the motto of the Fourth Station. God is in man, and the oneness of God makes the Broterhood of Man. The Brotherhood of Man leads on to Brotherly Love, and makes us all each other's keepers.

Faults in the Sand.

"Brotherly Love, springing from Charity, Justice and Fidelity, bids us all write the 'faults of our brothers upon the sand,' 'and their virtues on the tablets of love and memory.

"Our departed brothers in whose memory we meet, free now from the faults to which they were heirs here, passing from this earthly station, are moving onward and upward in other realms, in yonder spheres, to more and more perfect lives, to perfect and perpetual peace, theirs to possess ours to hope for, ours to gain, and then all of us together to enjoy forever, never-ending peace."

That the lives of each departed Elk carried a lesson for the brothers left behind was declared by Judge Runyen in his eulogy, and he urged that each member of the order live so that friends who are left behind when they pass over the stream to the unknown that awaits may be truly thankful that they have lived. Now that the sorrow at parting has been softened by the caress of time, there is no longer grief that they have gone, but joy that they lived to make the world brighter and better. The greatest tribute that can be paid their memory, Judge Runyon declared, is for each friend to take something from their lives that those who still live may have a richer heritage of love and kindness to give the world. There is good to be said of each of the score and three departed brothers, said the eulogist, and after a personal tribute to each, he drew a composite picture of their characters as the true Elk and ideal citizen.

Artists who assisted in the program were: Miss Edythe V. Gibson, soprano; Madame Genevieve Farley contralto; H. R. Speir, pianist; Elmer D. Cutting, first tenor, William J. Tallamy, second tenor; B. F. Tallamy, first bass, Joseph C. Martin, second bass; Harry Wotton's orchestra.

TWO GAMES AT P. H. S. WEDNESDAY EVENING

Two interesting games of basketball will be played in the Plainfield High School gymnasium, Wednesday night, when the P. E. G. S. aggregation opposes "The State Six," a team from the Newark Normal School, while between the halves, the Recreation boys will line up against the Plainfield A. A. Dancing will follow the games.

Tomorrow night both Recreation teams will hold a practice in the gym at 7:30 o'clock.

ORD'S SHOOTING FEATURE OF CLIMAX CLUB'S SHOOT

Excellent scores were returned by the winners of events held at the traps of the Climax Gun Club Saturday afternoon. George Ord made a perfect score in the first 25-bird event, and Percy Terry didn't have a miss in the second shoot, at 20 targets. John Terry won the third event, smashing 22 out of 25.

Other scores in the 20-bird shoot were George Ord, 16; John Terry, 15; Henry Uhler, 13; Scott Terry, 12. In the third event, Ord had a score of 21, and Scott Terry, 20. Ord's work was the feature of the day.

A special match between Percy Terry and Henry Uhler, at 10 targets, was run off, Terry breaking 8 and Uhler 7.

SIX-DAY BIKEMEN AHEAD OF RECORD

Seventeen Teams Tied—Two Laps Ahead of Old Record.

A 2 p. m. the following had gone:
321 MILES, 9 LAPS.
Drobach and Corry.
Hill and Grenda.
McNamara and Spears.
Egg and Dupuy.
Magin and Lawrence.
Thomas and Ryan.
Hansen and Mitten.
Kopsky and Wahlrab.
Sullivan and Anderson.
Moran and Walthour.
Piercey and Walker.
Eaton and Madden.
Sutter and Madonna.
Fogler and Carman.
Russe and Vanderstuift.
Hanley and Halstead.
Seres and Linart.

New York, Dec. 6.—Riders in the six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden managed to stay a little in front of the record most of the morning.

At 1 p. m., the end of the thirteenth hour, they had gone 300 miles, 4 laps, just 4 laps better than the record. At 2 o'clock they had pedaled 321 miles, 9 laps, the old record being 321 miles, 7 laps. Seventeen teams are still tied.

A 8 o'clock Corry was leading. The riders had covered 190 miles 2 laps up to that time, the previou record being 189.9, made in 1914. Seventeen teams were tied.

The next hour saw the seventeen pairs still bunched. By 9 o'clock they had gone 211 miles 9 laps, just one lap ahead of last year's record.

Between 9 and 10 o'clock the riders slowed up and fell 2 miles 5 laps behind the old record, which was 235 miles 8 laps. During the eleventh hour the riders sprinted a little, and at 11 o'clock were only 9 laps behind the record of 257 miles made in 1914.

Just before noon the twelfth hour record of 278.2 was passed. The new mark was hung up being 279.4.

"RED LETTER DAY" AT PARK AVE. BAPTIST

Twenty-five New Members Are Received by the Pastor, Rev. Dr. Hudson.

The Park Avenue Baptist church enjoyed another "Red Letter Day" yesterday, when twenty-five new members were received by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, at the morning service, in connection with which he preached a sermon that was appropriate on the subject, "Why Join the Church?" There have been thirty-one additions to the church following the evangelistic campaign recently conducted by the boy preacher, Charles Forbes Taylor. There was another strong sermon by the pastor in the evening on "They Say."

This marks the beginning of the second year of Dr. Hudson's pastorate in Plainfield, and the outlook is most encouraging to both pastor and people for not only increased activities in the various branches of the work of the church, but also in the deepening of the spiritual life of its members.

The program for the week includes the following: The monthly business meeting of the Young People's Association will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Bible school room.

The Volunteer Bible Class and women of the church will meet at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for prayer. Mrs. C. K. Compton will lead.

The prayer meeting on Wednesday evening will be of special interest, the subject being "Christian History in the Making." The pastor will give the third in the series of six lectures on "The King's Highway" and will speak on "Christianity a Social Force," closing the lecture promptly at 9:15.

The all-day sewing meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society will be held on Thursday.

Miss Helen Cumings' class cordially invite all the young girls and women of the church to meet with them on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, to listen to Mrs. A. L. Kennelly, of Cranford, the Junior State Director of the Women's American Baptist Home Missionary Society. Mrs. Kennelly, who is an attractive speaker, will tell of "The World Wide Guild or the Worth While Girls." An invitation is extended to the public to attend this meeting.

The church chorus will meet for rehearsal Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

SAURER MUTUAL AID HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

At the annual meeting of the Saurer Mutual Aid Society held in Junior Hall, East Front street, Saturday night, the following officers were elected: President, David B. Martin; vice president, L. Matlack; financial secretary, Clifford Dunn; recording secretary, John Reynolds; treasurer, Harry Lude; board of directors, Earle Ising, William Day and John Beattie. Fifty new members were received and the financial report showed the society to be in a flourishing condition.

Following the business session, the members, together with their families enjoyed a very pleasing entertainment furnished by professional talent. A supper was served in conclusion under the supervision of John Krinsky. The entertainment committee which arranged the social part of the program was composed of William Sparks, John Young and George Pierson.

Mr. Martin, who is the head of the organization, has been president for the past three years and his re-election Saturday night, comes as a mark of appreciation on the part of the members for the good work he has done.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET.

The Plainfield Democratic Club will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at its rooms at Park and North avenues, to decide whether to retain the present quarters or not. There will be nomination of officers for the ensuing year and other business of importance will be considered.

FINED $10 FOR SPEEDING.

George Barry, driver of a taxicab, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in police court this morning on a charge of fast and reckless driving of an automobile. He was arrested by Patrolman McGinley who said he was going at thirty miles an hour. Barry was fined $10.

RETURN FROM HONEYMOON.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Liefke, who were recently married at Astoria, L. I., returned Saturday night from the south where they spent their honeymoon and are now living at Mr. Liefke's home on West Front street.

SKATING ON LOCAL PONDS.

Italy Not to Aid in Balkans.

Rome, Dec. 6.—Italy will delay sending troops into the Balkans to aid Serbia until it is seen what Roumania is going to do. Announcement to this effect was made today. There was an important meeting of the Italian cabinet at which Baron Sonnino, the foreign minister, communicated to his colleagues the viewpoint of the Allies as to the Balkan situation.

Pope Pleads For Peace.

A strong plea for peace was made today by Pope Benedict XV at the opening of the consistory at the Vatican. His Holiness deplored the horrors of the great war which is ravaging Europe and spoke with compassion of the plight of the Armenians in Turkey. In his allocation the Pontiff declared that when peace does come about it must be of such a nature as will prevent another cataclysm of war in the future.

German Censors Recall Story.

Amsterdam, Dec. 6.—The German newspapers of Sunday contained no news concerning the request of the United States for the recall of Captains Boy-Ed and Von Papen, of Washington. Apparently the German censors are withholding the news.

Germany Wants Reasons.

New York, Dec. 6.—A despatch from Washington says that Count Von Bernstorff today presented to the State Department a communication asking for the reasons for the request for the withdrawal of Captains Boy-Ed and Von Papen, the German naval and military attaches, respectively.

Germans Repulse Russians.

Berlin, Dec. 6 (wireless).—German war statement:

"Balkan theatre—South of Sienica and northeast of Ipek, Montenegrin and Serbian detachments were repulsed.

"Western theatre—Artillery duels and engagements with mines took place at several places. Near Baranowitz two English aeroplanes were shot down. The occupants were killed.

"Eastern theatre—Russian attacks southwest of Babit Lake and west of Riga broke down in wront of our lines with heavy losses to the enemy."

THE SIXTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Increasing national defenses will undoubtedly be the paramount subject taken up at the sixty-fourth session of Congress, which convened this noon at Washington. Many important matters are to be considered aside from defenses, including embargo on shipments of munitions, government ownership of merchant marine, tariff, rural credits, Philippine independence, the seaman's law and efforts to amend and repeal it, child labor, appropriations in general, woman suffrage, prohibition and treaties.

The Democrats will press these points: The success of President Wilson's foreign policy in dealing with Germany and other European countries, the settlement of the Mexican situation; the averting of financial disaster because of the European war, the return of general prosperity throughout the country, the observance of neutrality and friendship with all peoples.

The Republican minority will begin their attack on the Administration during this Congress, in preparation for the coming campaign. They will claim: The failure of the Democratic tariff to produce necessary revenue; the lack of adequate protection by the government of its citizens on the high seas and in Mexico; wasteful extravagance in appropriations for maintenance of the government, bad business conditions except in special industries; that the seamen's law has driven American ships from the seas; that the foreign policies of the Administration have been vaccillating and uncertain.

The real opening of Congress, with its shirtsleeves rolled up, takes place tomorrow, when President Wilson will read his message to the Congress in joint session. That is the signal gun for the long-planned campaigns to be put under way.

NOT AN UNFRIENDLY ACT.

Many Americans believe that this country is facing a crisis with Germany as a result of the request that Capt. VonPapen and Capt. Boy-Ed, military and naval attaches of the German Embassy, be recalled by the foreign officials, but this is a mistaken idea of the intent of the local government. The request of Secretary Lansing is not an unfriendly act. Rather it is a most friendly one, and if the atrocious period through which Germany is passing has not blunted the senses of its officials to fairness and a proper conception of the delicacies of diplomacy it will strengthen the good relations between the two countries instead of causing eumity. In calling attention of the Kaiser to the fact that his representatives here are guilty of violations of diplomatic courtesy and rules governing decent conduct President Wilson and Secretary Lansing are giving assurances that the American government desires to remain friendly with Germany, and that it does not care to have present relations endangered by the meddling of ill-advised representatvies of a foreign government.

CHRISTMAS FUNDS.

In a very few days the Plainfield Trust Company will pay out to depositors in its Christmas Savings Club probably $225,000. Last year the amount was less than $200,000 and it is safe to anticipate the larger sum this year. That a large part of this money will be used in Plainfield goes without saying, and it should improve the holiday shopping, and tend to make the public do a lot of their purchasing much earlier than in past years, when the club has closed at a date nearer Christmas.

Funds of this kind make an easy way of saving to thousands of people. We have yet hear of a better or easier method to save money, and incidentally be well supplied with funds at a time of the year when it is especially desirable to be so fixed. It is the best way to start a savings fund that has been devised.

In an account of the dinner given by the Men's Club of Grace church, which appeared in the Press of November 26, it was made to appear that Henry A. Wise Wood spoke as a member of the Naval Advisory Board. In a letter to the editor of the Press Mr. Wood states that he had no authority to speak in that capacity, as the board is purely a technical body answerable to the Secretary of the Navy, and as such is without a public voice. Instead he addressed the gathering as the Chairman of the Conference Committee on National Preparedness, which is made up of the principal organizations which are working on behalf of national security. What Mr. Wood had to say was of interest regardless of the capacity in which he spoke, and it is to be hoped that when he comes again on December 15 there will be a big crowd out to hear him at the Columbus Club.

A formal boom for Vivian M. Lewis for Governor was started last week at a dinner of the Republican leaders in Passaic county. Mr. Lewis was defeated by Woodrow Wilson when he sought the office in 1910. No cleaner man can be found for a candidate by the G. O. P., and, with normal conditions, Mr. Lewis could be elected. Much depends upon the record made by the Republican Legislature which meets next month. If the bosses continue to control the acts of those whom the people have elected, the party which controls the House will have little chance of naming the Governor, but if progressive legislation is enacted the chances of the Republicans again coming into power are good.

If this isn't a case of cruelty to animals then the S. P. C. A. can go out of business. One misguided wag sent a squirrel to Henry Ford just before the Ark weighed anchor and it was taken along. The poor little squirrel will be penned up during the long voyage, entirely surrounded by nuts, and they will probably feed him bread crumbs.

Henry Ford denied that he is interested in politics in New York Saturday, saying that he seldom even voted. Look at the time Bryan has wasted being nice to him. It must have been an awful blow to The Commoner.

Our Congressmen are gathering from all parts of the country for another spasm of tampering with the laws under which we must live.

Less than three weeks left. GET BUSY!

CASES IN BOROUGH COURT.

William Parson, colored, pleaded guilty this morning in the North Plainfield police court to a serious charge, for which he was arrested by Special Marshal John Reinman in the Hand Storage Company stables. He was taken to the county jail at Somerville, where he will be sentenced this week. Mrs. Oscar Olsen, who was arrested last week for being disorderly, was today taken to the House of Good Shepherd in Newark.

Those Window Envelopes

Whene'er they hand my mail to me
I look it over, quick,
As anxious as the deuce, to see
If fate has played a trick
And sent me one with windowed side,
The address showing through.
I've always groaned when those I've spied—
They tell me something's due!

It may be from the grocer man,
It may be from the plumber;
It may be for the lovely tan
Top-coat I bought last summer.
But whatsoever goods 'tis for,
It makes me shudder still—
Those things with that transparent door
Always contain a bill.

And so I look the letters o'er
With fear down in my heart.
One may be from some grouchy store
Down in the busy mart.
Such cowardice may be a sin,
But I admit it still—
Those envelopes with windows in
Al-ways contain a bill!

Settlers

Settlers are divided into many kinds.

Among those who have done a great service to mankind in the classification of settlers are Dun and Bradstreet and the Credit Men's Association.

Some people are proud to be called "early settlers," but many of the early settlers in one place did so because they were such late and reluctant settlers somewhere else.

Shakespeare said, "The evil that men do lives after them."

But the people that men do run after them, send after them, and do other disagreeable things like that.

One hears now and then of an "old settlers' picnic."

But if some one were foolish enough to try to organize a "prompt settlers' picnic," it would be a rank failure.

There wouldn't be enough persons there for a quorum.

The only people you can converse freely with on the subject of settling is the man you owe.

The man who owes you is strangely reticent and sensitive on the subject, and will even rudely walk away if you persist in referring to those disagreeable things.

The average old settler, if you have the dots on him, will stick fairly close to the actual year he moved into the community.

But if you haven't got him tagged, he'll stretch it at least fifteen years.

The inducers to colonization are always begging people to come there and settle.

Their pleading usually gets those that the former neighborhood pleads with to stay where they are and settle.

A Milkless But Thoughtful Editor Man

A correspondent to the Standard presents the following conundrum for the Wave: "How many farmers in this territory can sell their entire crop, pay all expenses for producing said crop, and then buy and pay cash for a Ford?"

The Wave isn't very good at answering conundrums, and we know even less about automobiles. But the editor keeps a cow, and a few days ago the animal went on a strike and refused to furnish us with milk. Now with a houseful of kids all clamoring for milk, and the visible supply exhausted, we were up against a real conundrum which required immediate action. So we hied away to the country—in fact, right into the bailiwick of that correspondent—to try to buy a bovine. In a half day's drive the best bargain offered was $75 for a cow with neither antecedents nor descendants. And we came within an ace of being run down by farmers' automobiles. Last Saturday evening there was hardly room enough in the business section of White Lake to park the farmers' autos. We don't know how they got these autos, nor whether they paid for them with money which they got from home or from sale of their crops—or in fact whether they paid for them at all. But the dealers tell us they could sell two or three times as many of these machines if they could get them.—The White Lake, S. D., Wave.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Dentist, Dispenser Of Health

As a prophylactic the dentist is worth his weight in gold fillings. We of the healing cult realize his usefulness, nay, his indispensable help in many of our most obstinate cases. Certain severe stomach troubles, anemias and joint diseases in particular will not respond to treatment until we call a good dentist in consultation and follow his expert advice in the management of the case.

A well-trained and studiously inclined dentist is as much a specialist, a dispenser of health, as any oculist or neurologist or other qualified expert. For example:

A middle-aged man suffered with digestive disturbance which bothered him more and more until it began to undermine his health. His family physician tried without success to give him relief, and then sent him off to a great city specialist on stomach troubles.

The specialist enjoyed all the laboratory aids at his disposal. The patient, being desperate, wished to spare no expense; and gladly submitted to every test the specialist suggested. But the chemical analysis of the stomach contents, obtained by means of the stomach tube after a test meal, showed no indication of ulcer or cancer. The blood count (by another laboratory expert) showed nothing of diagnostic importance. An X-ray photograph after a bismuth-meal gave no light on the case. Then a young dentist fresh from college "butted in"—most unprofessionally—and offered some gratuitous advice, which is usually worth about what it costs, but not always.

He happened to meet the patient socially, and, with natural professional instinct, he noticed certain abnormalities about the patient's mouth. "Why not have those septic stumps drawn while you're here in town?" he asked. "I feel sure that the inflamed condition of your gums has something to do with your stomach trouble."

The patient was just fool enough to accept the advice of self-constituted authorities. This is a great fault in many otherwise desirable patients. He permitted the scientific young person to extract the decayed stumps and treat the diseased gums.

From that day onward he was surprised and delighted to find that his stomach bothered him less and less; in the course of a few weeks he gained many pounds in weight and returned home to live happily for the rest of his life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

General Development

Your talk on acne gave me such excellent results (the vaccine treatment you suggested) that I now venture to ask if there is any way to develop the bust without becoming fat all over?

Answer—Only by breathing exercises, kneading bread and physical culture to improve posture.

Dilating The Pupils

Is dilating the pupils harmful? Will it make the wearing of glasses ever afterward necessary?

Answer—Not when done by a physician. The effect is wholly temporary.

TIPPING

ONCE upon a time a greedy man went early to a banquet, and when he saw the table heaped up with good things to eat he bribed a waiter to let him get at it. This was a great success. When the other guests arrived he was dead from over-eating, with a smile on his face.

From this incident arose the habit of tipping. Tipping is an attempt to get more than one foot in the trough. Originally the tipper paid the waiter to feed him, and neglect some other chap. After that came an era when men paid waiters to protect themselves against the original tippers. Now everyone tips to protect himself against the waiter. Some of our first automobile owners were waiters.

Tipping is very seldom a sign of hoggishness now—it is a sign of timidity. We tip waiters, porters, bellboys and bootblacks to purchase their good opinion. Men who don't care a hang what their friends or their country think of them would walk home ten miles rather than endure the frown of an untipped waiter. They would refuse joyously to contribute a dollar to a church fair, but in the presence of a check boy at a hotel they are humble and anxious. If they do not tip the check boy as much as the last fellow did, he will think them stingy, and what is life without the good opinion of a check boy?

In America the tip is a hold-up, but in Europe it is an institution, like aristocracy and the tourist. It is possible to go through Europe without tipping, just as it is possible to wade through twenty miles of blackberry bushes, but neither feat is worth the effort. If one must refrain from tipping in Europe, a good plan is to hire a stout young man and then pose as his valet. While he is refusing to tip and is taking the consequences, you can pick up your baggage and saunter carelessly to the train unscathed.

In America, if you are a bold man and do not care to tip, put on your hat and walk away rapidly, so that you will leave that particular atmosphere behind as quickly as possible. If you are a timid man, send the waiter for a glass of water and then flee. By changing your name and growing a beard, you will be able to live in perfect safety, and may even forget in time that somewhere a waiter would curse your name if he only knew it.

Tipping is a sign of timidity

Many nervous people do not know whom to tip and whom not to tip. The rule is easy. In the west, tip everyone you are afraid of. In Chicago, tip anyone who has done you a real service. In New York, don't bother—the tippee will help himself. In Europe, do not tip anyone with a crown on.

Some Americans, who have spent thousands of dollars buying love and respect from tippees, have been sued for divorce by their wives on the grounds of general cussedness.

Views Of The Press

A Victory Won By The French

AN INDICATION, and not the first, that the French are either more skilful or more fortunate than their neighbors as inventors of names for new things is to be found in the word "avion," recently manufactured and now in common use by them for application to the machine which we and other peoples are still calling—when we have time—by the almost intolerably awkward name of "aeroplane."

The French name is exactly right. It pleases both the eye and the ear, it is perfect in construction, and it carries the essential, all-important and only distinctive idea of birdlike flight—a significance that is wholly lacking from "aeroplane." There are probably a dozen, possibly a score, of other devices that are "aeroplanes" just as much as is the one we so denominate. Among them are windmills, kites, weather vanes and sails.

Another objection to "aeroplane" is that it demands an accent so far from its end that our linguistic instinct, or sense of verbal rightness and propriety, is offended by the request, and most of us insist on stressing the antepenult and letting it go at that. "Avion" has no such faults, and it is as good English as French, now that it has been revealed to us.

But it is perhaps too late, alas! for us to change, and the chances are that we shall continue, though not gladly, to suffer "aeroplane," just as we do the even worse word, "automobile."—New York Times.

The Hod Is Doomed

THE hod is doomed. So says E. C. Hathern, president of the Building Laborers' International Protective Union.

The quaint old hod-carrier, with his briar pipe—the man who merely "carries the brick up to the fifth story, while the fellow up there does all the work"—will soon be but a memory. "It will not be many years until the curio shop will claim the hod," says Mathern.

"Hoisting machinery is filling the place of the old-time laborer, and even mixing machines are becoming the rule in building operations. The hod-carrier has stepped up a notch. He has discarded his blackened pipe and now a cigar rakishly adorns the corner of his mouth. The hod-carrier wears a natty suit, and stands with his hand upon the lever of the hoisting machinery, sending up the material by that means for the 'fellow who does the work.'

"So moves the world. No one regrets that the labor of the workman is being made more pleasant and less wearisome, and yet who will not miss the old hod-carrier, with his cheerful humor? There will be less of the human element entering into the construction of home and public buildings.

"The passing of the old-time workman may give place to better methods, but it has its element of sadness."—Emporia Gazette.

Grandmas Not Adoptable

Q. When a child is adopted, does the law require the foster parents to be of a certain age or a certain number of years older than the child?

A. There is sometimes a provision of this character in the state statutes, such as the requirement that the foster parent must be at least ten years older than the child.

Many Of Them Do, Anyhow

Q. Is a wife ever required to support her husband, in case he is in feeble health or is unable to work?

A. The statutes in some of the states provide that the wife must support her husband, out of her separate property, if he, because of infirmity, is unable to support himself, but she is under no obligation to do so if he has separate property of his own or if he has deserted her.

Useless Labor

Q. If one person knowingly puts a fence on part of another's land, without the owner's permission, couldn't a suit be brought against him for doing so? A. Yes.

The Penalty For Usury

Q. What is the effect of usury, with reference to a contract?

A. There are varying consequences. By state law the entire contract often becomes void, including both principal and interest, but in some states only the interest is lost. The statutes sometimes provide that only the illegal interest shall be forfeited and in other states a penalty, in some form, is imposed.

A Rustic Chair

Q. Kindly explain to me how a county-seat is chosen. Who has the power to determine what city shall constitute the county-seat?

A. Primarily, the right to select a county-seat belongs to the legislature, but this power may be delegated—and such is frequently the case—to the county authorities or to the electors.

A Convenient Hiatus?

Q. If a subscribing witness to a legal document should deny that he signed it or should forget having done so, could his signature be proved in any other way?

A. Yes. Other evidence, such as proof of handwriting, will be received.

"My Wife Speaks A Folio Every Two Minutes"

Q. What is meant by the word "folio," in legal phraseology?

A. A folio is a fixed and definite number of words, taken as a convenient basis in determining the length of a legal instrument. In this country, a folio consists, usually, of 100 words.

Account Books In Court

Q. How are account books looked upon in the courts as evidence? What importance is given to them?

A. Such importance or credit is to be attached to them as the jurors may believe to be warranted by all the facts and circumstances.

Ignorance Of Laws No Excuse

Q. When one is a member of a corporation, will he be excused for non-compliance with the by-laws if he is not familiar with them or has no knowledge of them?

A. No. He is chargeable with such knowledge and is bound to give compliance if the by-laws are legal and valid.

An Annuity By Deed

Q. Please inform me whether an annuity may be created by means of a deed?

A. It may be so created.

What Every Man Doesn't Know

First, that the Obvious is the most easily missed. Second, that the Will is the only agent possibly able to make Success sure. Of course, there are other things, but these two are the most important.

The young man says: "I know I ought to do certain things, but somehow I don't seem to be able." He KNOWS—that's very plain to him. But he lacks the Will.

Dr. William Hanna Thomson once told the writer that he wrote his great book "Brain and Personality," in order to show a man that he could do anything if he WILLED to do it!

It amounts to a terrible calamity that Every Man Doesn't Know that anything of which he is capable is possible to him if he Wills it.

So that as the years roll on, Wills die, because their owners fail to use them. And the world, poor and aching, asks in louder tones than ever for more men with WILLS—trained to ACT.

To the white dipping sails.

One road leads to the river,
As it goes singing slow;
My road leads to shipping
Where the bronzed sailors go.

Leads me, lures me, calls me
To salt green tossing sea;
A road without earth's road dust
Is the right road for me.

A wet road heaving, shining,
And wild with seagulls' cries,
A mad salt sea wind blowing
The salt spray in my eyes.

My road calls me, lures me,
West, east, south and north;
Most roads lead men homewards,
My road leads me forth,

To add more miles to the tally
Of gray miles left behind,
In quest of that one beauty
God put me here to find.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

What Happened In The Bibbinses' Kitchen A Holiday Eve.

Warming Themselves by Her Fire.

"WELL, my dears," daddy began, "one windy holiday eve, when Jack Frost had breathed upon the ground and made it hard, the Bibbinses, who lived on the mountain, went to bed early, for the keen mountain wind whistled in through their shabby windows, and Mother Bibbins had no turkey supper to give them nor wood to burn, except what the children had picked up that day on the mountain slope. So she raked the ashes high over the biggest coals in the fireplace, because in colonial days there were no matches, and if people were careless enough to let their fires go out they had to walk five or six miles to the nearest farmhouse to borrow from a neighbor enough coals to start a new fire.

"This is why Mother Bibbins was so careful to bury her coals, so they would last. Then she went to bed with the children. Some time in the middle of the night she woke up, all trembling with fear. At first she thought that a bad dream or a high wind had disturbed her. She sat up in bed and looked around her kitchen, and there by the dim light of a few dying coals on her hearth she saw what filled her heart with dread and terror, for stretched out at full length on her hearthstones were three big rattlers."

"How did they get in?" cried Jack.

"Well, the Bibbinses' house was very old and was also very full of cracks. The three rattlers, chilled by the November night air, were attracted by the warmth of Mother Bibbins' fireplace. It was a cozy spot compared to the rock ledges and the cold winds. They had crawled into the kitchen through the cracks between the hearthstones."

"Did Mother Bibbins scream?" asked Evelyn.

"No; she did not want to wake her children and frighten them. At first she did not dare move for fear there might be a snake right on her bed. She did not dare step out on the floor lest she might put her bare feet right on a rattler. She sat there in bed and planned and planned how she could save her children before the rattlers had time to thaw out and crawl around."

"What did she do?" cried the children.

Daddy glanced at the clock.

"It is too late now to tell you how she saved them, but some night you shall hear. And please remember that it is many, many years since there were any rattlers on the mountain and that little children now pick up chestnuts where Mother Bibbins' house used to stand."

"Here are two kisses for you, daddy!" cried Evelyn.

BY MRS. DYA LEONARD

John Sutner Tells His Wife of His Latest Misfortune.

John Sutner let himself in very quietly but not so noiselessly that little Jack did not hear him and come running to meet him with joyous cries of "Papa, papa!" clasping him around the knees. John stooped and kissed the upturned face in an absent manner and gave him his hat to carry to the closet.

"Hello!" called Molly's cheery voice. "Supper is almost ready."

John walked on to the kitchen door and looked out at the bustling little wife.

"Don't get any supper for me, dear," he began, "I can not eat anything tonight." Molly looked up with distress in her eyes and the pale face of her husband only increased her alarm.

"You are sick, John. We must call the doctor at once."

"No, I wish that were all." Her husband's tone had all the old bitter quality that had disappeared since her sickness. "Get your supper and put the boy to bed; I have something to tell you. I'll lie down till you are ready."

"Have you lost your job?" Molly's voice shook.

"Worse than that," was the discouraging answer.

Little Jack had his supper in the kitchen, and got only vague, unsympathetic answers to his stream of questions. He was hustled into bed with scant ceremony and with a troubled brow and palpitating heart Molly came and sat down by the lounge on which her husband had thrown himself. She lifted his limp hand into her lap and began chafing it between her own.

"Tell me what has happened, dear," she whispered, for he did not move.

John sat up with a slight groan. "I have had a knock down blow, my girl. I have no more spirit in me. Are you strong enough to face the worst?"

"Yes; go on," she breathed through parted lips, crushed with the suffering she saw in his face.

This afternoon Mr. Jaynes called me to the office, and I found Tyler closeted with him. As soon as I saw him a cold chill went all over me. I knew the time I had been dreading had come. Jaynes motioned me to a seat, and plunged right into the matter in hand. It seems that Tyler had come to him to report a shortage in the cash and they had talked the thing over and decided that I was the only person sufficiently down and out to be accused of the theft." John looked fixedly at Molly to see how she was going to take his news.

"Theft!" gasped the wife, springing wildly to her feet. "Oh! It isn't so, is it? You never took the money, did you?"

"Do you have to ask?" came in reproachful tones from the stricken man. "Julia Osgood did not have to inquire."

"Oh, John, forgive me," sobbed the girl, sinking on her knees and throwing her arms around her husband. "I knew you would not do such a thing, only you were so hunted, so distracted for a while there before I was sick. I used to be afraid you would do something desperate. I have hurt you. I, who would so love to help you in your trouble."

"There, dear," said John, eased by the sight of the tears he could not shed. "You must not waste your strength this way. You will need it all before this business is over. We must try to calmly face the situation and see what is best to do."

The sobbing grew less and less violent as the distracted little woman clung to her husband. When she was quiet John went on:

"Julia Osgood said I must tell my influential friends, the Ellsons. I said I could not, but I happened to remember that this thing is not going to be a secret long. The whole town, all the country, in fact, will know it in a few days, and I had rather they had my version than Tyler's." The bitterness in his tone fairly grated.

Molly sprang to her feet. "I'll make you a cup of tea and after you have swallowed that we will go together to the Ellsons. Mrs. Morse, next door, will sit with Jack. She offered to the other day."

Life in the Trenches

A series of letters written by Canadian Officers now in Belgium, who are relatives of Councilman Allan Cowperthwait, of North Plainfield, have been received by him. The series gives such a graphic description of the life which the Canadian contingent is leading in Belgium, that the Daily Press has secured permission to print the letters in serial form.

Divisional Reserve,
Rest Billets,
Somewhere in Belgium,
November 11, 1915.

My dear Mother:—

Tonight we sure are happy. We have come out of the trenches after six days there; and twelve days in support battalion and brigade. We are in a Belgium farm-house—I think it is the parlor we have—it generally is, tile floor, religious pictures galore, several crucifixes, but an open fireplace. Gee, it is good to see a fire and get away from dug out houses and sand bag walls and wet muddy trenches. My officers are singing, and I am joining in every now and again. Someone has just given the toast, "Here's to home, where we're treated best and grumble most," that's a new one on me, but it's very good. Don't you think so? I have just been called on to sing a verse of some song, so I gave them "Way Down Upon the Swanee River," and they all joined in the chorus.

Next day 12:25 p. m.—We are waiting for dinner. I had to stop writing last night on account of the noise and I am afraid it's not much better now. Six officers in one room all shaving, washing, singing and passing uncomplimentary remarks. It's a good thing I am patient as well as a bit of a boy myself. I can enter into their fun and enjoy it. Last night I had a six months' old baby in my arms—a little Belgium rascal, and he apparently appreciated my efforts to amuse him, so I took him in with the other officers and they all took a turn dancing him about. Belgium peasants are the dirtiest I ever expect to meet, and their farms a little bit worse, but looking back now on the first one we got into, it sure was a palace to some we have since struck, but at that time we thought we were in bad quarters. There are so many things I would like to tell you about, I don't know where to start, largely of course covering our daily life. I wish the people at home could get a glimpse of our life here. It sure is a queer one,—plenty of hardships, but it is remarkable how every one takes them with a smile and a joke. I haven't lost my temper since I left Cornwall, I'm thankful to say,—been peeved occasionally when my liver got out of order. Tomorrow I hope to have a hot bath, a real one in an enamel bath in a convent and have a real dinner afterwards. There are three baths, and the good sisters are helping us out by allowing us to use them. It will be the first time in eighteen days that I have had a bath or my clothes off—always sleep in them. But it doesn't bother me now. I am getting used to it. So far my company has been very fortunate. I have only had one man killed. We have been most careful to take all precaution possible for their safety. They get very careless and expose themselves unnecessarily, and it requires constant watching to prevent them. I felt very sorry for the battalions relieving us in the trenches—coming in at night in the pouring rain. The dug outs caving in or leaking, the trenches very wet and muddy, water and wood scarce, but as they passed us they all laughed and joked and marched along in the mud. I am glad to hear that recruiting is progressing favorably both in England and in Canada. We will need all the men we can get before we lick them in fancy. Things don't look any too rosy in Servia, according to yesterday's paper. Now mother dear, I must close and try and get this off by the next mail. I am in the best of health and spirits—getting fat. So far my nerves are standing the racket all right and I hope they will continue to. My cold is gone. Helen writes me every day in the best of spirits, also the boys. She probably writes you frequently and tells you of her doings. I don't suppose I will know the boys, they will have matured so much.

Heaps of love, mother dear.

Affectionately,
"MORGAN."

France, Sept. 20, 1915.

Dear Father and Mother:—

I suppose that now I am in France you will be rather anxious. But there is no necessity to be anxious for the only way anything can happen to me is by a stray pullet or shell. But I must tell you of our trip through the country.

We landed on Wednesday morning and marched into a rest camp where we stayed till evening. The men were very tired, for they hadn't had much sleep the night before, so they slept most of the day. The people were very hospitable and brought out gallons of beer and light wine, which we accepted very gratefully, as it was a very dry day.

That evening we marched about four miles to a railway, where we entrained and traveled till 3:30 a. m. Then we got off and marched till 7 a. m. That was an awful march, for the men were very foot sore and kept falling out all the time. When we stopped, Morgan and I went into a village and got some fried eggs from a buxom French maid. Then I flopped for an hour's rest but didn't get it. At 11 a. m. we started out again and marched till 4:30 p. m., when we entered our billets. The people were Flemish, and didn't welcome us very effusively. However, the soft side of a brick floor felt like a feather bed to me, and I certainly had a good sleep after a very hard day's work. The men straggled in all night, and even next morning. I had a big job next day fixing up blistered feet.

About 5 p. m. along came General Alderson and told us that he was very sorry but he would have to send us into the trenches the next night, so next day we had another long march. The men fell out by platoons but they were herded along behind by a picquet. About 4 p. m. we entered our new billets, which were about three miles behind the firing line. I had to hunt for water and do all the other things necessary on entering new billets. Then I dropped into my bed, buried my right hip in a hole in Mother Earth and faded into oblivion for a few hours.

The next day (Sunday) I got an order to come to the trenches, so I rode up with our signalers. As we were going along the road, a big gun went off almost beside us and I ducked with great celerity. Captain Strand laughed at me. It is rather disconcerting to hear a shell go screeching over your head. You can follow them by the sound from the time they leave the gun till they burst, but you don't have much time to get out of the way.

We arrived at the trenches about 4:30 p. m., and I saw my new quarters. We are replacing English. The doctor, who is a young Scotchman, showed me around the trenches. They are very safe. No man is allowed to put his head over the parapet—if he does he is court-martialed—that is, if he isn't shot by the Germans.

The trenches themselves are about one and one-half to two feet wide and built like this. All along there are dugout built into the bank, where the men and officers sleep and live like rabbits in their holes. When they go into the trenches, they stay in for four to six days, when they are replaced by another regiment. They eat there and live a life like a hermit—quite safe if they take care of themselves.

My own quarters are about 400 yards behind the trenches in an old house and I am very comfortable indeed. Stray bullets come along now and then and they send over a few shells just to let us know they are keeping their eyes open. It is really 100 per cent. better than I thought it would be. Casualties in this section are, so far, few and far between.

Morgan is well and enjoying life. I see him every day.

Now I must close and get to bed. I can't tell you where I am, of course, but if you can read this. Do Run away No. One understands the Regimental Establishment. You may get it. Much love to all. Please pass this letter on to Toronto.

Your loving son,
"KENNETH."

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

JOHN BEDMAN DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

John Bedman, a resident of this city for the past sixteen years, coming here from Westfield, died yesterday at his home on Woodbine avenue, following a long illness. He was in his sixty-fifth year and was last employed at the Spicer plant, but was compelled to give up work in 1912. He was a member of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Scotch Plains. Beside his wife, he is survived by two daughters and one son. They are the Misses Eva and Alice Bedman and Ernest Bedman.

The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow night at 8 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First Methodist church. Burial will be in the Presbyterian cemetery, Woodbridge.

C. F. HOPEWELL, JR., DIES AT GRANDPARENT'S HOME

Charles Frederic Hopewell, Jr., the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederic Hopewell, died early yesterday morning, at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David J. Conover, of 74 Jackson avenue. He was two years and eight months old and was an unusually bright and lovable child. His illness began two weeks ago, but did not become serious until last Thursday. He was a great favorite in the neighborhood of his home and the family and relatives have the sincere sympathy of all in their hour of bereavement.

The funeral was held at the grandparents' home at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring officiating. The little casket was almost hidden beneath a profusion of flowers from playmates and other friends. Burial was made in the Conover family plot in Hillside cemetery.

FIRST DEFEAT FOR Y. M. C. A.

Chathams of Brooklyn Play Superior Article of Basketball.

HOMESTERS OFF FORM

Handle Ball Badly, Making Many Costly Fumbles—Visitors Display Excellent Teamwork, and Double Opponents' Score.

Plainfield Y. M. C. A.'s basketball team bowed to defeat for the first time this season, Saturday night, the local association players being outclassed by the Chathams, of Brooklyn. The score was 37 to 18.

The Chathams looked better than any team that has appeared here in a long while. Although the players were not physically formidable; they were stellar exponents of the scientific part of the game.

The teamwork and shooting of the visitors looked the better by contrast with the way the homesters handled the ball. The Y. M. C. A. representatives were off form. They fumbled frequently, passed wildly, missed many shots, and failed to cover on the defense. The Brooklynites always seemed to have a man loose when they had the ball, yet there was invariably a Chatham guard around to break up an attempted shot or pass when the ball was in Y. M. C. A. hands.

There was little to choose between the two teams at the outset, but near the end of the first half the boys from the City of Churches drew away from their opponents, and had a five-point lead when the first period ended.

Their advantage was greater in the second half, when they tallied 18 points to the homesters' 4.

BENEDICTS WIN WITH AID OF SINGLE MEN

Married Men Forced to Substitute Bachelors in Their Line-up.

Pond employes who are ensnared in the bonds of matrimony and those who have thus far successfully dodged Cupid's darts, met in their scheduled basketball game in the Hope chapel gym Saturday night. Two of the married men couldn't get permission from their wives, and were unable to be present. With their ranks thus weakened, the benedicts, becoming exhausted in the second half, had to call upon the single men for reinforcements, the fresh troops winning the game by a 22 to 16 score.

The first half ended 8 to 3 in favor of the bachelors. Porter made more than half of the winning side's points. It was a case of father against son when G. E. Leighs played opposite his daddy, G. T. Leighs. The latter, playing his first basketball game, celebrated by throwing in a pair of fouls.

TO HOLD MONSTER POOL TOURNEY AT ELKS' CLUB

Upwards of fifty entries have already been received for a handicap pocket billiard tournament, to be conducted at the Elks' Club this winter. The committee in charge is composed of Dr. Elmer Giddis, Harry Geiger and William Hand. Entries will close December 15. It will be the second pool tourney held at the Watchung avenue club since the new home was erected. The first, held two years ago, was won by Harry Blimm, Harry De Meza being second, and Clarence Mundy third.

LOCAL MAN OFFICIATED.

Benjamin Berse, of this city, refereed the basketball game between the Knights of St. Peter, of New Brunswick, and the Company M team at Somerville, Saturday night. There were more than a thousand people at the game, which was won by Somerville in the last minute of play, 3: to 30.

PLANNING HOUSE TOURNEY.

A five-man team house tournament will be started among the bowlers of the Elks' Club the first week in January. About ten quintets will be entered. There were eight in the tournament last season.

ROTATION BILLIARD TOURNEY.

NOTABLE WIN FOR HOLY CROSS

Local Eleven Gives Bayonne Vikings Worst Beating They Ever Got.

ILL FEELING PREVAILS

Riot Threatened a Couple Times—Winners Play Another Great Game, Scoring Touchdowns In Each of the Last Three Quarters.

In one of the most bitter gridiron contests ever waged in this city, the Holy Cross Club defeated the Vikings, of Bayonne, on Cricket Field, Saturday, by the score of 19 to 0.

As is well known by football followers here, the Vikings and Holy Cross have always been enemies, and once or twice Saturday it looked as though the game would end with a riot. A short free-for-all was started when rival players exchanged blows, but the trouble was ended almost as soon as it began, and the game was continued after a delay of several minutes.

The visitors could not seem to do anything against the locals on the defense, while on the other hand they could not gain ground when in possession of the ball and were thrown for losses time and again. Longstreet, the much heralded star of the Vikings, was unable to do very much, for the locals had him buffaloed throughout the game. There was plenty of excitement every moment, and the small crowd on the side lines became so enthusiastic, it was impossible to keep the field clear.

The locals showed superb form and displayed better teamwork than in any game they have ever played. Every man on the team played as never before, and the Plainfielders have good reason to feel proud of their great victory, for the Vikings themselves admitted after the game that it was the worst trouncing ever handed them. Manager Doran, who has been connected with the team for the past ten years, said that as far back as he could remember, it was the worst beating the Vikings ever received. The locals' goal was never in danger during the game, and Coach Stallings was highly elated over the way his charges played, principally because he formerly coached the Vikings, and he was anxious to trim them so that he might be able some day to return to Bayonne without fear of being the laughing stock of the village.

The Vikings had their very best line-up on hand, and they were greatly surprised to find the locals in such good form. On account of the Newark Franklins defeating the locals, and the fact that the Bayonneites handed a trimming to the Franklins, they expected to have an easy time taking Saturday's game.

Right at the start of the game, the Holy Cross boys worked the ball to their opponents' ten-yard line by steady line plunging, but the visitors held them there, and Ricketts was forced to try a field goal, but the ball went wide. In the second period the rushing tactics were again used to good advantage, and Wilson carried the ball over for the first touchdown. Ricketts failed to kick the goal.

In the third period, Ricketts himself took the ball across for a touchdown. He had only inches to go, but he had to hurl his body through a stonewall of eleven Viking men in order to make the score. Manning failed to kick the goal. In the final period, Manning intercepted a forward pass and carried the ball over after a forty-yard run. Clarke was elected to kick the goal this time, and succeeded.

The teams lined up as follows:

Holy Cross.	Vikings.
Brown	Noonan left end
Smith	L'Estrange
left tackle
Hohenstein	Boorman left guard
Carty	Doran

P. H. S. TEAM ONE OF THE BEST

Local Football Combination Ranked Eleventh Best in New Jersey.

COUNTY TEAM CHOSEN

Pennock and Davidson Given Places on All-Star Eleven Selected From Union Schools—Noonan One of the Best Fullbacks.

Individual and team ratings for the 1915 scholastic football season in New Jersey, as made by the leading authority, the Newark Call and Spalding's Guide, were announced yesterday.

Two Plainfield High School players are on the All-Union county eleven. They are Captain Pennock, guard, and Davidson, end. The others picked are: Potts, Pingry, end; Lukens, Rahway, tackle; V. Ellson, Battin, guard; Morse, Rahway, centre; Graudorf, Roselle, tackle; Moore, Pingry, quarterback; Vecsi, Pingry, and Durand, Rahway, halfbacks, and Davies, Roselle, fullback.

The team ratings, based on the records, rank Plainfield High School eleventh. The first two dozen high schools listed are: 1, Rutherford and Asbury Park; 3, Phillipsburg; 4, Barringer; 5, East Orange; 6, Atlantic City; 7, Rahway; 8, Dickinson; 9, Ridgewood; 10, Pingry; 11, Plainfield; 12, Roselle; 13, Dover; 14, Bridgeton; 15, South Side; 16, Bordentown; 17, Salem; 18, Haddon Heights; 19, Palmyra; 20, Burlington; 21, Trenton; 22, Camden, 23, Atlantic Highlands; 24, Westfield.

Some of the out-of-town players honored on selected teams played against P. H. S. Ziegler, of Phillipsburg, is put on All-State High School team as halfback; Allsopp, of South Side, is judged one of the two best halfs in Newark, while Tallman, a Phillipsburg guard, and Dunham, the New Brunswick centre, gained places of the Central New Jersey eleven.

As usual, the all-star teams picked from all the schools in the State numbering more than 100, and consequently representing the cream of some two thousand boys, are chosen for the most part from the big prep schools, which produce teams far above the High School standard. Brooks, the former Rahway star, and Olson, of Rutgers Prep, are the halfback choices. Rossell, another former Rahway High man, is third choice for quarterback.

Among those given honorable men [illegible] are Noonan, the Plainfield High School fullback; Dunham, New Brunswick center; Ziegler, Vecsi and Reisfield, halfbacks of Phillipsburg, Pingry and New Brunswick, respectively; Nolan, Phillipsburg's quarter and Davies, Roselle's full.

PLENTY OF FENCING IN 20-MILE CHASE

Hounds Set Fast Pace for the Hunt Club Riders in Week-End Run.

Twenty-five riders of the Watchung Hunt Club met the hounds at Two Bridges Saturday afternoon and were led a lively chase over a rolling country in which there was plenty of good fencing. The air was keen, the hounds were unusually fast, and it was more than some of the riders could do to continue the run to the finish.

The hounds were thrown in on the Murray farm, the first check being at Goodman's Crossing. Taken up again they were cast in on the Schilling farm, the second check being at Menlo Park. The final check was at Mt. Pleasant, the distance covered being about twenty miles.

These riders finished: Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H.; Harry A. Bourne, Mrs. Brown Rolston, A. C. Fox, S. D. French, Mrs. William Hughes, A. E. Beling, Harry W. Evans, Brown Rolston, Huntsman Harrison and the whip.

G. E. LIPSCOMB DOUBLE WINNER AT THE TRAPS

C. E. Lipscomb won a special cup and led in the season point competition for another trophy at the traps of the Log Cabin Gu Club Saturday. He was high gun for the Take Home Cup, and earned five points by leading the field in the Point Cup shoot. In the latter event, David G. Weems won three points by being second, and Stewart H. Patterson got one point for being third. The field was not as large as usual, and a stiff wind handicapped the shooters, so that most of the scores were low. The next shoot of the Woodland avenue club will be Saturday, December 18.

URGES EVERYONE TO QUICKLY GET ON WATER WAGON

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week. Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.—Adv.

A FEW APPEALS TO YOU, SIR!

Is it more CONVENIENCE you wish? Then bank here by mail if you like. Our location is central; no exchange is charged in New York on our checks.

Is it VARIETY OF SERVICE you look for? Ours is three-fold: general banking, handling of trust matters and safe-keeping of valuables.

Is it RATES OF INTEREST that interest you? Note on checking accounts ours is 3%; on savings accounts it's 4% compound.

Do you TRAVEL? Then let us safeguard your money by Travellers Cheques or a Letter of Credit.

The Plainfield Trust Company

A FEW APPEALS TO YOU, MADAM!

Is it absolute PROTECTION you seek? Resources of $6,000,000.00 — a reputation for conservative dealing—an institution of known strength. That's what we have and are.

If it's better SERVICE than you now receive—remember we endeavor to reciprocate the patronage of our depositors by the most prompt, courteous, businesslike attention.

Do BANKING MATTERS seem somewhat complicated? Then let us explain fully in person. Just call and ask for Mr. Hubbell, Secretary, Mr. Walsh, Assistant Secretary, or Miss Kirby Assistant Treasurer.

PREPAREDNESS IS THEME OF PRESIDENT WILSON'S MESSAGE DELIVERED TO CONGRESS TODAY

URGES LARGER REGULAR ARMY, RESERVE FORCE OF 400,000 TRAINED MEN AND A MUCH LARGER NAVY, ALL TO BE READY IN FIVE YEARS.

MUST RID NATION OF FOES NOW WITHIN BORDER

Says That They Have Poured Poison of Disloyalty into Arteries of Our National Life, and Must Be Crushed Out—Railroad Regulation Needed to Make Lines More Useful Servants of the Country—Advocates Stamp Tax and Tax of 50 Cents a Horsepower on Automobiles.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Preparedness was the keynote of President Wilson's annual message sent to Congress today. The preparation should be made so thorough, according to the Executive, that the United States as a nation will be able not only to make sure of its own security, but must also make sure of our entire freedom to play the impartial role in this hemisphere and in the world, which all believe we have been providentially assigned to do. The message makes between 7,500 and 8,000 words.

Other recommendations are that the United States remain studiously neutral; Federal laws be enacted to deal with naturalized Americans who menace our national peace and safety; policy of Americanism as a successor to the Monroe doctrine; government initiative in merchant marine; rural credit plane which will enlarge farmers' borrowing facilities; continuance of the emergency revenue act; continuance of duty of one cent per pound on sugar; stamp tax on bank checks; tax of fifty cents per horse power on automobiles and internal combustion engines; tax of one cent per gallon on gasoline and naphtha; tax of 25 cents per ton on fabricated iron and steel and on pig iron.

The message, in part, follows:

SUDDEN DEATH OF WILLIAM A. CONNER

William Andrew Conner, a resident of this city for the past eleven years, died suddenly at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon as he was attending to his duties in the office of the Standard Underground Cable Company, of Perth Amboy, of which he was vice president and general manager. While apparently in the best of health, having gone from his home at 999 Hillside avenue in the morning without any intimation of physical ailment, he was suddenly stricken with angina pectoris. A physician was summoned but death ensued a short time after his arrival, medical aid being of no avail.

Mr. Conner was born at Baltimore, Md., September 12, 1859. After completing his education he spent his early business life in Pittsburgh, coming to Plainfield when he was appointed to the general management of the Perth Amboy concern, one of the largest in Middlesex county. He at once became identified with Perth Amboy's business affairs and for a number of years up to the time of his death had been vice president of the Perth Amboy Trust Company. The Standard Underground Cable Company employs many hundreds of workmen and in every department Mr. Conner was held in high esteem by all the under-officers, through his managerial instinct and his prompt business like methods.

Although he was not known in Plainfield as a public man, Mr. Conner enjoyed a wide acquaintance and was quite active in local social life. He was a member and trustee of the First Baptist church, where he attended regularly. He enjoyed the distinction of being a thirty-second degree member of the Masonic order. He received his initiatory degrees in Pittsburgh, where he was affiliated with the various branches of the order, including the Chapter and the Knights Templar.

Beside his wife, Mr. Conner is survived only by one sister, Mrs. James G. Roak, of Brooklyn, and one brother, Edward G. Conner, of Orange. The funeral service will be held at the late home, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The officiating clergymen will be Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. Barnes, of New York, a member of the Board of Baptist Missions and an intimate friend of the deceased for many years. The body will be temporarily placed in the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery.

GAVE "500" PARTY.

The members of Lydia Chapter, Order Eastern Star Lodge, held a "500" party at Masonic Hall, yesterday. There were twenty tables. During the afternoon refreshments were served. After the playing of cards a social time was enjoyed.

WILL ELECT OFFICERS.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, will meet Thursday night, when the annual election of officers will be held and important matters involving the future policy of the council will be considered.

BUSINESS MEN HELP COMMUNITY XMAS

Twenty-five dollars was appropriated at the regular monthly meeting of the Plainfield Business Men's Association last night to the Community Christmas movement. The members present went on record as unanimously endorsing the plan, and when M. C. Van Arsdale moved that the money be appropriated there was not a dissenting voice. The association during the past month has also given five boys' memberships in the Y. M. C. A., leaving the selection of the boys to the officers of that organization.

Another move to further interest shoppers in Plainfield was the decision to offer three prizes of $5, $4 and $3 to the person who writes the best letter to the organization on the advantages of shopping in Plainfield. The details of this contest will be announced in a few days, and it will be so arranged that it will close on January 15. A committee of competent judges, none of whom are to be members of the organization, will be selected at the January meeting to decide the prize winners.

Postmaster Hoagland appeared before the Association and spoke of the forthcoming letter carriers' convention, urging those present to support it in every way they can. While no formal action was taken last night, it is probable that the organization will support the movement with a generous contribution.

The subject of false advertising was taken up, and there was a warm discussion of the best way to treat those who misrepresent, either through the newspapers or on signs displayed on their buildings or in the windows. It was finally left to a committee, consisting of A. E. Force, Leslie R. Fort and J. H. DeMott to learn just what is being done in other cities, and to warn any subsequent violators that they will be prosecuted under the State law.

John H. Johnston, reporting for the committee, which was to again take up the matter of bringing about a consolidation of the Business Men's Credit Association and the Business Men's Association, reported that progress had been made, and that many in the former organization who opposed this matter when it was last brought up are now in favor of making the change. The committee was continued with power to try to bring the work about. Robert Murray, as chairman of a committee to arrange for a sign near the railroad station, in which the advantages of Plainfield were to be set forth, reported that one site was not procurable, and he was authorized to continue to try to find another place.

The applications of twenty-nine new members of the organization were received, and a number of these men attended the meeting. Plans for strengthening the organization were thoroughly discussed, and it was reported that Harry B. Salter, who conducted the campaign a few months ago for increased membership would be back in town in a few days to complete that work.

CHARGES ARE READ AGAINST M'CARTY

Belated charges against Patrolman Cornelius McCarty were made public at last night's meeting of the General Council. McCarty resigned two weeks ago, and it was stated at the time that he stepped out rather than face charges of misconduct, but the nature of the charges against him were not made public. Eight different counts of violation of police rules and regulations were filed against McCarty by the chief, and each referred to intimate knowledge of a gambling house on East Seventh street. The charges, as read by the clerk, were that he had knowledge of gaming at the East Seventh street house and failed to report same; that he was present at the game while on duty and in uniform and made no arrests or official report; that he took part in the gambling, and that on five different occasions he left the post that he was supposed to patrol and went to the house where the game was being conducted.

Immediately following the reading of the charges there came McCarty's resignation, and soon after that a resolution from the Police Board authorizing its acceptance by the city of Plainfield. This was passed.

A petition from property owners along Jefferson avenue asking that the street be continued to the Greenbrook bridge was received and referred to the streets committee.

A communication from the George M. Clark Company stating that a hydrant in front of 932 Park avenue interfered with the building of a new residence was also referred to the streets committee.

A promise that at least ten new residences would be erected on Sachar place within the next six months was predicated upon the building of a sewer there. This came from property owners, and the matter will be taken up by the streets and sewers committee.

The appointment of John Guinee as a regular fireman was approved.

A resolution from the finance committee authorizing the Mayor and clerk to pay $184,634.28 to the county collector as State school and county taxes was passed.

A resolution was passed appropriating not more than $200 to be used in repairs to the alms house. This money will be taken from the contingent fund.

Upon the motion of Francis Blatz of the streets and sewers committee maps and assessments pertaining to the widening of Madison avenue were referred to the special board of commissioners appointed to serve for the city. Action of the Council in this matter was declared illegal by the Supreme Court of the State on an appeal taken by Fred Endress. The motion of Chairman Blatz starts proceedings again. He moved that a hearing be held December 28, at which time property owners may have a hearing. The motion was passed.

Upon motion of Mr. Blatz the ordinance to alter and widen Central avenue from West Front street to the railway lines was passed on its third and final reading.

Thomas Moore appeared as spokesman for residents along St. Mary's avenue, between Berkman and Hill streets, who objected to the passage of the sewer ordinance that effects their street, declaring that that part in front of his property was not needed, but Chairman Blatz explained that it could be left out of the contract and asked that the ordinance be passed on its third reading, which was done.

The fire and buildings committee reported that it had investigated the petition of O. F. Pearsons for a permit to install a 550-gallon gasoline tank in front of 100 Eaast Front street and recommended that the application be refused, which was done by a majority vote.

Upon action of Councilman Claybrook the Council adjourned until the evening of December 20.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH HOLDS ANNUAL PARISH MEETING

The parish of the Church of the Holy Cross held its annual business meeting in the parish house last night, at which the following officers were electedff Senior warden, Dr. J. H. Carman; junior warden, Herbert Langford; vestrymen, J. A. Van Mater, Francis L. Sill, Frank B. Ball, Everett Murray, Douglas C. Anderson, Edward S. Boyer; delegates to diocesan convention, Harrison Fahn, William Little; alternates, J. O. Stevens, and J. A. Van Mater; clerk to the vestry, Everett Murray.

Dr. J. H. Carman presided over the business meeting and the devotional exercises previous were conducted by Douglas Anderson. The treasurer's report showed a satisfactory condition of affairs and a general discussion was held regarding the selection of a rector to fill the church vacancy. Two able and representative candidates are being considered, but a selection will not be made until after the first of the year.

CHARMS AUDIENCE WITH RUSSIAN SONGS

Members of the Monday Afternoon Club and their friends, to a capacity number, filled the Congregational church yesterday afternoon, at which time Edward Bromberg, of New York, gave a delightful recital on "Russian Folk and Peasant Songs." Born in Moscow, Russia, Mr. Bromberg had plenty of opportunity to study the different customs among the natives in various localities of the great empire, and in the lecture preceding his vocal numbers he gave brief outlines of the severe penalties inflicted on the people if they advocated freedom of speech. Unable to give vent to their thoughts, the Russian people can only put in song and music what they are forbidden to openly stand for. In fact, said the speaker, the music of a country is an expression of its people.

Mr. Bromberg sang in fine baritone voice several selections in the native tongue of Russia, and his numbers throughout bore that pathos, tenderness and vein of longing and homesickness prevalent among the inhabitants. Singing when they toil when they grieve and when they rejoice, Russia today stands at the head of the nations rich in songs, and although Americans have ample opportunity to listen to famous selections from Tschaikowsky and other noted artists in the musical world, still a large number rarely have the opportunity to listen to songs of the country sung in the native tongue. Mr. Bromberg was accompanied in his numbers by his wife.

On Thursday Professor John B. Prince, of Columbia University, will give a special lecture before the member of the literature department and their friends, his theme being "Modern Russia." The talk will be given in the Congregational church parish house. By special request Mr. Prince will sing several selections of Slavonic songs. The lecture will commence promptly at 3:45, and admission will be a nominal sum.

MISS EATON TAKEN ILL.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Eaton left this morning for Boston, in response to a telegram informing them that their daughter, Miss Andree Eaton, has been stricken with appendicitis. She has been studying music at the Stuart Club in Boston. It is expected that an operation will be necessary.

COUNCIL BUYS SITE FOR NEW CITY HALL—WORK WILL START AT ONCE AND BE FINISHED DURING 1916

BROOKS' PROPERTY, CORNER OF WATCHUNG AVENUE AND EAST SIXTH STREET, CHOSEN BY PUBLIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE.

THREE STORY, COLONIAL STRUCTURE, PLANNED

$31,000 Paid for Lot on Which Building Will Be Erected—President Clay Called Father of the Movement—He Shares Credit With Mayor Calkins, Councilmen Claybrook, Hylan, Graves and Hamilton and Counsel Reed—Action is a Surprise—Mayor Suggested the Site.

At last night's meeting of the Plainfield Common Council a site for a new municipal building for the city of Plainfield was purchased and the resolution which authorized this purchase stated that the city had elected to act and proceed at once in the construction of the building.

The new city hall will be located at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Sixth street. It will be at least three stories in heighth, and will be of Colonial architecture. At present plans of the public affairs committee, which are concurred in by all members of the general body, are carried out.

The property was selected after a careful consideration of all available sites. Mayor Calkins spent much of his spare time for several months looking around town for a place for the city hall, and finally recommended the property which is to be purchased by Chairman Hylan, of the public affairs committee. With the committee unanimous in the matter, it was decided to get an option. The Mayor has been intensely interested in the subject, it having been one of the things recommended in his message to the Council last January.

The site is to be purchased from Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks. It fronts 199 feet on Watchung avenue and 221 feet on East Sixth street and is one of the best building lots in that section, which is dotted with handsome residences and churches. The purchase price of the site is to be $31,000. No estimate of the cost of the new building has been made public, but it is assured that it will be a handsome, up-to-date structure, adequate to the needs of a growing and prosperous municipality such as Plainfield.

Even the minor city officials who attended last night's meeting of the Council were surprised when Chairman Hylan, of the public affairs committee, read a resolution authorizing the purchase of a site and the immediate construction of a building, so secretly have the city fathers worked on this matter, but it developed after the meeting that members of Mr. Hylan's committee, together with Mayor Calkins and Corporation Counsel Reed have labored incessantly for the past two weeks in the selection of a suitable site and the drawing of rough plans for the building. They have carefully gone over every available lot and have selected the one most acceptable to all city officials and that which could be secured at what was termed a reasonable price. It will be necessary to borrow money for the purchase of the property, but this was authorized by resolution last night and notes will be signed by the mayor and clerk within the next few days. The city's option on the Brooks property must be exercised before

"IS DIS DE SANTA CLAUS PLACE?" OFTEN HEARD

"Hey, Missus, is dis where de Plainfield Santa Claus gets the names o' kids that wants to be remembered?" is a statement frequently heard at the rooms of the Charity Organization Society these days. The speaker is usually some bright-eyed youngster dressed in shabby clothes, who realizes that his or her only chance of knowing anything about the good old saint will come through the Community Christmas movement. And the office force take down the names, and tell the questioners if they are good children, and obey their parents (if they have any) that they may rest assured they will not be forgotten.

The Community Christmas movement, as it is now known, is three years old in Plainfield. It has brought tears of joy to the eyes of hundreds of kiddies and tears of gratitude to their parents, for the youngsters are not the only ones remembered. Many a family has had coal enough supplied to tide them over several weeks, and the bread that has been baked from the bags of flour distributed has eased many a hungry pain in young and old.

The response thus far this year has not been quite so lively as in past seasons and this is all the more surprising because of the fact that Plainfield as a whole is much more prosperous now than it was last year, for example. Treasurer DeWitt Hubbell at the Plainfield Trust Company wants a lot more money before he can promise that the committee will be able to do as much as last year. In addition to those whose names were given yesterday as contributers, the following have added to the list since then: Mrs. W. R. Taylor, Mrs. F. M. Gennug, George P. Mellick, William S. Tyler and Mrs. L. Hibbard. Treasurer Hubbell wants it understood that no receipts are being sent, the only receipt being that in the newspapers.

G. O. P. MEETS NEXT WEEK.

Routine business only was transacted at last night's meeting of the North Plainfield Republican Club. The committee in charge of the big banquet to be held next month made a report. The club will hold a meeting next Monday night, when permanent plans will be adopted.

BURGLAR WILL BE BROUGHT BACK TODAY

Bradford Blauvelt, wanted here for breaking into the home of William Grier, on Seventh street and Grant avenue, on the night of Nov. 2, and assaulting Mr. Grier, will be brought back to Plainfield this afternoon to be tried for burglary and felonious assault. Blauvelt was arrested by Captain Flynn, in New York, a short time ago, and Chief Kiely secured a requisition, signed by the Governor, yesterday. Blauvelt is considered one of the most dangerous criminals that has worked in Plainfield for some time, although but twenty-four years of age, and his arrest was the result of clever work on the part of Captain Flynn. The morning after the assault there was absolutely no evidence for the police to work on, but within a few days Captain Flynn located the man who committed the crime, and then went to New York and arrested him. Blauvelt admitted his guilt when arrested by the local captain, and told a detailed story of the burglary and assault. He will be arraigned before Judge DeMeza tomorrow morning.

TO GIVE EUCHRE PARTY.

ALL-DAY MEETING

On Thursday the Ladies' Aid and Foreign and Home Missionary Societies, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will hold an all-day meeting in the church. The society will hold its meeting in the morning at 10 o'clock. From noon until 1:30 o'clock a luncheon will be served, to which the public is invited. The meeting of the Home and Foreign Missionary Society will commence at 2:30 o'clock.

XMAS TREE SHIPMENT.

A carload consignment of Christmas trees arrived here yesterday via the Lehigh Valley for Elmer Barrett, proprietor of the Farmers' Poultry and Produce truck. The trees were shipped from Washington county, Me.

Contractor Ralph Eckert has been awarded the contract of repainting the Mrs. Margaret Dealaman house on Front street, tenanted by Julius Breyer.

Mrs. William DeRoner, of Three Bridges, spent the week-end in the borough visiting her sister, Mrs. A. E. Smith, of Front street.

Miss Edna Hardcastle, teacher of the third grade of the Lincoln School, is detained at her home in Somerville with a severe cold. Mrs. Robert Lowrie, of Plainfield, substituted for Miss Hardcastle.

Miss Anna Gibson, of Jersey City, has been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Stanley Krom, of Penfield place.

Margery Vliet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vliet, of Lincoln avenue, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, has passed the crisis.

The Board of Education will hold its monthly meeting in the Lincoln School this evening.

John P. Faber, of Washington avenue, continues to convalesce in the St. Peter's Hospital at New Brunswick, following his recent operation.

Thurman Ayers, of Center street, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crawford, of Holmdel, over the week-end.

George K. Post, of New Market road, who has been ill for the past week with neuritis, is considerably better.

Paul Bropkin, of Staten Island, has purchased the newspaper route of George Cohen. Mr. and Mrs. Cohen have moved from the Standard Investment Company house on Front street to Brooklyn.

Miss Eva Schneider, of Front street, entertained Charles Chandler, of Jersey City, Sunday.

Mrs. Vincengo Tozze, of North avenue, is quite ill.

Miss Cornelia Van Benschoten, of Prospect avenue, left yesterday for Jersey City, where she will take a two year and a half course in nursing at the German Hospital.

William Schwoerer, of Main street, is suffering from appendicitis.

Walter Penrose has taken a position with the New Market Grain Company.

The first rehearsal of the cantata, "Blessed Is He That Cometh," to be given by the Sunday-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, on the Monday after Christmas, was held Sunday evening.

'Plains & Fanwood.

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of All Saints Episcopal church, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Kyte, of Martine avenue, when all matters incidental to the fair last Saturday will be taken care of.

George Johnston, of Westfield avenue, is again in the field for a reappointment to the position of journal clerk of the Assembly. He has already served in that capacity for the past year and so far has no opposition.

The old Sheelen homestead, one of the landmarks around the township, was partially destroyed by fire Sunday morning, the origin of the blaze being unknown. It has been occupied temporarily by Ernest Johnson, a colored man, who could not explain the cause of the fire. The rear end of the structure had been consumed by the flames before the Westfield firemen, who answer alarms in that section of the township, could arrive, but they had the fire out shortly afterward. The property, the last of the large Sheelen farm, was acquired by the Westfield Golf Club a short time ago and it will be only a matter of a short time before it is made a part of the golf links, the rest of the farm having been made so from time to time. There seems to be an epidemic of small fires of unknown origin in that section, known as the "Big Woods," lately, this making the fifth blaze that has partly destroyed dwellings occupied by colored people.

All of the various committees in the borough have completed their work for this year. Mayor William H. Hoar will announce his new committees for the coming year at the annual meeting of the Council for organization on New Year's Day. The office of borough clerk, the only other appointive office in the borough, will probably remain the same as this year.

John Pandick, who makes his home with his brother on North avenue, has opened an art school in New York city.

John Burgemiller, the local rural free delivery mail carrier, is improving from injuries sustained several weeks ago, when he fell from a scaffold.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reiner of Martine avenue, are entertaining Mrs. Mildred Sheldon Bass-Anderton, of Paterson.

Miss Katheryn Todd and Victor Todd, of Bellvale, N. Y., are visiting friends in the borough, where they formerly resided.

HARRY C. OSTRANDER TO LECTURE AT HIGH SCHOOL

The fourth of the free public lectures conducted by the Board of Education will be held in the High School building, Thursday night. There is an awakening interest in these lectures, and each succeeding one is patronized by a larger number of people. Dr. Maxson, superintendent of schools, has secured Harry C. Ostrander, an entertaining speaker, for Thursday night. The subject, as announced, is "Mohammedan Lands," and, coming at this particular time, the lecture should prove of very great interest.

Mr. Ostrander has traveled extensively, and his lecture will deal particularly with the home life of the Turks, and an extensive study of the people in their daily living will enable the speaker to bring to the people of Plainfield most valuable information on a country which has become the center of interest in the great world war. The pictures which will be shown have been taken under most unusual circumstances and with rare discrimination, and form not the least attractive part of the evening's entertainment.

PREPAREDNESS IS THEME

Gentlemen of the Congress—Since I last had the privilege of addressing you on the state of the Union the war of nations on the other side of the sea, which had then only begun to disclose its portentous proportions, has extended its threatening and sinister scope until it has swept within its flame some portion of every quarter of the globe, not excepting our own hemisphere, has altered the whole face of international affairs, and now presents a prospect of reorganization and reconstruction such as statesmen and peoples have never been called upon to attempt before.

The president tells how this country practiced neutrality and declares that he hopes that when the time comes for readjustment and recuperation this country will be of infinite service. Referring to Central and South American problems, the president declares that we should retain unabated the spirit which has inspired us throughout the whole life of our government and which was so frankly put into words by President Monroe.

We have been put to the test in the case of Mexico, and we have stood the test. Whether we have benefited Mexico by the course we have pursued remains to be seen. Her fortunes are in her own hands. But we have at least proved that we will not take advantage of her in her distress and undertake to impose upon her an order and government of our own choosing. Liberty is often a fierce and intractable thing, to which no bounds can be set and to which no bounds of a few men's choosing ought ever to be set. Every American who has drunk at the true fountains of principle and tradition must subscribe without reservation to the high doctrine of the Virginia bill of rights, which in the great days in which our government was set up was everywhere among us accepted as the creed of free men. That doctrine is, "That government is or ought to be instituted for the common benefit, protection and security of the people, nation or community;" that "of all the various modes and forms of government, that is the best which is capable of producing the greatest degree of happiness and safety and is most effectually secured against the danger of maladministration, and that when any government shall be found inadequate or contrary to these purposes a majority of the community hath an indubitable, inalienable and indefeasible right to reform, alter or abolish it in such manner as shall be judged most conducive to the public weal." We have unhesitatingly applied that heroic principle to the case of Mexico and now hopefully await the rebirth of the troubled republic, which had so much of which to purge itself and so little sympathy from any outside quarter in the radical but necessary process. We will aid and befriend Mexico, but we will not coerce her, and our course with regard to her ought to be sufficient proof to all America that we seek no political suzerainty or selfish control.

PAN-AMERICANISM HAS NONE OF EMPIRE'S SPIRIT.

Economic Adjustments Inevitable Within the Next Generation.

The moral is that the states of America are not hostile rivals, but co-operating friends, and that their growing sense of community of interest, alike in matters political and in matters economic, is likely to give them a new significance as factors in international affairs and in the political history of the world. It presents them as in a very deep and true sense a unit in world affairs, spiritual partners, standing together because thinking together, quick with common sympathies and common ideals. Separated, they are subject to all the cross currents of the confused politics of a world of hostile rivalries; united in spirit and purpose, they cannot be disappointed of their peaceful destiny.

This is pan-Americanism. It has none of the spirit of empire in it. It is the embodiment, the effectual embodiment, of the spirit of law and independence and liberty and mutual service.

The president calls attention to the meeting in Washington recently of representatives of the pan-American republics and says that economic adjustment is inevitable in the next generation.

No one who really comprehends the spirit of the great people for whom we are appointed to speak can fail to perceive that their passion is for peace, their genius best displayed in the practice of the arts of peace. Great democracies are not belligerent. They do not seek or desire war. Their thought is of individual liberty and of the free labor that supports life and the uncensored thought that quickens it. Conquest and dominion are not in our reckoning or agreeable to our principles. But just because we demand unmolested development and the undisturbed government of our own lives upon our own principles of right and liberty, we resent, from whatever quarter it may come, the aggression we ourselves will not practice. We insist upon security in prosecuting our self chosen lines of national development. We do more than that. We demand it also for others. We do not confine our enthusiasm for individual liberty and free national development to the incidents and movements of affairs which affect only ourselves. We feel it wherever there is a people that tries to walk in these difficult paths of independence and right. From the first we have made common cause with all partisans of liberty on this side the sea and have deemed it as important that our neighbors should be free from all outside domination as that we ourselves should be; have set America aside as a whole for the uses of independent nations and political freemen.

Out of such thoughts grow all our policies. We regard war merely as a means of asserting the rights of a people against aggression. And we are as fiercely jealous of coercive or dictatorial power within our own nation as of aggression from without. We will not maintain a standing army except for uses which are as necessary in times of peace as in times of war.

SUGGESTS BROAD PLAN FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE.

Increase Standing Regular Force—Four Hundred Thousand Citizen Soldiers.

But war has never been a mere matter of men and guns. It is a thing of disciplined might. If our citizens are ever to fight effectively upon a sudden summons, they must know how modern fighting is done, and what to do when the summons comes to render themselves immediately available and immediately effective. And the government must be their servant in this matter, must supply them with the training they need to take care of themselves and of it. The military arm of their government, which they will not allow to direct them, they may properly use to serve them and make their independence secure, and not their own independence merely, but the rights also of those with whom they have made common cause, should they also be put in jeopardy. They must be fitted to play the great role in the world, and particularly in this hemisphere, for which they are qualified by principle and by chastened ambition to play.

It is with these ideals in mind that the plans of the department of war for more adequate national defense were conceived which will be laid before you, and which I urge you to sanction and put into effect as soon as they can be properly scrutinized and discussed. They seem to me the essential first steps, and they seem to me for the present sufficient.

They contemplate an increase of the standing force of the regular army from its present strength of 5,023 officers and 102,985 enlisted men of all services to a strength of 7,136 officers and 121,707 enlisted men, or 140,843 all told, all services, rank and file, by the addition of fifty-two companies of coast artillery, fifteen companies of engineers, ten regiments of infantry, four regiments of field artillery and four aero squadrons, besides 750 officers required for a great variety of extra service, especially the all important duty of training the citizen force of which I shall presently speak, 792 noncommissioned officers for service in drill, recruiting and the like and the necessary quota of enlisted men for the quartermaster corps, the hospital corps, the ordnance department and other similar auxiliary services. These are the additions necessary to render the army adequate for its present duties, duties which it has to perform not only upon our own continental coasts and borders and at our interior army posts, but also in the Philippines, in the Hawaiian Islands, at the isthmus and in Porto Rico.

By way of making the country ready to assert some part of its real power promptly and upon a larger scale should occasion arise the plan also contemplates supplementing the army by a force of 400,000 disciplined citizens, raised in increments of 133,000 a year throughout a period of three years. This it is proposed to do by a process of enlistment under which the serviceable men of the country would be asked to bind themselves to serve with the colors for purposes of training for short periods throughout three years and to come to the colors at call at any time throughout an additional "furlough" period of three years. This force of 400,000 men would be provided with personal accouterments as fast as enlisted and their equipment for the field made ready to be supplied at any time. They would be assembled for training at stated intervals at convenient places in association with suitable units of the regular army. Their period of annual training would not necessarily exceed two months in the year.

The president says it is up to the patriotic young men of the country to respond to this call.

COMPREHENSIVE PLAN FOR GREATER NAVY.

Always Looked to It as Our First and Chief Line of Defense.

The program which will be laid before you by the secretary of the navy is similarly conceived. It involves only a shortening of the time within which plans long matured shall be carried out, but it does make definite and explicit a program which has heretofore been only implicit, held in the minds of the committees on naval affairs and disclosed in the debates of the two houses, but nowhere formulated or formally adopted. It seems to me very clear that it will be to the advantage of the country for the congress to adopt a comprehensive plan for putting the navy upon a final footing of strength and efficiency and to press that plan to completion within the next five years. We have always looked to the navy of the country as our first and chief line of defense; we have always seen it to be our manifest course of prudence to be strong on the seas. Year by year we have been creating a navy which now ranks very high indeed among the navies of the maritime nations. We should now definitely determine how we shall complete what we have begun and how soon.

The program to be laid before you contemplates the construction within five years of ten battleships, six battle cruisers, ten scout cruisers, fifty destroyers, fifteen fleet submarines, eighty-five coast submarines, four gunboats, one hospital ship, two ammunition ships, two fuel oil ships and one repair ship. It is proposed that of this number we shall the first year provide for the construction of two battleships, two battle cruisers, three scout cruisers, fifteen destroyers, five fleet submarines, twenty-five coast submarines, two gunboats and one hospital ship; the second year two battleships, one scout cruiser, ten destroyers, four fleet submarines, fifteen coast submarines, one gunboat and one fuel oil ship; the third year two battleships, one battle cruiser, two scout cruisers, five destroyers, two fleet submarines and fifteen coast submarines; the fourth year two battleships, two battle cruisers, two scout cruisers, ten destroyers, two fleet submarines, fifteen coast submarines, one ammunition ship and one fuel oil ship, and the fifth year two battleships, one battle cruiser, two scout cruisers, ten destroyers, two fleet submarines, fifteen coast submarines, one gunboat, one ammunition ship and one repair ship.

The secretary of the navy is asking also for the immediate addition to the personnel of the navy of 7,500 sailors, 1,500 apprentice seamen and 1,500 marines. This increase would be sufficient to care for the ships which are to be completed within the fiscal year 1917 and also for the number of men which must be put in training to man the ships which will be completed early in 1918. It is also necessary that the number of midshipmen at the Naval academy at Annapolis should be increased by at least 300 in order that the force of officers should be more rapidly added to, and authority is asked to appoint, for engineering duties only, approved graduates of engineering colleges, and for service in the aviation corps a certain number of men taken from civil life.

If this full program should be carried out we should have built or building in 1921, according to the estimates of survival and standards of classification followed by the general board of the department, an effective navy consisting of 27 battleships of the first line, 6 battle cruisers, 25 battleships of the second line, 10 armored cruisers, 13 scout cruisers, 5 first class cruisers, 3 second class cruisers, 10 third class cruisers, 108 destroyers, 18 fleet submarines, 157 coast submarines, 6 monitors, 20 gunboats, 4 supply ships, 15 fuel ships, 4 transports, 3 tenders to torpedo vessels, 8 vessels of special types and two ammunition ships. This would be a navy fitted to our needs and worthy of our traditions.

But armies and instruments of war are only part of what has to be considered if we are to consider the supreme matter of national self sufficiency and security in all its aspects. There are other great matters which will be thrust upon our attention whether we will or not. There is, for example, a very pressing question of trade and shipping involved in this great problem of national adequacy. It is necessary for many weighty reasons of national efficiency and development that we should have a great merchant marine. The great merchant fleet we once used to make us rich, that great body of sturdy sailors who used to carry our flag into every sea, and who were the pride and often the bulwark of the nation, we have almost driven out of existence by inexcusable neglect and indifference and by a hopelessly blind and provincial policy of so called economic protection. It is high time we repaired our mistake and resumed our commercial independence on the seas.

With a view to meeting these pressing necessities of our commerce and availing ourselves at the earliest possible moment of the present unparalleled opportunity of linking the two Americas together in bonds of mutual interest and service, an opportunity which may never return again if we miss it now, proposals will be made to the present congress for the purchase or construction of ships to be owned and directed by the government similar to those made to the last congress, but modified in some essential particulars. I recommend these proposals to you for your prompt acceptance with the more confidence because every month that has elapsed since the former proposals were made has made the necessity for such action more and more manifestly imperative. That need was then foreseen. It is now acutely felt and everywhere realized by those for whom trade is waiting, but who can find no conveyance for their goods. I am not so much interested in the particulars of the program as I am in taking immediate advantage of the great opportunity which awaits us if we will but act in this emergency. In this matter, as in all others, a spirit of common counsel should prevail, and out of it should come an early solution of this pressing problem.

SHOULD AGREE ON POLICY IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Recommends Early Adoption of Measures Giving Them Fuller Justice.

The president recommends the early adoption of bills for the alteration and reform of the government of the Philippines and for rendering fuller political justice to the people of Porto Rico, which were submitted to the Sixty-third congress. The president refers to the increased cost of carrying out the plans for the armed forces of the nation and tells of the fiscal problems confronting the government.

On the 30th of June last there was an available balance in the general fund of the treasury of $104,170,105.78. The total estimated receipts for the year 1916, on the assumption that the emergency revenue measure passed by the last congress will not be extended beyond its present limit, the 31st of December, 1915, and that the present duty of 1 cent per pound on sugar will be discontinued after the 1st of May, 1916, will be $670,395,500. The balance of June last and these estimated revenues come therefore to a grand total of $774,535,605.78. The total estimated disbursements for the present fiscal year, including twenty-five millions for the Panama canal, twelve millions for probable deficiency appropriations and

COUNCIL REFUSES TIME EXTENSION

H. K. Corbin & Co. Must Complete Sewer Work at Dunellen by January 1.

PROTESTS ARE MADE

Property Owners Object to Paying for Tap Connections to Sanitary and Storm Sewers—John I. Snyder Appeals Tax Assessments.

H. K. Corbin & Co., sewer contractors, were refused their request for an extension of time to complete its contract by the Council of Dunellen, last night. They wanted an extension of time from January 1, 1916, to May 1, 1916, but Mayor Latham said that Judge R. P. F. Von Minden, the borough attorney, advised against such extension. The latter was present at the meeting and said that no action should be taken which would extend the liability of the bondsmen. The Corbin firm asked for an extension of time owing to labor troubles incident to the war and the fact that changes had developed. Mr. Fuller recommended that the firm's request be granted.

According to the report of G. W. Fuller, the sewer engineer, the sewer is yet to be laid in the following streets: Mountainview terrace, South avenue, Chestnut street, North avenue, Sandford avenue, Washington avenue, between Fourth and Sixth streets, and about 200 feet on Dunellen avenue. The work on the Washington avenue ejector station is proceeding slowly.

Lewis Schneider entered a protest against a clause in the sewer ordinance adopted on final reading. The clause provides for a fee of $3 to be paid by the property-owners for tapping the sanitary or storm sewer at the curb. He did not object to paying the price for tapping the sanitary sewer, but thought it was asking too much to charge a similar fee for tapping the storm sewer.

Mayor Latham in reply to a question said that those who inspected the taps would be paid by the day and that the balance of the $3 would go to the borough and not the inspector. He also emphasized the importance of having the tapping properly inspected.

Other property-owners thought it was unfair for them to pay for the storm sewer and in addition be charged for connecting with it. It was further explained by the Mayor that the cost of the tap was not really an additional item, but part of the cost of the sewage. The ordinance was finally passed.

A notice of appeal against the assessment on his property on Prospect avenue was filed by John I. Snyder. He asked that it be reduced from $2,600 to $2,500. The election of the following officers of the Defender Fire Company was approved: President, Fowler W. Vail; vice president, C. F. Starker; secretary, Harry Dodwell; treasurer, Charles Vail; chief, Chas. Wrage; assistant, Joseph Maier.

It was reported that Contractor F. H. Gise had completed his contract of laying twelve crosswalks for the borough at a cost of $492. The Mayor and Council was authorized to float a demand note for $1,000 to meet current bills, totaling $3,056. They were also authorized to float a note for $914.44 to meet bills in connection with the construction of the North avenue storm sewer. The bills for the construction of the sanitary sewer for the month totaled $9,507.55, and it was voted to float nineteen certificates for $500 and one for $100. The Front street drain was reported completed at a cost of $2,135.67.

The injury to Charles H. Dodwell, a sewer inspector, was reported by Borough Engineer Lewis T. Churchill. As the borough under the employer's liability act is liable for the injuries sustained by Mr. Dodwell, Councilman Williams reported that the municipality is fully protected by insurance. It was stated that it would probably be a month before Mr. Dodwell could return to work.

$50,000 for miscellaneous debt redemptions, will be $753,891,000, and the balance in the general fund of the treasury will be reduced to $20,644,605.78. The emergency revenue act if continued beyond its present time limitation would produce during the half year then remaining about forty-one millions. The duty of 1 cent per pound on sugar if continued would produce during the two months of the fiscal year remaining after the 1st of May about fifteen millions. These two sums amounting together to fifty-six millions, if added to the revenues of the second half of the fiscal year would yield the treasury at the end of the year an available balance of $76,644,605.78.

The additional revenues required to carry out the program of military and naval preparation of which I have spoken would, as at present estimated, be for the fiscal year 1917 $93,800,000. Those figures, taken with the figures for the present fiscal year which I have already given, disclose our financial problem for the year 1917. As against that the taxes imposed by the emergency revenue act and the present duty on sugar are to be discontinued and that the balance at the close of the present fiscal year will be only $20,644,605.78, that the disbursements for the Panama canal will again be about $25,000,000 and that the additional expenditures for the army and navy are authorized by the congress, the deficit in the general fund of the treasury on the 30th of June, 1917, will be nearly $235,000,000. To this there at least $50,000,000 should be added to represent a safe working balance in the treasury and $12,000,000 to include the usual deficiency estimates in 1917, and these additions would make a total deficit of some $297,000,000. If the present taxes should be continued throughout this year and the next, however, there would be a balance in the treasury of some $76,500,000 at the end of the present fiscal year and a deficit at the end of the next year of some $50,000,000, or, reckoning in $30,000,000 for deficiency appropriations and a safe treasury balance at the end of the year, a total deficit of $112,000,000. The obvious moral of these figures is that it is a plain confidence to continue all of the war taxes or their equivalents and to address ourselves to the problem of raising $112,000,000 of new revenue rather than $297,000,000.

How shall we obtain the new revenue? We are frequently reminded that there are many millions of bonds which the treasury is authorized under existing law to sell to reimburse the sums paid out of current revenues for the construction of the Panama canal, and it is true that bonds for the amount of $222,432,000 are now available for that purpose. Prior to 1913 $138,000,000 of these bonds had actually been sold to recoup the expenditures at the isthmus, and now constitute a considerable item of the public debt. But I for one do not believe that the people of this country approve of postponing the payment of their bills. Borrowing money is shortsighted finance. It can be justified only when permanent things are to be accomplished which many generations will certainly benefit by and which it seems hardly fair that a single generation should pay for. The objects we are now proposing to spend money for cannot be so classified, except in the sense that everything wisely done may be said to be done in the interest of posterity as well as in our own. It seems to me a clear dictate of prudent statesmanship and frank finance that in what we are now, I hope, about to undertake we should pay as we go. The people of the country are entitled to know just what burdens of taxation they are to carry and to know from the outset now. The new bills should be paid by internal taxation.

NATION'S SECRET FOES SHOULD BE CRUSHED.

Gravest Danger to Country Comes From Within Our Own Borders.

The president says that the precise reckonings of the problem to be met are set forth in the report of the secretary of the treasury.

I have spoken to you today, gentlemen, upon a single theme, the thorough preparation of the nation to care for its own security and to make sure of entire freedom to play the impartial role in this hemisphere and in the world which we all believe to have been providentially assigned to it. I have had in my mind no thought of any immediate or particular danger arising out of our relations with other nations. We are at peace with all the nations of the world, and there is reason to hope that no question in controversy between this and other governments will lead to any serious breach of amicable relations, grave as some differences of attitude and policy have been and may yet turn out to be. I am sorry to say that the gravest threats against our national peace and safety have been uttered within our own borders. There are citizens of the United States, I blush to admit, born under other flags, but welcomed under our generous naturalization laws to the full freedom and opportunity of America, who have poured the poison of disloyalty into the very arteries of our national life, who have sought to bring the authority and good name of our government into contempt, to destroy our industries wherever they thought it effective for their vindictive purposes to strike at them and to debase our politics to the uses of foreign intrigue. Their number is not great as compared with the whole number of those sturdy hosts by which our nation has been enriched in recent generations out of virile foreign stocks, but it is great enough to have brought deep disgrace upon us and to have made it necessary that we should promptly make use of processes of law by which we may be purged of their corrupt distempers.

America never witnessed anything like this before. It never dreamed it possible that men sworn into its own citizenship, men drawn out of great free stocks such as supplied some of the best and strongest elements of that little, but how heroic, nation that in a high day of old staked its very life to free itself from every entanglement that had darkened the fortunes of the older nations and set up a new standard here—that men of such origins and such free choices of allegiance would ever turn in malign reaction against the government and people who had welcomed and nurtured them and seek to make this proud country once more a hotbed of European passion. A little while ago such a thing would have seemed incredible. Because it was incredible we made no preparation for it. We would have been almost ashamed to prepare for it, as if we were suspicious of ourselves, our own comrades and neighbors! But the ugly and incredible thing has actually come about, and we are without adequate federal laws to deal with it. I urge you to enact such laws at the earliest possible moment and feel that in doing so I am urging you to do nothing less than save the honor and self respect of the nation. Such creatures of passion, disloyalty and anarchy must be crushed out. They are not many, but they are infinitely malignant, and the hand of our power should close over them at once. They have formed plots to destroy property, they have entered into conspiracies against the neutrality of the government, they have sought to pry into every confidential transaction of the government in order to serve interests alien to our own. It is possible to deal with these things very effectually. I need not suggest the terms in which they may be dealt with.

I wish that it could be said that only a few men, misled by mistaken sentiments of allegiance to the governments under which they were born, had been guilty of disturbing the self possession and misrepresenting the temper and principles of the country during these days of terrible war, when it would seem that every man who was truly an American would instinctively make it his duty and his pride to keep the scales of judgment even and prove himself a partisan of no nation but his own. But it cannot. There are some men among us and many resident abroad who, though born and bred in the United States and calling themselves Americans, have so forgotten themselves and their honor as citizens as to put their passionate sympathy with one or the other side in the great European conflict above their regard for the peace and dignity of the United States. They also preach and practice disloyalty. No laws, I suppose, can reach corruptions of the mind and heart, but I should not speak of others without also speaking of these and expressing the even deeper humiliation and scorn which every self possessed and thoughtfully patriotic American must feel when he thinks of them and of the discredit they are daily bringing upon us.

What is more important is that the industries and resources of the country should be available and ready for mobilization. It is the more imperatively necessary, therefore, that we should promptly devise means for doing what we have not yet done—that we should give intelligent federal aid and stimulation to industrial and vocational education, as we have long done in the large field of our agricultural industry; that at the same time that we safeguard and conserve the natural resources of the country we should put them at the disposal of those who will use them promptly and intelligently, as was sought to be done in the admirable bills submitted to the last congress from its committees on the public lands, bills which I earnestly recommend in principle to your consideration; that we should put into early operation some provision for rural credits which will add to the extensive borrowing facilities already afforded the farmer by the reserve bank act adequate instrumentalities by which long credits may be obtained on land mortgages and that we should study more carefully than they have hitherto been studied the right adaptation of our economic arrangements to changing conditions.

Many conditions about which we have repeatedly legislated are being altered from decade to decade, it is evident, under our very eyes and are likely to change even more rapidly and more radically in the days immediately ahead of us when peace has returned to the world and the nations of Europe once more take up their tasks of commerce and industry with the energy of those who must bestir themselves to build anew.

REGULATIONS TO MEET RAILROAD PROBLEM.

Needed to Make Lines More Useful Servants of Country.

In the meantime may I make this suggestion? The transportation problem is an exceedingly serious and pressing one in this country. There has from time to time of late been reason to fear that our railroads would not much longer be able to cope with it successfully, as at present equipped and co-ordinated. I suggest that it would be wise to provide for a commission of inquiry to ascertain by a thorough canvass of the whole question whether our laws as at present framed and administered are as serviceable as they might be in the solution of the problem. It is obviously a problem that lies at the very foundation of our efficiency as a people. Such an inquiry ought to draw out every circumstance and opinion worth considering, and we need to know all sides of the matter if we mean to do anything in the field of federal legislation.

No one, I am sure, would wish to take any backward step. The regulation of the railways of the country by federal commission has had admirable results and has fully justified the hopes and expectations of those by whom the policy of regulation was originally proposed. The question is not, What should we undo? It is whether there is anything else we can do that would supply us with effective means, in the very process of regulation, for bettering the conditions under which the railroads are operated and for making them more useful servants of the country as a whole. It seems to me that it might be the part of wisdom, therefore, before further legislation in this field is attempted, to look at the whole problem of co-ordination and efficiency in the full light of a fresh assessment of circumstance and opinion, as a guide to dealing with the several parts of it.

For what we are seeking now, what in my mind is the single thought of this message, is national efficiency and security. We serve a great nation. We should serve it in the spirit of its peculiar genius. It is the genius of common men for self government, industry, justice, liberty and peace. We should see to it that it lacks no instrument, no facility or vigor of law, to make it sufficient to play its part with energy, safety and assured success. In this we are no partisans but heralds and prophets of a new age.

MAY ROBSON TO APPEAR AT PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Comedy will reign at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday, December 13, matinee and night, and the laughter winning entertainment will be furnished by May Robson, whose art in eccentric comedy impersonation is known to every American theatregoer. Miss Robson, who is under the direction of Edward R. Salter, is achieving marked success in the interesting and amusing comedy, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." The play won the immediate approval of all Miss Robson's admirers, to whom comedy and sentiment carry an appeal, when she first produced it. The comic possibilities of the story are now being realized to the utmost by Miss Robson and the players associated with her, who include Jack Story, Paul Decker, Paul Horning, Jose Rose, William J. Dyer, George F. Hall, Lester Wallace, Harry Holmes, Elizabeth Warren, Emily Lorraine, Edith Conrad, Lotta Blake, Lillian Kalber, Ida Laurence, William McKee, Harold Robinson and Louis Bouton.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Lionel Barrymore, of the noted Barrymore family of thespians, will be seen for the last two times today at the U. S. Astor Theatre in "The Yellow Streak," a Metro production in five gripping parts. Always a splendid actor, Mr. Barrymore, in this subject, has a part to which he does full justice. It is just the type of character for which he is best suited to portray. The dramatic feature of a splendid photoplay bill tomorrow and Thursday will be "Sold," starring beautiful and accomplished Pauline Frederick, who in a brief screen career has attained wide distinction as one of the leading beauties on the cinema. "Sold" is an original drama of tense dramatic interest throughout, and in it Miss Frederick repeats the hit she achieved in "The Eternal City." Supporting her will be Thomas Holding and Julian L'Estrange. Friday and Saturday the chief dramatic feature will be "The Secret Orchard," with Miss Blanche Sweet in the leading role.

—XMAS CELEBRATION.

The Christmas celebration of the Missionary and Aid Society, of Warren chapel, will be held Friday of this week at 3 o'clock in the church parlors. This is a week earlier than the regular meeting, because of the Christmas holidays. Only members are invited to attend and every member is requested to bring some small gift wrapped in white tissue paper for the Christmas party, which will be in charge of Mrs. R. O. Stewart.

MAN AND WIFE ARE BOTH PUT IN JAIL

William A. Clark and wife, former ly living upstairs at 345 Watchung avenue, suddenly changed their residence to Fourth and Sycamore this morning, although there was nothing voluntary or permanent about the moving.

Clark got in jail first. He was before Judge De Meza some time ago on a charge on non-support, and was ordered to pay one dollar a week for each of his three children. The three little ones are in the Children's Home. Clark was brought back into court this morning for failure to pay the money as ordered by Judge De Meza. He did not show the proper respect for the court, making sarcastic references to the "brand of justice" dispensed there, and defying Judge DeMeza to act in his case. Action came swift and sure. Judge De Meza ordered him locked up until tomorrow morning, when he will be given a hearing.

During the course of the trial of Clark, his wife came into the police station, probably just to prove that she and her husband were well mated. She was told to go into the court room and sit down, but refused After showing her contempt for the law in several different ways, she started to go home, but was caught in the middle of the street by Captain Flynn. She sat down on him, and had to be carried back into the station. Captain Flynn, not accustomed to supporting strange women called for assistance, and Mrs. Clark was soon occupying a cell alongside her husband. Both will be kept in jail until court tomorrow morning.

STRONG ARMY AND NAVY IS FAVORED

What proved to be one of the most interesting scholastic debates was held at the Plainfield High School, yesterday afternoon, when members of the Alpha Literary Society debated the question, "Should Congress Strengthen the Army and Navy?" The affirmative side, represented by Joseph Gallagher, assisted by Miss Irma Good and Joseph Mutnick, seniors, was given the decision. The negative side was represented by Richard Borden, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Heideloff and Clarence Eder, also seniors. The judges were Warren Mumford and Harold Neely, of the Plainfield High School, and Ralph Voorhees, of Rutgers College. Each one of the debaters brought out the important points in a creditable manner.

Previous to the debate Mr. Voorhees told of the purpose of the New Jersey State Debating League in which the Plainfield High School is entered, being a member of the northern section. The local team has not yet been chosen, but a joint committee was selected yesterday. This committee will convene at Rutgers College and consult with the representatives of the other schools. The two local representatives chosen were William Backer and Richmond Ritterbush, members of the Alpha and Omega Literary Societies, respectively.

LOCAL DRUG CLERK IS MADE DEFENDANT

Through the activity of an agent for the State Board of Pharmacy who came to Plainfield recently to make an investigation into violations of laws governing pharmacists, Frederick Zeller, a local druggist, was defendant in proceedings in the Elizabeth District Court, yesterday. A judgment for $25 was found against Zeller. The charge was that he had sold iodine and other drugs to Thomas E. White, an agent of the State Board, and that he acted without being registered as a pharmacist. Alfred Caponetti, a Plainfield baker, was also made defendant in a suit brought by Commissioner of Labor Lewis T. Bryant. It was charged that Caponetti had been conducting his bakery without a license and he was ordered to pay a judgment of $25.

DAVID T. KENNEY THINKS SITE AN ATTRACTIVE ONE

David T. Kenney, whose property on North avenue is at present leased by the city for a council chamber and some of the municipal offices, when interviewed today regarding the reported purchase of the Watchung avenue property for a city hall said.

"While personally I believe that a site a little nearer the business section would have been more desirable, I am of the opinion that the tract purchased is an attractive one and will no doubt meet the future needs of the city."

Mrs. Charles Mehlenbeck, of West Front street, who underwent an operation last Thursday in Muhlenberg Hospital, is reported as doing nicely.

Miss Isabel Conover, of 74 Jackson avenue, is ill at her home with nervous prostration.

MAYOR SAYS SITE IS CENTRALLY LOCATED

Some idea of the plans of the city fathers for a new city hall was given this morning by Mayor Calkins in an interview with a Press reporter. It will sit back from the street, with attractive grounds in front. Mayor Calkins called attention to the fact that the location is absolutely central geographically and convenient to police headquarters, the railroad station and to the new postoffice. He said:

"The action of the Council last night in purchasing a site for a city hall is very gratifying to me. As I pointed out last January, our present quarters are not adequate for standard business methods. If we are to be efficient we must have the tools with which to work. A city hall is not a luxury. It has become to be an absolute necessity. A fire in our present location would be as costly as the whole new project, in the attendant loss of valuable records.

"I am therefore greatly pleased that the matter is at last under way. It will not cost us very much more to have a building of our own, which will be a credit to the city, than to go on as at present. Our rentals nearly equal the estimated interest on cost of land and building. In more efficient and economical administration, due to a grouping of all departments about a central clerical and stenographic force, available for the several officials, there will be a saving in operation.

"We shall take our time in deciding on the sort of building to be erected. The choice of the site I have regarded as the matter of chief importance. We have selected the best location in the whole city. Geographically it is absolutely central: it is within half a block of the main line trolley; convenient to the railroad station, police headquarters, and new postoffice. But the chief merit lies in the property itself—which is large and beautiful and will permit a building set back with attractive grounds about it, and facing a street which opens up splendidly into our most attractive thoroughfare.

"With the growth of the city in future years, it will be possible with such a property to have whatever the people may want for a municipal building. We can start with a unit—ample for present needs and reasonable growth. But we shall have a location which will meet the needs of fifty to a hundred years from now. This is looking out for posterity as we should."

BUYS SITE FOR NEW CITY HALL

January 5, 1916.

"We will work with all possible despatch," said Chairman Hylan, of the public affairs committee, last night, "and there is every assurance that the city offices will be in a handsome new building during 1916." Other members of the public affairs committee who recommended the passage of the resolution are Councilmen Claybrook, Graves and Hamilton.

Plainfield is now renting offices used by city officials and departments, with the exception of the police department, and it pays a total of $2,800 a year in rentals. In addition to this expense, its offices are badly located, some being in one part of the city, and others blocks away, and no department is in offices suited to its work. There is no protection for the municipal records, even tax books, maps and other valuable papers being kept in vaults that are far from fireproof, and a real fire that touched city property would destroy thousands of dollars worth of property belonging to the taxpayers in addition to documents that could never be replaced.

The first intimation that a new building was to be authorized last night came when Councilman Hylan read an option made to John Huffman, of New York, by Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks, which gave to Huffman the right to buy a lot at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Sixth street for $31,000. The option was read and ordered filed without comment, but most of those in the building realized the intent of the act and began to straighten in their seats for the next move.

Chairman Hylan stated that after careful consideration the public affairs committee, acting with Mayor Calkins and Counsel Reed, had reached the conclusion that it was now necessary to build a new city hall, and that the Brooks site had been selected. His resolution authorized the purchase by the city of the Huffman option, for a consideration of $1, also the creation of a "City Hall Fund" to be used in erecting the new building. Money may be borrowed temporarily to carry on the work, after which the loans will be taken care of by a bond issue. Notes for the $31,000 purchase price are to run one year and draw interest at a rate not to exceed five per cent. After reading his resolution, Mr Hylan moved that it be passed.

Councilman Claybrook, a member of the public affairs committee, arose to second the motion to pass the city hall resolution, and in doing so he said that he was especially glad to see this action just before he and President Clay retired from the body, because they had worked long and hard to secure the new city hall. He called President Clay the father of the new municipal building, saying that the resolution was first introduced in 1913, and that he had been working for its passage since that time, when he had presented it. He explained that owing to the condition of municipal finances it had been impossible to act before, but expressed a desire to see the new home occupied before the end of 1916. Mr. Claybrook called the attention of councilmen to the thanks they owed Mayor Calkins, President Clay, Corporation Counsel Reed, Chairman Hylan and members of the public affairs committee, for their loyal and persistent work in this movement. He admitted that he had long been ashamed of the present quarters.

On a roll call it was shown that every member of the Common Council was present and all voted "aye" on the city hall resolution.

In announcing the passage of the resolution, President Clay said that he was extremely happy; that he had worked for a new city hall for years, and it was gratifying to know that his dream became almost a reality before he retired from the Council.

While no official announcement of plans for the new building has been made it is understood that a local architect has been meeting with city officials for the past few weeks and that tentative drawings for a three-story building are already made, although there will be many material changes before they are made public. One member of the committee said last night that those in charge of the matter had concurred in the opinion that Plainfield citizens wanted a municipal building suited to a residential city, not a grim, granite receptacle of records, crowded close to the sidewalk, but an inviting, cheerful home for its city officials that would be a credit to any of its many beautiful streets. Temporary plans are being drawn with this idea in view.

REV. E. S. RALSTON WILL ADDRESS FLOWER GUILD

The Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild will hold its regular monthly meeting in the Friends' Meeting House, at Watchung avenue and Third street, Friday evening, December 10, at 7:45. The meeting will be opened with a thirty-minute devotional service in charge of the Epworth League of the First Methodist Episcopal church, led by Burnett Doane and Frederick Van Hoesen, president and vice president of that society. Rev. Edward S. Ralston, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, will speak on "The Spirit of Christmas." The music will consist of Christmas carols and will be in charge of the guild orchestra, led by Mrs. J. C. Evans.

WILL ALLOW NO MORE BORO RUMMAGE SALES

Borough Board of Health Accepts Sewer Ordinance—111 Inspections.

No more rummage sales will be held in North Plainfield. The borough Board of Health, at its monthly meting last night, passed a resolution refusing to grant permits for any more sales. The new sewer ordinance came up for final reading, and was passed. It will go into effect immediately.

Opposition to holding rummage sales has been growing, and although it has been customary to fumigate the goods before they are put on sale, there are many who believe the old stock should not be put up for public sale.

The monthly report of Health Officer Louis Oliff was submitted, and showed that there are no cases of communicable diseases in the borough at the present time. The officer made 111 inspections during the month.

Theodore Case, of Neshanic, has returned after spending several days with his nephew, John Case, of Codington avenue.

Miss Stella Force, of West Front street, has returned home after spending several days with friends in Jersey City.

Tomorrow night—Plainfield at Olive Branch.

Three teams in the Knights of Columbus League tournament broke their own high score record for the season last night. Bayley Council, in taking two games from Paulus Hook, set up a new record of 997. Newark Council took three straight from Olive Branch, rolling 933 in the second game. In this tilt the losers also boosted their record from 761 to 764.

In Bayley's big game, Max Schenck was there for 243, Tim Kelleher had 222 and James Cantwell 214 for the Bayley five. Frank Edwards rolled 235, William Conway 205 and Ed McKenna 212 and 201, for an average of 204, for the Paulus Hook team.

A 245 count by Sullivan featured the Olive Branch-Newark series.

Tonight—Methodist vs. Baptist.

With a Plainfield Trust Company man, S. H. Egan, showing the way, with a mark of 224, the Episcopal team of the Westfield Sunday-school Bowling League, broke its own high score record on the Playhouse alleys last night, the cellarites touching 907 in their first game against the Congregationals. The lowly Episcopals also won the rubber from their opponents, sending the latter still farther away from the leading Baptists.

STILL MAKING CHANGES IN SOMERVILLE LINKS

Under the direction of Edward Ericcson, professional at the Somerville Country Club, the work of rebuilding the greens will continue as long as weather permits. The old putting greens had a shallow clay foundation, which kept them soggy after wet weather and spoiled the quality of the grass carpet. Ericcson has built the greens higher with a bed of fourteen inches of rich soil and has relaid the top surface turf in excellent condition. In addition, each green has been remodelled and made more sporty by the placing of sand pits and bunkers in such a position that almost every approach must be pitched up to avoid the traps. The old sixteenth hole has been eliminated as undesirable because of the fact that even a slightly sliced ball went out of bounds. In its place is a 200-yard one shot hole, upgrade, on the plan of the thirteenth hole at Baltusrol, with the green well bunkered right and left.

Tonight—New York at Rahway.

New Brunswick defeated Jersey City in an Elks' League series of high-class pinning, on Greenwald's alleys, in New Brunswick, last night. The defeat put Jersey City down in eighth place, below Rutherford.

The champions took the first game by 11 pins, 974 to 963, and captured the odd by 29 points, 941 to 912. The Skeeters went up to 984 in the second, and won by 63 sticks.

Jimmy Harkins mauled the wood for counts of 213 and 227, his average being 202.1. Mahlenbrock and "Tipperary" Coyne both had their gutter ball working in the last game, when both of them got off the wood in the tenth.

Charley Greenwald shot 226 in the first game. Coyne went five pins over the double-century mark in the second. For Jersey City Wright wrote 206, Levy levied 204, Delahanty hung up 202, Murphy tossed in 207, and Mahly shot 207 and 212.

EAGLES WIN ALL FROM K. C. BOWLERS

Home Bowlers Have Big Advantage in Every Game Rolled.

The bowling team of Plainfield Aerie, No. 866, Fraternal Order of Eagles, had an easy time on its own alleys last night, against the Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus teams. The Birds won by margins 155, 118 and 193. They had an even 900 average for the night.

George Miller found the pocket regularly. He hit 219 in his last game, and with Harry Radin trailing in with 213, the winners were able to finish with 950. George Taylor with 198 in his last game, was high man for the losers. "Side-wheeler" Duffy was off form—and off the headpin, too. He averaged 122.

PEGS PLAY STATE SIX; RECREATIONS VS. P. A. A.

The P. E. G. S. basketball girls will play the first game of their schedule tomorrow night, when they will oppose the "State Six," a sextet from the Newark Normal School, in the Plainfield High School gymnasium. The local girls will probably present the following line-up: Forwards, Misses Helen and Ida Hummel; centers, Misses Mildred McAuliffe and Lucy Johnson; guards, Misses Bessie Morris, Ruth Voorhees and Elsie Debele.

During the intermissions, the Recreation Boys will play the Plainfield A. A., a fast team of this city. Captain Ricketts will have the following young men in his line-up: Forwards, Ricketts, Allegar and Adams; center, Marston; guards, Naylor, Poole and Smith.

Dancing will follow the games.

WATCHUNG AT NEWARK.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbs League pinners, of this city will go to Newark tomorrow night for a match on the lanes of Olive Branch Council. Olive Branch has not won a single game in the twelve bowled so far this season.

NO LOCAL TENNIS PLAYERS RANKED

Miss Edna Wildey Left Out for Lack of Data—The Ratings.

No Plainfield name appears in the ranking list of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, just announced. Miss Edna Wildey, of this city, who was placed in Class I last year, is not ranked, owing to lack of sufficient data.

Local tennis enthusiasts, however, are interested in the ratings of the leading players, many of whom have played in Plainfield. Miss Molla Bjurstedt didn't have a rival for the top place in the women's list, while W. M. Johnston, the young national champion, is given the men's place of honor.

The men's honor roll follows: No. 1, W. M. Johnston; No. 2, R. N. Williams, 2d; No. 3, M. E. McLoughlin; No. 4, K. H. Behr; No. 5, T. R. Pell; No. 6, N. W. Niles; No. 7, C. J. Griffin; No. 8, W. M. Washburn; No. 9, G. M. Church; No. 10, W. M. Hall.

In Class No. 7, representing the second ten, are Leonard Beekman, Dean Mathey and Harold A. Throckmorton. Among those not ranked are Fred Alexander, T. C. Bundy, Lindsay Dunham, Harold H. Hackett and R. Lindley Murray.

The first ten women players are:

First, Miss Molla Bjurstedt; second, Mrs. George Wightman; third, Mrs. Marshall McLean; fourth, Miss Florence Sutton; fifth, Mrs. Barger Wallace; sixth, Miss Marie Wagner; seventh, Miss Anita Myers; eighth, Miss Sara Livingston; ninth, Miss Clare Cassel; tenth, Miss Eleanora Sears.

Another leading player not ranked is Miss Mary Browne, three-time national champion.

PLAINFIELD ELKS AT PATERSON.

Plainfield Elks will go to Paterson Thursday night for a Senior League series. Hoboken will visit Rutherford.

COMMUNITY CENTRE GIVE A "500" PARTY

The Community Center of the West End gave one of the most enjoyable social affairs of the present season in the Washington School Auditorium last night, in the form of a "500" party. In the card playing, sixty-four persons took part, bringing six teen tables into use. This was only one portion of the program, however as there were several additional features that made entertainment for everybody. The "500" games were concluded at 10 o'clock, and a brief intermission followed, during which the words of old-fashioned songs, together with patriotic songs, were flashed on a screen. Everybody joined in singing. The stereopticon was worked by George Fisher, Jr., while the curtain and other arrangements were cared for by A. B. Jones.

Dancing was enjoyed later, music being furnished by Miss Elsie Vail. Refreshments by Ritz were served. So much interest was manifested in the evening's entertainment that the Community Center will conduct one each month during the winter.

The committee in charge of the affair last night was composed of Miss Lillian Lamson, chairman; Mrs. A. K. Brennan, Mrs. Joseph Edgar, Edward Haddon and Frank H. Power, assisted by Mrs. A. B. Jones and George H. Fisher, Jr.

MRS ANNA JOHNSON.

Mrs. Anna Johnson, aged sixty-two years, died last night, at her home, in Dunellen, following an illness of five weeks due to paralysis. She had been a resident of the borough for five years, coming from Trenton. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Penrose, of New Market and Mrs. Samuel Hoffman, of Dunellen, and three sons, George, William and Lewis Johnson, of Dunellen; also one sister, Mrs. Catherine Winger, of Treton, and three brothers, William, John and Wilson Hand, of Hampton. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

MEN'S NOONDAY MEETING.

A men's noonday gospel service will be held tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. at the Rescue Mission Hall in Madison avenue. W. J. Conroy will address the meeting, to which all men are invited. Good music will be a feature.

POSTPONE MEETING.

The cottage prayer meetings conducted under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. and scheduled for Thursday night, at the home of Mrs. William J. Ford, of West Fourth street, has been indefinitely postponed.

PARENTS OF A GIRL.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Southard, of Park avenue, are parents of a girl, who arrived Friday morning.

LOCAL TEAM BOWLS 999 AT ELIZABETH

Imperials Make Hefty Total After Losing First Two Games of Series.

The Imperials lost two close games on the St. Michael Club's alleys in Elizabeth last night, but ascended to 999 in the third game, which they won by 30 points.

The wood fell unusually hard for both teams in the first two games. The St. Michaels won the first game by 11 pins, 867 to 856, and were 17 sticks ahead at the end of the second 812 to 795.

In the third game, Conover rolled 214, Ehmling 215, Voorhees 201 and Conover 199 for the locals.

The scores:

STILLMAN SCHOOL FIVE WILL START THURSDAY

The Stillman Grammar School boys have organized a basketball team and will use the old gym at P. H. S. for their games. The first encounter will be with the eighth grade of Roselle, on the local court at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

CAUSBROOK CHOSEN CAPTAIN OF P. H. S. SOPHOMORE FIVE

Another class of the Plainfield High School took steps toward forming a basketball team, when the Sophomores held a meeting yesterday afternoon to elect officers. John Causbrook was the popular choice for captain, while Monroe O'Donnell received the majority of votes for manager. Several Westfield teams, the N. P. H. S. Sophomores and a number of other teams will be played by the second year men. The Freshmen have started practice, which leaves only the Juniors and Seniors to be heard from before steps can be taken to arrange the Interclass League schedule.

SOMERVILLE WINS ALL THREE GAMES

Visitors Do Better Work in Pinches Than Plainfield Elks' Junior Team.

SCORES ALL RUN LOW

Queen City Entries in B. P. O. E. Baby Loop Have Bad Case of Stage Fright—All Three Games Are Very Exciting.

Superior work at critical times decided the opening match in the Elks Junior League in favor of Somerville last night, the Plainfield bowlers falling down at the finish of every game.

The scores were low, the home pinners having a plain case of stage fright. The losers averaged 807.2.

Somerville won the opener, 851 to 820, Schaub and Roller both doubling in the tenth, the last named on top of strikes in the ninth. Plainfield had eight splits in this game.

The second defeat was a heartbreaker. It looked like a Plainfield victory going into the tenth, but Firstbrook missed his spare, Simpson ran into a split, and Townley failed to make his spare, the two Schaubs coming along with doubles for Somerville, winning by 8 pins.

A margin of two dozen pins separated the two teams in the final, when the homesters fell to 780. The home anchor missed spares in each of the last four innings in this game.

The scores:

"KARNAK" WILTON CARPETS AND RUGS

AMERICA'S FINEST PRODUCTS

In our "Karnak" Wilton a new standard of excellence and value has been established. The extraordinary durability and luxurious appearance of this splendid weave is not equaled by any other Floor Covering of this kind made in America.

"KARNAK" Wilton Carpets are made 27 and 36 inches wide, in a great variety of plain and figured effects suitable for every room in the house, as well as halls and stairs. There are beautiful Chinese, Persian, French, floral and conventional patterns, in addition to Plain-Color, Two-Tone and Jasper effects. The range of colors is complete, and includes the latest novelty shades. Borders are shown in three different widths—13, 18 and 22½ inches.

"KARNAK" WILTON RUGS are characterized by the same attractive qualities which distinguish "Karnak" Carpets. These fine Rugs are made in all regular sizes, from 2.3x4.6 ft. to 11.3x15 ft. The wide diversity of patterns provides an appropriate selection for every room in the house. In the Persian designs, the exquisitely soft colors of rare Oriental weaves have been simulated with remarkable fidelity.

XMAS SEAL SALE HELPS OPEN AIR SCHOOL WORK

Not a small part of the money which is raised every year in Plainfield by the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals is devoted to the work of the Open Air School, on Muhlenberg place. Here twenty children who have tuberculosis in an incipient stage, or who are threatened with the disease, are daily given a full course of lessons in the open air, under a specially trained teacher, and are given a substantial luncheon, with plenty of milk and nourishing food. For some time this school was wholly maintained by the league, but the Board of Education now pays the teacher, leaving the food, nurse and other attendants to be paid for by the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield. The generous purchases of seals by Plainfielders have helped to make this work easier to carry on Open air schools to the number of nearly 500 are now maintained all over the United States. Some of them this winter in the northern States will hold sessions when the thermometer is down to zero or below. Others will enjoy the balmy winds of Southern California, Louisiana or Alabama. The open air school idea is confined mainly to these children who have tuberculosis or who are run down, anaemic and likely to contract the disease.

In the open air school movement Red Cross seals have played and are still playing an important part. The seal money, through the Anti-Tuberculosis societies, has been the means for experimenting and convincing the hard-headed School Boards of the wisdom of the plan, and also for providing food, clothing and special nursing care which the public funds could not furnish. Red Cross seals are among the children's true friends.

ST. CHARLES HOTEL WILL HAVE 2-STORY ADDITION

Work has been started on a large addition to the St. Charles Hotel, St. Charles place and the Boardwalk, Atlantic City, for the Newlin-Haines Company. This addition to the list of Boardwalk fireproof hotels has been designed by Messrs. Hewitt & Granger, architects, Philadelphia who have incorporated in their plans the best features of resort hotels in this country and abroad, of which they have made a study.

The contract for the addition has been awarded to Cramp & Co., Philadelphia, who are called upon to have the improvements completed by June 1, 1916, for the opening of the summer season. The addition will be twelve stories high, modern and thoroughly fireproof in every respect. It will be erected in the centre of the large lot on which the hotel stands. This lot has a frontage on the Boardwalk of 75 feet, with a depth of 440 feet.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

One of the biggest hits ever made at the Plainfield Theatre since vaudeville was introduced has been credited to the Gotham Comedy Trio, which was seen for the first time yesterday on the new bill for the first half of the week. At both matinee and night performances the audiences absolutely refused to let the show go on until the Gotham Boys, three of them, came back for more encores. They have a comedy singing number which is full of original stuff and makes the whole house scream with laughter.

Other numbers on the big bill, which is drawing crowds to the Second street playhouse include the Great Richards, marvelous cannon-ball juggler; George Murray, "Merry Monologue Moments;" Coats and Clifford, clever singers and dancers, James Kalzman and Company, in the uproariously funny playlet, "Money to Burn," and the tabloid musical comedy, "Sunshine Alley," presented by a company of ten, six of whom are young women.

This evening has been designated as "Oriental night" at the theatre, and many of the patrons will receive handsome gifts imported from the Far East. The "Country Store" will be held as usual on Friday night, and special photo-plays will be added to the vaudeville bill throughout the week.

TIME TO LOOK OVER BODY FOR DEEFCTS

Medical Examination Day of Tuberculosis Week Comes Tomorrow.

This is tuberculosis week, and tomorrow is examination day, not only in Plainfield but in all other cities in the United States, and millions of Americans are giving their attention to the cause, prevention and cure of the dreaded white plague.

The purpose of the nation-wide movement is best explained by its founders, who also give an outline of this part of the program in the following, which is taken from a pamphlet issued by the National Society:

"What are your health assets and liabilities and how do your body accounts balance? Did you ever ask yourself that question? You would not think of running your business without keeping some accounts. Why run your body without getting at least a yearly balance to show if there are any losses or gains?

"If you have an automobile, bicycle, plough or any other machine, you look it over once in a while to see if there are any parts that are wearing out or need repair. If you have a fine horse, pig, cow or even a hen, you wouldn't think of neglecting it. You give it regular inspections to see if it is keeping up to the standard. Do you have your body inspected at regular intervals to see if there are any leaks or breaks in the human machine? Which is worth more, your automobile, your cow, or your body?

"Careful investigations have shown that the physically perfect man is almost impossible to find. Almost everyone, who has reached the age of thirty, has some impairment or defect of his body. It may be such a minor defect as a decayed tooth, or a slight digestive disturbance. Or it may be trouble with the kidneys that will develop into Brights disease if it is not attended to promptly. Out of 2,000 men and women examined, 70 per cent. were found to have impairments of a more or less serious nature, while all of the remaining 30 per cent had some defects of a minor character. Are you sure you are physically perfect? If you are not you had better arrange for a careful medical examintion. Little defects or impairments, if neglected, may cause untold suffering and loss. Discover them in time by having your body inspected.

"On December 8 a special effort will be made by the National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis and its affiliated organizations to interest everyone possible in the subject of at least one medical examination a year. Everybody will be doing it on that day. This is a good time for you to start. If you can't be examined on December 8, however, make arrangements for another date.

"Do not imagine because you feel perfectly well you need no examination. It will be worth the cost of your examination for you to know positively just where your health account stands. Out of thousands who have been examined and found to be impaired, only 10 per cent. imagined there was anything wrong with them; the remaining 90 per cent. supposed themselves 'perfectly well.' Now is the time for you to attend to this taking stock of your physical assets.

"The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis believes in periodic physical examination both for the sick and the well; for the former to arrest and cure their disease, for the latter that they may keep well. Many little defects or impairments of the body, such as bad teeth, clogged-up nose and throat passages, digestive troubles, circulatory disturbances, etc., sap the vitality of the body and lower resistance so that a person readily becomes a prey to the ever-present and deadly tuberculosis germ. The time to prevent tuberculosis is before it attacks you.

"If you have a regular family physician arrange with him for a thorough overhauling of your body. This should be conducted without clothing. If you cannot afford to go to a physician the Plainfield Tuberculosis Clinic will be open on Wednesday afternoon and evening from 4 to 5 and 6 to 8 p. m., and on Saturday at the same hours.

SPECIAL SERVICES CLOSE.

The special evangelistic meetings of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, held at the German Reformed church, came to a close Sunday night with an impressive altar service. In response to an invitation five persons expressed a desire to become Christians. All of the messages given by Miss Rudy were of an evangelistic nature, an appeal to the Christian for whole-hearted consecration, as well as a call to the sinner. The earnestness of the evangelist impressed all who heard her speak.

OPEN BIRD MUSEUM.

Norristown, Pa., Dec. 7.—The formal opening of the bird museum erected by H. Severn Regar, a Norristown business man, takes place today. The collection of stuffed birds is the largest in the country, and consists of over a thousand specimens. Some of the birds were stuffed fifty years ago and they retain their original beauty. The new museum is a two-story affair, and it will be open to the public at certain times.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggy, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. —Adv.

IF BACK HURTS! BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

President Wilson's message to Congress is devoted almost entirely to the subject of preparedness and the recommendations made will be approved by everyone but the comparatively few pacifists who follow in Mr. Bryan's footsteps, and by those who have gone crazy on the subject of the need for larger defenses, and who are demanding that this nation be turned into another Germany.

The suggestions as to an increased regular army and a trained reserve force of 400,000 men are but a reiteration of Secretary Garrison's plan which has already been made public, and which has met with general approval. The only question which arises is "how are the additional men to be secured for the army and for the reserves?" as at present the enlisted force is much below the number now provided for. Mr. Wilson makes no suggestion on this score, evidently leaving that to be worked out by Congress or by the present staff of the Army, after the necessary laws have been enacted.

The naval program suggests the addition within five years of ten battleships, six battle cruisers, ten scout cruisers, fifty destroyers, fifteen fleet submarines, eighty-five coast defensive submarines, four gunboats, one hospital ship, two ammunition ships, two fuel oil ships and one repair ship. It is also recommended that to the personnel there be added 7,500 sailors, 2,500 apprentices and 1,500 marines, and that the number of pupils at Annapolis be increased by 300 so that sufficient officers will be provided. That this part of the program is a splendid one nearly all will admit. We have learned a lesson from England as to the necessity for an adequate navy, and only by such a force afloat can we expect to protect our shores from foreign invasion. It is certainly to be hoped that Congress will provide for every ship recommended.

In his reference to the secret foes within our borders President Wilson expresses the sentiment of every true American. That laws should be provided to deal with the hyphenated citizens who have shown that they have no love for the country which has taken them in, is beyond dispute. Those "who have poured the poison of disloyalty into the very arteries of our national life, who have sought to bring the authority and good name of our government into contempt, to destroy our industries wherever they thought it effective for their vindictive purposes to strike at them and to debase our politics to the uses of foreign intrigue," should as the President says, be dealt with "by the aid of adequate federal laws."

In all his past messages President Wilson has made recommendations with which a large number of the American people have disagreed. But in the message to the Congress today, the Chief Executive may rest assured that he was correctly interpreting the wishes of the great majority of red-blooded, unhyphenated citizens.

An important conference was held at Elizabeth last Thursday night to consider ways and means of putting the prisoners in the county jail at work. It was attended by a large number of people interested in the welfare of these men and their families, and by the Sheriff and the Warden. It is therefore more than a mere coincidence that not a single member of the Board of Chosen Freeholders was present, either in his individual capacity, or officially. Can it be possible that the members of this Board do not want to see a splendid work of this kind accomplished, or is it because the Board had not taken official action as to representatives? Invitations were sent to every member, and it is rather an insult to the citizens of the county who brought the meeting into being that these invitations should be so apparently ignored. Don't the Freeholders want to put the prisoners to work? Perhaps they fear that by using such labor certain road contractors might not be able to get as much work as they would otherwise. Or perhaps they fear that organized labor is opposed to the plan, and for political reasons remained away. It is a sure thing that a representative of labor was present, and offered no objections. Certainly an explanation from the county Board is needed.

The Newark Sunday Call says:

"Senator Martine was in Newark last Wednesday and circulated about town rather busily. Presumably he was "mending his fences," as they used to say of certain Ohio statesmen when they went home from Washington to their rural neighborhoods. He is a dapper man, more Southwestern than New Jersey in appearance, clean and well-groomed, and fully convinced that he is known of men and willing to know them. Most of those who meet him like him, and he gives the impression of being a gentleman despite his mannerisms and affectations. No such charge would be made against his colleague, Senator Hughes, for instance. There is not much chance of the success of Senator Martine in his contest for re-election. Men ask for more than he is able to present as a candidate, and regard his first triumph as an accident. The Administration no longer has use for him, and, indeed, he himself has shown some signs of rebellion. He has the one large advantage, however, of being about the only Democrat in sight. He may not fill the horizon, but he seems to be the solitary star—though it is westering."

Former Congressman Tuttle in his speech at the dinner following the laying of the corner stone of the new postoffice said that there is nothing the matter with the postal service, and that it is time to quit knocking and do a little praising of the officials. Just how the service has been in Westfield we do not know, but we do know that incoming and outgoing mail service is being pretty generally criticised in Plainfield. There is no more trouble in the local office, perhaps, than is to be found in any other office, but there certainly is something "rotten in Denmark" in the railway mail service, or in some of the stations in New York city where mail is transferred.

A year ago you didn't need 'em!
What would you give to have your freedom
As then you had it? But an ache
Began, when you would read, to take
Its place behind your frontispiece,
And stubbornly refused to cease.

The doctor whom you first consulted
(From whom no help at all resulted)
Informed you, when he couldn't get Another bone from you, "I'll bet
This headache comes from eyestrain, prob'ly.
You better see old Dr. Robley."

You went and squinted at a card
And tried to see (tried awful hard!)
The smallest letters at the bottom,
But, save your soul! you couldn't spot 'em.
Doc. Robley charged you seven bones
And sent you to the specs man, Grones.

Since then you've oftentimes forgotten,
And wondered why you felt so rotten;
Till you'd remember, and produce
The glasses made for reading use.
Now, though at first you couldn't hear 'em,
You're growing reconciled to wear 'em.

Red Hair

Some people admire red hair, and others have it.

Red-headed people are better looking than other people, if they are ugly as mud fences.

The horse dealer calls red-headed people sorrel.

The cattle men call them Devons or Durhams.

The hog-men call them Durocs.

Ornithologists call them woodpeckers.

The dog men call them Irish setters.

The poultry men call them Rhode Island reds.

The artists call them Titians.

And there you are.

But all the time there are a few people around town, including the possessor of the pink foliage, who know they are plain red-heads.

We once knew a girl who was so red-headed that the underwriters raised the insurance rate on her father's frame dwelling.

We also knew a young man who couldn't use anything but asbestos pillow-cases.

And once when he tried to take an egg-shampoo the odor of scorching omelette was almost unbearable.

This boy finally got a job in a large city, standing in a gas-ditch in a busy street at night and letting his head stick out.

Red-headed people are supposed to be quicker-tempered than other folks.

Our observation is that this is absolutely true, except for brown-haired or black-haired, white-haired or bald or tow-headed people.

We do not know why red hair is a joke.

But it is.

Otherwise we should never have written this and you wouldn't have read it.

Sucker!

Making Up Time

Father Time was looking anxiously at his reflection in the mirror.

He gouged at the bits of pigment in the pores of his skin and rubbed viciously at the rouge-marks on his lips and the sooty place in his eyebrows.

"It's almost impossible for me to keep a decent complexion," he complained, bitterly. "Those railroad train men are always getting behind me and then making me up."

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

"Setting And Knitting"

FROM the title of this item you might imagine it is all about grandma and her habits, but such is not the case. It is about broken bones.

Everybody who has the misfortune to have a bone fractured knows, or thinks he knows, that two things are essential parts of the surgeon's treatment. First, the fracture must be "set," and then it must be held perfectly rigid until the ninth day, when by some mysterious force of Nature's the two or more fragments suddenly seize hold of one another and commence to "knit," or grow together.

No newspaper account of an individual instance of fracture is considered complete without the conventional statement that "Dr. Blank was summoned and reduced the fracture."

As a matter of fact Dr. Blank usually requires anywhere from a few days to two weeks to "set" or reduce the fracture. For instance, in a case of fractured femur (thigh bone) or fractured hip, it is practically impossible to bring the broken ends in contact within a week or ten days, though every effort is put forth by the surgeon to do so. The only way in which such a fracture can be immediately reduced is by cutting down upon the broken bone and wiring or nailing the fragments together. This is a procedure that is being followed more and more frequently these days.

The reason a fractured femur resists "setting" so long is that the great muscles are in a state of continual contraction which cannot be forcibly overcome without the aid of an anesthetic. Steady, gradual pull on the leg, however, will finally coax the spasmodic muscles to release the fragments, and so, after a week or more, the broken ends are brought practically in contact.

Meanwhile the process of callous formation has gone forward from the very instant of the injury. First there is blood-clot; this slowly thickens, "organizes" as doctors say, becomes permeated by newly formed blood vessels, which carry lime salts to the clot. So that, by the time the fracture is really "set", the callous is just beginning to develop soft cartilage, and then new bone.

There is no more "knitting" on the ninth or the tenth day than there is on the second or the thirtieth. And we might also say that the "setting" of a broken bone is usually a gradual process too.

Splints are commonly supposed to hold broken bones in place. With comparatively few exceptions splints are employed only to support the soft tissues and keep the muscles at rest while the fragments are uniting. Some fractures are better treated without splints at all. The X-ray inspection of broken bones proves that this is true.

Questions and Answers

Cook writes:—I have a chronic varicose ulcer which has refused to heal for eight years. I have tried everything under the sun, but nothing does any good; in fact most salves irritate it. Now you say all varicose ulcers can be healed. How can I get mine healed?

Answer—By calling in a good, up-to-date doctor, one who has had hospital experience if possible, and placing yourself entirely under his control. "Salves" will never help you. Your case calls for surgical judgment, not guesswork. You probably require more or less general overhauling.

THE WEATHER

THE weather is the starting crank of the world's conversation. If there were no weather to talk about, half of us would only be able to converse when we found something to say, and would consequently be dumb a large part of the time.

The weather is what the atmosphere hands to us from day to day. All weather is produced by atmosphere. When the air is clear, we have a fine day, and the fact is mentioned 1,000,000,000,000 times in conversation. When the atmosphere is curdled, we have clouds and rain which are just as easy to talk about and use up a large vocabulary. When the atmosphere moves swiftly from place to place we have gales and cyclones and political campaigns. When the atmosphere is heated, to a trifle below the boiling point by the sun, a man will leave his work and walk five blocks in order to lean against a friend in a cool, clinky place and help him say, "Phew!"

The weather accounts for most of the variety in life on this sphere. It is weather which makes a Hottentot content with a suit of clothes which he can fold up and put in his ear while bathing, and it is weather which makes the Eskimo eject the polar bear from his warm furry skin and move in himself to stay continuously until he dies. It is England's weather and the wide range of description required to do it justice, which has made the nation the literary centre of the world. It is the six months of superheated Texas weather which makes a Texan fight in September at the wiggle of a whisker, and it is the celebrated tepid climate of California which enables the native son to reap four crops of tourists a year.

Weather is divided into four seasons in the temperate zone—light overcoat, shirt-sleeves, thicker underwear and ear-tab weather. Weather is responsible for a great many millionaires, including coal men, ice men, summer resort proprietors and makers of sneeze cures and throat coolers. But it also unmakes a great many rich men, including circus owners, peach growers and chicken raisers. Mr. J. P. Morgan was supposed to boss a large part of creation, but he was small potatoes beside the weather, which exercises a controlling influence over baseball, crops, the clothing business, parades, picnics, county fairs and summer parks. It also casts the deciding vote in many elections and can tie up a railroad system more thoroughly than a dozen walking delegates. On the whole, weather must be an undesirable thing. We never hear of the weather in heaven, while hell is supposed to consist almost entirely of climate.

Is Genius Only The Normal?

A HIGHLY interesting suggestion is made by a writer in The Medical Times. It is that we cease to think and speak of genius, or unusual ability of any kind, as "abnormal" and transfer the term to the very persons whom we now call "normal"—to those, that is, who are about half way between the highest and lowest grades into which humanity is divided.

The would-be revolutionizer of ancient custom contends that as the great inventors, poets, philosophers, and the like are only what all of mankind ought to be, and conceivably might be, they should be regarded as the standard of comparison, while all of their inferiors could properly pass for subnormal.

Well, why not? The present use of the word "normal" certainly has its advantages for those of us who are not geniuses, since it enables us to pretend, perhaps even to believe, that we are somehow better than those to whom, whether reluctantly or gladly, we grant one or another kind of superiority. So is mediocrity—of which there is much in the world—reconciled to its restrictions and ineptitudes, and the possessors of genius are, as it were, put on the defensive and prevented from becoming altogether too haughty and overbearing.

But, on the other hand, if the proposed change in appellation were made, perhaps mediocrity, having been deprived of what is, after all, a rather poor excuse for self-contentment, would be moved to get busy about the development of such potentialities as it chances to have. The result of that, the eminent William James assured us, would be surprising, and pleasantly surprising, too, for he insisted that hardly any of us used much more than half the energies and powers, either physical or psychical, with which we are endowed.

It would be decidedly cruel, however, to put the stigma of subnormality on a vast majority of the world's population—so cruel that unless we can be sure that the outcome of it would be a general and marked raising of the average intellectual level it shouldn't be done. Moreover, it must be remembered that if we all became geniuses there wouldn't be any geniuses at all and mediocrity would be universal—a truly dreadful situation to contemplate.—New York Times.

A Job Lot

Q. Could a state, in the United States, be formed by the union of parts of two other states?

A. The Constitution of the United States provides that "no new state shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state, nor any state be formed by the junction of two or more states, or parts of states, without the consent of the legislatures of the states concerned, as well as of Congress."

Not Necessarily Final

Q. I recently made out a check, in payment of an account, and, before signing my name, wrote, in the left-hand corner: "Payment of account in full." The person to whom the check was made payable accepted it and cashed it. Wont this show beyond question that the account has been paid?

A. It will stand on the same footing with other receipts and will be open to explanation if it should develop that the account has not been paid in full. The circumstances will afford some evidence, but will not be conclusive.

A Reasonable Law

Q. A corporation of which I am a member has a by-law of this character: A stockholder is given one vote for every share which he holds, but this number is not to be in excess of ten. With regard to shares above this number, a certain proportion is provided for, in the matter of voting. What is your opinion as to whether this by-law is legal?

A. The question of the legality of a by-law is determined by a consideration, in the first place, of whether it conflicts with any law or rule of law or legal duty; in the second place, whether it is consonant with the general nature and purpose of the corporation; and in the third place, whether it is reasonable. A by-law such as you describe probably would be held, if otherwise unobjectionable, as reasonable and valid.

Protection For Dead Heads

Q. When a railroad company carries a person over its line without charging a fare, does it assume any liability toward him in case he is injured?

A. The general rule is that the company will be liable in such cases to the same extent as if he had been required to pay his fare.

Duties Of An Architect

Q. When an architect is superintending the work of constructing a building, is it his duty to see that all the work is done in the proper manner, even as to small details?

A. The architect should comply with the terms of his contract, but a substantial compliance is often sufficient and it is not always his duty to look after trifling or minor details.

Grammar Not Essential

Q. Is a written contract always to be interpreted in a strictly grammatical sense?

A. Not always. The intention of the parties is the cardinal rule to be followed.

A Child's Debt

Q. Could a child of seventeen be compelled to pay a dental bill, where the dentist performed the work at the child's request?

A. Yes.

Governor Appoints Senators?—Sometimes

Q. Does the governor of a state ever have the power to appoint a United States senator?

A. He does sometimes. When vacancies occur in the representation of any state in the United States senate, it is the duty of the executive authority of the state to issue writs of election for the purpose of filling such vacancies, but the legislature may empower the executive to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

Waiting For A Divorce

Q. Where the laws of a state require one to reside there a certain length of time before beginning a divorce suit, does this mean an actual residence?

A. Such statutes are construed to mean an actual residence, in good faith, for the required period.

Facing Facts

One of the evidences of a MAN is his ability to look Facts squarely in the face. Because the facing of Facts is always a Will process and one that demands deliberation—oft-times much courage.

Knowing the Facts and then weighing them—sitting down with them in conference—is the process that furnishes a foundation for a man on which he may later build.

But if you fail to face the Facts which always form the basis of a mental decision, you then have nothing on which you are able to Act intelligently—and Life without Action is as life without air.

Facts, facts—remember to first get the Facts. And then Face them, whether to you it becomes a pleasant or unpleasant experience.

Character Readings

When you hear a woman talking
Of a soul that should be free
And a prisoned spirit walking
In its cell, bereft of glee;
When she says that her endeavor
To be thoughtful, kind and good
She discovers is forever
Being quite misunderstood,
You can take it without question
That she couldn't broil a steak
And her folks have indigestion
From the things she tries to bake

When you hear a man declaring
That his luck is always tough,
And remark in tones despairing
That this world is all a bluff;
When with egotistic scolding
That is trying to the nerves
He says Fortune is withholding
The reward that he deserves,
You can bet he is bestowing
Every nickel that he gets
Where the beverage is flowing
Through a haze of cigarettes.

Why Put Prohibition into the Constitution?

Answered by Clarence True Wilson.

Prohibition should be put into the Constitution of the State:

Because the liquor traffic is vast enough as a public evil to justify this extreme measure.

Because this evil is State-wide and active everywhere; and the remedy must be as extensive as the wrong.

Because nothing short of a constitutional amendment breaking up the trade can eliminate the liquor traffic from politics.

Because State-wide prohibition alone goes to the source of the trouble and strikes down the manufacture as well as the sale.

Because of the utter inadequacy of local option as we now have it—too local for a national wrong and too optional for a moral question.

Because fictitious lines, whether of precinct, township, county, ward or city, so limit prohibition as to deprive it of a fair chance to do its work.

Because this is the only method society ever uses in dealing with kindred vices. What have we done with the gambling hell, the lottery and the brothel but prohibit them?

Because nothing short of a constitutional amendment is permanent enough to give prohibition a fair trial. What the people thus adopt will stay until they see fit to change it.

Because the State is the unit of sovereignty in the American system of government. The evil of rum rule is not local and the blessings that have attended the local prohibitions should now be extended to all the States.

Because the efforts of good men should be concentrated on law enforcement and wise selection of rulers and not divided by efforts to prevent legislative repeals, amendments, judical interpretations or executive vetoes.

Because the liquor power is a disturber of the public peace. It threatens public safety, it induces private vice; it fosters crime and political corruption and every community in the State needs and will equally profit by its banishment.

Because in dealing with recognized crimes and great public evils prohibition is the fundamental principle of government and hence should be imbedded in the constiution, and must not be left to statutory enactment. What is wrong in one part of the State cannot be right in another.

Because our present local option laws are aimed at the saloon and the blind pig, but the center of the evil and the instigator of lawlessness is not the bootlegger or even the saloonkeeper, but the organized brewers, distillers and wholesalers who control the manufacture and distribution and browbeat government. Permanent cure must get rid of the source of the curse.

Because the cities are a part of the State. The farmer is taxed to support the criminal and delinquent classes, the sons and daughters of the townspeople and the country-men must come to the cities to study and to settle; and it is a matter of vital concern to every family in the state what moral conditions shall prevail in our state capital, our metropolis, our college towns and other cities.

Because constitutional amendments prohibiting the traffic can alone prevent the liquor dealers from using the referendum to put their own vicious legislation under the name of Home Rule, which when invoked by them, always means rum rule, into the constitution of all the states, thus excluding the people of the towns and country from any say as to the character of the cities and incorporated towns, while taxing them for the results of the cities' vices and voting open sin upon the pure country places thru the city slum vote.

Because national prohibition can only come thru the multiplying of dry states. We have nineteen of such now, having won five out of seven that voted in 1914 and every progressive state should feel the moral responsibility of being a leader in this greatest moral and economic reform of the century and not a "hold-back." They should push on the collar and not pull in the breeches. States like individuals have their epochal status fixed by their relations to the dominant reform of their generation.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — What the Cossack Soldier Found by The Roadside.

The Soldiers Crowded Around Him.

"ISN'T this true story night?" daddy asked of the two children.

"Oh, we love true stories, daddy!" cried Evelyn.

So daddy began: "Almost forty years ago the Russians and the Turks had a terrible war, just as they have now. At just about this wintry time of the year a band of Cossack soldiers were chasing a Turkish wagon train full of supplies, and they chased them so hard that the fleeing Turks were obliged to throw away some of their load. This made it lighter and easier as they fled from their enemies, you see.

"One cold afternoon, as it neared sunset, a young Cossack soldier came riding into the Russian camp. His uniform was shabby and muddy, and his horse was ungroomed, unfed and overworked. For this young Circassian, which means that he came from that part of Russia which lies on the Black sea, had been one of the band of Cossacks that had given the Turks such a bad run. In his arms he carried a ragged bundle, and in his eyes was a kind twinkle. He did not look like a cruel Cossack."

"What was in the bundle, daddy?" cried the children.

"All the soldiers crowded around him," daddy went quietly on, "for his tired horse's mane was tied up in such a way that it made a little hammock, and the fingers of his left hand were gripping the knotted horsehair as he laid his ragged little bundle in this strange bed."

"Oh, tell us, daddy!" cried Jack.

"Half lying, half sitting in this ingenious little bed the Cossack had made was a girl baby about a year and a half old. She was dressed in a strange old costume made of figured calico. 'I couldn't leave her there to die,' the young Cossack told his comrades who crowded about him, cheering. 'So I rigged up a cradle for her and brought her back to headquarters.' Then he reported to his commander that since early morning his troop had been chasing the Turkish wagon train, but was unable to capture it. They had taken as booty, though, all the property that the Turks had thrown away to lighten their train, and by the roadside he had noticed a bundle of ragged bedspread, which he got off his horse to examine. To his great surprise, he heard a baby's voice coming from the rags. When he unrolled them he found a beautiful little girl lying quite warm and safe, just as she had rolled off one of the fleeing wagons."

"What became of the little Turkish baby, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"The Cossack's regiment adopted her and took her back to their capital after the war was over, but what her fate since—who can tell?" daddy finished.

Once Again the Ellsons Prove Themselves Friends in Need.

"Come in," called Olive Ellson, as she opened the door and saw Molly and John Sutner standing on the porch. "It was mighty good of you to come over. The doctor is taking his evening smoke. You don't mind, do you, Molly?"

"No, indeed," answered Molly heartily.

"Why, what is the matter?" exclaimed Olive when she ushered her guests into the parlor. "You look peaked again tonight, Molly, and your husband, too. I'll report you to the doctor." She pinched Molly's cheek.

"We came over to tell you," began Molly breathlessly.

"Shall we come right in here, Gaylord?" Olive stuck her head into the den.

"Sure thing. It's more cozy here." He rose, shook hands and placed seats for his guests.

"Molly says they have come over to explain why she looks so peaked," said Olive by way of a starter to the conversation.

"I expect I'll have to punish her with a good dose of medicine if she has been doing anything imprudent," laughed the doctor. "I'm a despot."

"Molly smiled a pitiful little attempt at a smile which showed that she was dangerously near tears.

"Being a friend of ours brings its penalty every time," began Sutner.

"But it's worth it," interrupted the doctor. "Go on."

"Doctor, Mr. Jaynes has accused me of stealing three hundred dollars from the safe," blurted out Sutner, dropping a bomb into the quiet room.

"What!" exclaimed the doctor, springing to his feet. He looked from one to the other of his callers for a trace of a smile, but the tragedy written on both white faces told only too plainly that they were in dead earnest.

"Tell me about it." He drew up a chair and took Sutner's hand in his, looking earnestly in his face. John told what the attitude of the new cashier had been to him from the first, told of his espionage and lastly of the call to the office where Jaynes had accused him of the theft before Tyler.

There was dead silence in the room for a time after the story was finished.

"Well, he has got to have some better evidence than the fact that you knew the safe combination to convict you," said the doctor finally.

"He has; the fact that I am in debt, and have been for years is almost proof to him. I belong to the down and out class and they make convenient goats." John rested his elbows on his knees and dropped his head in his hands.

"Your books are all right, aren't they?" finally asked the doctor.

"They were, but if there is a plot to ruin me my books would be tampered with, as if I had been trying to cover it. That would be evidence against me." He then told of Julia Osgood's seeing a light in the office late at night and thinking John had been working late that night.

"Why was not that reported?" asked the doctor.

"She did report it to Tyler," replied John, "and she thought he acted queer. We talked about it at the time."

"Well, I am glad you came right here with this thing. I will do everything in my power to clear the thing up, you may be sure," said the doctor as he wrung John's hand at parting. "You go home and get a good night's sleep. This thing is coming out all right. Keep a stiff upper lip," he called as he held the door open to light them down the walk.

Life in the Trenches

A series of letters written by Canadian Officers now in Belgium, who are relatives of Councilman Allan Cowperthwait, of North Plainfield, have been received by him. The series gives such a graphic description of the life which the Canadian contingent is leading in Belgium, that the Daily Press has secured permission to print the letters in serial form.

Belgium, Sept. 22, 1915.

Dear Mr. Bonar:—

In accordance with promise made some time ago, will drop you a few lines this evening to let you know how things are going with us here.

It did not take us very long before leaving England to get into the real fighting. We left England one Wednesday and reached our rest billets in France, Thursday evening, after a rough trip across the channel and some very hard marches on the cobblestone roads. In the ordinary course of events, we would have been left a few miles from the firing line for three or four weeks to get properly rested and to get used to the smell of the powder, but unfortunately, our reputation had gone before us and Friday evening we were reviewed by General Alderson, commanding the Canadian Army Corps, who advised us that we were to relieve a British Battalion (Regulars) the next evening at a point fifteen miles away. We did and have been having a very interesting time since. The fighting, that is, hand to hand and rushing trenches, has not been of a violent nature so far, but the artillery, grenadier machine guns and sniping have been keeping things very lively.

We are supported by our own artillery and they can put it over the Germans in good style. Our artillery does not use nearly as much ammunition as the Huns and do six times the damage. When we hear the German artillery open fire we say, "Go to it, Fritz, the more you use the sooner we will have peace."

Their "Jack Johnsons" make a lot of noise and tear up a lot of dirt when they hit, but they don't seem to be able to register.

I had my baptism of fire this morning after we came in. Things were rather quiet and I had gone out behind our trenches for a few minutes. I was just getting ready to return when they started shelling us with shrapnel. One broke about twenty-five yards away from me and about two dozen pieces flew perilously near me. It did not take me very long to get back, you can bet on that. One part of the work here is very interesting.

We have a "Strafing" party, consisting of one machine gun and four men, who see just how much they can annoy the enemy. They get a line on the enemy's roads when their rations come up to them, send out listening parties, and when their food transports come along, traverse the whole road and generally do quite a bit of damage. We can always tell pretty well when we have annoyed them greatly; they are in a very bad humor next day.

Our boys take to it splendidly; it seems very much like a sporting proposition to them. The British, French and Belgians cannot understand them—they, of course, take everything very seriously. The French call us the mad Canadians. The trenches are not far apart, from fifty yards in places up to one hundred yards, so we hear some great repartee at times. Last evening, they (the enemy) favored us with "When You Wore a Tulip, and I Wore a Big Red Rose." They are splendid singers anyway.

The first Canadian division is on our right, and are very highly spoken of by the British troops. The battalion we relieved spoke highly of them. They were together at the second battle of Ypres known as Langemarke.

The trenches we are in are very good and our dugouts are very comfortable; the only thing that bothers me is the presence of rats as large as cats, and mice—they give me the creeps—still I believe you get used to them. These trenches have been occupied by the Belgians, French, German, British and ourselves in the order named, so they are quite historical. Our meals are good. The men get plenty to eat and are issued with cigarettes and tobacco, so they are quite happy. I have a great servant to look after me; he is the greatest chap for procuring I have ever seen. He supplies me with a steak and fried potatoes once a day and all sorts of things which you would imagine would be foreign to warfare. Of course, I don't ask him any questions..

Major Gray is all right and happy. He was around to see me in my redount two days ago and while here had a wash and shave—first for three days. He is a mighty good company commander and is very popular with the men. Ralph Freeman has developed into a splendid soldier. Arthur Phillips is with me at present, and looks better than I have ever seen him.

I am afraid that I have tired you with all this lingo, so will conclude. I could, of course, tell you many real interesting accounts of goings on over here, but we are on our honor, as officers' letters are not censored, so hope to be able to tell you about it later.

With best regards to Mr. Gray and all friends at Ives Modern.

Sincerely,

"FRED RAYMOND."

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Triangle Plays, direct from the Knickerbocker Theatre, N. Y., were first shown in Plainfield yesterday at Proctor's. "The Lamb," starring Douglas Fairbanks, and "A Game Old Knight," with Charles Murray, were the features. The plays are flawless, having been produced by the greatest directors in photoplay history—"The Lamb" was directed by D. W. Griffith the peer of them all in the dramatic field, and the comedy was produced under the direction of Mack Sennett famous the world over as the greatest of comedy directors. In "The Lamb" Mr. Fairbanks' part was so well played that he seemed to live upon the screen. He was famous as a "legitimate" star, but in motion pictures he has found his right field for displaying his marvelous versatility and abilities. When "A Game Old Knight" was flashed upon the screen yesterday it was immediately greeted with an outburst of laughter, which continued without interruption during the entire presentation of this uproarious comedy hit. Charles Murray, as the Knight, kept the large audience howling with mirth. The management of Proctor's deserve credit for giving the amusement lovers of Plainfield such high-class entertainment.

Starting tomorrow and continuing on Thursday only, the famous Broadway photoplay success, "The Battle Cry of Peace," will be presented continuously from 2 to 11 p. m. This is the first time that this production has been shown in the State of New Jersey, and the photoplay patrons should feel highly honored that Plainfield was selected for its debut in this State. This spectacle has been favorably criticised by leading New York papers, and commended by such men as Theodore Roosevelt, Secretary of War Garrison, Major-General Leonard Wood, Admiral Dewey, Dr. Lyman Abbott and a host of others. In its production over 25,000 National Guardsmen, 800 members of the G. A. R., over 800 horses and 8,000 supernumeraries took part. It cost a small fortune to produce it. The only way to appreciate "The Battle Cry of Peace" is to see it. Those who can will confer a favor by attending the matinee performances, as it is expected that the evening crowds will be so great that many will be disappointed at not being able to get in. This production is being presented in New York at prices ranging from 50 cents to $2, but in the local playhouse a general admission fee of 25 cents will be charged. This applies to both afternoon ad evening performances, and no seats are reserved. On Friday and Saturday Triangle Plays will be presented with Dustin Farnum in "The Iron Strain" and Raymond Hitchcock in "My Valet."

SPECIAL LODGE MEETING.

A special meeting of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, will be held tonight immediately after the regular meeting of Columbus Club.

EPISCOPALIANS TO HOLD MISSION

City and Borough Churches Will Join in Nation-wide Religious Movement.

PLANS ARE OUTLINED

Right Reverend Charles E. Woodcock, Bishop of Kentucky, Will Conduct Special Services for Week Beginning February 13.

Under the auspices of the Episcopal churches of Plainfield and North Plainfield a preaching mission is to be held beginning Sunday morning, February 13 next. This undertaking will represent the local application of a nation-wide movement inaugurated by the General Convention of the Episcopal church which met in New York in the fall. The parishes uniting in these services comprise Grace, St. Stephen's, Church of the Heavenly Rest, and Holy Cross, the last named of North Plainfield.

The purpose of the preaching mission is outlined in a resolution adopted by the General Convention. This sets forth that "our age calls in no uncertain way for a revival of the prophetic ministry and a re-emphasis upon the certain and unchanging words of eternal truth that pertains to salvation; that a new accent needs to be placed upon the essential solidarity as well as the broad Catholicity of a Church that witnesses to and seeks to promote faith and order; that the House of Bishops concurring, that this church in General Convention assembled registers its desire and will to undertake a preaching mission of nation-wide proportions, that in its scope shall be inclusive of the church at large, and whose sole purpose and aim shall be the salvation of men through Him whose name is above every name."

The commission appointed to put into effect the terms of the resolution subsequently directed that the mission should be held during Advent 1915, or during the season of Ephiphany 1916, and requested that the bishops of the church should call together the clergy and laity of their respective dioceses to make suitable arrangements for a mission in every parish throughout the country. In this way a spiritual revival is being pushed with vigor throughout the whole nation, and an unusual call to righteousness will be heard throughout the land. Bishop Matthews has entered heartily into the enterprise, and the Diocese of New Jersey lines up with the rest of the church in this timely endeavor for the cause of Christ.

The rectors of the churches in Plainfield and North Plainfield have concurred in the advantage of one central mission as against individual enterprises of the same kind. They have, therefore, arranged to unite all forces to push with vigor for the religious interests of the whole community. That substantial results should attend these endeavors the rectors feel sanguine in consideration of the wide and well established reputation of the Right Reverend Charles L. Woodcock, D. D. L. L. D., who is to conduct the mission.

There is probably no clergyman in the country who has had more experience, or is better qualified for this important work than the Bishop of Kentucky. As far back as December, 1914, an engagement was concluded with the Bishop for February, 1916, a fact which in itself testifies as to the continuous demands upon his services. Those who are in charge of the plans for the mission feel that the city is highly favored in a visit from such an important prelate of the church, and one of such unusual ability. The mission will be held at Grace church, as the most central point, and will continue daily from Sunday, February 13, to Sunday, February 20, inclusive.

ELKS GIVE A DANCE.

The entertainment committee of Plainfield Lodge of Elks conducted another of its series of winter dances in the Watchung avenue clubhouse last night. A most enjoyable time was had by the 150 persons attending. Music was furnished by Van Eps brothers' orchestra, and refreshments were served during an intermission. The affair was in charge of the standing committee, composed of S. J. Tavener, chairman; George W. Pope, Dr. C. L. Crist, William C. Mulvey and Everitt Maplesden.

CHRISTMAS SALE.

The annual Christmas sale of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue church will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening. The Epworth House is being attractively decorated for the occasion. A large variety of home-made useful articles will be offered and ice cream, cake and other refreshments will be served.

THIS CHRISTMAS LASTS ALL THE YEAR ROUND

But Holiday Season is Time When Funds Are Raised for Community Plan

Only once a year is an appeal made for funds for the Community Christmas in Plainfield, but the work goes on for fifty-two weeks, day and night, and the money, when it is generously given, brings cheer and happiness to many homes summer and winter. If $2,000 is raised this year only about $500 is used for the actual Christmas purchases. The balnce is spread over the rest of the twelve months, and brings fuel, food, and in some cases pays to keep the roof over the heads of deserving families. While no motto has been adopted for the work, a good one just now would be, "A Merry Christmas for every child in Plainfield, and relief from want for the whole family the rest of the year."

"It takes such a pitiful little
To make the sad children smile—
If you will just think and help them.
Say, don't you think it's worth while?"

is the wording of an appeal being used in Trenton, and the same is equally fitting for Plainfield.

Treasurer DeWitt Hubbell at the Plainfield Trust Company gets all the pleasure that he is able to get in these busy days from the making up of a daily deposit for the Christmas fund. Send him your check today, and it will be acknowledged in the Plainfield papers. New contributors today are H. H. Pond, A. B. Beers, James W. Jackson, William M. Sandford, Isaac W. Rushmore, Miss M. B. Morgan and Mrs. John M. Whiton.

CHIEF DOANE SOUNDS A WORD OF WARNING

Offers Timely Suggestions as to How to Prevent Fires During Holidays.

Always on the alert to safeguard the interests of the local public, Chief T. O. Doane, of the local fire department, has compiled a list of suggestions, which, if followed, will minimize the danger from fire and accident during the holiday rush, when crowds of shoppers throng the stores, and flimsy ornaments are used for Christmas decorations. His warning is as follows:

"Do not decorate Christmas trees with paper, cotton or any other inflammable material. Use metallic pencils and other non-inflammable decorations only. Set the tree securely and in such a position that children reaching for things cannot upset it.

"Do not use cotton to represent snow. If you must have snow use fibre or mineral wool. Do not let the children light or relight the candles. Do not turn your back on the tree if it is lighted with candles. Keep a fire extinguisher at hand. If you have not the latter, have at least two pails of water within easy reach. Do not leave matches in reach of children.

"Do not allow tree to remain in house after the holidays, as the tree in many cases has ignited when the needles got dry. Do not use candles to decorate trees, if it can be avoided. Electric lights will do for the purpose, and can be purchased at a low figure, and if properly placed are absolutely safe. If you do propose to use the latter, call an electrician to wire your tree. Do these things and insure the safety of your children.

"In stores, churches, bazaars, etc., do not leave any light inflammable decorations within reach of lights. A match, gas flame, or an electric light defect may do much damage when near such material. Watch your gas jets. Decorations may be carried against them by a current of air. Watch those that smoke and do not let them light or smoke cigars or pipes inside of building. Do not attempt to change your electric wiring without consulting an electric inspector. Read your insurance policy."

BLAUVELT BOUND OVER TO COUNTY GRAND JURY

Bradford Blauvelt, the young man arrested in New York recently for entering the home of William T. Grier on Grant avenue and assaulting Mr. Greier on the night of November 2, was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of buglary and another of felonious assault. He entered a plea of not guilty and was held to await the action of the grand jury by Judge De Meza. Blauvelt has freely admitted his guilt both to Chief Kiely and Captain Flynn, but has engaged a New York lawyer to defend him.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE CAUSES MUCH DAMAGE

Pantanzi Bros'. Fruit Store Suffers $1,600 Loss in Mysterious Fire.

What gave promise at first appearance of proving a disastrous blaze in the business section of the city was discovered at 4:50 this morning by Patrolman Samuel Kriney, when he noticed smoke issuing from the fruit store of Pantanzi Brothers at 106 Park avenue. He quickly turned in an alarm from box 12 and when the firemen forced an entrance they found the back part of the place a mass of flames. Chief Doane ordered in several lines of hose after a quick survey of the situation and within twenty minutes had the blaze under control, although it was a hard one to fight because of no way of getting to the rear except from Park avenue.

Stores on either side of the Pantanzi place were kept clear of flames but the Gayle Hardware Company suffered slight damage from water. A partition divides the two places and this was burned through in one corner. The water went through to the basement and saturated a small part of the hardware company's stock. The recall was sounded one hour and ten minutes after the alarm was received.

The Pantanzi Brothers had a large supply of fruit on hand and they place their loss on stock and fixtures at $1,600. The loss to the building, which is owned by John Corey, is placed at perhaps $200, while another $200 will in all probability repay the Gayle Company for damaged stock. The loss is covered by insurance.

21 COMMUNICABLE DISEASES IN CITY

Fifty-two Births, Twenty-five Deaths, and Two Marriages in Month.

Twenty-one cases of communicable diseases during the past month were reported at last night's meeting of the city Board of Health. Fifty-two births, four still births, twenty-five deaths, and twenty-four marriages occurred during the month.

A total of 766 inspections were made. The list of communicable diseases reported were as follows:

Typhoid fever, 1; diphtheria, 6; scarlet fever, 2; tuberculosis, 2; chicken pox, 6; measles, 1; mumps, 1; whooping cough, 2.

In addition, one case of tubercular meningitis and one case of typhoid fever were brought to Muhlenberg Hospital from out of town. Four of the cases still remain under quarantine at present.

Copies of the new rules of the State Board of Health covering food exposure have been distributed to the various stores in town. Two flagrant violations were investigated and were promptly abated without the necessity of bringing the cases into court. An inspector will follow up this work and post an abstract of the law in each store.

EUCHRE PARTY GIVEN BY LADIES' AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

The second of the series of euchre paties conducted during the winter months by the Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 5, A. O. H., was held last night at the home of Miss Mary Bergen, on West Front street, and proved to be a success. Sixty members of the organization and their friends played, and prizes were awarded to the following: Mrs. William Hiner, Mrs. Patrick Griffen, Mrs. Charles McCarthy, William Hiner, Charles McCarthy and Robert Howell.

Refreshments were served later in the evening, and those who assisted Miss Bergen were the Mesdames Patrick Sutton, Clarence VanOrden, Charles McCarthy, Patrick Griffin Patrick Lappin and James Sutton The next euchre of the series will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Hillis, 210 Lee place, on Thursday evening, December 16.

PRIEST HONORED BY PARISHONERS

Fr. B. M. Bogan Graciously Remembered as He Observes Birthday Anniversary.

MANY PAY RESPECTS

Beloved Pastor of St. Mary's Church Guest at Reception During Which Children Give a Play—Receives Gifts and Congratulations.

The rectory of St. Mary's church has been busy all this morning and again this afternoon taking care of personal calls to Father Bernard M. Bogan, the rector of the church, who is today celebrating his fifty-seventh birthday anniversary. Letters and telegrams have been pouring in since yesterday, all conveying messages of congratulation and good cheer. They come from the priesthood and laity throughout the State as the Plainfield rector has one of the widest acquaintances in New Jersey. The Rev. Father is enjoying good health and has been making personal acknowledgement to all visitors.

The pupils in the higher grades of St. Mary's parochial school called at the rectory shortly before noon today to pay their respects. They also brought a number of appropriate gifts and in turn received a happy response in one of Father Bogan's characteristic jovial veins. This afternoon the pupils of the lower grades will hold a reception in the school hall, during which they will give a play. Father Bogan will address the children at the close.

Father Bernard M. Bogan was born in Newark on December 8, 1858. He attended the Cathedral school and St. Benedict's College in Newark and began his studies of the classics in St. Charles' College, Maryland, where he remained four years. In 1877 he entered the junior class of Seton Hall College, receiving the Degree of Bachelor of Arts at the end of that year. The following year he was graduated from the college, taking the Degree of Master of Arts and was valedictorian of his class on the day of his graduation. In the following September he returned to Seton Hall and entered the Seminary to study for the priesthood. He finished his theological course in 1885 and was ordained a priest on May 30, of that year by the late Rt. Rev. Winand M. Wigger, then Bishop of the Newark Diocese.

Father Bogan's first year as a priest was spent in the churches of St. Paul of the Cross and St. Bridget, Jersey City. From 1886 to 1895 he was assistant at the Church of the Holy Cross, at Harrison, whence he received his appointment as rector of St. Mary's church, Rahway, where he remained until appointed by the Rt. Rev. John J. O'Conner, present Bishop of the Newark Diocese, to the pastorate of St. Mary's church, this city.

Father Bogan has been the pastor of St. Mary's church for eleven years. During his pastorate the church has acquired considerable property which is used for school purposes. A convent has been erected for the Sisters who teach in the parochial school and St. Bernard's church, named in honor of Father Bogan, has been built in Netherwood for the people of that section. There is little debt on any of the church property, as Father Bogan has been well supported in all his undertakings by his congregation.

STOLE MONEY, WIFE SAYS, TO GAMBLE

Albert Johnson, of Plainfield, Cause of Charge Against New York Cafe.

Charging that Albert G. Johnston, a young man, formerly employed by the Welsh Farms, of Plainfield, stole money to gamble away in a restaurant in Broadway, Mrs. Johnston, who lives in Jersey City, and Mrs. Grace Baird, of 239 East Second street, Plainfield, made a complaint against the restaurant at the West Forty-seventh street, N. Y., police station Monday morning, and as a result the Johnston case was given wide publicity in the metropolitan journals of yesterday afternoon and this morning.

Mrs. Baird conducts a boarding house in this city, and Johnston had been staying at her home for some time. He was out of employment, having been dismissed by the dairy company some time ago because of an irregularity in his accounts. His wife formerly lived with him in Plainfield, but recently went back to her home in Jersey City.

In addition to the trouble with the Welsh Farms, as reported in the New York papers, the women said that Johnston took a pocketbook containing $85 from Mrs. Baird when he left here Sunday afternoon. They went to the Broadway cafe to locate him, but were denied admittance. Mrs. Baird is quoted as follows:

"This man told us where the place was—the restaurant that he frequented in New York," said Mrs. Baird yesterday, "and we went there to see what we could find out. We saw people eating and drinking, and there was a cabaret show. But we did not see the man I speak of.

"At the police station Lieutenant Clarkin told us to write out in detail all the facts about the case and send the report to Inspector Daly. I meant to do so today, but have had so many other things to do."

REV. J. W. RICHARDSON TO LEAVE STAMFORD

Former Pastor of Local Baptist Church Accepts Call to Belfast, Maine.

Rev. J. W. Richardson who, for about eight years was pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, going to the Baptist church at Stamford Conn., which he has served for twelve years, has just resigned his pastorate to accept a call to the Baptist church at Belfast, Maine. At a meeting of the congregation of the Stamford church last Wednesday Mr. Richardson asked his people to unite with him in consenting to a severance of the pastoral relationship, to take effect on Monday.

On the same night that Mr. Richardson presented his resignation, the congregation of the Belfast church met and unanimously recommended to the church the calling of the Stamford minister as its pastor. The Belfast church is one of the strongest in that city, having large morning and a fine Bible school. Mr. Richardson will go to Belfast on January 1, next.

BROUGHT GIRL HERE, IS INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Jimmy Manjanio, alias Jimmy Broundbrook, who is wanted here on a serious charge, was arrested by New Brunswick authorities last night on request of Chief Kiely, and will be brought back to Plainfield tonight for trial. Manjanio was indicted by the grand jury this week on a charge of having brought a young girl from New Brunswick to Plainfield.

The girl was found at a house on Watchung avenue. She gave her name as Mary Monahan, but later told the name of her parents in New Brunswick, and was sent back to them. Chief Kiely will go for Manjanio this afternoon.

APPEAL FOR DONATIONS.

The managers of the Children's Home would appreciate very much any donations for the Christmas celebration at the Home, whethere it be something to eat, something to wear or something to play with. Several young girls from the North Plainfield High School have offered to dress some of the dolls for the twenty-one little girls, and the remainder will be attended to by good friends, but toys for boys, mittens, rubbers or any gift, useful or entertaining, are needed.

SESAME CLUB.

The Sesame Club will meet at 10:30 tomorrow morning at the home of Mrs. H. R. Mayer, 721 Kensington avenue.

SEWER CONTRACT NO. 1 IS NOW FINISHED

Contractor Turns Over Work to Council of North Plainfield Borough.

Contract No. 2 of the big trunk sewer line for the borough of North Plainfield has been completed and turned over to the Borough Council, that has this project in charge. Frank Puglio, the contractor, has received his last assessment on the job

This contract, which was for a trunk line on Grove street, and at lateral lines east of Grove street, in the borough of North Plainfield, cost the joint board approximately $80,000. The original contract price was less than this, but additions found necessary after work had been started increased the cost.

The work was begun March 25, 1915, and the last section of pipe was put into the ground Thanksgiving Day. Since that time forces of the contractor have been engaged in putting back street surfaces and cleaning up behind the sewer men. During the life of the contract an average of 129 men have been given employment. The contracting firm recently incorporated under the name of the Sanitary Construction Company. Nickolas Cervine, superintendent on the Plainfield sewer work is vice president of the new company.

Contract No. 1, which is being handled by the Harris Burton Company, will be completed within a short time. The contractors promise to finish in two more weeks. This work includes all laterals west of Grove street, in the borough, the trunk seweralon g the Greenbrook road and the pumping station at West End.

LEGISLATIVE TALK FOR CIVIC CLUB

Assemblyman Runyon Tells East End Association How Solons Arrange Work.

The East End Civic Association meeting last evening was attended by a large number of the members, and was enthusiastic and interesting. G. H. Merkle, chairman of the committee on fire and police, gave a report regarding his correspondence and interviews with the Mayor and chief of police, showing on their part an earnest desire to care for the interests of the East End as well as the reduced force of patrolmen will permit. Arrests and convictions have been secured recently for nuisances on Midway avenue.

E. W. Hughes, chairman of the committee on schools, reported that the land for the new school had nearly all been purchased, the plans for the building are ready, and that early in the spring its erection will begin, and that it will be ready for use next September. Five new members were elected.

The president then introduced the guest of the evening, Assemblyman William N. Runyon, who gave, in a delightfully entertaining manner, an account of the methods of conducting legislative business, letting his hearers into the secrets of the conduct of committee affairs, the passing of bills or smothering them, the control of members from some counties by the boss, and the apportionment of patronage. It was an illuminating talk, giving some their first insight into the real management of public affairs. Mr. Runyon was very emphatic regarding the necessity for interest in the primaries and knowledge of the men nominated; also regarding independence of men in office from boss-rule. At the close of the address the association, by a rising vote of thanks, expressed its hearty appreciation.

T. GUTHRIE SPEERS WILL ADDRESS CHURCH GUILD

T. Guthrie Speers will address the Westminster Guild of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church in the church parlors, Monday afternoon, December 13, at 3 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all who would be interested to hear his account of his very recent trip to the Orient. Mr. Speers accompanied Dr. Robert E. Speer, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, on the missionary tour, from which he has just returned. During the trip the missionaries visited Siam, the Philippines, Korea, China and Japan and had most unusual opportunities to see the mission work in these countries.

ITALY SENDS AID TO THE BALKANS

Will Not Permit German Armies to Trample Over Montenegro.

U. S. SHIP IS SAFE

Army of Kaiser Preparing to Strike Before Allies Can Concentrate Forces at Salonki—Reinforcements for Townshend.

Vienna, Dec. 8.—Austrian and German officials are elated over the sinking of eight Italian ships in the lower Adriatic Sea, yesterday, all of which were carrying munitions to the Balkans from Italy, but the presence of these ships shows that the Allied powers are not to abandon Montenegro to her fate, as they did Serbia, and that the Austro-German armies in the Balkans are in danger if they make attempts to gain more territory.

The six vessels were sunk off the coast of Albania. Five of the steamships were engaged in discharging ammunition for Balkan Allies of Italy when they were sent to the bottom, a French submarine that protected them was also sunk, together with an Italian armed steamship and an Italian motor vessel, which were in the same territory.

That Germany is preparing to strike again in the Balkans before the English and French troops being landed at Saloniki can be organized is shown by movements of armies. The Kaiser now has a large army available in Serbia, along the Vardar-Cerna-Karasu front, and the army of Gen. Von Gallwitz facing the Montenegrin frontier has been strongly reinforced. If the central powers act before Anglo-French reinforcements and Italian munitions strengthen the Balkan armies the hundreds of thousands of men that have been pouring into Saloniki for weeks may be hopelessly isolated and forced to remain in Greece indefinitely.

American Steamer Not Sunk.

Rome, Dec. 8.—The American steamship Communipaw was bombarded by an Austrian submarine in the Mediterranean. She was not sunk, is reported last night, but has arrived safely at Alexandria.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MRS. ANNA FRITTS HELD

The funeral of Mrs. Anna E. Fritts was held last evening at the home of her son, Melvin Fritts, of 339 Dunellen avenue, being in charge of Rev. D. W. C. Ramsey, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The deceased was a member of Lakeview Council, No. 130, D. of L., and this council performed its order of service. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Giddes, Miss Estelle Eick and W. W. Walters composed a quartet, which sang, "Abide With Me." The floral tributes were beautiful. The body was taken today to High Bridge, where another service was held in the Methodist Episcopal church at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Interment was at Clinton.

Mrs. Fritts was a resident of Dunellen for twenty-five years, coming here from High Bridge following the death of her husband, Wesley A. Fritts. She had been in ill health for the past two years. Her final illness was of five weeks' duration. Mrs. Fritts was a consecrated Christian. She was a member of the local Methodist Episcopal church and of its Ladies' Aid Society. She is survived besides her son by a sister, Mrs. Minnie Apgar, of Front street, and a brother, Elias Strouble, of High Bridge.

William Black, of Prospect avenue, is ill at his home again. Three weeks ago Mr. Black submitted to an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Muriel Cockburn, of Penfield place, substituted yesterday for Miss Edna Hardcastle, teacher of the third grade of the Lincoln School, who is ill.

The postponed all-day sewing meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held tomorrow at the home of Mrs. George K. Post, on New Market road.

Thurman Ayers, of Center street, has been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. William Cahart, of Little Silver.

George Kelly, brother of Mrs. H. E. Nelson, of Lincoln avenue, is reported as being quite ill.

NARROWLY ESCAPED DROWNING.

While skating on the thin ice which had formed on Green brook yesterday afternoon, John Doyle, of Front street, had a narrow escape from drowning when the ice broke and he went throught the hole into the icy water. He was saved by his boy companion, Richard Sullivan.

George K. Post, who has been ill with neuritis, was able to go out yesterday. Mr. Post expects to return to business in a couple of days.

Arthur J. Hamley, cashier of the local bank, has been ill for the past few days.

Contractor Otis M. Webber, who has been ill with the grip, threatened with typhoid fever, is much improved.

Mrs. John P. Fenner, of Washington avenue, is ill.

ALL-DAY MEETING.

The all-day meeting of the Ladies' Aid and the Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held tomorrow. A luncheon will be served at noon.

TENNIS CLUB MEETS.

The Crescent Tennis Club held its monthly meeting at the home of Arthur Bogardus, last evening. After the transaction of the business of the evening a social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments were served.

Edward Maurer, Jr., who planned to go to Singapore, India, is still here. On account of the war he is having trouble in procuring his passports and he will not leave for India until after the holidays.

CHILDREN'S HOUR.

A story hour for children to be conducted by Mrs. George Vander Veer, president of the Parent-Teacher Association, will be inaugurated at the Dunellen Library tomorrow afternoon and continued every Thursday for twelve weeks. All children under 10 are invited. Promptness is insisted upon as no child will be permitted to the circle after the story is begun.

Christopher Emigh is ill at his home on Lakeside avenue.

SKATING ON LOCAL POND.

Ice has formed on the pond. It is two inches thick and a number of the youngsters of the village were risking their lives yesterday afternoon by skating on it.

Harvey Clark has returned from Canada, where he spent fifteen months.

Walter Helman, the agent at the Lehigh Valley Railroad station, spent Sunday at his home in Pottersville, Pa.

Miss Ethel Conover, teacher at the local school, visited her parents at Whitehouse over Sunday.

City water is being installed in the local school.

Robert Schwoerer has taken a position with a Newark concern.

Wikoff Voorhees, who is employed at the Scott Press Works in Plainfield, is engaged in putting up two presses for the concern in the printing office of the New York Times.

Mrs. Henry Dare, who is ill at her home, is slightly improved.

Mrs. Foster Sofield has returned from Staten Island, where she visited her daughter, Mrs. William Tabb.

Plains & Fanwood.

Mrs. James Belson Guttridge and family gratefully acknowledge the kind expression of sympathy of the people of Scotch Plains during their recent bereavement.—Adv.

Mrs. Charles Urner entertained the members of the Afternoon Bridge Club at her home on Tilliston road yesterday afternoon. A half dozen tables were in play, and later in the afternoon tea was served by the hostess.

Aside from the two cases that developed last week, there has been no reports of any new cases of scarlet fever in the township or borough. As soon as the two cases in the Plains were reported the township Board of Health established a quarantine.

Miss Dorothy Wright has returned to her home in Bayonne after visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Sheelen, of North avenue.

At the last meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church the annual election of officers resulted as follows: Mrs. E. J. Reeder, president; Mrs. Walter W. Slocum, first vice-president; Mrs. C. O. Reinhart, second vice president; Mrs. Ira G. Walker, secretary; Mrs. Harry Denison, treasurer.

The Bible class of Scotch Plains and Fanwood will meet tomorrow morning at the home of the Misses Kyte, on Martine avenue.

A large and appreciative audience greeted Miss Mildred Bass-Anderton on her third local appearance, when she gave a dramatic reading of the three-act play "Monsieur Beaucaire," by Booth Tarrington, in the Fanwood firehouse, last night. Her work in interpretating the various characters in the piece was, if anything, better than on the two previous occasions that she has entertained local audiences.

A meeting of the Women's Association of the township and borough was held yesterday afternoon at the home of the Misses Hayes, of Martine avenue. The annual Christmas bag for the mission conducted by Miss Currie in New York is nearly finished.

The Belgian Relief Society, which flourished last winter, will not, it is said, resume its semi-monthly meetings this year, although nearly all of the members are still working individually or in small numbers for the war sufferers. About fifty women of Fanwood and Scotch Plains met last year and completed a number of large cases of bandages and other useful articles that they sent to Europe, in every case receiving a delightful letter in return.

The weekly meeting of the Teachers' Training Class will be held in the lecture room of the Baptist church tonight, following the prayer meeting, with the Rev. J. Madison Hare in charge.

'PHONE DIRECTORY BEING DISTRIBUTED

New Book Contains 128,000 Listings With Circulation of 165,000 Copies.

The fall and winter issue of the New Jersey telephone directory indicates the unusual increase in the use of the telephone in this State. It is now being distributed by the New York Telephone Company. The summer issue is always the largest of the year, containing as it does the names of many temporary residents, but this fall's directory has about the same number of listings, showing the material increase in 'phone subscribers.

The new directory contains about 128,000 listings and will have a circulation of approximately 165,000. The summer book contained 126,500 names and a circulation of 164,000. The face type in the new book is different and more easily read. The New York 'phone book is also being distributed now. It has 360,000 listings with a circulation of 660,000.

An idea of the gigantic task of providing telephone information in the metropolitan territory is given by the directory publication figures for 1915. Counting the spring, summer and fall directories for New Jersey and the metropolitan district, a total of 3,600,000 book have been printed for subscribers since the first of the year. This record is said to be unequalled.

EPWORTH LEAGUERS IN ROUSING RALLY

Plainfield Group Meets at Dunellen—K. S. Hirade is Speaker.

The Plainfield group of Epworth League Societies of the Elizabeth district held a rousing rally in the Dunellen Methodist Episcopal church, last evening. The church was comfortably filled with delegations from the Epworth League Societies of the Grace and Monroe Avenue churches, of this city, and the Methodist churches of Scotch Plains, Bound Brook, Somerville and Dunellen. The attendance banner was won by the Epworth League, of the Bound Brook Methodist church, which had forty present out of a roll of 68 members.

The speaker of the evening was the Rev. K. S. Hirade, the "Billy Sunday" of Japan. Mr. Hirade delivered an interesting and energetic address. The platform was not large enough to contain him and at one time he was seated in a chair in the church choir showing how some people sit in church with long faces and are ice all over; at another time he was down on the main floor of the church facing the audience, with waving arms endeavoring to drive a point home. He had the knack of mitating the posture of persons to whom he had talked in bygone years. One time, while talking about his sister in far-off Japan, he was squatted on the floor and at another he was seated on a chair with bowed head and relating a conversation he had with an old man, who was reading the first Bible he ever saw.

Mr. Hirade said that he was born in the central part of Japan in a province which was famous for its production of great leaders and educators. He said that this province was the center of Japan's silk manufacturing industry. He said that although it had a population of more than 200,000 persons there was not a single church, mission or preacher in the community and that the name of Jesus Christ was absolutely unknown to the people of that section. He said that although he was born in a very good family he had never heard the name of Jesus Christ until he was a grown man. Speaking of the struggle on the other side of the water, Mr. Hirade said that the war was caused by the supposedly Christian nations of Europe losing the real spirit of sacrifice with the result that the spirit of God left Europe. Mr. Hirade uttered the warning that a similar fate would follow in this country if it followed Europe's example and did not awake and measure up to the standard of the lowly Nazarene.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Starting today and continuing tomorrow the "Battle Cry of Peace" will be shown at Proctor's local playhouse. This is a production that vies in massiveness, in its great battle scenes and in its great dramatic qualities with the famous "Birth of a Nation." It was produced by J Stuart Blackton, who is the head of one of the oldest motion picture companies in America—the Vitagraph—on a scale never before attempted in motion pictures. "The Battle Cry of Peace" deals with the subject which is today nearest the heart of every American citizen—the problem of America's unpreparedness. It portrays the defenseless condition of our country, the consequences to which this condition may lead, and the way to avoid these consequences. The city of New York is attacked by a powerful foreign foe. You are an eye-witness. You see the enemy approaching, the powerlessness of the city, the inadequacy of its forts and defenses. You see the havoc wrought by the enemy's cruisers, its submarines, its airships—by its shells, shrapnel, bombs. You see the most beautiful sky-line in the world in flames; the metropolis of the Western Hemisphere devastated. You see New York fall into the hands of the enemy, and the desecration that follows. Then you are shown the way that such a calamity can be avoided—the "one" way. You are shown the way to peace—the peace for which America so earnestly prays—the peace with honor. And all through this strenuous theme runs a beautiful romance that arouses heartfelt sympathy. Charles Richman the eminent Broadway star, handles the leading role, and is excellently supported by Norma Talmage and a distinguished Vitagraph cast. This is the same production that is now playing at the Vitagraph Theatre New York city, at prices ranging from 50 cents to $2. It is being presented today and tomorrow at Proctor's at a general admission of 25 cents for all seats at all performances. Every American — man woman and child—should see this gorgeous photoplay, for it is of vital interest to all Americans.

FUNERAL SERVICES OVER THE BODY OF FRANK CONDE

Funeral services over the body of Frank Conde, a former well known Plainfielder, who died at High Bridge last Friday, were held at the undertaking parlors at 200 West Second street, yesterday afternoon. The large gathering present included delegations from fraternal lodges of High Bridge and many former local friends. Rev. George Hauser was the officiating clergyman and afterward a Knights of Pythias service was conducted by Perseverance Lodge, of this city, Chancellor Commander William N. Runyon acting as prelate. There were a large number of floral tributes, a number of them being set pieces contributed by the Knights of Pythias, the Foresters, the Red Men, and the Mutual Aid Society, of the Taylor-Wharton Company, of High Bridge.

Burial was in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers all being High Bridge lodge members. They were A. W. Apgar, Raymond Anderson, of the Knights of Pythias; Samuel John, Levy Alpaugh, of the Foresters, and Howard Silverthorn and W. H. Neighbor, of the Red Men.

NOTED ARTIST WILL BE HEARD IN THE "MESSIAH"

When the "Messiah" is given on Tuesday, December 14, in the High School auditorium, Miss Marie Stoddart, one of the best known musical artists of the country, will interpret the soprano part. Miss Stoddart is the soprano soloist in the New York Festival Quartet, and has also sung at concerts, musical clubs, and choral societies in all the large cities.

She has received a most enthusiastic welcome wherever she has sung, and the press notices have been most complimentary. Miss Stoddart's voice is very fresh, unwearied and clear, also possessing much flexibility and charm. The Recreation Committee, under whose auspices the "Messiah" is to be given, is being congratulated upon securing such a splendid singer. Tickets for sale or exchanged for reserved seats at Miller's drug store.

MANY MOURNERS ATTEND FUNERAL OF JOHN BEDMAN

The funeral of John Bedman was held at his late residence, 28 Woodbine avenue at 8 o'clock last night Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, officiated, assisted by the Jr. O. U. A. M., of Scotch Plains, of which Mr. Bedman was a member.

Mr. Bedman was a member of the First Presbyterian church, Westfield, and at one time was superintendent of the Sunday-school at Mountainside. His death is deeply regretted by a wide circle of friends. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, the Misses Eva and Alice Bedman and one son, Ernest Bedman; one brother, Henry Bedman, of San Jose, Cal. Mr. Bedman was born at Woodbridge, and lived in Plainfield nine years. The burial took place at the First Presbyterian cemetery, Woodbridge, this morning. The pallbearers were L. S. Barnett, N. A. Barnett, Elston Darby, William Guest, Fred Bedman and H. J. Harold.

KITTY CHEATHAM WILL GIVE CHILDREN'S MATINEE

Kitty Cheatham, who is widely-known as an entertainer of children, will give the second in the series of entertainments arranged by Charles Prescott Poore, is announced for the Plainfield High School, Tuesday afternoon, December 28, at 2:30 o'clock. The Memphis, Tenn., Scimatar, in speaking of Miss Cheatham, says:

"There is that element of refinement, of sincerity, and of genuineness about what she does which is very grateful in our times. Art can accomplish much, but it cannot supply the inherent captivation that constitutes the puissance of Miss Cheatham. The method of her art is the method of fluent and natural grace. She does not grope after abstract meaning in her folk-songs or in her readings. She is at times ardently impetuous but at others she is poetically, dreamy and deliciously droll. Unique is the word to be used in speaking of her performance. In all of her numbers she displays an incessant sparkle which would distinguish her without other attributes."

TO FORM WIGWAM OF BOY PIONEERS

Emerson Brooks, Founder, Will Visit This City Tomorrow Afternoon.

AID TO THE BOY SCOUTS

Tribes Will be Organized and Names of Famous Indian Chiefs Bestowed —Boys Between 8 and 11 Years of Age Eligible—Boy Scout Activities

Through the interest of the Rev Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, in the matter of providing some of the advantages of the Boy Scout movement to those lads who are not yet old enough to enter scout work, Emerson Brooks, founder of the Boy Pioneers, will come to this city tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock to organize a wigwam. Mr Brooks organized a troop in his home town of Montclair, in the Congregational church of that place, and in a very few weeks he had a membership of 150 boys. The movement is entirely new and has an appeal for the smaller boy that is irresistible.

Scoutsmasters the country over have been perplexed to know what to do with the small boys, who are enthusiasts for scout work, but who are too young to undertake the work. At every local scout meeting there are a number of these lads who apply with singular persistency for membership. Mr. Brooks has attempted to solve the problem by giving the small boy a training wholly within his years so as to fit him to be a capable and worthy scout when he reaches the proper age.

Boys between the ages of 8 and 11 will be admitted to membership. The movement is undenominational, just as the scout movement is.

Tribes will be formed tomorrow and the bestowal of names on the members will take place. The names of famous Indian chiefs are given to the boys, and the work consists in instilling the principles of honor, moral bravery and ambition among the boys.

One of the greatest tributes the Plainfield scout movement has been accorded appeared in last Saturday's New York papers in connection with the campaign to raise in that city a fund of $200,000 to carry on the work among scouts. Walter W. Price, who was the guest of honor of the Plainfield Boy Scouts at their exercises on Columbus Day, and who is president of the Staten Island Boy Scout Council, told a conference of important business and professional men that he was won into active interest in the scout movement by the behavior of a Plainfield Boy Scout.

"Some time ago," he said, "I had occasion to go to Plainfield on a business trip. I left my automobile at the curb and asked a passing boy to watch it for me until my return. He was on duty for a much longer time than I expected, and so upon my return I proffered him a suitable reward of money. I was very much taken back and filled with pride and admiration when the boy respectfully saluted me and said:

"'I am a Boy Scout, sir. As such I'm supposed to do a good turn daily for someone. I have not had an opportunity to perform any kind deed so far today. Now I've done it. Scouts do not take rewards for being good scouts.'

"I shook hands with that boy as I would have shaken the hand of a hero or the hand of the President of The United States. It thrilled me and I straightway determined that if they trained boys like that in Plainfield, I wanted the boys in the place where I live to know something about that sort of thing."

Pesident Theodore G. Davis is very anxious to have a full representation of the members of the Boy Scout Council next Monday night, when the regular meeting takes place at 8 o'clock. Matters relative to the future conduct of the Plainfield Boy Scout movement will come up at that time.

Arrangements have been completed for furnishing the new Boy Scout camp building in Terrill road. Through the courtesy of Councilman Louis Homer, temporary furnishing has been provided the troop, of which Cedric Ostrom is scoutmaster, pending the completion of scout furniture by the members of the various troops. The assignments include a table, suitable for reading purposes, to be made by Troop 12, W. F. Richards, scoutmaster; benches by Troop 8, H Douglas Davis, scoutmaster; bench by Troop 9, Frederick A. Martin scoutmaster; shelves for books Troop 11, Raymond Manley, scoutmaster; table for kitchen, by Troop 14, Ernest K. Powlison, scoutmaster; wood box, by Champion Troop 5.

Announcement is made by Third Deputy Commissioner F. E. Bach that William H. Olmsted has been chosen scoutmaster for Troop 10, in Trinity Reformed church, succeeding W. R. Kriney, resigned. Through the resignation of Scoutmaster John Richards, Champion Troop 5, of the First Presbyterian church, is at present without a leader. This is the pioneer troop in the city, and has among its patrols the famous engineers, builders of the portable bridge that can be erected and dismantled in 35 seconds. Men who are desirous of becoming identified with a movemena that has for its object the development of resourcefulness, self-preparation and honor among boys should communicate with First Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., before Monday night's Scout Council meeting. A scoutmaster is needed in Troop 15, of the Netherwood Reformed church. This troop offers exceptional opportunities for a broad gauge man as scoutmaster. Second Deputy Commissioner E. A. Sprow will be glad to hear from any man living in the East End of the city who would like to take up this work. Applications received prior to or on Monday night can be forwarded immediately to national headquarters insuring prompt return of the necessary charter.

Through the generosity of the owner of the plot on which the Plainfield Boy Scout camp building is situated, a lease has been drawn up covering more than twenty acres, for a period of five years, at a total nominal rental of $5. This lease will be executed on Monday night.

C. William Krausse has advised First Deputy Commissioner Searing that the camp has been connected with the city water supply at a total cost of $71.28, which has been provided for by a friend of the scout movement. Mr. Krausse made no charge to the scout movement for labor although the pipe was laid for a considerable distance after the surface of the ground had frozen. The total cost of the camp so far has been in excess of $470, all of which will have been paid for after Monday night.

An appeal is made by Scoutmaster Cedric Ostrom, of 143 Crescent avenue, in charge of Troop 16, using the camp building for meeting place in the winter months, for games suitable for boys near the age of 15 years. Parlor games that are being discarded in anticipation of new ones at Christmas will serve a splendid purpose.

WILLIAM MINDER CHOSEN PRESIDENT

New Officers Are Elected by Washington Market Merchants' Ass'n Inc.

At the last monthly meeting of the Washington Market Merchants' Association, Inc., Cortlandt and West streets, New York, held December 1, a special election of officers took place.

William Minder, the young and aggressive proprietor of John Minder & Son, was chosen president. Mr. Minder has been chairman of the building committee, and has led the fight for the reconstruction of Washington Market for the past five years. George McKelvey, member of Greenbaum & McKelvey, and president of the Jersey City Y. M. C. A., was made vice president; Anton C. H. Andesner, from one of the oldest of the "old guards" stands in the market, was re-elected treasurer, and George Bender, former secretary, was retained in the same office. The election of the board of directors was held over for the January meeting.

A special committee was appointed, composed of Messrs. E. Joseph, William Minder and F. Alexander, to confer with the City Building Department and Bureau of Markets regarding matters pertaining to refrigeration.

MOSQUITO BOARD MAKES ANNUAL REPORT

Union County Exterminators Go Over Work Done in 1915.

During the year which closed with October, 1915, the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission made a total of 176,288 inspections, according to the annual report which has just been printed and distributed.

This commission, which is composed of Frank C. Ard, M. D., Plainfield, president; William C. Hope, Roselle, treasurer; Louis J. Richards, Elizabeth, secretary; James S. Green, M. D., Elizabeth; Frederick W. Sell, M. D., and William J. Lamson, M. D., of Summit, last year reduced the number of inspections from eighteen to fourteen, and yet obtained much better results from the work. The past year was the most favorable in ten for the production of mosquitoes, due to the weather. Receipts for the year were $25,773.34 and disbursements totaled $25,465.71.

The report of the inspector in charge of district No. 2, which includes the city of Plainfield, shows that 35,241 yard inspections, 5,455 of general premises, and 1,026 of miscellaneous breeding places were made in this city alone during the year. A total of 1,951 breeding places were found in Plainfield, all of which were abated. A summary of the work done follows:

"Fewer inspections were made this year than last year because: (1) reduced inspection force, (2) the exceptionally rainy weather prevented the men from working as fast, (3) less house inspections were made because of the fact that certain sections were found so free of breeding places after two or three early season inspections as to make further regular inspection unnecessary, (4) swamp inspections took longer because many swamps were swollen by rains to ten times their previus size and each swamp took so much more time and work to inspect, and (5) each inspector had to give much more time than usual to supervising temporary oiling work.

"It is interesting to note how the water surface of the county was increased tenfold or more and kept spread over large areas by the light but continuous rains, each day adding to or at least replenishing the water in the pools and low places all over the county. Pools were found in dozens of vacant lots in the city of Elizabeth, where no standing water was noticed in previous years. Low lying fields and woods all over the county were covered with a thin sheet of water a few inches deep and produced swarms of mosquitoes. Pasture lands, particularly those along the edge of the salt meadows at the junction with the upland, part brackish and part fresh, turned out both salt water mosquitoes and the fresh water varieties from the shallow skim of water perhaps only a fraction of an inch deep around the grass roots. Breeding was even found in the furrows of plowed ground—in fact, in almost all places where it is conceivable to have stagnant water but which are ordinarily dry. With the breeding area of the county so greatly increased, every effort was made to cut down the number getting on the wing by the closest inspection, widespread oiling and ditching so far as the limited funds of the commission would permit. Considering the season and the limited force of men to carry on work with over the whole county, the results obtained in 1915 in keeping so much of the area of the county reasonably free of mosquitoes shows how small a number of mosquitoes actually get on the wing compared to the great infestation which would occur in such a season if no work at all were being carried on."

PLAINFIELD CLERICUS MEETING

Rev. O. S. Michael, rector of All Saints' church, Scotch Plains, read an interesting paper on "The Psychology of Pseudology," before the Plainfield Clericus, at the monthly meeting held in St. Paul's Rectory, Monday, the rector, Rev. James M. Smith, being the host. Mr. Michael's idea was that there was so much pseudo information in the newspapers regarding the war in Europe that it is hard for ministers, who are supposed to be "The Prophets of Truth," to intelligently discuss the situation. At the conclusion of his reading, the matter was talked over pro and con. Adjournment was made to the parish house at 1 o'clock, where luncheon was served by the Women's Guild of St. Paul's.

WADLEY BROTHERS ARE DISCHARGED IN BANKRUPTCY

In the United States District Court at Trenton, yesterday, Albert W. Wadley and Ernest W. Wadley, doing business as Wadley Brothers, at Keyport, were granted a discharge in bankruptcy. Wadley Brothers had a coal, wood and ice business and their schedules as filed showed liabilities at $35,000, and assets of about $33,000. DeMeza & Crane, of Plainfield, were the attorneys for the bankrupts.

C. M. NAGLE BUYS STOCK OF ZELLER DRUG COMPANY

Clayton M. Nagle yesterday purchased the stock and fixtures of the Zeller drug store on Front street, sold to satisfy a mortgage. The goods were disposed of at public auction in small lots, and Mr. Nagle bought in everything offered for a sum that totaled $2,500. He held the mortgage on the Zeller store, having sold the stock and fixtures to Zeller about two years ago. Mr. Nagle will conduct the drug business personally temporarily at least.

FREEDOM CASTLE, K. G. E., CHOOSE THEIR OFFICERS

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, last night elected the following to office: Past chief, C. H. Pratt; noble chief, L. A. Martin; vice chief, Thomas Darling; sir herald, Hamlet Luckey; venerable hermit, Charles Lewis; high priest, Charles Bowman; master of records, George Church; clerk of excheuquer, R. V. Kinney; keeper of excheuquer, W. F. Randolph. Other secret officers were appointed. A delegation from Freedom Castle will go to Freehold next Monday night to attend the meeting of the Fourteenth District.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB MOVES TO THE CITY BUILDING

The Plainfield Democratic Club at its monthly meeting last night voted to give up its present quarters in the Depew building at Park and North avenues, and to lease a room in the city building on North avenue. The room to be occupied by the club is on the second floor, easy of access. It was also decided to allow the present officers to hold over for the present.

The club received and accepted an invitation to attend the meeting in Columbus Auditorium, Wednesday night, December 15, when Dr. William L. Saunders and Henry A. Wise Wood, of Secretary Daniel's Naval Advisory Board, will talk on "National Preparedness."

VERDICT AWARDED THE L. M. BOOTH CO. SET ASIDE

The Appellate Term of the Supreme Court, New York, has set aside a verdict found by a jury on October 6 last in the case of the L. M. Booth Company against the People's Ice and Fuel Company, of New York, to recover the balance due on the sale of a water softener. The verdict was set aside on the ground that Judge Lynch, who presided at the trial, was not present in the court during all of the time.

Judge Lynch says that he merely absented himself from the court room for a short time to expedite trial matters and it was with the consent of counsel that he went to his chamber across the hall, where he was within easy reach if wanted. Levis M. Booth of the plaintiff company, resides on Cedarbrook road, and is councilman-elect from the Second ward.

EXHIBITION OF CHILDREN'S BOOKS WELL ATTENDED

About three hundred persons have visited the exhibition of children's books which is being held in the young people's department of the Public Library.

These books have been assembled with the idea in view of showing what the book-world is doing for children in the line of attractively illustrated books, and also good editions at moderate cost, and to act as a guide to those purchasing children's books as Christmas gifts. No books are purchased at the library, but to make buying easier, arrangement has been made with the Estil book-shop to take over the collection on December 16 so that those deciding upon a book at the exhibit, may do their purchasing right in the city.

The books on display are picture books for the little people, fairy tales mythology and legendary tales, books for boys on how to make things, how to understand the electrical world and on outdoor life and sports, while a large collection is suitable for girls.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold an all-day sewing meeting in the church parlors tomorrow. Luncheon will be served at noon.

BATTALION DRILL IN ELIZABETH ON MONDAY

Company K, of this city, will take part in a battalion drill to be held in the Elizabeth armory next Monday night. Orders have not yet been issued, but the drill will probably be the last one of the year, as the poultry show will occupy the armory next week, and the usual Christmas recess will keep the citizen soldiers idle the following week.

FOUR BOYS PICKED UP FOR SHOOTING RIFLE

Four boys, their ages ranging from ten to fourteen, have been ordered to appear in court Saturday morning to answer to charges of disorderly conduct. The boys are Elmer Hand, Thomas Baxter, John Faucett and John Donnelly. They made up a band that was practicing with a small calibre rifle in the Netherwood section a few days ago when one of the bullets entered a residence and almost struck a sleeping child. They were not ordered to court during the week because the arresting officer and Judge De Meza did not want them to miss a day from school.

WM. NEWCORN TO CONTINUE IN CHARGE OF SERVICES

William Newcorn will continue to take charge of the services at Temple Sholem, this decision being reached at a business meeting of the trustees in Mr. Newcorn's office last night. He is filling the position left vacant by Rev. Dr. Herman L. Martin, who went to Brooklyn.

Two new members were elected last night and it was decided to give the annual entertainment and ball on Tuesday night, February 1. This committee was named to take charge of the details: Herbert Shuldenfrei, Bernard Mann, Leon M. Livingston, Adolph Tepper, Robert Hyman, Samuel G. Sauls and Samuel Rothberg.

POSTMASTER HOAGLAND GIVES TIMELY ADVICE

The postal department requires that tinsel postcards must be mailed in sealed envelopes with a two-cent stamp and address on outside of the envelope. Persons are urged by Postmaster A. E. Hoagland to mail Christmas presents early. "Don't open until Christmas" tags on packages are allowed by the department.

Parcels may be insured for $5 for a three-cent fee. Parcels must not be sealed and must have name and address of sender as well as destination address. They must be strongly wrapped to withstand rough usage during Christmas rush. The postmaster's advice is to wrap securely, mail early and address plainly all mail.

ATTITUDE OF TWO TYPES TOWARD RED CROSS SEALS

"I always look forward with joy to the sale of the Red Cross seals," said a white-haired old man as he paid a small Plainfield schoolboy for two hundred seals. "It is so cheery, and the Santa Claus head with his wreath of holly and red crosses fairly urges me to buy. I like to buy Red Cross seals, too, because I know how much good they do. I've seen lots of suffering in my day, but I know that since the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield has been at work with its nurse, clinic and other things, much of this suffering has been relieved or prevented."

Contrast this cheery message with the following ungrammatical reply received in reply to a letter asking a man to return some seals that had been sent to him and for which he had not paid:

"You have me charge for some of that mess you sent me. I did not advise you to send it to me and I am going to pay for it, if you want the sorrow send me Stampes a nuff to pay the postage and I will send them to You all.

"What in thunder do you think enybody could do with such things. I am not going to pay for no sush trash."

FUNERAL OF MRS. SMITH.

The funeral of Mrs. Samuel Smith, who died suddenly at her home on Spooner avenue, early Saturday morning, was held at Hope chapel yesterday afternoon. Rev. Frederic L. Greene conducted the service in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Two solos were rendered by Thomas Hendry and Miss Eunice Eckert, both of them being favorites of Mrs. Smith's, they were "Will the Circle Be Unbroken" and "Will There Be any Stars in My Crown?" Many handsome floral tributes were given by friends and also by the Hope chapel societies of which Mrs. Smith was a member. Burial was in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being James Jamison, Thomas Hendry, Neil Head and Harry Shirley.

The Men's Assocation of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, will hold a progressive euchre in the parish house tomorrow evening.

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF GEORGE H. BURGESS

The funeral of George H. Burgess was held at the home, 1657 Central avenue, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and was largely attended by friends and acquaintances, including many former business associates. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, of which Mr. Burgess was for many years treasurer, officiated.

During the service a quartet, comprising Miss Edna Raybert, Miss Grace Carroll, William Holmes and William J. Tallerey, sang "Nearer My God to Thee," "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and "Asleep In Jesus." The burial will take place today in Albany, N. Y.

MRS. WILLIAM S. CROOK SUCCUMBS TO LONG ILLNESS

Following a lingering illness, through which she had been a patient sufferer, Mrs. William S. Crook, aged 49 years, died yesterday afternoon at her home at 664 South avenue. She was born in Crewe, England, March 19, 1867. Twenty years later she came to Plainfield with her husband, and had lived here ever since. Mr. Crook, who was a machinist by trade, was first employed in the Pond Tool Works in this city at the time when that concern was making gun carriages for the government. For the last eighteen years Mr. Crook has been conducting a grocery business on South avenue.

Beside her husband, Mrs. Crook is survived by three children, William F., Helen L. and Victor H. Crook, all of this city; also a sister, Mrs. William Chamberlain, of Perth Amboy, and her mother and two brothers in England. The funeral service will be held from the late home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will be made in Hillside cemetery. The Rev. Henry Mesier, of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, will officiate.

BIKE RIDERS FAR AHEAD OF RECORD

Thirteen Teams in Leading Bunch Have Been Tied for 40 Hours.

ONE TEAM DROPS OUT

Wohlrab Unable to Find Partner to Replace Kopsky—Madonna Regains One Lost Lap and Tries to Make up the Other.

Those who had gone 1284 miles, 9 laps, were:
Drobach and Corry.
Hill and Grenda.
McNamara and Spears.
Egg and Dupuy.
Magin and Lawrence.
Thomas and Ryan.
Hansen and Mitten
Moran and Walthour.
Piercey and Walker.
Eaton and Madden.
Fogler and Carman.
Hanley and Halstead.
Seres and Linart.

Those who had gone 1284 miles, 8 laps, were:
Sullivan and Anderson.
Sutter and Madonna.

Those who had gone 1284 miles, 6 laps, were:
Russe and Vanderstuift.

Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 8.—No change in the relative positions of the leaders has been recorded within the last twenty-four hours of the six-day bike grind. The thirteen riders who were in the pace-setting bunch thirty hours ago are still showing the way. Sullivan and Anderson remain one lap behind, and are tied with Sutter and Madonna, who were two laps behind yesterday. Russe and Vanderstuift are still four laps behind the leaders.

The Wohlrab-Kopsky team, which was tied yesterday with Russe and Vanderstuift four laps behind the leaders, dropped out of the race at 4:30 a. m. today, because Wohlrab was unable to get a partner to replace Kopsky, who had to quit because of injuries.

The riders kept up a fast pace all morning, and remained about twenty miles ahead of the former record. Madonna started frequent sprints in an endeavor to regain his lost lap. He was followed closely by the riders, and was unable to gain any material advantage.

The hourly score, and the record, beginning at 9 a. m., follow:

Hour.	Score.	Former Record.
9 a. m.	1191.8	1173.9
10 a. m.	1212.7	1191.7
11 a. m.	1229.3	1209.9
12 m.	1249.1	1229.1

2 p. m.	1284.9	1267.9

YANKS TO STAY AT P. G.

One result of the announcement by the Federal League of its having obtained a site for a baseball park in Manhattan has been the decision of organized baseball to have both the New York American League and New York National League teams play again at the Polo Grounds. It is said that arrangements have been ratified which will provide for a continuance of the present agreement between the Giants and the Yankees for at least five years.

KEARNY LOSES AT HOME.

The West Orange High School quintet scored its first basketball win of the season at Kearny yesterday afternoon, when it defeated the Kearny High School team by a score of 28 to 25. It was a close, well-played contest all the way, with the West Orangeites forging to the fore in the closing minutes.

NO ELKS BOWLING.

The Elks' League bowling match, scheduled for last night between the New York and Rahway teams, at Rahway, was indefinitely postponed.

Y. M. C. A. FIVE AT BRUNSWICK TONIGHT

Plainfield Association Men Will Play Knights of St. Peter.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball boys will play their first out-of-town game tonight, when they go to New Brunswick for a court argument with the Knights of St. Peter. Benny Berse, manager of the Front street outfit, refereed a game at Somerville last Saturday night, in which the Knights lost a one-point decision to Co. M, and he has warned his men in advance that they will have to play their best in order to win this evening.

The locals licked the Brunswickers one game last year, in the fray staged here, but went trounced at New Brunswick.

The Plainfielders will make the trip by automobile. The game will be played in Columbia Hall, and will start at 8:30 o'clock. The home scrubs will play a preliminary game, and the main go will be followed by dancing.

TABS PLAY BOUND BROOK QUINTET FRIDAY NIGHT

The T. A. B. S. basketball team will line up against the fast Unity Group Five, of Bound Brook, on the T. A. B. S. court, Friday night. The Bound Brook boys are somewhat lighter than the Tabs, but expect to offset this handicap by their superior team work and shooting.

The T. A. B. S. Seconds will probably meet the Spicer team in the preliminary game. On Saturday night, the T. A. B. S. will help Hope Chapel open the season by playing the Hopes on their own court.

RAHWAY EAGLES COME HERE IN A LEAGUE ENGAGEMENT

Patrick County Cork McCartney and his Rahway Eagles will come to this city tomorrow night for a F. O. E. League scrap with the Plainfield Aerie pin knights. Rahway at present is just ahead of Plainfield in the percentage column, and by annexing the odd the local performers will get into a three-cornered tie for third place. A clean sweep will put Plainfield ahead of both Rahway and Somerville.

ENDURANCE CONTESTS HERE XMAS AND NEW YEAR'S DAY

The holiday season will not be without its local endurance bowling contests. A twelve-hour tourney will be held on the East Second street alleys Christmas, beginning at noon and ending at midnight, while a New Year's tournament is planned by George Gates, manager of the Somerset street chutes.

TO HOLD ONE-MAN TOURNEY FOR THE WESTFIELD TITLE

An individual tournament for the championship of Westfield will be started immediately after the holidays on George Ortleb's Theatre alleys. Westfield, as a bowling center, is stepping ahead of Plainfield in more ways than one, and there is little doubt but that the title tourney will attract a large entry.

COLUMBIANS IN HOUSE MATCH.

The Browns and Greens, of the Columbus Club head-pin house tournament will clash on the Front street club alleys tomorrow night. It will be the only match this week in this competition.

PLAN LEAGUE OF LOCAL QUINTETS

Expect to Have Five or Six Teams in Local Bowling Circuit Next Year.

Plans are now being laid for a league of local bowling leagues. The Fraternal Order of Eagles is sponsor for the organization, which it is planned to have towards the end of the alley season.

Five teams have been mentioned as members by Jim Mahoney, the Eagles' leader. They are the Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, Plainfield Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, St. Mary's T. A. B. Society, the Imperials from Gates' borough alleys, and the Ramblers, a quintet composed mostly of newspaper men.

The idea of the league is to produce more interclub competition among local bowling organizations than would otherwise result, and the likelihood of such a league being formed is being increased by series such as the one now being decided between the Knights and the Eagles who rolled their first match on the Birds' alleys Monday night, and who will run off a return tussle at the Columbus Club next week.

PLAINFIELD BILLS ROLL ON PATERSON'S CHUTES

The Plainfield Elks' Senior League team rolls the team it is one game behind, when the locals go to Paterson tomorrow night. By taking two from the Pats, the Queen City Bills will get into a tie for fifth place.

No match in the B. P. O. E. loop is carded for tonight. Another series tomorrow evening will be Hoboken at Rutherford.

VALLEYS VS. TRIANGLES.

The Valley A. A. and Triangle elevens will meet in the Peps' field, at Harrison, Sunday morning.

N. J. R. H. A. DINNER, MARCH 23.

The annual dinner of the New Jersey Road Horse Association is planned for March 23.

REPUBLICANS AGREE TO DEMOCRATIC PROGRAM

Washington, Dec. 8.—On leaving the White House conference, Senator Gallinger said Republicans in the Senate would support the Democratic preparedness program, providing it were kept out of caucus. He added that while the Republicans would support the president under the condition named the President's method of raising additional revenues probably would be opposed by them. The Senator favored a bond issue, the extension of the present war tax stamp and bond check taxes and the retention of the sugar tax. He was opposed, however, to the tax on gasoline, automobiles and steel.

CLARK AND WIFE ARE RELEASED BY THE JUDGE

William Clark and his wife, Marion Clark, were dismissed this morning when arraigned before Judge DeMeza in police court. Clark was brought to the police station for failure to pay $3 a week toward the support of his three children. He did not show proper respect for the law when arraigned yesterday, and was locked up for a day. His wife also evinced a contempt for justice when she called to see her husband, and she was put in an adjoining cell. Judge DeMeza gave both a lecture this morning, and upon Clark's promise to abide by the orders of the court they were released.

MISS POWERS IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF AUXILIARY

Division No. 1, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians, held their annual election of officers last night. The meeting was held in the Knights of Pythias Hall and a large attendance of members was present. Mrs. Clarence Waldron the retiring president, presided at the meeting. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Miss Catherine Powers, vice president, Miss Anna Higgins; financial secretary, Miss Walsh; recording secretary, Miss May Troy; treasurer, Mrs. Patrick Waldron; sentinel, Miss Helen Waldron, and sergeant-at-arms, Miss Margaret Smith.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The Women's College Club, of Plainfield, has opened a short poster contest at the High School in an effort to secure an original design of poster advertising for the Christmas play the club will present in the Hartridge Auditorium on December 17. Any student is eligible to enter the competition.

A short assembly was held at the High School this morning, at which time steps were taken toward selecting a picture to be presented to the school, according to the annual custom. There are five pictures from which one will be selected. They will be on exhibit in the front corridor of the second floor several days, after which a vote as to the popular selection will be taken. Contributions come from the student body.

Dr. William D. Murray will speak to the High School students at the exercises in the auditorium, Friday morning.

PARENT-TEACHERS FORM COMBINATION

The Parent-Teachers' Association of the Plainfield grammar schools and of the Whittier school held a combined meeting at the High School yesterday afternoon for the purpose of combining the two organizations. They will hereafter work under one head, the designating title to be selected later. Mrs. Frank L. Holt, who has been president of the Plainfield Grammar School Association, declined to accept the presidency of the combination, and a nominating committee selected Mrs. Herbert Seaman for the place. She will be elected at the next meeting. Other officers elected were: First vice president, Mr. Starry; second vice president, Mrs. Edward McCarthy; treasurer, Miss Beebe. Two secretaries are to be selected later.

Mr. Starry, who is the new principal of the grammar schools, was introduced and made an address. The program also included two solos by Mrs. Joseph Edgar, accompanied by Mrs. Noel G. Evans, and refreshments were served in conclusion. The attendance was very large.

The Bryant-Lincoln Parent-Teachers' Association met in the Bryant School last night, when Dr. A. F. Van Horn gave an instructive talk on "The Care of the Child." Mrs. Guy Bender rendered two solos, with Mrs. Noel G. Evans accompanying. An informal social session was held at the close, during which refreshments were served.

PRINCE OF WALES FUND FORWARDS CHRISTMAS KITS

The Plainfield Branch of the Prince of Wales Relief Fund will meet again tomorrow morning in the parish house of Grace church from 10 to 12. More supplies for the Allied armies will be made and all persons interested are asked to attend and join in the work of making needed articles. A feature for tomorrow will be a program of classical and patriotic music rendered under the direction of Stephen Haff, the new local manager for the Edison Diamond Disc phonograph, a fine machine being kept running while the workers make the supplies.

The local branch of the fund recently sent to Europe seventy-two Christmas kits, each one containing a little holiday rememberance and personal greeting in addition to necessary useful articles. Each kit is wrapped in a bandanna handkerchief and decorated with ribbon or holly to give a "Christmasy" appearance. The kits were made possible through the generosity of Plainfield people, together with local and New York merchants.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT AILS YOU?

Washington, Dec. 8.—In a plea for every man and woman in the country to join in a movement for an annual examination of themselves, which is being launched today in connection with "tuberculosis week" throughout the country, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis presents figures which show that practically 10 per cent. of the supposedly well people of the United States have some physical defect or impairment. About 70 per cent. of the defects are of a serious nature, claims the association.

DOUBLE-HEADER IN P. H. S. GYM TONIGHT

Plainfield Girls Will Play Newark Normal; Recreations vs. P. A. A.

Everything is in readiness for the double-header attraction in the Plainfield High School gymnasium tonight, at which time the P. E. G. S. combine will line up against the "State Six," an aggregation of feminine players from the Newark Normal School. The game will start at 8 o'clock, and in between the halves the Recreation boys will play the Plainfield A. A. Both games promise to be of high calibre, the four teams having put up a fast article of the indoor game since the inauguration of their season.

The girls' teams will line up as follows:

Newark Normal — Miss Alma Petrie, Miss Helen Bernenet, forwards; Miss Esther Coll, center; Miss D. Cowen, side center; Miss N. Stadele, Miss Hazel Deisler, guards.

P. E. G. S.—Miss Helen Hummel, Miss Ida Hummel, forwards; Miss Mildred McAuliffe, center; Miss Ellen Doughty, side center; Miss Bessie Morris, Miss Elsie Debele, Miss Lucy Johnson, Miss Voorhees, guards.

Following the games dancing will be enjoyed.

PATERSON JUNIORS GET PAIR AT JERSEY CITY

Averaging 903, the Paterson Elks' Junion League team captured two games of its opening series at Jersey City last night. The homesters averted a shutout by winning the final game with a total of 934.

Both teams showed up well in their first appearances. Romary rolled 200, Bissett 204, Wright 212, Roth 210, Reilly 202, and Caldwell 216.

CASE AGAINST DRAKE WAS DISMISSED

Italian Who Forced Attentions on 14 Year Old Daughter is Warned.

That there are times when a violation of the law may be condoned, if not lauded, was evidenced in police court this morning, when Charles Drake, a contracting carpenter, was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct and attempted assault. Joseph Beloit, an Italian, was the prosecutor. It was shown that the Italian, who is 26 years old, had been meeting Drake's fourteen-year-old daughter and attempting to force his affections upon her. The father saw him standing in front of the school the girl attended at a time when she was due to pass and he grabbed the Italian, threatened to whip him, but finally called a policeman. Former Mayor Moy, who represented the Italian, admitted that his client should cease his attentions to the youthful daughter, and agreed that Mr. Drake should not be punished, but asked that the father be warned to resort to the law in future cases. Judge De Meza told Beloit that if it was ever proven in his court that the Italian had spoken to the girl on the street he would send him to jail, and after assuring Mr. Drake that the law would prevent the Italian from pressing his attentions toward his daughter, he dismissed the father. In doing so he urged Mr. Drake to call on the law in case Beloit should trouble his daughter further, but added that most men would have been guilty of violence under the same circumstances.

MOULDERS' UNION BALL.

The annual ball of the International Moulders' Union, of this city, will be held Friday evening, January 14, in Columbus Auditorium, a feature of which will be a prize waltz at 10:30 o'clock. The committee in charge comprizes Ernest E. Dorflinger, John Whalen, Thomas Gouch, Edward Snyder, F. Finn, John Kilbride, Edward Kiely, Henry Balue, George Meade, Daniel Neeley and Patrick KiKely.

And This Top Was Quite Bleak.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — How the Little Bibbinses Lived on A Mountain Top.

"THIS is true story night," said daddy as the children climbed on the arm of his chair. "Once upon a time quite a long, long while ago in colonial days, my dears, there lived at the foot of the Canaan mountains, in the Berkshires, a very poor widow whom all the townspeople called Mother Bibbins. She was very poor, and she had seven children."

"Is this really a true story, daddy?" Evelyn wanted to know.

"As true as life!" cried daddy. "Mother Bibbins' oldest son, Abner, was only thirteen. Sallie was only a year younger. Then came the twins and three small children. The baby was only two years old. Often these children had to go to bed cold and hungry, with a supper of nothing but apples and bread, for, work as hard as she could all day long, Mother Bibbins hardly earned enough to feed eight mouths.

"The house the Bibbinses lived in was one storied, shabby and old, with only one room in it, a kitchen. In one corner were two high old wooden beds, where all the Bibbinses slept. Opposite the bed was a fireplace, where Mother Bibbins cooked the children's food. The only other things in the kitchen were a few chairs, a table and a tall stepladder which led up to a small loft."

"Tell us about the mountain where it stood, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"It stood near the top of Canaan mountain, rather far from other farmhouses, my dear. And this top was quite bleak and windy and high, covered with great flat rocks, which made a splendid home for rattlesnakes.

"In the spring when the sun shone on the slopes the rattlesnakes crawled out of their holes in the ground, stretched out full length on the flat rocks and warmed themselves in the sunshine. A grown rattlesnake is often six feet long and as big around as a man's wrist. His coat is grayish brown, and on the end of his tail he wears a chain of four or five little dry bones, just the way a gentleman wears a watch chain. Behind what would be his ears—if snakes had ears—is a little sac filled with a yellow fluid which is very poisonous. When he bites anybody a tiny drop of this poison gushes into the wound his ugly fangs have made and nearly always causes death. At the same time he shakes the little dry bones in the end of his tail till they sound just like dry leaves rustling in the wind."

"Did you ever see a rattler, daddy?" asked Jack.

"Once when I was about as big as you a rattler wiggled out of his hole and lay right across my path going to school. Now run off to bed like good children, and some time I will tell you what happened to the little Bibbinses Thanksgiving eve," daddy promised.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Dr. Ellson Plants a Doubt in Jaynes' Mind as to Sutner's Guilt.

"I know the man, and if I am any judge of human nature, he's honest. You are on the wrong scent, Jaynes." Dr. Ellson thrust his hands into his pockets and began walking up and down the office.

"There are two or three things you will have to explain to me before I can take your view of the case." Jaynes relit his cigar that had been allowed to go out in the heat of discussion. "Only Tyler and Sutner have access to the safe. No one else knows the combination."

"Why Sutner instead of Tyler in that case?" interrupted the doctor.

"Sutner is known to be badly in debt, has had his wages garnisheed, in fact. No honest man keeps piling up debts; debts that drag on from year to year, increasing instead of diminishing, until his creditors are so exasperated that they have lost all confidence in the man's intentions to pay." Jaynes brought his fist down on the table to emphasize his words.

"No honest man, no, but plenty of boys, whose education, or lack of it, has made them think they must have what they want if they can find anyone who will give it to them on credit. As long as American parents give their sons and daughters no training as to how to save and spend money, allow them to run debts that they have no reasonable expectation of paying, just so long will we have to make allowance for the financial shipwreck of the young. They are taught to run in debt." The doctor's tone was indignant.

"The whole generation is bent on living off of some one else. Off dad, if he is rich; off the public if there is no money to fall back on." Jaynes was bitter, and the doctor remembered the profligate son.

"And who is to blame?" asked the doctor. "Certainly not the boy. The blame lies at the door of the parents who permit such a ruinous course. Poor Sutner is only a boy; he is not twenty-six yet. His education did not begin until he was married. Those two children married without money or training of any kind that would fit them to succeed. Of course they made a mess of things and have been getting deeper in the slough every year."

"Why in the world did he marry with nothing to support a wife on?" snapped Jaynes.

"It is of a piece with the rest of his preparation for life that nothing was done to fit him for the most important service a man can render: Found a good home and raise a family. All that was left to childish infatuation and luck. The young fellow has been making a determined effort to square himself with the world this year, at least since they came to Fairport to live."

"I understand his wife has a new silk dress. That looks like close economy," said Jaynes sarcastically.

"Who keeps you informed as to the wardrobe of Mrs. Sutner?" asked the doctor.

"Tyler told me she came to the desk to inquire for her husband dressed in expensive silk."

"I thought so," continued the doctor. "I happen to know that my wife gave that dress to Mrs. Sutner in exchange for some work, and the two women made it over themselves. Not a dollar of Sutner's money went into it. In my opinion Tyler has some object in peddling these stories. What else has he told?"

"He heard Sutner say that he would sell his soul for three hundred dollars," replied Jaynes. "Just the amount that is missing."

"People who are contemplating robbing a safe are more careful about putting their desperation into words. It was a symptom of youth, that's all." The doctor paused before Jaynes' chair. "Go slow in this thing. You can't afford to blast a young man's career even if he has been foolish and extravagant."

"I am not going to act hastily. I shall get the best expert in Kansas City down here to probe this thing to the bottom."

(To be continued.)

AND THE WORST IS YET TO CO ME--

Life in the Trenches

A series of letters written by Canadian Officers now in Belgium, who are relatives of Councilman Allan Cowperthwait, of North Plainfield, have been received by him. The series gives such a graphic description of the life which the Canadian contingent is leading in Belgium, that the Daily Press has secured permission to print the letters in serial form.

Sept. 26, 1915; 3:35 a. m.

Dear Frank:—

It is a week ago since my company came into the trenches. I had preceded them by a couple of days with two of my officers and four NCOS. to acquaint ourselves with conditions and the manner in which they carried on. During this week we have learned a great deal in trench warfare; far more than any lecture could give us, I assure you. Our men are simply splendid, to say nothing of my officers and non-commissioned officers, who have backed me up splendidly, and, though we have been under both shell and rifle fire, (in fact the latter is going on at all times), day and night, the men are right on the job, never for an instant getting careless in their duties—though it has rained and everything is mud and wet and more mud, and then some.

Today there is a very heavy fog—dense—and we have to be on the alert in case of alarm. I hear from Helen every day and it means a great deal to me. The boys are getting along fine at school and I hope for big things as a result of their early association among a suitable class of boys. I am trying to catch a mail, so will be unable to write any more just now. I asked Helen to cable you that I was all right, as I feared you might worry after seeing about the fighting in the paper.

Yours,
"MORGAN."

France, Sept. 26, 1915.

Dear Folks:—

It is a long time since I have written to you, but I have been so very busy that I have confined myself (not medically) to writing home, and not very often there either. I dropped you a note and a photo just before leaving England, which seems about three months ago. Since then it has been one round of work, with eat and sleep coming in a long way behind. However, this is the life and I wouldn't think otherwise. It really is rather nice at times though—especially when after four days with a bite here and there, and an hour's sleep now and then, you land into a good comfortable spot, have a specially good tuck-in and roll in between the blankets on some nice comfortable straw, or even on some nice soft bricks, and sleep the sleep of the just. That is what makes life worth living.

For a week now I have been in the trenches. This is Sunday, I think, though I never know just what the day or date is. I think everybody must be on church parade, for there is no war this morning. Everything is quiet as a mouse. I have only heard one shot this morning. It is a good thing they let up now and then, for we like to have a little sleep. I slept for eight hours last night and for the first night for a week I took my breeches off.

We really have been very lucky. We have had about ten casualties but only three of them have been at all serious and I think all will recover. Morgan had four casualties in his company yesterday and but one of them was serious. A shell burst on the wall of his trenches and in came earth and sandbags and buried four men. Only one of them was struck by the shrapnel, but he got an awful dose all over one side of the head and shoulder. Three other men were hit by shrapnel yesterday and one man was badly hit by pieces from a high explosive shell. I took quite a large piece out from just below his eye. He will recover all right, I think.

We have a Canadian battery close to my dressing station, and yesterday morning at 4 o'clock they started in and you never heard such a racket in all your life. It must have been a little hell all to itself in the German trenches.

A shell is something that you can hear coming. It sings through the air and then, just before it lights bang she goes and bursts in all directions. One lit twenty yards from battalion headquarters the other day and broke the windows. Everybody beat it in a hurry for the dug-out or "funkhole," as they call it. It is a little cellar without any house over it. Mr. Inderwick and I meandered along a few minutes later and found the house completely evacuated. The colonel was as excited as a kid with his first trousers and made us get underground in a hurry. Nothing else happened, so we crawled out in a short time.

My dressing station is about 400 yards behind battalion headquarters. I am in an old house with lots of room. The stretcher bearers sleep in the stable. We can't have any fire except coke, on account of the smoke. The other day the bearers disobeyed orders—lit a fire in the day time. Soon the shells started to whistle over the place. I was on my way down to the house and I beat it on the run and made them put the fire out. They are Scotch, you know, and you can't tell a Scotchman anything, we say.

It has been raining for a couple of days and the trenches are up to your shoetops with the stickiest "goo" I have been in for a long time. However, everybody is in fine fettle and they stand the mud and wet as if it were the regular thing—which, I expect, it will be.

Well, it is getting close to lunch time, so I will close. Morgan is well and sends his love. I think he comes out of the trenches tonight for about six days. He sends his love. Much love to all of you.

Your loving nephew,
"KENNETH."

Household Hints

CANNING PLANS "INCEMLAT"

Cherries one pound green tomatoes [illegible] with boiling water, let set cold. Drain and repeat. Take five pounds brown sugar, two tablespoons salt, two pounds seeded raisins chopped, one cup vinegar, juice two lemons, two quarts chopped tart apples, two teaspoons cinnamon, cloves, allspice, cayenne, grated nutmeg; cook all together [illegible] hour. When making pie add a little butter.

MARMALADE

Many a housewife dislikes making orange marmalade because it takes her two days to prepare it in order that it will not taste bitter. This is because she is using an old-fashioned recipe. Try the one given below, which makes eight glasses of marmalade in half an hour:

Five cups sugar, five cups water, three oranges, one lemon. Slice the lemon and oranges very thin and boil until tender. Add sugar and boil about five minutes. Pour into molds.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES

For a Cold in the Head—Beat the white of one egg until it is very stiff, add juice of one lemon and two teaspoons sugar, beat well together and drink before retiring. Repeat each night until cold is better.

White Liniment—First, put two ounces spirits of turpentine in a one-quart bottle, add one egg and shake five minutes; then put in two ounces of mentholated spirits of alcohol and shake five minutes; add two ounces strong ammonia and shake five minutes more. Then fill up with water and it is ready for use. This is fine for colds in the chest, sore throat, neuralgia and almost any pain. For external use only. Rub on affected parts and put a warm flannel over; will not blister.

THE TABLE

Egg Gems—One cup chopped cold meat, one tablespoon melted butter, one cup bread crumbs, salt and pepper. Mix together the meat and bread crumbs, add butter, salt and pepper and enough milk to bind it together nicely. Have ready gem pans well greased and fill with the mixture. Drink [illegible] each person with [illegible] and sprinkle [illegible] Bake eight minutes.

French Fried Beans—Parboil beans usual way. Mix together, two tablespoons cornstarch, two tablespoons sugar, one teaspoon salt, dash cayenne pepper, half cup vinegar, two cups buttermilk; pour this over the beans. Put one-half pound salt pork in center, slice two small onions around pork, bake slowly about four hours, adding water as needed.

Boston Baked Beans—One pint beans, one-half pound salt pork, one-half teaspoon molasses, one teaspoon mustard, one teaspoon sugar, one small onion. Pick over beans and let them soak overnight in water. In the morning put in the bottom of a bean jar half the pork and the onions, then pour in half the beans. Add remainder of the pork and the rest of beans, then the molasses, mustard and sugar. Cover with boiling water and bake from six to seven hours in moderate oven, keeping covered with water until the last hour. Be sure to have cover on bean jar while in oven. Serve with baked potatoes and brown bread.

Cheese Dreams—Make sandwiches of slices of cheese between thin slices of buttered bread; place the sandwiches in the toaster and brown on both sides until the cheese has melted.

Caramel Sweet Potatoes—Pare and cut in halves eight sweet potatoes, cover with boiling water, cook till nearly done, drain, then place in baking dish; cook one cup of brown sugar until it melts and changes to caramel; add half a cup of boiling water; stir carefully; pour over potatoes, add salt and bits of butter, cook until tender.

Grape Custard Pie—One cup Concord grapes (pulp and skins), one cup milk, two eggs, one small cup sugar, one tablespoon flour. Wash grapes, pick from stem, separate pulp from seeds and add to skins which have been removed previously. Line pan with ordinary pie crust. Make custard of milk, eggs and sugar. Put grapes in pan, sprinkle flour over them, then pour custard over. Bake in oven slowly till custard is set. Try this and you will find it delicious.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Advice of This Plainfield Woman Is of Certain Value.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.

Ofttimes 'tis the kidneys' fault.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective.

Many Plainfield women know this.

Read what one has to say about it.

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, says: "I endured much misery from backache, caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all and in the morning my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys and any strain on my back made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians but their medicine didn't help me and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph' drug store, that had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person and I have never had any serious trouble since."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask for Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Moore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB LUMBAGO OR STIFFNESS AWAY

Rub pain from back with small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless, and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints.—Adv.

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver. If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous, salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it cannot salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.

AN ORDINANCE

To Alter and Widen Central Avenue From the Southeasterly Side Line of West Front Street to the Northwesterly Line of the Right of Way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey.

WHEREAS, The Common Council judge that the public good requires the altering and widening of Central Avenue between the points named in the title to this ordinance, therefore

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Central Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, from the southeasterly side line of West Front Street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, be altered and widened so that the said Central Avenue shall be of the uniform width of twenty-five feet on the northeasterly side of the present centre line thereof as now established and existing, from the southeasterly side line of West Front Street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, and of the uniform width of twenty-seven feet, on the southwesterly side of the said center line thereof from the street to the northwesterly side line of West Second Street; and of the uniform southeasterly side line of West Front width of twenty-four and six-tenths feet on the southwesterly side of the said centre line thereof from the southeasterly side line of West Second Street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, which said center line is described as follows: Beginning at an intersection point marked on an iron manhole head, being the intersection of the center lines of said Central Avenue and West Front Street as now established and existing, and running from said point in a magnetic course of south forty degrees and thirty-five minutes east a distance of six hundred and one and twenty-five hundredths feet to a point in said present center line in the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey.

The land to be taken for such altering and widening of said Central Avenue on the northeasterly side thereof, from the southeasterly side line of West Front Street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, includes a strip four and three hundred seventy-five thousandths feet wide, being property owned by Charles B. Lufburrow, Ella H. Benson, Charles P. Sebring, Estate of Juliet Runyon, Mary Augusta Runyon, Calvary Baptist Church, Plainfield Reform Club and Wadley & Goodenough.

The land to be taken for such altering and widening of said Central Avenue on the southwesterly side thereof, from the southeasterly side line of West Front Street to the northwesterly side line of West Second Street, includes a strip six hundred and three hundred and seventy-five thousandths feet wide being property owned by Walter F. Manning, Estate of Lebbeus F. Manning, Elizabeth Manning, Walter F. Manning, Cecile E. MacIntyre, Mary McNamara and Abrams & Kungman. The land to be taken for such altering and widening of said Central Avenue on the southwesterly side thereof, from the southeasterly side line of West Second Street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, includes a strip four and nine hundred and seventy-five thousandths feet wide, being property owned by P. Ballentine & Son (a corporation).

The land to be taken and the lines of the above described portion of Central Avenue as the same is hereinabove ordered to be altered and widened are shown on a map on file with the City Clerk entitled "Map showing proposed altering and widening of Central Avenue, from West Front Street to the Central Railroad of New Jersey, City of Plainfield, N. J. Sept., 1915."

Adopted by the Common Council, Dec. 3, 1915; approved by the Mayor, Dec. 6, 1915.

Plainfield, N. J., December 8, 1915

A CITY HALL IN SIGHT.

Congratulations to the Mayor and Council! The city hall problem is solved at last, and it has been solved in a way that cannot fail to please a large majority of our citizens. The lot chosen is probably the only one within reasonable distance of the business center that contains so much room, and at the same time is so advantageously situated. A modern building large enough to house all the city departments, surrounded by attractive lawns and handsome shade trees can be erected at a total cost for land and building probably not exceeding $75,000, which will be a credit to the city, and the interest on that sum is today being paid for rental for the various city offices. It is a fine investment for the city, and with the new postoffice will help develop a new business district which is conveniently located.

The manner in which the entire matter has been handled is creditable to all concerned, and the price, about $162 a front foot, is very reasonable, considering the location and judging by the property values in that section of the city. The new Y. M. C. A. building is soon to be erected in the same section of Plainfield, and police headquarters is nearby, so that the move marks the beginning of an important section on that side of the railroad.

Mayor Calkins has again proven that he is the right man in the right place. Like other Mayors he recommended in his annual message to the Council last January that a municipal building be erected. But unlike the others he did not rest there. He took the time to look around the city, and for the last seven months he has been studying the various spots that might be used for this purpose. He took but few people into his confidence, as was shown by the fact that many city officials were surprised at the action of the Council on Monday night. When he had located what he thought was a desirable place, he made a suggestion to the Public Affairs Committee and Chairman Hylan and his associates took the matter up. They investigated and they found that the suggestion of the Executive was a good one. The other members of the Council agreed, and an option was secured. The action of Monday night brings to an entirely satisfactory conclusion a matter which has been agitating the officials and people of Plainfield for many years, and all hope to see a city hall ready for occupancy by the end of 1916.

The Business Men's Association of Plainfield has donated twenty-five dollars to the community Christmas fund, and a few days ago they gave five boys memberships to the Y. M. C. A. campaign fund. Since this organization was formed it has systematized the matter of contributions on the part of the merchants, and has relieved all of those who are members of the body from the evil of having to make subscriptions to things which never should be aided. The two examples are but typical of the contributions which are being made, and no just appeal goes unanswered. The organization fills a long felt want for the merchants, and it is to be regretted that only about seventy of them see the advantages to be gained by membership. The organization has also been very successful in developing trade in this city. It's dollar days have proven to be some of the biggest merchandising times in the city, when both the merchants and the general public benefitted. Now the Association, to protect not only its members, but the buying public who may be imposed upon, is taking up the subject of fake advertisers, and efforts will be made to put all of these people out of business as they attempt to locate here, with bankrupt sales, fire sales, etc.

Plainfield is soon to have another series of services to revive interest in religion. The Episcopal churches of the city are to unite during the eight days beginning February 13, when Rev. Charles E. Woodcock, Bishop of Kentucky, will be in charge of the services. Interest in such meetings is spreading all over the country, and this will be the first big gathering of the kind in Plainfield, and will act as a forerunner to the great series which it is planned to hold later under the joint auspices of all the churches in the city.

George Johnson, of Scotch Plains, has been re-appointed journal clerk of the House of Assembly. Mr. Johnson held the office last year, and his faithful attention to duty earned him the praise of all the members of the House with whom he came in contact, which cannot be said of all legislative employes. We know of no one in Union county better fitted for the place, and extend congratulations to the Republican county committee on renaming Mr. Johnson.

First the State Trust Company tells about it's new building, then the Y. M. C. A. announces that it is going to have a new home. Now the city comes along with information that a city hall is to be built and soon the Daily Press will be announcing its plans for a building. Surely there is to be decided activity in realty in the business section of the city.

There are two things that should have the liberal support of every Plainfielder. One is the Community Christmas plan, and the other is the Red Cross seal sale. Both are for the benefit of the best causes for which appeals are annually made.

GOVERNORS AT CENTENNIAL.

Vincennes, Ind., Dec. 8.—Governor Samuel Ralston, of Indiana, with visiting governors from nearby States will be the honored guests at the celebration which will begin here tomorrow of the hundredth anniversary of Vincennes, which was the territorial capital of Indiana. The first white settlement of the Northwest territory was laid here, and Vincennes was the capital of the big territory that was later divided into the States of Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and a part of Ohio. The centennial celebration will occupy three days, and many events have been arranged by the city and its many organizations.

Off Again, On Again

STRICKLAND W. GILLILAN

Woman's Folly

"When lovely woman stoops to folly"—
Thus sang some gink, when melancholy.
He didn't know whereof he spoke;
This-way-back-yonder writing bloke.

For half the time when women make
You think they're foolish, it's a fake.
You fall for that, and you just bet
A-plenty will be what you get.

For woman is a paradox—
She is insane just like a fox.
She makes you think she "stoops to folly,"
But don't you bite—it's just a jolly!

Finnigin Filosofy

Work

Work is anything you have to do.

It may be something you once wanted to do.

But the minute you begin to have to do it, it's your job.

If it was the other fellow's job—ah, there's the new stunt!

That other fellow don't have anything to do, and gets that much!

While you have to do all this, and you only get this much!

A clerk will holler his head off if he has to go down to the shipping department to tell somebody something and the elevator isn't right there, causing him to have to walk down a whole consecutive flight of stairs.

But let him get out on the golf links that afternoon, or on a dancing floor that night with a covey of frails, and he will travel forty-eight miles by the pedometer and never object.

One is work because he's got to, and the other is play because he gets to.

Lotta difference between get to and got to, isn't there?

Therein lies the essential difference between play and work.

You get to do one and you got to do the other.

While if they were reversed, the kicking would be just as strong, if not more so.

Sanity is only a comparative term.

While insanity is a positive term (sometimes of several years) in a nut college.

When one's kin is involved, it is a relative term.

How It Started

There was a young fellow named Riker
Who, when asked of his girl, "Do you like her?"
Said, "I'd give her my life!"
Then his friend started strife
By sneeringly saying, "You piker!"

An Awful Mix-Up

Not long ago at Madison, S. D., a queer mix-up took place, in the form of a row at a raffle, between True Hackett and Ernest Davis.

With such molly-coddle names as those one would have expected these two young men to have kissed each other fondly on the cheeks and walked about with their arms around each other.

Instead of that, they quarrelled horribly and used shotguns on each other.

For the sake of euphony these young fellows should at least have used rifles at a raffle, if they just had to shoot.

But the whole thing goes to show that the most terrific sacrifice on the part of parents in naming children perfectly genteel, wrist-slapping names, won't do any good.

Blood is thicker than nomenclature.

Very Suggestive

One of these scientific dope-sheeters, who writes all the stuff we don't want to know, says:

"To prevent the loss of a loose finger ring, there has been patented a guard to be fastened inside it and engage the knuckle of the wearer."

If some of these paragraphing smart alecks don't pick up that word "engage" in there, in connection with the word "ring," we shall be profoundly disappointed.

A Hunch

Pemphigus vegitans is a strictly Russian disease on which that nation has an inviolable copyright. Why not let the Germans take it, along with the other unpronounceable things they're said to have captured lately?

The Young Lady Across The Way

We asked the young lady across the way if she believed in the recall and she said she certainly didn't see any reason why a good officer shouldn't have a second term if the people wanted him.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

"All Is Not Cold That Shivers"

THE strongest prop of the "catching cold" delusion to-day is the fact that chills or chilly sensations are so frequently experienced with the onset of pneumonia, bronchitis and coryza ("cold in the head").

But there are plenty of other diseases introduced with chills too. For example, septicemia, or acute blood poisoning, almost invariably begins with chilliness or an actual chill. Malaria, erysipelas and other infections are characterized by chills. A chill is a symptom of infection already consummated, and not a cause of illness.

In the case of influenza or the much too common "cold" the chilly sensations that creep up and down the back at the onset are very clearly due to surface anemia, the blood being temporarily busy elsewhere—at the seat of infection, fighting the germ invasion.

The chill that occurs with the onset of pneumonia is of similar origin. When the chill begins the harm is already done. The pneumonia germs — the pneumococci — have crossed the borderline and planted a colony of foot soldiers on the battlefield. The system naturally rebels; all available blood is rushed to the scene of hostilities at once; this leaves the skin surface temporarily unsupplied with warm blood, and the patient begins to shiver—convulsed in the throes of battle. In children an actual convulsion may occur instead of a mere chill.

But a chill is a favorable sign once infection has occurred. It signifies that the blood is at least putting up a determined resistance. In alcoholics, debilitated old people and others below par, the chill is conspicuously wanting, and the outlook is accordingly more serious.

Chill means internal congestion. The illness may stop there if the individual's resistance is strong and the infection not too virulent. But whatever the result the fact remains that all is not "cold" that shivers. The chill is a symptom—the first gun of the battle perhaps—but never of itself a cause of illness.

Questions and Answers

Edward S. W. asks:—Is the finding of tuberculosis germs in the sputum the earliest sign of consumption?

Answer—No. Incipient tuberculosis of the lungs may be diagnosed long before any bacilli are discovered in the sputum.

T. P. writes:—My little boy, aged three, has frequent attacks of feverishness and upset stomach, and I always note that his breath has a peculiar heavy, sweetish odor, even before the feverishness comes on. My mother insists this means worms. What would be your opinion? The boy generally gets well in a day or so, after he has a good dose of castor oil.

Answer—It may be worms—say, one chance in fifty that it is worms—but the other forty-nine chances are that it is simply intestinal indigestion produced by errors of diet. The sweet breath is characteristic of the acid fermentation going on in stomach and bowel. Spare the poor child the castor oil; give him milk of magnesia instead—it's easy to take and neutralizes fermentative acids besides; and then it won't constipate him next day.

PREACHERS

A PREACHER is a man who talks to a congregation for two hours each Sunday and spends the week days heartening up his flock for the next installment.

Preachers are supposed to be exceedingly holy men who set a pattern of righteousness for the world to follow. There is a very general belief that if our preachers are good enough it doesn't make much difference what the rest of us do. It is really amazing to see how interested the world is in the goodness of a minister and how nobly it stands back and refrains from competing with him in this field. Thousands of men who are perfectly satisfied with escaping the gallows themselves will worry for hours at a time over the imperfections of the preachers and will even refuse a drink while absorbed in making suggestions for their improvement. In fact, our ambition for the goodness of preachers is boundless. If only we can have perfect preachers, we will cheerfully wallow in wrongdoing ourselves. The world records no more startling unselfishness.

Preachers go to divinity schools while quite young, and there learn all about the world and mankind up to 1,900 years ago. Armed with this knowledge, they are given a congregation which knows all about the world from yesterday to to-morrow. The result is usually a draw in 1,111 rounds. The duties of the average preacher are to preach twice a week, to attend half a dozen miscellaneous meetings, to drum up attendance, to visit all his parishioners an equal number of times during the year, to kiss fifty brides of various ages per annum, to illuminate sick rooms, to beat the undertaker to the house of death and run a tie race with him at each funeral, to support a wife and a black frock coat, to say nothing of several children, and to give liberally to all foreign and domestic missions and to do all this on Faith, Hope and Charity, along with as much of a salary of $600 a year as he can collect himself. A great many thousands of ministers are doing all this successfully. The preacher is, in fact, almost the only man who is not partly responsible for the high cost of living.

A great many very smart young men who are making $3,000 a year and are sitting up late at night in order to spend it all on themselves, are inclined to make fun of the poor and peaceful preacher who never goes to prize fights and horse races and who leads such an ingloriously unexciting life.

Views Of The Press

English Finances

ARNOLD BENNETT is one of the most vigorous opponents of conscription. He asserts that "the essential character of the war, after fourteen months, is plain. It is a war of obstinacy. It is a war of sticking to it." Therefore, instead of recruiting new armies, England should devote her energies to curtailing expenses, to husbanding resources.

There appears to be sense in this argument. The present demand for a minimum of 35,000 recruits a day will certainly add much to England's financial burden. In view of the apparent military situation it may not accomplish commensurate results. The resources of England are great, but she is already supporting an army of 3,000,000 men and is sending supplies to a like number of allied soldiers. Mr. Bennett sums up the matter as follows:

The war is costing Germany, with a population of 70,000,000, £4,000,000 a day, or 1s. 1½d. per day per head. It is costing us, with a population of 45,000,000, £5,000,000 a day, or 2s. 3d. per head. Our burden is thus double Germany's already. For heaven's sake, let us absorb this simple fact into our intelligence, and then remember that the recruitment now being asked for involves ultimately a further discrepancy between income and expenditure of considerably over £1,000,000 a day.

It is true that, in spite of opening new trade channels, England is importing far more than she exports. Mr. Bennett says that there is not sufficient British gold to pay for half of what is being bought from foreign nations. So England must ultimately pay her bills with exports. If the discrepancy between imports and exports reaches too high a figure, England will have to keep her creditors waiting so long that they will refuse to sell. Apparently money is more important than men to the cause of England; unless the British General Staff has in preparation a military "coup" of which the world knows nothing.—Rochester Democrat.

People, Just The Same

BY CARL CROW

The Socialists of Chaco

AMONG the large number of Indian tribes which live in the Gran Chaco, an alluvial plain on the Paraguay River, is the Lenguas, a tribe which for centuries has practised a primitive but practical form of Socialism. In the territory occupied by the tribe all of the land is held to be common property, not even the chief having any special proprietary interest in it. Certain tracts are occupied by families or individuals and worked by them, but aside from feeding the immediate members of the family with what is produced, the occupant is not allowed to have any special title to the food produced. If he has a bountiful crop the surplus goes into the common fund to feed those who have been less fortunate or the ones who are too old to work the fields.

The same rules apply to all property held by the tribe. The hunter, after a successful day, divides his spoil with those who have no meat, and the fisherman returning with a full string shares his catch with others of the village. Even the products of the native artisan are treated in the same way. The weaver and the potter supply the village with blankets and with pots, and in compensation receive their food and shelter. Any attempt on the part of a member of the tribe to build a hut any larger or finer than that possessed by his neighbor is frowned upon, and even the chief is compelled to live like the ordinary people, being allowed only certain distinctions in dress.

Though living only a short distance from the cultivated people of Paraguay, the Lenguas, like many other Chico tribes, have had little intercourse with foreigners, and bitterly resent the intrusion of a stranger into the swampy country which forms their domain. They are believed to be the descendants of the ancient Incas, for, despite the fact that the only country they know is a swamp with no towns and no permanent buildings, their legends tell of a hilly country and of large towns built with brick and with paved streets. This is believed to refer to the ancient Inca cities from which ancestors of this tribe were driven in warfare.

They are the slaves of a number of revolting superstitions, some of which, strangely enough, are based on a fine conception of sentiment. For instance when the mother of an infant dies, they bury the baby with her, so that the mother will not be lonely in spirit land. They believe that if this is not done the anguished soul of the mother will come back to haunt them.

The Lenguas are very conservative and cling persistently to their ideas of Socialism, and are slow to take up with any foreign innovations. In the past few years a number of useful articles of foreign manufacture have been introduced, but they insist on forming names of their own for the strange articles, instead of adopting the foreign name into their language. Thus a churn is known to them by a native name, which is translated into "The beater of the juice of the udder of the cow."

(This is the first of a series of splendid articles, original, intensely interesting, and upon a theme never dealt with before, which will appear shortly in this department. Watch for these articles. They will interest you.)

Current Poetry

The Key

Just Love and I,
We two:
But we can make
Old Fate undo
The knots and tangles he has tied so tight,
Bring out his lantern to illume the night,
For you, Love, you can charm him,
I can sue.

Just Love and I Alone,
But we can draw
From the tense string
The music they had thought forever stilled,
Brim the bright cup so long had been unfilled,
For you, Love, you can play
And I can sing.

Just Love and I,
Just we
Can quite forget
Sardonic circumstance,
Smile at the sneer of envy, pity those Whose arid lives are like the scentless rose,
For you, Love, you can laugh
And I can dance.

Just Love and I
Can give
All that we have
From day to day.
Can brave the things that hurt, the words that burn,
Pour out our treasure, asking no return,
For you, Love, you can wait
And I can pray.

Just Love, not I,
Just Love,
Can be so dear
That in surprise
Hearts cold shall throb with tenderest desire
To make a place for others by the fire.
In love, just love, alone,
The secret lies.

Great Love, if I Could do
Such miracles,
Or once be Thee
But for an hour—each door would I unbar
And show the glory of all souls that are;
For even to this, Great Love
Doth hold the key.

Pepper Talks

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Edge

The difference between the Other Fellow's Success and your Failure is, after all, probably, but a question of Edge.

In fact something like the Edge of the razor that is carefully stropped each time before using, and the one that is only occasionally stropped—the former bringing satisfaction and pleasure to the user, the latter but irritation and complaint.

Edge is just that little almost unexplainable something that sets off the man of dominant power and personality—Edge is Happy-Ability, Winning-Ability—Edge is Leadership.

The way you start your day has everything to do with the sort of Edge you create for the result of your day. Smiling into the face of the first hour, and entering it cheerFULL—that's giving Edge the correct chance.

You can never afford to neglect presenting the finest possible Edge to the everyday world that watches you and which expects so much of you. You can never afford not to appear to be at your very BEST—Edge Best.

A presidential campaign no longer upsets finance and industry. It is only the man who claims to be the champion roller skater of the world who needs to worry about the future of his business.

The case of the Illinois millionaire who wanted to marry his niece also establishes the fact that, occasionally, there is a man who doesn't hate his relatives.

OPPENHEIM-COLLINS STORE A CENTRE OF ATTRACTION

The attention of gift-givers is called to the splendid varieties of waists, silk petticoats, negligees, handkerchiefs, neckwear, furs, etc., at Oppenheim-Collins' store at Broad and William streets, Newark. This concern has built up a reputation in Newark and may have in New York and other centres for high-class goods at moderate prices. The Oppenheim-Collins windows reflect every fad and fashion for women, misses and children. Just now stocks are complete with staple and many special articles appropriate to the holidays. A shopping visit to Newark is not complete without an inspection of this store.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"Oriental Night" at the Plainfield Theatre, last night, proved to be a tremendous success and as a result Manager Shannon has arranged for another one to take place next week. It will embody several new features but will in the main be the same as the initial effort.

The vaudeville bill which has been holding the boards since Monday will give way tomorrow to an entire change of six acts. The headliner is announced as "The Macy Models," a company of ten, presenting a song and dance offering with six handsomely gowned girls as the big feature. They are said to be vaudeville's prettiest "Bunch of femininity," and being gifted with charming voices delight everybody with their budget of songs. The other acts on the program will be in keeping with the feature number in order to give a well balanced bill.

At all performances tomorrow afternoon and night, the continuation of the serial film, "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," will be shown. Friday night, the biggest thing of the week "The Country Store," will be given as usual and all attending will have a chance to be glad they came. Mae Robson and her company presenting "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," has been booked at the Plainfield next Monday, and in order to give the regular patrons an opportunity of seeing it a bargain matinee will be given Monday afternoon.

There have been some very strange meals eaten on the stage in full view of the audience, but probably the most famously comical one is served in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," of the big revival May Robson is making, coming to the Plainfield Theatre on Monday, December 13, matinee and night. The meal is dinner and there is much pomp of dress and of table decorations. And this is what they eat: Grape fruit, oyster cocktail, consomme, soft shell crabs. This they irrigate with real champagne. After the dinner they go automobiling and then to a roof garden. After which you'll agree it's no wonder "Aunt Mary" has things go to her head and needs something that comes in a blue bottle and fizzes when you drink it, before she can face life and reality again the next morning. Youth and the drama are wonderfully brave things.

BOARD MEETS AGAIN.

New York, Dec. 8.—Thomas A Edison and his fellow members of the Naval Consulting Board are today holding their second meeting in this city, and the various measures and lines of endeavor which they are advocating will be polished up. Further ideas are expected to develop concerning the proposed research laboratory for the navy, which was advocated unanimously at the first meeting, held two months ago in Washington. Just where such a workshop should be placed and how it should be managed so as to maintain strict secrecy, are matters that may be urged for discussion by the new Board.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 30 degrees; 11 a. m., 32 degrees; 1 p. m., 35 degrees.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache, no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.—Adv.

BABCOCK IN RACE FOR PRESIDENT

Reported Combination of His Friends Not Verified, However.

COUNCIL CAUCUS SOON

Blatz and Edgar Have Also Been Mentioned and One of Three is Sure to Be Next Leader—They Make No Comment.

Through a reported combination of his friends the name of Juan A. Babcock, councilman-at-large, has been projected into the race for president of the Plainfield Common Council making a total of three who are at least in a receptive mood.

Mr. Babcock said this morning that he was a candidate for the office, but that he knew of no caucus of those who wanted him to seek it. He declared that he would not ask for the support of any member, but that if his name was placed before the Council he would not withdraw it and that if any member cared to vote for him he would consider the vote as an honor.

A caucus will be held some time this month to decide upon the man who is to be president of the body during next year. Just when this caucus will be called cannot be said. The election is to be the first Monday in the next year, at the regular meeting of the Common Council.

According to a report that has gained some circulation five council men have agreed to vote for Mr. Babcock, which would give him a majority of one, provided he votes for himself; but at least one of those said to have entered into the combination this morning denied that he was a party to the agreement, and it is evident that the race has not been settled.

Councilman Francis J. Blatz announced himself as a candidate for the presidency some time ago, and Councilman Edgar, of the First ward has also been mentioned in connection with the race. Neither man would make any comment on the story of a Babcock combination this morning.

The councilmanic caucus will probably be held within another week and until that time no definite announcement as to the next president can be made.

KING'S DAUGHTERS MAKE DONATION TO CHARITY

At the meeting of Brightside Circle, King's Daughters, held at the home of Mrs. C. Frank French, of 25 Washington avenue, yesterday, three Christmas appropriations were made. Collection cards were distributed for the benefit of the fund for the new clinic at the Day Nursery.

Reading and informal discussion also was held, and the women did some sewing for the poor. The next meeting will be held on January 12, at the home of the Misses Claypoole, of Mountain avenue.

DUNELLEN STORE IS THREATENED BY BLAZE

Fire caused by an over-heated stove in the back room of the store of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company at Dunellen, Tuesday night, was prevented from doing much damage by the timely discovery of the blaze by Lawrence Saunders, one of the night bakers at George Zink's bakery, which adjoins the tea store.

Mr. Saunders promptly gave an alarm and the local department responded quickly, extinguishing the fire before it had gained much headway.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY TO GIVE COMEDY PLAYLET

"Snobson's Stag Party" is the title of the comedy playlet to be presented in St. Joseph's Hall, Monday night, under the auspices of the St. Joseph's Club and Holy Name Society of the church. The play which has been coached for the past month by Miss May O'Connor promises to be a highly pleasing riot of fun from the first roll of the curtain until the last. Following the presentation the audience will adjourn to Debele's auditorium where a reception and dance will be tendered the young people and refreshments served.

"THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE."

"The Battle Cry of Peace," the masterpiece in photoplays, attracted a capacity audience to Proctor's theatre last night. All were thrilled by the stirring scenes. The picture will be repeated tonight.

CHRISTMAS SALE AE ALL SOULS' CHURCH

Two Days' Affair Opened This Afternoon With Many Novel Attractions.

The two-day Christmas sale at All Saints' Unitarian church began this afternoon at 2 o'clock and will conclude at six. The affair is given under the auspices of the women of the church. Their stock, which was well patronized this afternoon, includes the usual fancy articles, artistic reed baskets and tooled leather work. The sale will continue tomorrow. Miss Edith Leonard, who is the general chairman, has the following women assisting her at the various tables:

FAINTS WHEN TOLD OF ACQUITTAL BY JURY

Somerville, Dec. 9.—Michael Bruno, who was tried for the murder of C. Gimbino, was found not guilty last night by a jury in the District Court.

F. A. Pope was counsel for the accused. Upon being told of the verdict Bruno fainted while in jail. About fifty or sixty friends and relatives rejoiced over the acquittal of Bruno in a demonstration on the court house lawn.

MRS. NEWTON H. SAXTON'S FUNERAL LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral service for Mrs. Newton H. Saxton was held at the home on West Eighth street, this afternoon, and was in charge of the Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Mrs. Saxton had been a member for many years. Her sudden death on Monday followed an attack of acute indigestion on Saturday, and was a great shock to her many friends, who had known her to be so well recently after a severe illness of rheumatism four years ago.

Mrs. Saxton, who was Miss Margaret Elliott was a member of one of Plainfield's older families, of which there are remaining her sister, Mrs. Catherine L. Randolph and two brothers, Elston S. Elliott, of this city and Benjamin G. Elliott, of Scotch Plains. In her immediate family Mrs. Saxton leaves a husband, one daughter, Mrs. Jessie Clark, and three grandchildren, Elliott and Margaret Clark and Elston Apgar, whose mother, Mrs. Jennie M. Apgar, died about nine years ago. The break in the home circle, of which she was the beloved center, is deeply felt. The pallbearers at today's service were Frederic J. Harris, George T. Harris, George W. Harris, R. B. Manning, Edward Boice and Samuel Dayton.

WILL TELL OF ORIENT.

T. Guthrie Speers, who has just returned from an eight months' trip in the Orient, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Westminster Guild of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Monday afternoon, December 13, at 3 o'clock, in the church parlors. Mr. Speers was one of the party which accompanied Dr. Robert Speer, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, on his recent missionary tour in Siam, the Philippines, Japan, Korea and China, and has a most interesting story to tell of his varied and unique experiences in all these countries. A cordial invitation is extended to all who would care to attend and the Guild hopes it may welcome many from other churches.

CONFERENCE OF OFFICIALS.

There is still a congestion of freight traffic on the New Jersey Central and the situation has become so perplexing that a conference of railroad officials was held yesterday at Jersey City to discuss plans of relief.

FIRE LADDIES BREAK RECORD FOR ALARMS

City Department Has Already Responded to 200 Calls of All Kinds During 1915.

The alarm for the fire in Pantanzi Brothers' store on Park avenue, yesterday morning, was exactly the 200th to which the local department has answered since January first, a figure which breaks all previous records. The previous high water mark for alarms was made last year when the men went out on 176 telephone and box calls. The record for 1915 is all the more worthy of note when it is taken into consideration that this is the first year that the regular paid men have worked alone. The old call system with its volunteers and steam gong went out of existence on January first last.

The men at headquarters have borne the brunt of all the alarms, answering a large percentage of the total number, and the fact that no blaze has been a serious one entitles them to all the more credit. In many cases fires in the business district started out to be highly damaging blazes, but the good work of Chief Doane and his men held them down to a minimum. This is particularly so in the cases of the Adelberg store and the Thompson garage last winter, and the Woolston & Buckle blaze on North avenue last month. A few minutes more headway in each instance and Plainfielders would have had another big conflagration to talk about much the same as the old-timers do now about the Cook, Boice, Runyon, Babcock, Bard Cycle and other memorable "shines."

The complete report of the fire department's doings will be submitted to the Common Council at the last meeting this month and it will show how many of their 200 alarms were from boxes and how many from other sources. The box percentage is big and will show better than anything else just what good work the fire laddies have been doing since the call system was given up.

MANGINO HELD IN HEAVY BAIL FOR GRAND JURY

Jimmy Mangino, who was arrested in New Brunswick, Tuesday night, on a warrant from Plainfield, was arraigned before Judge William De Meza in police court this morning on a charge of having brought a woman from that city here for immoral purposes. Mangino was held for the Union county court under a $2,000 bond, which he could not make. He recently brought Mary Manahan to Plainfield. Mangino escaped when local policemen attempted to arrest him. The girl was sent back home. He has been indicted, but Judge De Meza was not in possession of the indictment and he was forced to allow bond in the case.

"PAGEANT OF THE MONTHS" TO BE GIVEN BY CHILDREN

"A Pageant of the Months" is to be presented by the school children, under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee, in the High School Auditorium on Wednesday evening December 22. It is said that this production will be even more delightful than the "Pied Piper of Hamelin," which was presented by the committee last year. More than one hundred and twenty-five girls and boys will take part. The costumes, dances, drills and color scheme will represent the spirit of the seasons, and will be woven around Cristine Rossetti's poem, "The Months."

Robin red breasts, snowdrops, violets, roses, autumn leaves and brownies will appear in their given seasons, and at the end a Christmas tree will delight the little folk. On Tuesday afternoon, December 21, a matinee will be given for the children, and the schools are to be closed that afternoon, so that as many children as wish to may attend.

WHY WALTER SMILES.

Walter Zimmer, the expert in charge of the new automobile apparatus at No. 3 firehouse on West Fourth street, has been wearing a broad smile since yesterday. A fine baby boy arrived at his home on Bergen avenue, Jersey City, Tuesday night, Mr. Zimmer has since been holding an informal reception at the firehouse and all callers are receiving cigars.

DEATH OF INFANT SON.

John Russo, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Russo, of South Plainfield, died yesterday. The funeral was held this morning and burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

CORONER CALLED BUT DEAD MAN REVIVES

Daniel Van Orden Wakes up in Time to Fool the Undertaker.

An undertaker, the coroner and a police sergeant on a murder assignment, were all disappointed about 7:30 last night, when they were called to the residence of Daniel Van Orden, 538 West Fourth street. It was reported that Van Orden was dead, and because of the manner in which the report was received at police headquarters, it was believed that an investigation should be made.

County Physician F. W. Westcott and Undertaker Higgins were notified and Sergeant O'Keefe was sent to the house. When the police officer arrived he found an ambulance backed up in front of the Van Orden home. The man was not dead, but had fallen in an attack of heart failure. He was taken to the hospital and is in a serious condition. The undertaker and coroner were notified that the man who sent in the call was precipitate.

Van Orden is at Muhlenberg Hospital and there is little hope for his recovery. Van Orden is well known in this city. He is a veteran of the Civil War.

CONTRIBUTIONS ARE NEARING $500 MARK

Everyone Urged to Lend Their Support to the Community Christmas Fund.

Contributions for the Community Christmas Fund continue to reach Treasurer DeWitt Hubbell at the Plainfield Trust Company, the sum now approaching the $500 mark. With nearly every contribution comes a letter endorsing the movement, and usually expressing the regret of the writer that the check is not larger.

But the mail received by Mr. Hubbell sometimes contains a communication that is not so cheerful. This morning he received one from a woman who lives in this city, who said that she had five children, the oldest twelve and the youngest five months; that her husband had been out of work much of the time for a year and that the children would welcome any kind of a Christmas that the good people of Plainfield might send them as she was unable to provide anything. The children will not be forgotten.

Additional contributions since the list printed yesterday include those of the Business Men's Association, who sent $25; Mrs. Emily W. Parmly, the Misses McIntosh, Charlotte O. Lyon, M. C. CanArsdale, O. G. Waring and Harry L. Terry. The purchasing and finance committees of the Community Christmas met last night and completed details for their work.

WILL PRAY FOR PEACE.

The rectors of the Episcopal churches of the city and borough today received from Bishop Paul Matthews a letter setting aside Friday, December 17, and Sunday, December 19, as days for special services, prayers and sermons in the interest of world peace. Copies of this letter have been sent to all churches in the diocese, it being planned to hold united services on the days mentioned.

STRAUS SUCCEEDS McCALL.

Albany, Dec. 9.—Governor Whitman announced today that he had appointed Oscar Straus as chairman of the Public Service Commission of the First District to succeed Edward E. McCall, removed.

SAYS BLACK HANDS FOLLOWED HIM HERE

Fireman at Saurer Plant Believes He Has Been Marked for Death.

Seeking protection from an Italian "Black Hand" band, George Morris, employed as a fireman at the Saurer plant, called at the office of Mayor Calkins this morning to secure permission to go armed.

Morris told a hair-raising story of having been followed to many eastern cities by the "Black Hand" avengers, who seek to punish him, he says, for preventing one of their number from committing a murder in Greenwich, Conn., many months ago. He says that he left Greenwich to escape them, but that they followed him to Wilmington, Del., to Philadelphia, and then to Plainfield.

Morris told Mayor Calkins that the "Black Hand" band had sworn to get him and that he believed they would make an attempt to kill him some night when he was alone in the Saurer plant. He said that his photograph has been sent broadcast over the land by the offender clan in Greenwich and that he was a marked man wherever he went.

Mayor Calkins heard the young man through but refused the permit on the grounds that such matters should come to him through the general manager of the plant. Morris said that he would leave Plainfield within a short time if the Italians did not desist in their attempts to kill him.

He gained the enmity of the blackhanders some time ago when he caught an Italian who was trying to kill another one with a knife and held him, preventing the crime, he says. This happened in Greenwich, Conn., and since then he has been marked for death. He says that a number of Italians working with him have been watching him closely and that while they have not made an attack upon him he is convinced that he has had several narrow escapes from death.

DAMAGE SUIT GOES OVER UNTIL NEXT WEDNESDAY

Because of the absence of a witness the suit of Mrs. Marie J. Lacour against Mrs. Bertha M. Cohn was continued when called this morning in the district court. Mrs. Lacour is asking $300 as damages for personal injuries received when a jitney bus belonging to Mrs. Cohn ran up on the sidewalk in front of Mrs. Lacour's home on Somerset street and struck her. She was engaged in sweeping the walk when she was knocked down and as a result of the accident she sustained a sprained ankle and other slight injuries. Attorney Francis J. Blatz represents the complainant and Attorney Martin Stutsman the defendant in the suit. The case was continued for one week.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION TO GIVE A RECEPTION

The nnual reception and dance of the Plainfield High School Alumni Association will be held in the Plainfield High School auditorium on Tuesday night, December 28. The entertainment is arranged for the holiday season in order that many of the members home for the Christmas vacation may have the opportunity of renewing old acquaintances at their Alma Mater. The committee in charge of the affair are making elaborate preparations for the event and promise it to be the biggest that the association has ever held. Tickets for the dance may be secured from the secretary of the association, Miss Marian C. Carman.

The High School alumni has undertaken the task of raising $1,000 for use of the High School pupils next fall, and with the annual bills for dues sent out by the secretary, this notice is incorporated. At the present time several thousand dollars are outstanding as a result of the big demand in recent years for small sums on long time loans for help in pursuing educational courses beyond the high school. It is for the purpose of being able to meet demands of this nature next year that an effort is being made at this time to secure additional funds.

CENTRAL LODGE TO ELECT.

Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., will hold an important meeting this evening. Among other business to be transacted will be the annual election of officers for the ensuing year.

PRESENT YOUR BILLS.

All bills against the city must be presented to the city clerk by Monday night to insure payment at the next meeting of the City Council.

MISS M'DONALD GETS PHONOGRAPH

Squire Debbie Grows Weary of Waiting Decision of County School Authorities.

A phonograph which caused a dispute last summer at the graduation exercises of the Diamond Hill school, near Stony Hill, since closed, has been given into the keeping of Miss Camilla MacDonald, a teacher and one of the claimants, by Squire Simon P. Debbie, a former school commissioner, who confiscated the machine in behalf of Miss MacDonald. Mr. Debbie said he was weary of waiting for the decision of County Superintendent of Schools A. L. Johnson, of Union county, to whom the question of ownership had been referred.

Miss MacDonald by starting a subscription list and holding entertainments raised the funds for the machine to be used in the school. When it was announced that the school was to be closed the question of who was to get the machine arose. Acting for the Board of Education, Pincipal William Woodruff appeared at the closing exercises and announced that it was not to be taken from the building.

Mr. Debbie addressed the people in the school and after rehearsing the facts asked them who, in their opinion, should have the phonograph. The vote favored Miss MacDonald and Mr. Debbie loaded the machine on his wagon and took it home. Counsel was engaged to determine the ownership of the phonograph by litigation, but it was agreed to arbitrate by asking Mr. Johnson to decide. Having had the phonograph six months Mr. Debbie decided to wait no longer and shipped it to Miss MacDonald.

WEST END CIVIC CLUB GETS A STATE CHARTER

Trenton, Dec. 9.—A charter of incorporation was this morning granted to the West End Civic Association of Plainfield. The purpose of the incorporated body, as set out in the application to the Secretary of State, is to improve public affairs and the condition of citizens in the city of Plainfield, and especially that section lying west of Plainfield avenue. Incorporators are William J. Boyd, Thomas O'Neil, Charles A. Wright, Frank S. Powers and John J. Carroll.

JUNIOR CLUB'S GUESTS ENJOY EVENING OF CARDS

The Junior O. U. A. M. Club held the second of its series of monthly euchre and pinochle parties in the Junior clubhouse on East Front street, last night. Fifty persons were in attendance and enjoyed the card playing until a late hour, at the conclusion of which refreshments were served and an informal program of music was rendered. Prizes were awarded the winners of both the euchre and pinochle games which were played in progressive form. Similar social affairs are to be held by the club on the second Wednesday of each month during the winter.

The committee in charge of last night's affair was composed of Clinton F. Firstbrook, chairman; Frank Farnham, Thomas Leacock, Charles Davie and William J. Hartpence.

NOTED SOLOISTS TO SING.

The "Messiah," which is to be given Tuesday evening, December 14, at the High School Auditorium, promises to surpass anything given by the Choral Society. The Recreation Committee has been most fortunate in procuring one of the best oratorio soloists in the country. Dan Beddoe, the tenor soloist, has sung in the principal musical festivals in the United States and Canada and is one of the foremost oratorio singers of the day. Tickets are on sale or may be exchanged for reserved seats at Miller's drug store.

TAKES POSITION AT SAURER'S

Michael Corcoran, formerly chauffeur for A. M. Harris, of Central avenue, has taken a position in the Saurer plant of the International Motor Company.

RETURN FROM THE SHORE.

Councilman and Mrs. A. D. Edgar of East First street, who have been spending ten days at Atlantic City, have returned home.

Mrs. Samuel J. Robinson, of West Third street, who has been seriously ill for some time, will undergo an operation within the next few days.

Jens Claassen, of Liberty street, who had his right eye removed last week following an automobile accident, is able to be about again and will shortly return to his duties at fire headquarters.

GERMANY NOT TO PROPOSE PEACE

Suggestions Must Come From the Allies, Says Official Statement.

BOAST OF SUCCESSES

England Recognizes Demand of American Shippers in Agreeing to Note of President Wilson on Hocking Case.

Berlin, Dec. 9 (wireless).—Germany will make no peace proposals to the Allies, but if the Entente Powers offer terms compatible with Germany's dignity and safety, the German Government is willing to discuss them, Imperial Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg so announced in the Reichstag today. The Chancellor continued: "Fully conscious of our unbroken military successes we shall decline to accept responsibility for continuation of the misery which now fills Europe and the whole world. Nobody can say that we continue the war because we want to conquer this or that country."

The Berlin debate in the Reichstag was opened by Dr. Scheidmann, the Socialist leader, who at the end of the short address interpollated the government as follows, "Is the Imperial Chancellor ready to give information as to the conditions under which he would be willing to enter into peace negotiations?" The Chancellor responded, "This joy is incomprehensible after the successes which we have gained against Serbia, after opening the road toward our Turkish ally and after threatening the most vulnerable points of the British Empire. Although this situation would explain our enemies' desire for peace none of them has made overtures. They rather cling to the intentions which they publicly had announced at the beginning of the war." Referring to England's assertions that Alsace, Lorraine, must be restored to France, the Chancellor asked, "Does the English Colonal Secretary know that of the 1,900,000 inhabitants of Alsace more than 87 per cent. speak German as their mother tongue? Does Poland by right of nationality belong to Russia? Does the principle of nationality lose power and value if applied to India and Egypt?"

England Agrees to U. S. Note.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Great Britain today notified the State Department that the request of the United States regarding the ships Hocking and Genesee will be acceded to. "The vessels will not be requisitioned until after the formal Prize Court proceedings and other vessels of the American registry will not be requisitioned until a prize court establishes the validity of Great Britin's actions toward the Wagner ship, the Hocking and the Genesee. Ambassador Page at London notified Secretary Lansing of this action of the British Foreign Office today. It is a complete surrender to the American contention which held that no vessel could be requisitioned without formal action by the Prize Court. Should the Prize Court confirm the requisition the State Department may contest the case further through the recognized channels of International Law.

Mackensen Aids Turks.

Rome, Dec. 9.—The Mattino's correspondent at Saloniki wires that Field Marshal Von Mackensen has arrived at Constantinople. He also states that a battery of Austrian eleven inch mortars has been placed by the Turks in the Dardanelles to aid in the defense of the Straits.

Cunard Steamer Sunk.

London, Dec. 9.—The Cunard steamer Veria, 3,229 tons, and the Goulundris have been sunk, presumably by submarines. The crew of the Veria was saved.

Russ Officer In Paris.

Paris, Dec. 9.—Admiral Roussine, chief of the Russian naval staff, and eight other Russian officers have arrived here. The Admiral will represent Russia at the sessions of the Allied War Council.

French Blow Up Depot.

Paris, Dec. 9.—In Champagne in the course of the night our artillery continuing its bombardment of German positions, blew up an ammunition depot to the south of Saint Souplet. Our counter attacks to the east of the Butte of Souain continued to roll back the enemy which now holds only a part of the advanced trench which has been completely smashed. Our batteries by their constant fire preventing the enemy from establishing himself there. In the Argonne we blew up successfully two mines in the region of Haute Chevauchee.

The following report on operations at the Dardennels also was given out: "On December 6 the effective fire of our trench machines made a break in

BIG BROTHERS' CLASS BANQUET A SUCCESS

The annual banquet of the Big Brothers' class of the First Baptist Sunday-school, held in the Sunday-school room of the church last night was a successful affair. Including the members of the class and their friends there were forty present. Following the dinner there was a pleasing and entertaining program comprising speeches by Rev. E. C. Conover, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, of Plainfield, and Frederick Glaser, of Somerville, and two violin solos by Archie LaRue, the local artist.

REV. T. E. VASSAR WILL OFFICIATE AT FUNERAL

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Johnson, aged 62, who died on Monday after a lingering illness of five weeks from paralysis, will be held at the late home on North avenue, at 2 o'clock, tomorrow afternoon. The officiating clergyman will be Rev. T. E. Vassar, pastor of the First Baptist church, of New Market. The pallbearer will be John P. Hill, W. R. Hetfield, Joseph Penrose, Sr., and Charles Debele. Interment will be at Hillside cemetery, Plainfield.

Mrs. Johnson came to Dunellen five years ago from Clinton, where she was born. Her husband, Peter Johnson, died at Clinton twelve years ago. The deceased was beloved by all who knew her for her genial disposition. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Penrose, Jr., of New Market, and Mrs. Samuel Hoffman, of this place; three sons, George and Lewis, of this place, and William, of Leighton, Pa.; two sisters, Mrs. Catherine Winger, of Clinton, and Mrs. Mary Carr, of Washington, N. J.; three brothers, Moses and Peter Hand, of North Hampton Pa., and John and Willis Hand, of Hampton Junction.

TEN INCIPIENT CASES

It is reported that additional cultures taken of the pupils in attendance at the local school have revealed ten more incipient cases of diphtheria. As far as could be learned yesterday only one definite case, viz. that of Burtis Stillwaggon, has developed out of the eighteen cases reported by the State Board of Health two weeks ago tomorrow. That the village would now have a severe epidemic if the local Health Board had not profited by its former experience and delayed action upon the signs of a new outbreak is apparent to all.

Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. is making preparations for the celebration of its twenty-fifth anniversary to be held in Friendship Hall on Tuesday evening December 14.

Margaret Barrett observed her seventh birthday anniversary on Saturday.

Betram Voorhees is detained at home by illness.

Mrs. Charles S. Day is visiting friends in New York city.

SUBSTITUTE TEACHER.

Miss Mary Smith, of the Stelton road, is substituting for Miss Chimer teacher of the fourth and fifth grades of the village school, who has an incipient case of diphtheria and is under observation.

ALUMNAE LUNCHEON.

Miss Ethel Conover, one of the teachers of the village school, has made arrangements to attend the alumni luncheon given at Barnard College, New York city, Saturday. In the afternoon she will attend a play given by the "Wigs and Cues," a society of the college.

NARROWLY ESCAPES DROWNING

Edward Stillwaggon, son of Alexander Stillwaggon, had a narrow escape from drowning while skating on the thin ice which has covered the pond. The ice broke and he would have gone under but for the timely assistance of some boy companions.

Mrs. Raymond Hamley, of Washington avenue, is suffering from laryngitis.

STEWART THOMPSON IMPROVES.

Stewart Thompson, son of Mrs. H. D. Thompson, of Prospect avenue, is improving nicely, following an operation on his knee Tuesday. The knee was injured by a fall a week ago Wednesday.

Mrs. Lydia Vail, of Lincoln avenue entertained Miss Katherine Homler of Phillipsburg, yesterday. Today Miss Homler is being entertained by Mrs. Edgar Shively, of Lincoln avenue.

Catharine Maier, daughter of Joseph Maier, of North avenue, is ill with the grip.

MRS. JENNINGS ILL.

Mrs. Charles Jennings, of Front street, has been ill since last Thursday with a nervous breakdown. She was threatened with pneumonia, but all danger from that source appears to have passed.

Mrs. A. J. Meyers, of Washington avenue, continues to improve at Brookside Sanatorium from her recent operation. The family now thinks that she will be able to come home in time for Christmas.

Miss Belle Stites, daughter of Tax Collector Stites, is doing very nicely in the Muhlenberg Hospital following her second operation Saturday for mastoiditis.

J. P. FABER RETURNS.

John P. Faber, of Washington avenue, was brought home by taxi from St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, yesterday. Several weeks ago Mr. Faber underwent a critical operation for stomach trouble. His recovery has been rapid.

DEPUTY SHERIFF IN ARIZ.

J. E. Dix, of Center street, is anticipating a visit from his cousin, Mrs Lucretia Roberts, of Arizona. Mrs. Roberts is one of the deputy sheriffs of the county in which she lives. She has the distinction of being the only woman who has held such a position in the history of her State.

Wilbur Hayes, of New Market road, submitted to an operation yesterday afternoon on his foot, which was injured several weeks ago, when a timber fell on it while he was at work on the new Grove street bridge, Plainfield.

Walter Doyle, of Front street, came home today from the Muhlenberg Hospital, where he submitted to an operation for appendicitis two weeks ago.

Virginius Smedley, of Prospect avenue, is confined to his home with the grip.

MUST REPAIR STREETS.

The H. K. Corbin Company, the sewer contractors, have been notified by the Borough Council to have all the roads, gutters, crosswalks, etc., restored to the condition in which they were in before the sewer work started by January 1, 1916, the date on which their contract for completing the sewer work expires.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Kennedy, of Plainfield, have been spending the week in the borough, the guests of Mrs. Ella Kennedy, of Washington avenue.

HAND IS INFECTED.

Charles Dunham, of Walnut street, who is employed in the switch tower of the Central Railroad, at this place, is incapacitated with an infected right hand. Mr. Dunham several days ago experienced slight pain in the hand, but dismissed the matter from his mind. Yesterday, however, he noticed that it was badly swollen, and he called upon a physician, who discovered a case of blood poisoning.

George Kelly, who is making his home with his sister, Mrs. Herbert E. Nelson, of Lincoln avenue, is quite ill

MISS BOMLER RESIGNS.

Miss Edith Bomler, of Martinsville, one of the teachers of the Lincoln School, presented her resignation at the monthly meeting of the Board of Education, held Tuesday evening. The resignation was accepted, and Mrs. Robert Lowrie, of Plainfield, was appointed teacher in Miss Bomler's place.

POSTPONE MEETING.

The meeting scheduled for this evening for those interested in the formation of a country club in the borough has been indefinitely postponed. It is said that the postponement amounts to the dropping of the plan for the present for the reason that those who initiated the project have become convinced that the town is hardly large enough to back such a proposition at this time.

Constable and Mrs. C. Wesley Blaine entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blaine, of Peapack, last night.

South Plainfield.

The teachers of the public school of the borough of Middlesex entertained the teachers of the public schools of New Market, South Plainfield and Dunellen at a social meeting yesterday afternoon. Speakers addressed the meeting.

At the monthly meeting of the Piscataway Township Committee, which was held in Hotel Nelson, New Market, last night, routine matters were discussed.

Elmer E. Teeple is now employed as a janitor in the local public school.

Mrs. Edward Alexander has returned home after being the guest of relatives in New York.

John Russo, the seven-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russo, of Church street, died at his home yesterday from an attack of pneumonia. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield, this afternoon.

Miss Anna Sank, formerly of this place, has returned to her home in Dunellen after a visit with Miss Winifred Saverd.

Postmaster William Schomp, of Raeville, has returned after being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schmidt are the parents of a son born to them this week.

Mrs. William Miller, who has been the guest of relatives in Three Bridges, has returned home.

Mrs. J. J. Allen has returned home after spending a week with her mother, Mrs. John Robinson, of Walton N. Y.

German Valley. and Chester

Mrs. Isaiah A. Hoffman is visiting her son, William Hoffman, and family in Newark.

A meeting of the Lutheran Missionary Society will be held this afternoon with Mrs. Mark A. Collins. Mrs. Ernest Zeppelin, Mrs. Ludwin Pfeiffer, of this place, and Mrs. Andrew Dufford, of Middle Valley, will lead.

Miss Lena Nunn has returned to her home in the village, after a visit with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Ader, of Gladstone.

Mrs. John J. Swazy and daughter, Miss Frances Swazy, from near Middle Valley, are visiting the former's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jamesc Anthony, of this village.

Mrs. Morris Ader is recovering from injuries received in a fall down stairs, and is able to be out again.

Mrs. John L. Hetter returned Tuesday to her home in Bloomsburg, Pa. after spending a few days here with her son-in-law, Frank Naughright, and with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram White, of Hackettstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Rutan have returned from their wedding trip.

Mrs. Elias Hockenbury, of Parker, is spending the winter with her son near Lower Hacklebarney.

Rev. William F. Frazier, pastor of the First Congregational church, has published a church directory. He expects soon to issue a church manual.

Charles Pickel, of Hampton, has moved into Charles Pitney's house near Lowar Hacklebarney.

Mrs. William H. Barker will go today to Dover to spend several days.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Funeral services for Frederick J. Kaemmerer, who passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Philip Blank, of Stout avenue, Monday, were held at the Meyerville German church yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. He had spent the greater part of his ninety years on a farm at New Providence, but a short time ago came to make his home with his daughter. Death was due to infirmities of advanced age. Besides the daughter with whom he made his home, he is survived by two daughters living in West Orange and two sons residing in New Providence. Interment was made in the Meyerville cemetery.

There are now seven cases of scarlet fever that have been reported in the 'Plains. All of the houses have been quarantined.

It was reported at the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Episcopal church, held at the residence of Mrs. George Kyte, of Martine avenue, yesterday afternoon, that the sum realized from the annual Christmas sale held in the Fanwood firehouse last Saturday was $262.66. This sale was one of the best financially. The weekly meetings of the society will now be discontinued until after the Christmas holidays, when the next one will be held at the home of Mrs. Riblet, of Russell road. Arrangements are being made for a Christmas party to be held at the meeting, which will be on Wednesday, January 5.

R. W. Nelson, owner of what was formerly the Lambert estate in the Willow Grove section of the township, has decided as a part of the improvement to his large place to make an eighteen hole golf course on it. A clubhouse will be one of the features with an island green in the middle of "Lambert's Pond," as another. Mr. Nelson has engaged a landscape architect to lay out the course, which will be 6,400 yards long. Islands green are a rarity in golf courses, and besides having a pond nearly a mile long there are several brooks on the property. Shortly after Mr. Nelson acquired the estate several years ago he decided to improve it and last spring conferred with the Westfield Council to have a road built from that town to his place as he intended making the pond and the ground around it into a park where parties and others could enjoy themselves. That there will be no lack of patronage of the place when the course is finished is evidenced by the number of persons who seek admittance to the club.

Wright McAnneny has been detained at his home on North avenue for several days by illness.

As soon as the board of directors of the New Jersey Central take action on the request of the Borough Council to have an electric light pole removed from the railroad property on the corner of North and Martine avenues, the new arc light recently agreed upon by the Council can be installed. The two lights taken from the corner will be placed on lower Martine avenue, but the delay is causing repeated protests from the residents of that section.

Miss Rose Thomae, of North avenue, entertained friends from Westfield yesterday.

Contractor Alberts is pushing work on the new Polcanis residence on Russell road and will have it completed shortly after the new year.

Somerville

The men's annual dinner, held by the Bible Fellowship Class last evening in the Second Reformed church chapel, was a pleasing affair. Former Governor Edward C. Stokes spoke, using an interesting subject "Some of the Reasons for the Faith That is in Me." Professor William James Heaps, of the Milton University, Baltimore, also spoke, his subject being "The Perfect Man." Rev. Dr. E. G. Reed, of Plainfield, was one of the speakers of the evening. Rev. Roy Ewing Vale, pastor of the Second church, presided as toastmaster. There were about four hundred guests.

ROAD IMPROVEMENTS FOR PISCATAWAY

Township Board Meeting Reports Progress Made in Last Few Months.

The December meeting of the Piscataway Township Committee, held at Hotel Nelson, New Market, yesterday, was characterized by a lack of excitement unusual at these meetings. The payment of current bills, most of which were for road work, occupied the attention of the Committee for some time.

An extraordinary amount of road work has been performed this autumn, under the direction of the Committee. That the money has been judiciously expended is attested by the condition of the streets and roads of the township. This is particularly so of New Market, whose streets have never before presented the clean, well graded appearance they do at present.

Action on the telephone franchise was, by motion, laid over until the January meeting, the Committee having some months ago decided to defer action until a decision had been handed down in the case of the City of Plainfield vs. the Electric Light Company. This decision will have intimate relation to a feature of the proposed franchise of the telephone company, wherein it was agreed to furnish the township with three telephones free for official business.

A proposed franchise embodying the free telephone feature was some months ago refused approval by the Public Utilities Commission because of the free telephone arrangement. For this reason it was decided to await the court's action in the Plainfield case before taking further action.

Dr. W. J. Nelson, who serves in the dual capacity of township physician and medical expert for the Board of Education, appeared to ascertain from whom he would be paid for the extra work devolving upon him because of the prevailing epidemic of diphtheria.

It was claimed by Dr. Nelson that his contracts with the township and Board of Education did not call upon him to do such work without compensation and it was also brought out that the Board of Education had refused to entertain bills of this nature, claiming that it was the duty of the township Board of Health to handle these matters. It was finally arranged to hold a meeting with the Board of Health on Saturday evening, December 11, with the view of getting together on this matter.

Three residents of the Italian village of New Era, near South Plainfield, appeared to renew complaints against the Glaser fertilizer factory, but as the matter is at present in the hands of the Board of Health, they were advised to present their complaints at the joint meeting to be held Saturday evening.

LITERARY

More important than our national controversies with either group of belligerents, says The Living Church, is our desire to serve in the interest of ultimate peace. We are not asking either group to consent to a peace that would involve humiliation to themselves nor injustice to others. The wrongs that were committed in starting war can probably be punished only by Almighty God, to whom "guilt is personal," and who will inflict punishment in His own way. Probably the guilt rests upon a very small number of individuals. The peace that the United States would seek to promote must probably not deal with that question at all. It must be a peace that deals rather with future than with past relations; that considers rather the justice of relations to be established than the justice of those that are ended. It may be true that the friendly sentiments of the United States are tooo little returned by the nations at war to enable us to be a factor in making peace. We shall certainly not intrude our services where they are not wanted. But earnestly shall it be our desire, as a nation and as a people, to serve these our warring friends in bringing them to desire to live at peace with each other. We have before us the constant object lesson of Englishmen and Germans living side by side in complete friendliness in the United States, even during the war. We know, therefore, that it can be done in Europe.

How to Buy Books for Children.

In the December issue of the Woman's Home Companion Walter Prichard Eaton Writes:

"To say that boys do not demand adventure stories, and that they shouldn't have this demand supplied, would be ridiculous."

"Any good teacher or wise parent knows, of course, that mere prohibition is an ineffective and silly weapon. Not "Don't" but "Do," not prohibition but suggestion, is the method to apply. Give the young boy books give him plenty of books, let him read and browse, and have his fill of adventure—but, see that those books are the right sort. Find out what they are like yourself before you put them into your son's hands. They may be dynamite, as Franklin Matthiews says, to blow your boy's brains out. Don't sacrifice his brains, his imagination, all his chances of future literary taste, sense of style, appreciation of good writing, for the sake of saving fifty cents."

Newspaper Men Form a New School of Magazine Writers.

In the December American Magazine are the names of some newspaper men who have become magazine writers. Ring Lardner, F. P Dunne ("Mr. Dooley)), Hugh Fullerton, Ray Stannard Baker, John A. Moroso, Dana Burnet, Don Marquis, Harry Carr, Grantland Rice, Rufus Steele and many others were taught at the copy desk. The newspaper has always been held to be the best training school for the magazine writer and even for the more ambitious novelist. Charles Dickens Rudyard Kipling, Julian Ralph, Richard Harding Davis and George Fitch are among the famous reporters who began in the city room.

FURS FOR CHRISTMAS

The Best Gifts of All

Buy Furs and you are sure to be right.

And buy them at

CHAS. KURTZMAN'S

178 E. FRONT STREET

Kurtzman's is the home of the best furs. From all quarters of the globe our fur stock has been assembled. It is complete to the last detail. If you love beautiful things you will revel in this display. Purchased with careful judgment and skill, every fur here has style, finish and quality.

Prices, remember, are always lowest at Kurtzman's and some of our competitors are positively asking twice as much for inferior offerings.

See our dependable fur coats of French or Hudson seal, natural red fox sets, barrel or ball muff, black fox sets, sets of the beautiful taupe or battleship grey, golden beaver goods, women's and misses' fur garments of all kinds.

We vouch for and guarantee every piece we sell. We invite an early call while the immense assortment is entirely unbroken.

TEACHERS OF STATE MEET THIS MONTH

Annual Session Will Be Held at Atlantic City December 27, 28 and 29.

The sixty-first annual meeting of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association will be held in the High School building, Atlantic City, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 27, 28, 29. The open meeting of the annual session will be held in the auditorium at 3 p. m. Monday, December 27.

A large number of Plainfield teachers are making arrangements to attend the sessions, and several are on committees that will report then. H. M. Maxson, of this city, is chairman of the Fifth District committee on legislation, and Miss Elizabeth Kiernan, of North Plainfield, is a member of the committee on enrollment, representing Somerset county.

A program of this year's meeting has been mailed to every teacher in the State and it is promised that they will enjoy the three days on the boardwalk and also learn many valuable plans for the new year's work if they attend. Officers of the association follow:

President, William A. Wetzel, Trenton; first vice president, Edward H. Dutcher, East Orange; second vice president, Miss Harriet E. Shirrell, Paterson; secretary, H. J. Neal (1916), Phillipsburg; treasurer, Miss S. Ida MacMahon, Trenton; railroad secretary, Miss Elizabeth M. Stringer, Newark.

SCIENCE TEACHERS TO MEET SATURDAY

Well Known Experts to Address High School Instructors at Elizabeth.

Many of the High School teachers of this city are interested in the nineteenth meeting of the State Science Teachers' Association, which will be held in Battin High School, Elizabeth, Saturday. The morning session will be a general one, but after luncheon members will convene in five sections to consider agriculture, biology, chemistry, general science and physics.

Among the speakers in the morning will be Dr. William F. Little, principal of Battin High; the association president, H. Morgan Campbell, Bayonne; Dr. Henry H. Goddard, of the department of research of the Training School, Vineland, who will speak on "Biology of Human Heredity," and Professor J. C. Packard, Brookline, Mass., who will talk on "Practical Physics." At the close of the morning session Professor Howard McClenahan, dean of Princeton University, will conduct a memorial meeting in honor of Frederick H. Beals.

Methods of teaching will be described in the section meetings. Agriculture as taught in the vocational school of Atlantic county will be told of by Robert D. Maltby, head of vocational work in that county. This subject as handled in the Freehold High will be described by Earle C. Stillwell. The pure food question in this State will be the subject handled by Dr. R. B. FitzRandolph, director of the State hygiene laboratory at Trenton. Dr. Melville T. Cook, professor of plant pathology, Rutgers College, will be another speaker in this section.

Charles E. Dull, of Newark, is scheduled as a speaker in the chemistry department. On the same program is Professor Alan W. C. Menzies, of Princeton; Oliver C. Short, of the Trenton High School, and P. H. Hertzog, of Peddie Institute, Hightstown. Miss Caroline G. Howe, of Newark, will be acting chairman of the general science section, in which one of the speakers will be Dr. D. L. Hodgdon, of the State Normal School. Miss Mabel Denton, of Newark, will tell of the "Method of Presenting the Study of the Newark Water Supply." E. A. Sanders, of Dickinson High, Jersey City, will suggest how to conduct study in "The First Two Years of Science."

Speakers on physics will be S. K. Reifsnyder, Neptune High School, Ocean Grove; D. L. Baker, Passaic High; Frederick C. Reeve, East Side High; Dr. W. N. Mumper, State Normal School, Trenton; Arthur T. Seymour, of the New York Telephone Company, Newark, and Harold H. Smith, of the Edison Storage Battery Company, West Orange.

RECREATION NOTES

The Dunbar dance, dressmaking class and dramatic club will meet tomorrow night at the Washington School.

The children will meet this afternoon at the Stillman School to sew on the costumes for the pageant and there will be a rehearsal tomorrow afternoon.

The pianoforte classes will meet this afternoon with Miss Maxson at the Washington School and tomorrow afternoon at the Franklin School with Miss Lockwood.

JEWS CONFER ON PROGRAM FOR PROJECTED CONGRESS

Conferences looking to active preparations for the forthcoming Jewish Congress, the object of which is to see in what manner American Hebrews may aid commissioners upon whom will fall the adjustment of the questions arising out of the European war, to solve the great Jewish problem for all time, have been initiated in about sixty cities. The American Jewish committee, which for some time opposed the calling of the Congress, has yielded in part from its position on the assurance that the gathering will not be called until the end of the war.

Within the next few weeks a preliminary Congress will be held in New York city. At this it is expected to determine informally some of the things that are to come before the general gathering, and to tentatively make plans and fix the dates for the proposed Congress. Officially twenty-three of the largest Jewish organizations in this country are allied in the movement.

Men in charge of arrangements for this preliminary Congress include Louis D. Brandeis, of Boston; Dr. Louis S. Rubisohn, Philadelphia; Julius J. Peyser, Washington; Nathan D. Kaplan, Chicago; Morris Admar, Pittsburgh, and Leon Sanders and Dr. Stephen S. Wise, New York. The main Congress, when held, will have not fewer than 1,000 delegates, and will be such democratic representation of American Judaism, religious and civic, as has never yet been held.

SANTA CLAUS HAS PLENTY OF TOYS THIS YEAR

New York, Dec. 9.—Good old Santa Claus is happier than ever this year, for his great pack was never before so full. He will see that the good times that have come to the relief of the family pocket-book are shared by the youngsters. He has added to his stock of toys, and has some new ones that will make the kiddies sit up and take notice on Christmas morning. From far off Switzerland, away up in the mountains surrounded by war on all sides, have come some of the cleverest productions. From South America, Santa has gleaned a new kind of dolls and toys. The Japanese toys are in his pack as usual, and thanks to King George of England, the famous German toys that run around and jump have safely crossed the ocean to Santa's storehouses. But the wise old man who drives his reindeer over the housetops took no chances of being short, so he set thousands and thousands of Americans to work making new toys and games and dolls for the big pack this Christmas. You can get a glimpse of them in the store windows these chilly days, and they certainly look good to bright American girls and boys.

When papa says "business is booming," and mama is worrying less over the rent and the grocery bill, you can make sure that that is the time that Santa is going to see that his little friends get the good things that he combs from all places in the world.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Pauline Frederick, late star of "Outcast," will be seen for the last time tonight at the U. S. Astor Theatre in the Famous Players production of "Sold," in which she equals her splendid performance in "The Eternal City" in every way. Miss Frederick has earned the distinction of being one of the most beautiful brunettes on the American stage or screen. She has always been a prime favorite among Plainfield theatregoers and many have attended the Astor to view her splendid performance as the star of "Sold." Blanche Sweet will be the screen star at the Astor for two days beginning tomorrow afternoon. She will be seen in "The Secret Orchard," in which she does quite the best work of her film career. This subject unfolds a story of throbbing interest. Not only is it splendidly acted but fine photographic work makes it stand out from the average flicker-drama.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

CITY BUSINESS MANAGERS.

The commission plan of government isc rapidly becoming the favorite method in American cities. Jersey City, the largest municipality now operated under this system, reports that the new plan of municipal housekeeping has successfully passed its period of probation. The commissioners in their two and a half years of work have chopped $200,000 from the annual budget despite broader activities and increase in population; the methods of collecting taxes have been so improved that about $1,100,000 has been added to the revenues; the police, fire, water and education departments' service has been improved by renovations and innovations. Numerous other changes for the better have taken place.

Hoboken, although the commission plan has been in force only nine months, is already beginning to show good returns, though one or two of the commissioners are not the right men for their jobs.

Buffalo, the second largest city in New York State, will install the commission government at the beginning of the year. It is not beyond the range of possibility that before long New York city will be run under this plan of municipal business managers.—New York Press.

EIGHT AFRICAN BELLES AS PAY.

Philadelphia, Dec. 9.—Yankee ingenuity saved a ship captain from an embarrassing situation, when eight dark African belles were wished onto him by the King of Obopo. The story reached here when the four-master, Judge Boyce, arrived last week, laden with oil cake, but minus the black belles. When the good ship put in at Obopo the mate recklessly presented a silk umbrella to King Ocopo, the most powerful tribe leader there. The king reciprocated in equally lavish fashion by bringing forth eight of the handsomest maidens of his realm. Then the officers of the ship were obliged to use diplomacy and judgment. They made excuses until nightfall, when they put out to sea to escape the king's wrath and the grinning affection of the dusky belles.

PUT MICH. AGGIES ON MAP; TO RESIGN

John F. Macklin.

John F. Macklin, athletic director of Michigan Agricultural College, has announced his resignation, to take effect next August. In the last three years Macklin has put the Michigan Aggies on the football map. This year they defeated Yost's University of Michigan team by a 3 score.

Miss Idable Conover, of Jackson avenue, is still confined to her home suffering from nervous prostration.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Tilney, of Central avenue, have returned home after a three weeks' visit in Florida.

Mrs. William J. Roome, of East Seventh street, who has been seriously ill for the past three weeks, is much improved and will probably be about again in about a week.

Vincent Carroll, a member of the local fire department attached to No. 1 house on East Second street, is confined to his home by a severe attack of rheumatism.

CYCLISTS 25 MILES IN FRONT OF RECORD

Twelve Teams in Leading Pack—Bad Spill, But No Rider is Hurt.

Those who had gone 1,731 miles, 4 laps, were:

Those who had gone 1,731 miles, 3 laps, were:
Sullivan and Anderson.

Those who had gone 1,731 miles, 1 lap, were:
Sutter and Madonna.

Those who had gone 1,731 miles, 0 laps, were:
Russe and Vanderstuift.

Madison Square Garden, Dec. 9.—Riders in the six-day bicycle race continue to keep many miles ahead of the record. The standing, by hours from 8 a. m. to 2 p. m. today follows

Time.	Standing.	Former Record
8 a. m.	1,632.2	1,604.6
9 a. m.	1,649.0	1,621.0
10 a. m.	1,665.1	1,637.3
11 a. m.	1,681.6	1,653.4
12 a. m.	1,698.2	1,671.3
1 p. m.	1,715.2	1,687.8
2 p. m.	1,731.4	1,705.5

Twelve teams are now in the leading bunch, with one pair two laps behind, another duo three laps to the bad, and the trailing team four laps in the rear. This is the same way the teams have stood since the sprints at 9 o'clock last night.

At noon today, while trying to sprint, Russe received a punctured tire, and was thrown on the track. He was not hurt, and resumed riding. Luckily, the other riders avoided him as he lay prostrate on the track.

"Western theatre—There were lively artillery duels especially in Flanders around hill No. 193. A French aeroplane was shot down near Bapaume and the occupants made prisoners.

"Eastern theatre—Only patrol fights were reported."

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

Washington—Stripped of the whirl of politics, speech-making, lobbying and arguments, here is the resolution introduce in both Houses of Congress on behalf of the suffragists: "Section 1—The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex. Section 2—Congress shall have power, by appropriate legislation, to enforce the provisions of this article." This amendment was drafted in its present form by Susan B. Anthony in 1875, and first introduced in Congress on January 10, 1878.

Washington—Three young women have volunteered to be chaffeurs in the United States army in case of war, and have inscribed their name to that effect on the national service register of the Woman's Section of the Navy League here. The volunteers are Misses Frances, Katherine and Mary Baker, daughters of former Congressman Baker, of New Jersey. All three are licensed drivers of motor vehicles. The navy women hope to build up in times of peace an organization of trained women for practical service in many lines which would would be of service in case of war. Among the members are Mrs. Lindley M. Garrison, Mrs. Atlee Pomerene, Mrs. Ollie James, Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt, Mrs. Mary T. Key McBlair, grand-daughter of Francis Scott Key; Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell, Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, Mrs. Simon Newcomb, Mrs. Hudson Maxim and many other prominet women.

Oakland, Cal.—The honor of being the first woman teacher of law in the history of California is held by Miss Louise Cleveland, of this city, who is to deliver a series of law lectures in connection with the extension course of the University of California. The lectures are intended for business women. Miss Cleveland is an Oakland lawyer and has been practicing for a year.

London—One of the most remarkable things in the replacing of men's labor by women's, which is going on today, is the great popularity which mechanical work seems to be winning for itself among women. From Ireland comes the account of a young girl, just 20 years old, who is doing the work of a skilled electrical engineer. She is Miss May Traill the daughter of William A. Traill, a well-known engineer. Miss Traill studied horticulture at Studley College, but developed her gifts for mechanics. In her teens she was placed on the college staff, in full charge of the electric light and power installation. She set free a man who is now making torpedoes.

New York—The admission of women athletes into the Amateur Athletic Union, so that they can compete for national championships on an equal scale with men, has developed quite a squabble. The present situation is that during the coming season the fair sex will be given a square deal, and it is up to them to handle and manage their own events. The women are to have championships of all sorts, but the women's clubs must show that they are competent to handle the events. The swimmers who competed last year under the amateur rules have been pounced upon by show managers, and the officials frown upon the practice of breaking their athletic standing, which is now so general.

EDUCATOR'S NOTEBOOK

New York—The commission of eighty-one Mexican school teachers and officials who have been inspecting the school systems of the Eastern cities will sail from New York on Thursday on their return voyage to Vera Cruz. They will stop off at Havana on the way. It is understood that a like commission soon is to visit this country to study methods of instruction in our grammar schools. The commission now here has devoted itself to primary instruction methods, following a brief stop at Harvard for a brushing up on American educational theories.

Seattle—The State of Washington is making a scientific survey of all public educational institutions in the State, in accordance with an act of the Legislature. Special attention is being given to the facilities available for and adapted to the immigrant population.

Springfield, Mass.—The American International College, which was established primarily to give alien students an American education, has inaugurated a special department for training these students for service among immigrants. The foreign students are being trained to become pioneers of their own people in this country.

Kansas City, Mo.—During the past five years, this city has spent nearly five millions of dollars in public school buildings. Seventeen complete school plants were put up, with two high schools. Extra buildings and playgrounds were also provided.

Philadelphia—A special committee of educators appointed to investigate the comparative records made by girl students admitted to college on examination and on certificates, respectively, reports that investigation in Wellesley, Mt. Holyoke, Smith and Vassar disclosed that the students admitted by examination were more proficient. This report was submitted to the Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools of the Middle States and Maryland. For the first time a woman was chosen president of the Association. She is Miss Katherine E. Puncheon, Principal of the Girls' High School of Philadelphia.

Minneapolis—The "night university" of Minneapolis, in which six thousand students are training for greater usefulness and a better chance in life's battles, is one of the notable examples of what the cities of the United States are doing for their citizens. It is said that there are three millions of aliens in our country over the age of ten who cannot speak English. Minneapolis has its share. In the six thousand are many aliens who wield the pick and shovel in the day time, or work in the flour mills. Ambition is what brings them each night to school. They are encouraged, they learn, and they keep coming, and many who began in the reading and writing classes are now taking high courses in the sciences. The University of Minnesota, the public schools, the Dunwoody Institute and the Young Men's Christian Association care for classes in this great "night university."

Urbana, Ill.—The new chemical laboratory at the State University is said to be the largest in the world. The building will be formally dedicated next April, when the American Chemical Society holds its meeting at the University. The home economics department of the university has secured a Pullman car and fitted it up with all sorts of household equipment necessary for demonstrations. The car is being sent about the State demonstrating to women the latest methods in household mangaement.

Minneapolis—Fully a thousand leaders in teachnical education in the United States and Canada will attend the ninth annual convention of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education. The meeting will be held here next month.

Mrs. Alexander Kenneth, of Brooklyn, spent Wednesday with Mrs. D. R. Sherwin, of East Second street.

Mrs. J. D. Moore, formerly a resident of this city and lately of Scranton, has removed to Tampa, Fla., for the winter months.

ESTABROOK, DARK HORSE, NOW LOOMS UP IN G. O. P. RACE

The spotlight of politics has shifted to a new figure. The man on whom it now rests is Henry D. Estabrook, of New York and Nebraska. The story of American possibilities, political observers are saying, is told in Estabrook. A year ago he was an "unknown." Today he is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, a "dark horse," rapidly gaining speed.

Estabrook first attracted national attention when he stumped the Middle West for McKinley in 1896. Then he dropped out of sight for a time. He is now again in the public eye as a result of a series of brilliant speeches in which he has proclaimed the doctrine of "Protection, Preparedness and Prosperity." Business and commercial organizations in every section of the country have listened to this doctrine, liked it and called for more.

Advices received in Washington are to the effect that sentiment is growing for Estabrook. Already Estabrook headquarters have been established in Omaha, and his friends are confident that he will land the Nebraska delegation.

Tall, square-shouldered and square-jawed, this new political figure is a man about sixty years of age. He achieved prominence in the practice of law in Omaha, was later well known in Chicago legal circles and now is a leader of the New York bar.

This new figure, which promises to have an influential following at the next national Republican convention, is described as a plain American. His friends say if he has any fad it is in knowing America from its history to its institutions and even its animals and birds. He is an outdoor man, democratic, and a great student. While some of his friends have classified him as a progressive Republican, he says "I am a Republican without any qualifying adjectives."

Mr. Estabrook was the first among those recognized as Republican presidential candidates to outline a concrete program of national defense. He has declared himself for a navy as big as any in the world, a standing army of 150,000 to 200,000 with a reserve of ten times that number, military training for the youth of the land and the creation of a merchant marine. He did this before the American Bankers' Association, at Seattle. Immediately thereafter the bankers adopted a resolution endorsing his program.

PEGS WIN FROM NEWARK NORMAL

Exceptionally Good Exhibition of Girls' Basketball at P. H. S.

LOSERS BEGIN WELL

Outplay Plainfielders by Big Margin in First Ten Minutes, But After That Game is in Hands of Miss Helen Hummel.

Plainfield basketball fans rarely see such exhibitions of the indoor pastime as the two games played in the Plainfield High School gymnasium last night, when both the boys' and girls' Recreation Committee teams claimed victories over their opponents. The P. E. G. S. girls opened their season auspiciously by defeating the fast sextet from the Newark Normal School by a score of 26 to 14.

The Newarkers, known as "The State Six," put the best of their material on the floor, and at the first chirp of the whistle the young women entered the contest with such dash and vigor that the local team was completely bewildered for the first ten minutes of play. During this session, by a system of rapid fire passing and excellent team-work, the visitors totaled five points, while the Pegs were held scoreless. During the remaining five minutes of time, the Pegs' pivot outjumped her opponent, and by clever passes with her side center and guards kept the sphere in the territory of the home goal, giving Miss Helen Hummel ample opportunity to cage four beautiful field goals and two from the fifteen-foot line. The score at the end of the period stood 10 to 5 in favor of the home team.

With renewed determination and earnestness, both sextets entered the second session, and it was not long before the Misses Hummel tallied a sextet of field goals and four foul tallies. The opposing team was held to four goals and a single foul goal. During this period the Pegs' center scored a spectacular shot from the center of the floor. The score at the conclusion of the game was completely in favor of the Pegs.

There was no one star on either team, every girl on the floor filling her position in excellent fashion. The Misses Helen and Ida Hummel, who are probably the best known forwards in this vicinity, worked in a high-class style; their shooting being accurate at all times. On the visiting team, the Misses Alma Petrie and Lillian Vernent exhibited a forward style of playing seldom seen on Plainfield courts, the young women giving their guards a run throughout the entire thirty minutes of play.

K. C. TOSSERS AT WORK.

Basketeers after berths on the Columbus Club five will practice tonight, in preparation for their opening game against the Tabs one week from this evening.

BOUND BROOK TEAM HERE.

The Unity Five of Bound Brook, will appear on St. Mary's T. A. B. Society's court tomorrow night. The Abstainer seconds will play a preliminary game.

PLAINFIELD ELKS AT PATERSON.

Plainfield Elks will go to Paterson this evening, for a Senior League series with the Pats.

RECREATIONS WALLOP P. A. A. IN OVERTIME

Play Uphill Fight, Tying the Score in Second Half and Winning in Extra Act.

After five minutes of overtime play, the Recreation Five defeated the Plainfield A. A. at P. H. S., last night, 20 to 14. The game was a nip and tuck contest throughout, both teams playing a fine offensive and defensive game. At the end of the initial period the Plainfield A. A. held the better end of the score of 5 to 3. Warming up in the second session, the Recreation Boys, by splendid team work and good shooting, tied the score at 14 to 14, when the whistle blew for the end of the game. A conference between the captains of the two delegations culminated in a decision to play five minutes overtime. During this period Captain Ricketts caged two pretty goals, closely followed by another from Naylor.

Following the games, dancing was enjoyed until 10:30 o'clock by the large gallery of rooters present.

NEW MEN ON ELIZABETH ELKS' JUNIOR COMBINE

Elizabeth Elks' Junior League team, which opens tonight against Newark, will be composed of different pinners than those who won the championship last winter. The team has lost Eddie Fiehl and George Blythe, the former being graduated to the Senior team, while the latter, with Archie Foote, is in the Union County League.

The newcomers on the Elizabeth quintet this season are Bill Harrison, Phil Bick and Joseph Bach. Harrison rolled good ten-pins with the Elizabeth Club quintet, of the County League, last season, and Bick has stood out prominently in different club tournaments at the "289" home. Bach is another shooter, who will probably spring some big surprises. Joe formerly rolled with the Court Street Lyceum team in the Diocesan Union League. The other two members of the team will be the old standbys, John Van Bergen and Henry Keller. The latter two have been doing fine work this year.

RAHWAY EAGLES HERE TONIGHT.

Rahway and Plainfield Aeries of the Eagles' Bowling League will hook up in a three-game fight on the Second street alleys tonight.

BROWNS SHOOT GREENS.

The Brown bowlers of the Columbus Club head-pin house tourney will be pitted against the Greens on the club lanes tonight.

HANDICAP POULTRY SHOOT.

A handicap shoot for ducks and chickens will be held at the Climax Gun Club traps, Saturday, beginning at 2:30 p. m.

MAJOR LEAGUE TRAP SHOOTERS ON TOUR

Chief Bender (left) and Christy Mathewson, photographed on trap shooting tour.

A band of trap shooters, made up of major league players and captained by Chief Bender, is now touring the country, visiting the principal cities. Among those in the band are Christy Mathewson, A. W. Winkler, Doc Crandall and Harry Davis.

PLAINFIELD FIVE TO RESUME APPEARANCES

Local Girls Who Went Undefeated Last Year Will Open Next Week.

The Plainfield Five basketball girls, who played [illegible] the Columbus Club court [illegible] and who earned the Eastern [illegible] ing undefeated throughout the [illegible] season, will resume their practice on that floor next Tuesday night, when they will line up against the St. Mary's Social Club aggregation. Although the latter girls have not played any public games yet, they have been holding weekly practices in the T. A. B. S. gym, and feel confident that they will give the Plainfield Five a good contest. Miss Margaret Powers is captaining the West Fourth street lassies, while Miss Clara Smith is again managing the Plainfield Five. The latter will at once begin scheduling games for the season, and she promises local fans a spicy game each week.

One player will be greatly missed from the West Front street team when they appear on the floor next Thursday. Miss Marion Mair, classed among the State's best all-round players, and filling the position of guard on the Plainfield Five in an excellent manner, is at present pursuing a physical culture course in Oberlin College, Ohio, where she is entering the various activities of the institution and proving just as valuable a member as she was in this city.

In the preliminaries, the Knights of Columbus will open their season by opposing the T. A. B. S. quintet. Both games promise to be of a high calibre, and following the contests dancing will be enjoyed.

P. H. S. BOYS MEET TEAM THAT LICKED N. P. H. S

The Plainfield High School's boys basketball five will get into action tomorrow night, when they journey to Princeton to tackle the team that walloped N. P. H. S. a short time ago. The squad will make the trip by auto, and with the possible exception of Captain Bill Wheelan at guard, Coach Patch will not give out any definite line-up for the first fracas of the season until the fellows are ready to take the floor. In practice Sheldon Coudray, Carlton Dunham, Robert McDowell and Arthur Kyle have been showing up well, while Noonan, substitute center last year, has a second mortgage on that berth, with Gerald Linke coming strong. Wheelan, the only veteran on the team, will hold down one of the guard berths, with Polly Snyder, Herbert Peacock and David Fitch as candidates for the other one.

HOLY CROSS-ORANGE F. C. MATCH IS OFF

Final Game of Local Football Season Not Favored by Good Weather.

No more football games on local gridirons are to be played this year. What was to have been the final game between the old Orange Field Club lads and the Holy Cross club, has been called off on account of the unfavorable weather.

The cancellation of the game with the old-timers will disappoint many followers of the Holy Cross eleven, even though the fans' ardor for gridiron exhibitions was frost-bitten after Thanksgiving. The Holy Cross Club men were anxious to play the game, but the game would hardly draw a handful of spectators in such weather.

The Holy Cross Club officials are now busy handling post-season business, and the club's annual meeting will be held this month.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS AT ELIZABETH TOMORROW

The P. H. S. girls' basketballers will play Battin High at Elizabeth, tomorrow afternoon. On account of its being the initial contest for the local maidens, Miss Wean, the coach, has not settled on any definite line-up, but it will probably be the same as took the measure of the Alumnae in a practice game several weeks ago, as follows: Irma Good, Dorothy Butler or Elsa Palmer, forwards; Mary Lansdale or Clementine Bremble, center; Natalie Goetter, side center; Jennie Bremble and Priscilla Pennock, guards.

New Schedule to Be Drawn up—Freshmen Earn Brackets Over Junior Quintet.

The Freshman quintet of North Plainfield High School was defeated by the Juniors, yesterday afternoon, by the score of 32-21. The regular Interclass League will commence this week, a new schedule being necessary owing to the Grades withdrawing.

Carson succeeded in shooting five baskets for the winners, while O'Connor, Dunning and Townley scored a trio of baskets for their team.

Y. M. C. A. FIVE LOSES ON FOULS

Outscores Knights of St. Peter from Play, But is Defeated by 3 Points.

FIRST HALF ENDS A TIE

Taylor, Love and Moulton Total 11 Baskets at New Brunswick, but Guard on Home Quintet Drops in 16 One-Pointers.

In one of the fastest and most exciting games of the season the Y. M. C. A. quintet went down to defeat before the Knights of St. Peter at New Brunswick, last night, 34 to 31.

The first half ended 19-all. In the second half a spurt by the Knights gave them a lead of eight points, which was too much for the Y. M. C. A. boys to overcome, and when the whistle blew a margin of three points separated the two teams.

As the Y. M. C. A. star, Polly Love stood shoulders above them all. Moulton, playing guard, showed that as a utility man he can play any position on the floor to a "t." Burner and Taylor also played well. The game was practically decided by foul shooting, the home players being able to shoot seventeen baskets from the fifteen-foot mark.

Union County C. E. Society Adopts Resolution Urging Defeat of Measure.

The executive committee of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union at its meeting at the home of Miss Edna Schmidt in Elizabeth, Tuesday night, adopted a resolution offered by the Christian citizenship committee, opposing the enactment of any law authorizing the operation of moving picture shows on Sunday, such as has been suggested, and will request the county representatives in the Legislature to vote against any such measure that may be presented. A copy of this resolution will be sent to the county's representatives at Trenton.

John T. Sproull, State president of the Christian Endeavor Union, addressed the committee on what each society in the county was expected to do during the coming year to carry out Dr. Clark's plan as outlined at the Chicago convention, saying that the proposed average gain for each society was five church members, ten Endeavorers; $5 increase for missions, five members for the peace legion, ten members for the quiet hour, five members for the tenth legion, three Endeavor experts, one life recruit and five new subscriptions to the Christian Endeavor World.

The missionary committee made a special request for Bibles, song books and primary supplies for the Italian Missions in Plainfield and Elizabeth. The society of the First Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, made application for membership in the Union. All reports were interesting and encouraging.

VERSATILITY A FEATURE OF MISS CHEATHAM'S WORK

In speaking of Kitty Cheatham, who is to give a children's Christmas matinee at the Plainfield High School, Tuesday, December 28, the Kitty Cheatham.

New York Globe says:

"Many are the laborers in the field of recital, but few of them have ranged so widely or introduced to their audiences so many new compositions as Kitty Cheatham. It was indeed a delightful program. The Wolff, Szendrei and Kahn songs, and those by Mrs. Beach proved especially charming. Miss Cheatham sang them all in her inimitable way, and provided interludes of comment and anecdote in her sprightliest vein. As usual a part of the recital was devoted to the old negro songs and stories in which Miss Cheatham stands alone. But that part of the recital is always too short. The audience was as large as the theatre could hold and most enthusiastic."

P. S. C. OPENS NEW FAST LINE TROLLEY CONNECTION

A new electric railway, connecting the borough of Roosevelt with the Public Service Fast Line, was formally opened yesterday afternoon. The effect will be to give Roosevelt residents electric railway connections with Perth Amboy, Elizabeth, Newark, New Brunswick and Trenton. As the borough, which includes both Carteret and Chrome, has a population of upwards of 8,000, and has been virtually isolated, the opening of the line was made a public event. Officials and business men of the borough participated, and buildings were decorated for the occasion.

Elizabeth and Perth Amboy also took part in the opening of the line. Leading city officials and members of the Boards of Trade of the respective cities joined with the Roosevelt people in noting the event. One car load of guests started from the railroad arch, in Elizabeth, while another started from Smith and State streets Perth Amboy. These two cars were met by the Roosevelt delegation who had ridden over the route from Woodbridge avenue Roosevelt Junction, and all three cars went over the new line together.

At the end of the terminus of the line, Mayor Joseph A. Hermann, of Roosevelt, drove the last spike into place, thus officially completing the work. Informal speechmaking followed, and the line was declared open for traffic.

LOSING OUR BEST FRIEND.

Friendship is a sacred relationship. One of the greatest misfortunes that can befall an individual is to lose a friend, and to a nation or race of people the loss is a calamity.

America is fast losing its best friend, if she has not already suffered this loss. France no longer regards the United States with esteem and respect, but is beginning to look upon Americans with contempt and the feeling threatens to grow into one of hostility and the American people should be aroused. A few weeks ago Plainfielders were told of the scorn for everything American that was being bred in foreign countries, especially France, by Prof. Courtney Langdon, of Brown University, who spoke to a group of local people at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick. Prof. Langdon was extreme in his declarations that the United States should go to war, but he simply expressed the thoughts of our Allied brothers, and they are entitled to a hearing, especially the sons of France because of their friendly interest in this country at a time when we were in need of her.

Prof. Langdon promised that contempt for America would grow out of our petty attitude of injured innocence. It has come. In the New York Times of Sunday there was printed a story from Richard Harding Davis, the most reliable of war correspondents, who is now in France, who says:

"Then the war came and with it, in the feeling toward ourselves, a complete change. A year ago we were almost one of the Allies, much more popular than Italians, more sympathetic than the English. Today we are regarded not with hostility, though after the war it may grow to that, but with contempt.

"This most regrettable change was first brought about by the letter calling upon Americans to be neutral. The French could not understand it. From their point of view it was an unnecessary affront. It was as unexpected as the cut direct from a friend, as unwarranted, as gratuitous, as a slap in the face.

"We lost caste in other ways. We supplied France with munitions, but, as a purchasing agent for the Government put it to me the other day, we are not losing much money by it, and, until the French Government protested, it was found that some of our manufacturers were supplying shells that could not be persuaded to explode, and shoes made of pasteboard.

"This unpleasant sentiment was strengthened by our failure to demand satisfaction for the lives lost by the Lusitania and by the unfortunate announcement that we were 'too proud to fight.'

"This later struck the French not only as proclaiming us a cowardly nation, but as assuming superiority over the men who not only would fight but who were fighting. And as several million Frenchmen were at the moment fighting, it was natural that they should laugh."

It is not necessary for the United States to go to war in order to retain the friendship of France. Such a sacrifice is not demanded, nor would it be worthy of consideration. But America needs an army and navy big enough to enforce its position of neutrality—big enough to make its word good without silly and weak reiteration of ultimatums and demands for apologies. Germany knows that we are not prepared for war. England knows it, and so does every other country on the globe and they know that the United States is not in a position to enforce the demands of President Wilson, so that our President must play with diplomacy when the honor of the flag is at stake. This is the weakling's course and it is not American. No wonder France and other European countries are losing their friendship for us.

In a letter to the New York Sun, a writer who signs himself "F. L. M." and claims Plainfield as a place of residence, rather sarcastically comments on the inscription which has been placed on the cornerstone of the new postoffice, which says, "William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury; Oscar Wenderoth, supervising architect; 1915." Just why these two men have been so permanently advertised is puzzling to a lot of other Plainfielders. Perhaps it is customary on all government buildings, but if such is the case it is time for a change. Why Mr. McAdoo, because he happens by the political fates to occupy the office mentioned, should be permanently immortalized in this manner is beyond understanding, and as for the architect, who cares what his name is, so long as the work is done in a proper manner. Wouldn't it have been more fitting to have put the name of the Congressmen who got the building for the city or that of our own "Jim" Martine, who by suggesting plans for the betterment of the interior, unconsciously put official red tape into action so that the work was delayed for four months? If the placing of the name of the Secretary of the Treasury and the architect is customary, it is time to change the custom.

These are the days when every man with flowing white whiskers is looked on with suspicion by the youngsters he meets on the street.

Somehow or other all the cranks opposed to preparedness whom we meet remind us of the fellow who has lost his nerve.

What is the biggest Ford joke of all? Why Henry, of course!

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The current events class will meet this afternoon at 4:15. The subject of Mr. Howe's lecture will be "European Expansion into Asia and Africa and the Colonial Problem."

There will be an exhibit and sale of basketry work made by pupils in the Y. W. C. A. Crafts Clubs today. Visitors are welcome throughout the day and evening.

Association members are urged to come to the building tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock to practice carols for the Christmas exercises.

DIELMAN-CORSE WEDDING.

New York, Dec. 9.—The wedding of Miss Lilla Elizabeth Dielman, a daughter of Frederick Dielman, head of the art department of the College of the City of New York, and Murray Pichot Corse, a son of the late General John Murray Corse, who was chief of staff under General Sherman, will take place this afternoon at the Church of the Ascension. Rev. Arthur N. Peaslee, of Newport, will perform the ceremony. Many college men and women and artists will be guests.

Some Day

Some day, if this here war lasts long enough,
And if nobody calls somebody's bluff,
There's one big nation—England is her name—
May get stirred up and started at the game!

She's done a lot of talking, off an'
on,
And some folks from that neighborhood have gone
And help dig trenches between foe and foe—
Some day those English may get up and go!

Back in the quiet county seats of her
Somebody may wake up and make a stir;
But that, of course, will be a long while yet,
When Allied strength is running short, you bet!

Her colonies were "sicked on" long ago.
They answered loudly, and they were not slow!
But right in England, where the
danger's worst,
They're still asleep—you'd think they'd stir up first.

But if the war hangs on for ten years more,
And danger keeps on pounding at her door,
John Bull himself may get to acting rough—
That is, if this war keeps up long enough.

Bad Advertising

Recently, riding in a Milwaukee sleeper from Scotland, S. D., to Sioux City to see Jawn Carey write editorials for the Journal, we read with great admiration a placard of good cheer in the Pullman, over the writing desk in the observation end. It was a cheery spiel about laughing as often as possible, and all that . . good stuff! But at the end, it went too far. It may have told the truth, but it made bad advertising for a railroad passenger department. It ended with

"For you will not pass this way again."

Being Frank About It

A current matrimonial advertisement reads: "Would you marry if suited?"

Come to think it over, we don't believe we would.

Why should we?

People get married because they are not suited with the circumstances as they are.

If one is suited with singleness, he's a goose to tie up to some woman, thus taking the usual terrific chance of being unsuited or unsuitable.

While if he's suited with a wife—gosh, that would be bigamy!

No, we wouldn't marry if suited.

In fact, in a burst of confidence, we are suited with a wife, and we don't intend marrying.

It would be just the same, though, if we weren't suited at all.

Our wife wouldn't let us.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

To Teach The Young Teachers To Teach

OUR friends the teachers have taken us to task for writing as we do about the schoolroom. They agree with our principles, of course—who wouldn't?—but they insist that they are bound down by rules and regulations from above.

Well, when it comes to first aid in the matter of fresh air a teacher should be right there with her hands. She should open a window when she feels like it, and if anybody offers any objections she can faint or threaten to faint. Surely, not even the board member would deny a teacher the right to open a window if she were about to faint for want of a breath of air.

It is very easy to tell teachers how to run the schoolroom, we admit that. But a doctor's purpose is to tell folks how to live, eat, work, play and keep well. The teachers are our first lieutenants in the advanced trenches. They get the first shot at the oncoming race. It is up to the teachers to instill in the minds of the children a wholesome regard for fresh air, clean teeth, straight shoulders and the golden rule.

One young teacher stood the 80 degrees and the deadly atmosphere of the schoolroom until her lungs pained and her heart ached at the drowsiness of the children. Then she up with her rule and smashed out a window—oh, but she was a teacher!—and the board didn't fire her either. She broke the board's rule with one of her own, so to speak, and the board didn't dare to punish her.

We are strong for married teachers—not that we have any particular aversion to the unmarried ones—and our reason for opposing celibacy among school teachers is this: we find that, no matter how docile and tractable a woman may be during maidenhood, she soon develops a mind of her own after marriage, and if there is one thing we hate more than we hate a travelling quack it is a spineless teacher.

Come, teachers, all together, let's make the air of the schoolroom as nearly wholesome as possible and keep the little ones confined in it the very shortest hours the law will allow. Keeping children after school hours is a very bad sign.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Change Is As Good As A Rest

I do hard mental work all day—figures and accounts. I suffer with insomnia. One of your articles, "Too Tired to Sleep," suggested brisk muscular exercise as a hypnotic for the mind-weary and mental exercise for the muscle-weary. I want to read evenings to keep pace with the times. Is it wrong?

Answer—Certainly not. It is relaxation. It exercises a part of the brain which gets little work all day. Read—but take some physical culture too.

G. W. T. writes:—I am a man aged forty-three. My father died four years ago from cancer of the stomach. I am afraid of it. I am thinking of marrying. The young lady states that her mother died of breast cancer several years ago. What do you think of the advisability of marrying under these conditions?

Answer—Get married if you are both well.

BACHELORS

A BACHELOR is a man who comes home late on a cold, dark night and gets a warm and effusive welcome from the hat rack.

When a man has arrived at the age of thirty without evincing the slightest interest in the cost of living, at the increasing outrageousness of millinery, he may properly be called a bachelor. Bachelors are of two kinds—self-made and girl-made. The first kind is a man who is too foolish to marry. The second kind is produced by women who are too wise to marry. Owing to the inconceivable tender-heartedness and headedness of women, the first variety is by far the more numerous.

Bachelors live alone as a rule, but are kept in a passable state of repair by their landladies. They are very hardy and will eat almost anything. If you are in doubt as to whether a man is a bachelor or not, invite him to dinner. If he accepts with a hungry look in his eyes, he is either a bachelor or a man with a peripatetic wife. Then set before him a piece of fried shoe upper. If he eats it without remark and grabs his coffee cup about the waist instead of by the handle, you can safely bet that he is a bachelor from the lightning lunch belt.

Bachelors are most attractive between the ages of thirty and forty, during which time they are in an excellent state of preservation and are able to dodge heiresses and chorus girls, matrimonially speaking, with ease and skill. Between forty and fifty, the bachelor becomes more pensive and cannot imagine why young girls of eighteen are so unanimously elsewhere when he calls. From fifty onward bachelors are objects of pity who live alone, pursued by many terrors. It is a sad sight to see a trembling old bachelor holding a ferocious baby which has been loaned to him by some heartless father for the amusement of a large room full of company. At this age too many bachelors who have successfully avoided dozens of happy marriages earlier in life are caught helpless and feeble by some designing widow, and meet a terrible fate.

Bachelors are useful when young for wearing down ballroom floors, supporting theatres, candy stores and florists and seating guests at weddings. Later on they become useful for paying taxes and as horrible examples. Bachelors have done some good in the world, but as forefathers and ancestors they are a dismal failure.

Views Of The Press

A Woman On Women

THERE is not, it is said, a very good market just now for the products of the fiction writer's pen. The demand is not materially reduced, but prices are. The author receives less. This may or may not account for the fact that many fiction writers are now writing criticism—criticism of everything, from fiction itself to coast defense by runabout submersibles. The change may be a mere coincidence, with the two facts wholly unrelated. But, in any event, the public at large is losing little and, no doubt, gaining a little. It is learning, at least, what and how some of its popular writers think.

Octave Thanet, otherwise Miss Alice French, for instance, turns from short story writing long enough to tell her public something about her opinion of the "wider life" for women. In the New York Times, she says, in substance, that there is a disposition—on women's part—to mistake sentimentalism for sentiment. She deplores that, and she observes:

"Are the women in the clubs of to-day as good women as their mothers? They think they are better—but are they? In their advanced views some are advocating radical changes in the institutions of home and marriage. While the great majority of our women are opposed to such havoc-making doctrines, the majority is less to-day than it was yesterday, and even among the most conservative we find the new doctrines of frank speaking. My generation cannot feel that leveling all the outer fortifications of reserve is going to help defend the citadel of virtue; nor that trying to know as much as possible about vice and telling all we know is going to make us purer and purer. No nation can be great if its women are not noble and high-minded, as well as pure. A small pattern of a woman is like a little barking dog, always under the wheels. All the devotion, all the self-sacrifice in the world cannot make a good mother out of a fool."

This is, in effect, of course, a plea to women to use their emotions less and their brains more. Whether it is a needed admonition or timely, it is for the women themselves to say. Miss French, however, has no doubt about it. "Sentiment is a beautiful and precious thing," says she. Sentimentality is neither beautiful nor precious, although always posing as both, and there is hardly any vice so dangerous. We, in our sentimentality, accuse society of every injury which is done to it. We cringe at the thought of hanging the most abominable murderer. • • • Our pity concerns itself with almost every class of suffering human being, except the taxpayer, who really seems to need it most." There is common sense in this statement—enough to make a good many of us rejoice that Miss French has interrupted her story-telling long enough to make it, regardless of the cause inspiring it.—Boisé Sunday Capital News.

People's Legal Friend

BY E. R. BRANSON

Malicious Interference

Q. If two men have a contract with each other, and another man persuades one of the parties to break it, could a suit be brought against this third man?

A. Malicious interference in a contract will amount to an actionable wrong, if a breach of the contract is induced and there is resultant injury.

The Executor's Booty

Q. If one knows that he has been appointed executor in a will, is it his duty to probate the will within a specified time?

A. Yes. He should comply with the statutes, which usually designate a time limit, such as thirty days.

I Wish I Could Think Of Something To Mortgage

Q. Please inform me what kinds of property may be the subject of a chattel mortgage. Could one mortgage any goods he owns?

A. It is true, in general, that whatever personal property may be sold may be mortgaged, but the matter is controlled to some extent by state statutes in different jurisdictions.

Too Late!

Q. Has one a right to countermand a check after it has been paid by the bank?

A. The right to countermand a check exists only as between the drawer and the bank, and before the rights of third persons have intervened. The drawer cannot countermand the check if payment has been made in good faith and for value.

A Valid Contract

Q. A man wrote me a letter, offering me employment in another city. I answered immediately, accepting the position at the price named by him, and mailed the letter. He now claims that he did not receive my reply. What are my rights?

A. If your acceptance was unconditional a contract between you was created, even if the letter did not reach its destination.

Getting Out Of A Bad Bargain

Q. If one makes a bargain with another person, and then finds that he has been imposed upon, can't he get out of it?

A. The law will not relieve against the consequences of a bad or losing bargain, if there is no element of fraud, or if there is no other circumstance that would operate to change the general rule. If there has been a resort to fraud, the bargain may be rescinded, provided prompt action is taken and no injury results.

A Leak In The Pipe

Q. Isn't it the duty of a gas company to repair a leak in a main as soon as possible so as to prevent injury?

A. Yes. The company, after having notice of such condition, is required to use due care to avoid injurious results and should cut off the flow or repair the break at the earliest practicable moment.

Children Are Part Of The Family

Q. Certain property is given, by will, to a man who is designated by name and to "his family." Is this to be taken to mean his children?

A. It will be so understood and so construed by the courts unless a contrary or different intention is clearly indicated by the will as a whole.

A Cheap Sport

Q. Doesn't the law permit money lost at gaming to be recovered?

A. Yes, in many states.

A "Joint" and "Several" Note

Q. If a promissory note starts out with the words, "I promise to pay," etc., and is signed by two persons, what effect will it have?

A. It will be a joint and several note.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

Our Teachers

From whomsoever or whatsoever we learn, we are indebted as Our Teachers. All around us, from our waking hour until we disappear in sleep, we are followed by Our Teachers.

But great and wonderful as are our OUTSIDE Teachers, much more marvelous in value are our INSIDE teachers—those who first learn from the OUTSIDE Teachers. For are not our Mistakes, our Successes, our vast accumulating Experiences, Teachers whose lessons count for far more than any others?

And to think how rarely we THANK our BEST Teachers!

Self Praise—has it become a Lost Art? The sort of Self Praise that says: "Well, my Good Fellow, you did that because you KNEW you had it IN you to do it!"

Let one thing always be true of you—that if other people can't seem to learn much from you, you can learn from yourself. And that is quite enough.

Current Poetry

An Autograph With A Sentiment

The following lines, so apt to-day, are preserved in one of the glass cases, in the Grand Army of the Republic Hall, Public Library Building, Chicago. They were written in Boston, January 3, 1875, by William Lloyd Garrison, and have already appeared in an early issue of The Independent, from which we copy them:

Though woman never can be man,
In range of sex, and a' that,
To social rights, 'gainst class and clan,
Her claim is just, for a' that.
For a' that, and a' that,
Her Eden slip, and a' that,
In all that makes a living soul
She matches man, for a' that.

The editor of this department, however, is bound to admit that the lines do not properly classify themselves under its heading, unless they be allowed to creep in as recurrent poetry!

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Bob o' Lincoln And His Friends Flock South.

He Braves Winds, Cold and Rains.

"EVERY time I have been outdoors for the past month," daddy began the bedtime-story, "I have seen a great black Y high up against the sunshine. Why should there be an alphabet letter up in the sky this time of year?" he wanted to know.

"An airship!" shouted Jack.

"It was a flock of blackbirds getting ready to fly south," said daddy. "The leader starts along in September to get his friends together. He begins way up in the north of Canada to tell his story of sunny lands all winter, and as he flies on down through New England and the middle north other birds believe and join him. They trail along after his lead, sometimes in a great black patch against the blue sky, but oftener, I think, in a big Y."

"Who are the blackbirds' friends, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"Oh, mostly all the song birds—thrushes and orioles and starlings and larks. But the two most interesting of all these bird travelers are the tiny humming birds and Bob O'Lincoln."

"Who is he, daddy?" cried the children.

"Oh, he's just the most rollicking, happiest, handsomest fellow, and all mating time he sits teetering on a blade of meadow grass, shouting his beautiful song, 'Bob o' link—bob o' link! Spink-spank-spink!' His wife wears a duller dress than his flashing black and white suit, and she busily keeps house for him in the tall grasses while he chases away any strong bird that might disturb the upbringing of his family of four or five young bobs. But along toward October, when his family is raised, he sets out for the marshlands along Chesapeake bay or the inland marshes in the Carolinas, where the vast rice fields are. Here he changes his suit for a duller color and just gorges on good rice.—But his life is very tragic, my dears, for he eats so very much that small boys in the south are set to drive him away and even shoot him. The southerners call him a reed bird, and thoughtless people who never listen to his glad song all summer heartlessly sit in beautiful hotels and eat him for their dinner. The rice fields destroy so many bobolinks every winter that they are becoming very rare in the north. Now, the interesting thing about the tiny hummer is that with his wee wings—not so big as a butterfly's—he will braves winds, cold and rains for weeks and weeks till he safely reaches his favorite wintering place, which is faraway Central America. Thousands of miles, way beyond Panama, farther than most men travel, these frail little creatures go every fall to escape the bite of Jack Frost," daddy finished.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Julia Osgood Does Some More Sleuthing and Catches a Thief.

"Wait a minute, Lou. I want to run over to the window and see if there is any light in the office. I can't tell from here, the curtain is so closely drawn," said Julia Osgood, releasing her friend's arm.

"Oh, I'll go along. Haven't you got over that bug yet? What if there should be a light. You don't have to pay the electric bill," grumbled her friend, following her across the street.

"Never you mind what I would do," remarked Julia with decision. "Just let me see a light; that is all I want." She placed her finger on her lips as they approached the building. She tiptoed up to the window and climbed on the projecting ledge, clinging to the window grating while she peered at the crack between the shade and the glass. In an instant she sprang down, caught her friend by the hand and started to run, not away from, but toward the entrance.

"Where are you going?" whispered Lou irritably.

"Sh! Come on," breathed Julia, quickening her pace. She stole up the dark stone steps and pushed open the heavy door which was slightly ajar. Lou hung back, but Julia held her wrist firmly and dragged her along the dark hall which was so familiar to her that she had no difficulty in finding her way noiselessly. The bewildered Lou could only follow, carried along as much by her friend's suppressed excitement as by physical force. A faint streak of light was visible at the far end of the hall, and toward this Julia dragged her friend. She paused outside the door and silently pushed it open. A dim light was burning, but no one was in sight. Julia crept stealthily in, followed by her companion.

In a far corner of the room kneeling in front of the safe was the figure of a man. He had not heard them. Julia softly closed and locked the door, putting the key in her handbag. She stood a moment watching intently, then nudged her companion's arm to be sure that she also saw the hands taking money from the safe and putting it in his pocket. Julia pulled her friend to a table on the opposite side of the room and caught up the telephone.

"Watch him," she whispered to Lou.

"Give me 105, quick," she called. The man at the safe sprang to his fet and faced them. It was Tyler.

"Is this Mr. Jaynes? Come to the office quick, quick. I've got the thief." Julia's voice sounded triumphant over the phone.

Tyler made a rush for the door, only to find it locked. He made a dash for the window and threw it up. He remembered there was an iron grating over all the windows in the room.

"There is no train out tonight; don't rush, Mr. Tyler. I suppose you thought you might as well have a little more as long as you had the theft saddled onto someone else." The man looked wildly about the room.

"Let me out," he shouted, rushing toward the girl. Lou drew back afraid, but Julia calmly faced him.

"Make yourself comfortable, Mr. Tyler. You will not be delayed long." The miserable man sank into a chair and buried his face in his hands. An auto was heard speeding down the silent street. It stopped in front of the building. Julia calmly took the key out of her bag and moved toward the door. When she felt a hand on the knob she unlocked it. Mr. Jaynes and a strange man entered. He looked from the two girls to the cowering man at the table.

"So it is you, Tyler, you planter of suspicion," Jaynes' voice boomed out wrathfully. "Tell me about this. Who caught him? You?" he turned to the girl.

When Julia had finished her simple account of the evening's adventure he stepped up to her and shaking her by the hand said:

"You are mighty plucky. But for you this fellow's scheme might have worked and an innocent man have been wronged. I'll remember this."

"Now, I'll go for Sutner. He must be told this very night. Here, Miss Osgood, this is the expert I had come down to examine the books, Mr. Cane. He will stay with you and take care of this fellow until I get back." Jaynes swung out of the door.

SIMPLICITY MARKS PRESIDENT AND WEDDING OF MRS. NORMAN GALT

Bride, One of Washington's Most Beautiful Women, Has Never Looked More Lovely and Attractive.

She Is a Woman of Simple Tastes, Fond of Books and Traveling and an Excellent Housekeeper.

THE wedding of the president of the United States and Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt at the bride's Washington home on the evening of Saturday, Dec. 18, electrifies an entire nation, peculiarily susceptible to the heart appeal to a country witnessing the marriage of its first citizen.

With a ceremony so simple and with attendants so few one can scarcely believe that the wedding means a new life for the president and a new "first lady of the land."

Mrs. Galt, one of the most beautiful women in Washington of the old Virginia stock, never looked more lovely than she did as the date for the wedding approached. And even the most cynical recognizes the genuineness of the elation and buoyancy of the president, who under the spell of his bride has been literally "made over."

On Dec. 28 the president will be fifty nine years old. Less than a year ago the trace of a very eventful year was written unmistakably into his face and physique. Especially did he show the stress and travail which he has undergone during the last five years. Today, apparently without a care in the world, he looks less than fifty. His air of austere reserve has melted away, and he is all graciousness. Nobody can doubt that under the influence of the simple, gracious, companionable woman he has won, "the year's at the spring" for him. Moreover, he developed an enthusiasm in his courtship that proved a delight and surprise for those who thought they knew him best.

The "Something Blue."

The same turquoise bracelet worn by other brides of this administration—Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre and Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo—adorns the arm of the president's bride. It is the property of Miss Margaret Wilson and supplies the "something borrowed and something blue" necessary to carry out the old bridal superstition.

The "something old" is a piece of rare old rose point from a famous Bolling collection. The wedding gown, of course, provides the "something new."

The Galt home in Twentieth street was put in spick and span order for the ceremony and the festivities incident thereto. The floral scheme is on an elaborate order, having been worked out by experts of the White House conservatories.

The tall mirrored mantel in the drawing room, which has been done over in American Beauty tints, is banked with lilies of the valley and Killarney roses. The tall palms which have formed part of the decorations at all White House weddings since that of Nellie Grant have been placed in the drawing room.

The dining room, the scene of the wedding feast, is one of the most interesting rooms in the house. The long mahogany table, an heirloom in the bride's family, has been polished to ultra brightness. The old fashioned buffet is laden with gifts of scores of friends and with the hand wrought silver of the Bolling family.

The country has never witnessed functions more brilliant than those which will be held in the White House after the return of the president and his bride from their honeymoon. She is a gracious and brilliant entertainer, although she has taken little part in social activities during the past eight years. Of course there will be trouble in arranging the diplomatic dinners because of the European war, but the president's bride is somewhat of a diplomat herself and will find a way out. Many receptions have been planned, and Washington society is rejoicing.

Washington has often noted with complimentary phrases the bride's taste in dress. Her friends have always remarked her ability to dress distinctively and becomingly. Back of this ability lies a talent cultivated in the girlhood days. Money was not overabundant in the Bolling family. There was enough to give everybody the education due the standing of an old and influential Virginia family, but cash to buy trousseaux ad lib for a family of girls remarkable for their beauty and popularity was not always available, wherefore Miss Edith Bolling began to utilize her gift for line and form and for color and design. Twenty-five years ago in Wytheville, Va., the new first lady as a girl in her teens developed a great reputation in the large family connection for her ability to buy, to cut out, to fit and to make up divers frocks for divers occasions. So, too, with hats. She has great skill in the building of a hat. She can "poise a wing" or twist a ribbon into a bow with the skill of a trained hand.

Not Fond of Jewelry.

"She has less jewelry than any member of the family," said one of the connection the other day. "I should say she had no favorite gem. The opal is her birthstone and is seen in the handsome bodice jewels, brooches or rings she possesses. She never cared for jewels, even as a young girl."

The bride is fond of flowers. No matter what the blossom, its color, its fragrance, its shape, its size, she is fond of flowers. The president's earliest remembrance took the form of exquisite clusters of orchids, sometimes white, sometimes yellow, sometimes mauve. Huge clusters of rich red roses sometimes replaced the orchids, and again bunches of lilies of the valley beautified the smart toilets in which she appeared either in public or in the drawing rooms of her friends.

A few books showed the president's thoughtfulness from time to time. While not either bookish or a "blue stocking," the bride is a remarkably well informed woman. She has made nine or ten trips to Europe, and each time she has gone she has stopped for periods varying from six months to a year. She is keenly observant, and she delights in leisurely touring about in unfrequented paths.

A Simple Woman.

"You may take it from me, Edith never does anything for effect or because it is considered 'the thing to do.' She is in love with the man Woodrow Wilson. The glamour of the White House did not attract her or influence her judgment in a matter so intimate and vital," was one comment.

This side light is further emphasized in her manner of traveling. She selects her route and her companion, makes her arrangements and sets out sanely. According to another of her friends, she is one "of the most alive and vivid women" imaginable.

An alive and vivid woman she appears in her travels. Two years ago, with Miss Alice Gertrude Gordon, she made a tour of Spain—not the Spain of the cities, but the bypaths of the unfrequented Spain.

Between Miss Gordon and the bride the warmest friendship exists. Called to General Gordon's deathbed, her promise to "look after Gertrude" has resulted in a devoted friendship cemented by long periods of travel in far-off lands. Sentimental only is the tie of "guardianship" which many in Washington, even the closest of friends, consider exists between Miss Gordon and the president's helpmate. However, so devoted is she to her young companion "Altrude" (a play on the given names of Alice Gertrude) that even her business affairs have many times received the steadying influence of her oversight.

Fine "Poor Man's Wife."

To turn to the purely domestic side, she is an excellent housekeeper, and she has a reputation for retaining not only the good will but the co-operation of her domestics. She herself can work out a menu admirably, and if the necessity arose she could personally "get up" a palatable dinner. She is clever at the Sunday evening supper table (a distinctive feature of southern households), and her handling of the chafing dish on these occasions conduces to the good digestion which waits on appetite.

She is a familiar figure in the Washington markets, her smart little run about many times being filled with the more perishable fruits of her domestic shopping.

Altogether she would make a "fine wife for a poor man."

She is open handed and generous, a devoted church woman and until quite recently a member of St. Thomas' Episcopal church. She now attends St. Margaret's, where her brother, Richard Wilmer Bolling, is an usher and where her mother, Mrs. W. H. Bolling; her unmarried brother, John Randolph Bolling, and her sister, Miss Bertha Bolling, also attend.

Fond of Young People.

"To show the younger contingent a good time" is one of her attributes. Not less is she considerate of the aged. Many instances of her looking up the invalid and elderly and taking them for drives about the parks are recorded. The mother of a young southern woman employed in one of the government departments came to visit her daughter, whom the president's bride had frequently met. Almost daily throughout the visit she appeared either in the afternoon or morning and acted as cicerone.

As to her accomplishments, the bride, possessing an avid mind and having traveled extensively—she has passed some time in every country in Europe and has traveled throughout the United States, Canada and Alaska—is thoroughly in touch with the thought and development of the life of the day. She speaks French well. She is a talented pianist. Her fine mezzo soprano voice, while untrained, is admirably suited to ballad singing. She is fond of singing. So also is the president, who himself has a good voice.

Finally she is well poised, "very human" and thoroughly unaffected and sincere. Not only charmingly pretty, she has the distinction of manner and carriage which will admirably conform to the role she is soon to assume—chatelaine of the White House and first lady of the land.

Life in the Trenches

A series of letters written by Canadian Officers now in Belgium, who are relatives of Councilman Allan Cowperthwait, of North Plainfield, have been received by him. The series gives such a graphic description of the life which the Canadian contingent is leading in Belgium, that the Daily Press has secured permission to print the letters in serial form.

Flanders, Sept. 29, 1915.

Dear Father and Mother:—

This is a good chance to write, so I will drop you a few lines. I hope you got my letter, in which the first letters are the key. It is a small place and you may not find it on a small map. At present we are back there resting for a few days. We came out of the trenches on Monday night and after a four-mile march east, we arrived here. It seemed more like fourteen, for it was very cold.

When we arrived here, there was no one to show us where to go, so I tramped around trying to find my batman and my bed. I finally located him, and I got into an empty tent and curled up, till I either congealed or went to sleep. I don't know which. Next morning I got up and had some breakfast and then I partook of a great luxury, viz.: a bath in thick, yellow water, but, nevertheless, it was hot and cleansing. I changed my clothes and felt like a new man. Last night it rained and the place is in an awful mess just now. But I slept like a log and the weight of many a night's lost sleep rolled off my back.

Tonight I am in a billet—a Flemish house with a room to myself. Think of it, and a bed with feather mattress [illegible] but it's a wonderful luxury.

We had to move our camp grounds this afternoon in a pouring rain. My men are sleeping in a big marquee—the ground is very wet but they will have their stretchers under them, so they will be all right. We were in the trenches for eight days altogether and were not so badly off as the rest of them. I stayed in an old farmhouse about half a mile back from the front line, but had to go up to the trenches once and sometimes twice a day. After this I have to stay away from them as much as possible. That is Colonel Fetherstonhaugh's order. The colonel won't like it very well, but he'll have to lump it, I'm afraid.

We have six days in the trenches and six days out of them. Except from the danger point of view, I think the men are more comfortable in them than out.

The great drive has commenced, as you will see by the papers. Our portion of the trenches is already pretty well advanced, so we will sit tight for a while till the French to the south and British to the north straighten the line out. Successes so far have been extremely good and seem to be continuing. We were very lucky—had only six casualties and none of them were very serious, so that I really had a very easy time. I hope it may continue so.

My candle has only half an inch to go till it gets to bed rock, so I guess I had better get on to that very comfortable bed. I got a letter from MacPherson today and also a good letter from Mrs. Greig. George Mowat is well and enjoying life. Their trenches join ours on the north.

Good-night. Much love to all

Your loving son,
"KENNETH."

France, Oct. 1, 1915.

Dear Frank:—

I expect Morgan will have written to you and told you we are out of the trenches. We came out on Monday night. Morgan on Sunday. The rumor is that we return again tomorrow, but there are no orders to that effect as yet. This resting in billets is fine after a prolonged stretch of sleeping with one's clothes on and getting up very early in the morning. Here we go to bed at 9 p. m. and wallow around in comfort until 7:30 a. m. Breakfast is at 8, then we loaf around and pretend we are doing something till 1, when lunch appears. Then we have a sleep or, perhaps, go to the nearest town, which is about three miles away, and get back in time for dinner at 6. In other words, we live to eat and sleep.

Morgan had a bad cold, but it is getting better and I think he is O. K. at present. He has his being with his company, which is quartered in tents just outside the village. The staff, including yours truly, have billets in the village. I am now in my own room, which is a fair size, with a big double bed in it, also a table and wash-stand. The people are French or Flemish—I don't know which. The good wife brings me a cup of tea in the morning before I get up, and is in other ways very kind and obliging. So you see what awful hardships we are enduring.

The trench work, of course, is rather different, though I am very well fixed there also. My dressing station is behind battalion headquarters and there I reign. I have my sixteen stretcher bearers there with me, also four water duty men. As the casualty list has been very small and as no one is allowed to be sick when in the trenches, we have had, up to date, quite an easy time of it. We have had only six casualties, which were sent away from the battalion, and I think they will be all right. Most of them were shrapnel wounds, but one was a bullet wound which touched the edge of the lung. Have also had a couple of men with ruptured ear drums from the bursting of a shell quite close to them. I make a trip to the trenches every day, but the A. D. M. S. says I'll have to cut it out or one of these days there won't be any medical officer. The colonel won't like that very well, I'm afraid. However, I expect I'll still have to make a certain number of trips for emergency cases, etc.

I met Percy Brown the other day, very unexpectedly. He is in a hospital in the town about three miles from us, so if you know where he is, you know where we are. I am going to try and have dinner with him tomorrow if we don't go to the trenches.

Hope you got the photo I sent all right.

Well, I will close and get to bed, as it is getting late (9 p. m.). Give my love to Aunt Mary and Elsie.

Yours,
"KENNETH."

Help for Christmas Shopping.

The busy mother will find many articles ready for use or for gifts at the sale to be held in the Franklin School, Plainfield, both afternoon and evening, on December 15. The purchase of these articles will encourage the teachers and members of the opportunity class who have worked throughout the year to make the sale a success. The articles are particularly well made, and include aprons bureau scarfs and serving bags, as well as more fancy articles.

The Value of Play.

Self-improvement societies that have tried to find the best way to live have never discovered anything more valuable than play.

A man may shake up a continent by his energy, or build kingdoms by his brains, but, so far as his personal life is concerned, he has been a failure if he has not learned to play. Play, of course, is not confined to games. It may be a walk in the woods, a row on the river, a sail on the lake; to some, tending their garden; to others, chopping wood. To play is to follow the irresponsible inclination which gives the most pleasure with the least mental strain and bodily wear.

Ideal play is a brief period of carefree living snatched from the regular routine. It is enjoying the pleasure of being alive; it is absorbing from the earth and air and sun without conscious effort. More and more we are trying to teach the children how to play, but we do not know ourselves. We send our children to the public playground, and go on ourselves getting heavy and gloomy and nervous. We shall be happier if we alter this.—Answers, London.

Social Training in the Home.

Children drift with the social current where chance takes them; or they are restrained from social intercourse; or their associations are consciously chosen and directed by their parents. Those who drift are usually stranded in the quicksands of evil. Those who are unduly restrained become self-centered, and develop into recluses or hermits. Those who are wisely guarded and directed become the useful members of society—the men and women whose lives count for good in their communities and countries.

Wise parents give much of the needed social training in the home. They make companions of their sons and daughters. They, as it were, grow up with their children. The family go together to Sunday-school and church, and at church occupy the same pew. They romp together at home in the sitting room. They enjoy a season of music together daily in the home. They take afternoon and evening walks and drives. They talk pleasantly around the table on current events, the affairs of the community, or perhaps some reading they are doing. They plan together. They advise and seek advice of one another. They make known the secrets of their hearts to one another. They are one. In such homes the children readily imbibe the courtesies of good society. They grow up unconsciously into such manhood and womanhood as fits them to be admired and used in their communities for things of common interest. Such homes are great blessings to the school, the church and the State.

FAVERSHAM IN "THE HAWK."

"The author of 'The Hawk,' has given us an old tune, but with interesting variations," wrote the critic of the Evening Sun when William Faversham presented the play in New York last season. "That this is a creditable achievement was testified to by the appreciation with which the play and its interpreters were received last evening,—which even the most blase could not mistake for merely polite Faversham. * * * However those who scoff at the eternal triangle will do well to see 'The Hawk' and observe with what interesting variations the old story can be told, and with what dramatic effectiveness and emotional appeal. Nothing obvious in its three acts, like boarding house cuisine,—but suspense and anticipation all through; not intense perhaps, but always interesting." Local playgoers will have an opportunity to judge of this thrilling love story when Mr. Faversham brings it to the Shubert Theatre, Newark, for an engagement of one week, beginning Monday evening, December 13.

New Providence.

The choir of the Methodist church will give the cantata, "The Shepherd King," on the evening of December 26. The Sunday-school will play "Cinderella's Fairy God Mother" at a date to be announced later.

A play, "The Tale of a Hat," will be given Friday night in the Presbyterian chapel.

A gang of linemen employed by the Western Union Telegraph Company is busy lowering telegraph poles between Whitehouse Station and High Bridge.

Mrs. Catherine Suydam, of Whitehouse Station is visiting Mrs. Garretson Hageman, at Millstone.

The authorities are endeavoring to locate the miscreants who visited the sheds of the Whitehouse Station Reformed church Sunday, while services were in progress, and stole blankets from wagons and automobiles.

The automobile motor bus which transports pupils from New Germantown and Whitehouse Station to High Bridge High School went out of commission near New Germantown Monday, and the pupils were obliged to make the trip by train.

The Christmas fair and bazaar of the Reformed church, at Whitehouse Station, will open tonight.

The telephone companies are endeavoring to secure a clue to wire thieves who have been operating at the county line between this place and North Branch. Saturday night two sections of copper wire were stolen from the New York Telephone Company and four sections from the New Jersey Telephone Company.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

"The Battle Cry of Peace," now being presented at Proctor's Theatre is the most realistic and impressive offering ever shown on the screen. This production strikes a blow for national security, and kindles anew in the heart of every true American that vital spark of devotion to country which assures its lasting safety and honor at whatever personal sacrifice. A spectacular incident is the irresistible sweep into New York of the invading army, numbering nearly 30,000 in the picture. Among other startling effects are the bombardmen of New York, Wall street in flames, the dynamiting of public buildings, not to mention hundreds of other sensational climaxes in illustrating the destruction of the city. Of the many factors that carry "The Battle Cry of Peace" on the highway of popularity, none proves more potent than the personality of its chief actor, Charles Richman. Broadway has few stars closer to the heart of its theatre-going public, and none with a greater following. This massive spectacle will be presented for the last time today. Beginning tomorrow and continuing on Saturday a new program of Triangle Plays will be presented, which includes Dustin Farnum in "The Iron Strain" and Raymond Hitchcock in "My Valet." Dustin Farnum is one of the greatest stars of the speaking stage, and is also well known by photoplay patrons. In "The Iron Strain" he has scored a triumph far beyond that which he enjoyed in these productions. In conjunction with "The Iron Strain," Raymond Hitchcock, the famous musical comedy star, will be seen in a vehicle overloaded with laughs, entitled "My Valet." Mack Sennett, the producer, also enacts an important part, and Mabel Normand, the Keystone Girl, assumes the role of the heroine. With a cast like the above this comedy cannot but help produce results. It is said to be even funnier than "A Game Old Knight," presented at Proctor's the first part of the week. On Saturday the management has arranged a special toy matinee for the kiddies.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"The Macy Models," one of the most gorgeously costumed musical comedy acts in vaudeville, is the headline attraction in the new vaudeville bill at the Plainfield Theatre today. The company numbers ten people, six of them being girls who can really sing and really dance. The other four persons are comedians with a "line of funnisms guaranteed to cure the most chronic case of blues."

Five other high-class acts, all of them direct from the "big time" circuit, make up the well-balanced bill. In addition to the vaudeville there will be special photoplays each day for the remainder of the week. The feature for the programs this afternoon and tonight is the current instalment of the greatest of all serio-comedy films, "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford." The Pathe semi-weekly is also shown at the Plainfield Theatre the new series coming in on Mondays and Thursdays.

Tomorrow night will witness another of those popular "country stores," a feature which packs the Plainfield Theatre at both performances. Valuable gifts are passed out at both the early and late shows, and many of the patrons receive awards worth many times what they paid for admission. Number yourself among the audiences and see if you can be one of the lucky ones.

The announcement that May Robson comes to the Plainfield Theatre, matinee and night, Monday, December 13, in a splendid revival of "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," gives assurance of a performance well worth while. May Robson needs no introduction to Plainfield theatregoers. As a character actress she is superb. Her exquisite style and poise, her smooth nerve-soothing voice and the rapidity with which she changes from the ludicrous to the emotional fairly captivates her audience. The role of Aunt Mary is destined to contribute to her fame very much as in years gone by the "Widow Bedott" did to Neil Burgess and Joshua Whitcomb to Denman Thompson. The humorous side of Aunt Mary reminds one of the innocent eccentricities found in "The Old Homestead," for it brings into sharp contrast the simple, commonplace experiences of every day life in a rural community, with those to be found in the smart set of New York. Miss Robson is surrounded by an unusually well balanced cast and a new and pretentious scenic production.

You May Find a Worker Trained and Fit to do Your Work.

A worker whose salary you will voluntarily raise in a short time!

"Getting along" with half-competent help, in home, office, store or factory, is a poor plan—a poor business policy.

The quest for the Competent Worker is important enough to justify a real campaign of classified advertising in the Plainfield Daily Press—although it does not often require a very long campaign.

AUTOS WILL COST MORE NEXT YEAR

Manufacturer Tells of Increase in the Price of Materials.

Your 1916 model automobile is going to cost just a little more than the one purchased in the spring of 1915, according to S. P. McDonald, vice-president of the Moon Motor Car Company.

As usual they are laying it on the war.

A scarcity of material, war orders in the various machine shops, the difficulty of securing deliveries and difficulty of keeping production up to the highest pitch in the face of the competition that war munition orders have created all are assigned as reasons for the coming advance in prices. No advance has been reported as yet, but dealers are beginning to make excuses for one, which is a pretty fair indication that the spring buyer is going to have to dig deeper for his car.

The biggest item of news to owners of automobiles is that the Continental Motor Manufacturing Company, of Detroit, has declared an arbitrary increase of ten per cent. in the price of products. This effect on the ordinary owner is shown in the fact that fifty-six of the leading medium priced cars on the market are made with Continental motors. Axle companies have notified motor car manufacturers that prices on all axles will be raised for goods to be delivered after March 1, copper has gone so high that radiator companies are losing on old contracts and will raise prices as soon as these expire, and prices on everything are withdrawn, so that the car maker is unable to say just what he will be able to do in the spring.

Just at this time of the year there has always been announcement of reduction in prices of cars, but the brightest prospects for next spring are that the cost of new models will be no lower, while even the more conservative dealers admit that there is little hope for anything but an increase.

PLAINFIELD PROPERTIES SOLD AT SHERIFF'S SALE

Elizabeth, Dec. 9.—Norman Mayer, complainant, was the purchaser yesterday at sheriff's sale of a plot of land on the northwesterly side of South avenue, 661 feet from the northeast corner of Berckman street, Plainfield. Jennie F. Potter and Ellis Potter were the defendants. The purchase price was $7,500.

Norman K. Barnes, complainant, was the purchaser of land at the southerly side of West Fifth street, 5[illegible] feet from the easterly side of Lexington avenue, Plainfield. The defendant was Isabella V. Lyddon and the purchase price $300.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Adv.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

LAST SAD RITES FOR MR. CONNER

Business Associates and Many Friends Attend Funeral of Well Known Local Man.

SERVICES AT THE HOME

Rev. Dr. Strong and Dr. Barnes the Officiating Clergymen—Floral Tributes Come From Many Different Points—Burial in Hillside.

Representative business men from various parts of the country, together with many local relatives and friends were in attendance yesterday afternoon at the funeral of William Andrew Conner, vice-president and general manager of the Standard Underground Cable Company, who died suddenly, Monday afternoon, while in the office of the works at Perth Amboy. The service was held at the late home at Hillside avenue, and was conducted by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, assisted by the Rev. Dr. William Barnes, of the Baptist Board of Missions.

A quartet, composed of Miss Grace Carroll, Miss Etta Raybert, William Tallamy and William Holmes, rendered three selections, "Abide With Me," "Crossing the Bar," and "Peace, Perfect Peace." The floral tributes were magnificent; a number of them come from friends and business associates as far as Chicago and Pittsburgh, the great number giving mute evidence of the esteem in which Mr Conner was held.

Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the following men acting as honorary pallbearers: Charles W. McCutchen and Alexander Gilbert, representing the First Baptist church, of which Mr. Conner was a trustee; Joseph W. Marsh and Frank Reinhart of Pittsburgh, representing the Standard Underground Cable Company and C. C. Baldwin and Sidney Riddlestorser, from the Perth Amboy Trust Company.

The death of Mr. Conner takes from Plainfield a man, who, although not identified with its public life, was nevertheless keenly alive to its needs and linked by blood ties to its leading families. He was a first cousin to Orville T. Waring, of Park avenue and his brother, Richard S. Waring, the latter being the founder of the Standard Underground Cable Company, of Perth Amboy. He was in charge of the first plant operated by the company at Pittsburgh, and was its first factory superintendent, and had been at the head of its manufacturing plant up to the time of his death. He was a director of the cable company for more than ten years, and was its vice-president for about six years. Prior to becoming engaged with the Standard Underground Cable Company, Mr. Conner was superintendent of a Standard Oil Company refinery near Pittsburgh.

DIAMOND DISC STUDIO WILL OPEN TOMORROW

After completing extensive alterations the new Diamond Disc Studio will open at 319 West Front street tomorrow morning. The Plainfield public will then enjoy, under the most favorable conditions the wonderful re-creation of music by Thomas A Edison's new diamond-disc phonograph. The Edison Company is represented by Captain F. W. Vogel, who has spared no effort nor expense to make the studio a perfect setting for a perfect instrument. A recital hall will be used for a series of public recitals, at which will be heard the world-famous artists, whose music is so superbly re-created by Mr. Edison's favorite invention.

Here in the subdued light, with the eye soothed by restful colors and simple decorative effects, the music lover may sit and listen to Bonci, Marie Rappold, Anna Case, and other master singers. The re-creation is so exact that the severest critic cannot detect the difference. Stephen Haff, former manager of the Ritz, will manage the sales force of the studio. Both he and Captain Vogel will welcome music lovers who are interested in hearing the wonderful diamond disc.

TOLD OF MOTHERS' CONGRESS

Miss Millicent Humpston and Mrs. B. F. Tallamy gave brief reports of the recent State Mother's Congress at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Washington School held at the school Wednesday night. Afterward pupils of the school gave "The Birds' Christmas Carol" in tableaux. J. E. Kimball read the story as the various parts were interpreted by the children.

MAYOR ENDORSES COMMUNITY XMAS

And T. R. VanBoskerck Gives Seventy Sacks of Flour to Aid the Work.

Mayor Calkins has sent his check to aid the Community Christmas movement, and has this to say about it:

"I am sure that the Community Christmas Fund will be generously supported by our people, because all moneys subscribed are to be expended directly for the purpose of making Christmas a happy day for some among us who are no less deserving of happiness than we are, but somehow are just a little further removed from it, and therefore need our encouragement and brotherly cheer. The best way to create a fund for Christmas cheer and aid is for everybody to give just a little. A dollar from five hundred will mean more than five hundred dollars from one person, who would not feel a gift twice as large. I hope a great many of our good citizens will come forward and participate in this good work, each giving a little. We shall be happy ourselves if we know that we have a part in the happiness of others."

The purchasing and distribution committee are beginning to lay plans for their work, and it has been requested that those who are contemplating personally doing any giving to poor families at Christmas will notify the Community Christmas, so that there may be no conflict. Mail addressed to the Community Christmas Committee, Plainfield, N. J., telling of any contemplated gifts to poor people, will be promptly attended to, and thus all will be provided for, and none will get more than a just share.

Contributions of money should be sent to DeWitt Hubbell, treasurer of the committee, at the Plainfield Trust Company.

Thomas R. VanBoskerck, of this city, has made a contribution of seventy sacks of flour to the fund, and the following have made money contributions since yesterday: John M. Whiton, Mrs. J. K. Myers, the Misses Martin, Harry E. White, Carrie De Ronde, Mayor Leighton Calkins, F. C. Langhorne, the Misses Tweedy, Eugene H. Hatch, Mrs. Margaret Blair, Andrew J. Gavett, Charity Circle of King's Daughters, and a friend. The total is now well over $500, and more is coming every day.

MISS ANNABELLE M'AFEE HAS A BIRTHDAY PARTY

Following the euchre and "500" party held in St. Mary's Social Hall last night, a number of young people accompanied Miss Annabelle McAfee to her home on West Sixth street, where they assisted in celebrating her birthday anniversary. Dancing, singing and piano selections were enjoyed until a late hour. The young woman's mother served refreshments to the guests.

Those present included the Misses Annabelle McAfee, Catherine McGauley, May Murray, Alice and May McAfee, and the Messrs. Joseph Regan, Albert Brynairski, Frank Hart, Dan McAfee and Joseph Sullivan.

SALVATION ARMY MAKES APPEAL FOR DONATIONS

The Salvation Army is busy making preparations for the annual free Christmas dinner and tree celebration for the poor of the city. In the past this work has been well supported by public spirited citizens and the officers of the local branch of the army are anxious that this year's celebration shall be no exception, unless they can do better.

There will be no house-to-house soliciting done this year. A number of appeals have been sent out and a few contributions have been received. An early response will enable the army to carry out its plans. The familiar kettles are now to be seen on the street and boxes have been placed in a number of stores so that all will have an opportunity to help this worthy charity. All checks should be made payable to the Salvation Army, 157 East Second street.

TO GIVE BENEFIT DANCE.

Under the auspices of the Plainfield Musicians' Protective Union a testimonial reception and dance will be given at Debele's Hall, Friday evening, December 17, for the benefit of a disabled member. An orchestra of sixteen pieces will furnish the music.

HOLDING CHURCH BAZAAR.

The wintry weather last night did not prevent a large attendance at the bazaar given by the Ladies' Aid Society in the Netherwood Reformed church. The fair will be continued today and tomorrow.

RUSSIA WILL BE AMERICA'S ALLY.

So Declares Prof. John D. Prince in Lecture Before Monday Afternoon Club.

TO BE TRADE NATION

Splendid Natural Advantages Mark Czar's People as Leaders Among Nations of the World, Says the Speaker.

Professor John B. Prince, of Columbia University, gave a highly interesting and instructive lecture on "Modern Russia," before the members of the literature department of the Monday Afternoon Club and their friends in the parish house of the Congregational church, yesterday afternoon, during the course of which he expressed the sentiment that if Russia was defeated in the present war, because of her enormous size she would not be entirely eliminated but would still be an important factor in unionizing the Slavonic races for the future.

Continuing, Prof. Prince said that after the war, the great empire would strike out as a trade nation with this country as her greatest ally and should the supposition of her defeat become true, she can never suffer as much as England, Germany, France or Italy, because of her immense size and her splendid natural advantages. In modern times her increased agricultural activities, her entrance among the trade nations and her initiative mark her among the leading peoples of the world. Russia owes much of her civilization to Germanic organization.

At the outset of his remarks, the

ORGANIZE TROOP OF BOY PIONEERS

Emerson Brooks, Founder, Addresses Meeting and Temporary Officers Chosen.

Steps were taken at a preliminary meeting held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon to form an encampment of Boy Pioneers. Emerson Brooks, of Montclair, the founder, was present with two boys from the troop of the First Congregational church of that place. He addressed the assemblage of a dozen local boys, explaining the objects of the organization, which are somewhat similar to those of the Boy Scouts, in fact, it is an aid to the latter.

Mr Brooks told how the Montclair encampment has grown to a membership of 160. The organization is intended for boys between the ages of 8 and 12 years, who are too young to join the Boy Scouts. But it has been shown to be a good feeder to the latter, for after a boy has passed the age of 12 years he is generally anxious to become identified with the Boy Scouts.

The boys present yesterday were deeply interested in the remarks by Mr. Brooks and when the invitation was given for enrollment all signed their names. A preliminary organization was effected by appointing Rodman Parvin guide and Bruce Buttfield assistant guide. It was decided to hold a meeting every Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, and a general invitation is extended to all boys between the ages of 8 and 12 years to become identified with the organization. Among those present yesterday was Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the church, who, although he did not speak, evidenced much interest in the movement.

CHANCE TO MAKE XMAS GIFT.

The Children's Home on Westervelt avenue is very much in need of a pair of platform scales. There are frequently cases where children are sent to the Home who are very frail, and in order to properly watch their development the scales are much needed. Any person wishing to make a Christmas gift of the scales may send them direct to the institution.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald M. Huse, of Scotch Plains, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Chapman Huse, to Ten Eyck R. Beardsley, of New York, formerly of Fanwood. Miss Huse is the niece of Captain Harry Huse, of the U. S. N., and a granddaughter of the late Colonel Caleb Huse, U. S. A. No date has been set for the wedding.

ANOTHER MR. BLAIR.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam C. Blair, of Park avenue, are the parents of a boy, born yesterday.

FORMER PLAINFIELD MAN IN U. S. PRISON

Hallie G. Morris Arrested for Desertion in Albany, New York.

Hallie J. Morris, who was a citizen of Plainfield from April to November of this year, has been arrested in Albany, N. Y., as a deserter from the U. S. army and is now confined in Fort Jay, N. Y. Morris is well known here. He came to this city in April and after explaining the virtues of "Killstain," a new polisher and cleaner, which he claimed to have created, he interested J. Lewis Bennett in forming a company to manufacture and sell it. Morris recently left for a business trip and it was while away that he was arrested.

A non-commissioned officer of the U. S. army called on Mr. Bennett this morning for the purpose of securing an affidavit from him stating that he knew nothing about the record of Morris and was therefore not a party to his crime against the government. The securing of the affidavit was merely a formality as Mr. Bennett was not suspected of complicity in the affair.

DEMAND DISMISSAL OF THREE EXECUTORS

Children Only Getting $50,000 from Estate Charge Bad Handling.

Somerville, Dec. 10.—Mrs. Grace R. Riva, daughter of the late William Rowland, of Franklin township, appeared before Judge Beekman this morning as guardian of her two children, to urge that the executors of her father's estate be dismissed. She charged that they had been negligent in handling the funds left in their trust for her children and that the beneficiaries of her father's estate should be receiving six per cent. interest instead of four. The children now have an income of $50,000 a year from the $1,900,000 left by Rowland. The executors are Jennie R. Adrian, William H. Leupp and Frank St. John.

TWO NEW POLICEMEN ARE SWORN IN BY THE MAYOR

Messmer Wendell and Thomas L. Bebout were this morning sworn in by Mayor Calkins as special policemen. They will serve on the force during a probation period, after which they will become regulars if the police board is satisfied as to their qualifications.

GOT UP EARLY, BEAT HIS WIFE, GETS ANOTHER CHANCE

Arthur Kane, a young white man, was arraigned in court this morning on a charge of assaulting his wife in the face with his fist. The only defense that Kane could put up was that he had to get out of bed so early in the morning that it made him cross. His wife and his employer both denied that he got up, although he was supposed to. The young wife begged that he be given another chance, and Kane appeared penitent so Judge De Mezi suspended sentence.

REV. DR. STRONG ILL.

The Rev. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, is confined to his bed with the grip, and will be unable to occupy the pulpit Sunday. The supply for the morning and evening services will be announced later.

DR. EATON MAKES UP WITH OFFICIALS

All But Dr. Moldenke Accept Invitation to Meet at His Home.

AGREEMENT IS IN SIGHT

Moldenke is "Out of It"—Submits Long Statement to Committee as His Side of Controversy—Personalities Are Regretted.

While an agreement in the controversy between Dr. Eaton and the Township of North Plainfield was not reached at last night's meeting of the Township Committee it was decided that members of the Committee should meet with Dr. Eaton and former Judge William A. Coddington at 9 a. m. tomorrow when they will go over the Valley roadway for the purpose of deciding what improvements are needed.

It is believed by all members that an amicable ending of the trouble is in sight. Dr. Charles Moldenke will not be a party to the conference of tomorrow, he having refused the invitation of Dr. Eaton to come to his home. Dr. Moldenke read a long statement of his side of the controversy at the Committee meeting last night, and after the other two members had agreed to meet Dr. Eaton and Mr. Coddington in an effort to bring about an agreement he announced that he "would have nothing more to do with it."

If the officials and the taxpayer can get together tomorrow morning on what trees are to be trimmed and what bushes cut down legal action in the case will be avoided, but if they fail to agree and any attempt is made upon the part of the Commit-

STATE SUFFRAGISTS WILL RE-ORGANIZE

Meet Today at Trenton to Adopt New Constitution and By-Laws.

Suffragists from every county will attend a meeting to be held at Library Hall, Trenton, today to discuss plans for the reorganization of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association and to adopt a new constitution and bylaws.

It is understood that a plan for reorganization by political districts somewhat similar to that of the political parties of the State, will probably be adopted. The committee on reorganization is as follows: Chairman, Mrs. J. N. Tuttle, Madison; ex-officio, Mrs. E. F. Feickert, of Plainfield, State president; Mrs. F. H. Colvin, East Orange; Miss Margaret L. MacNaughton, Jersey City; Mrs. Waldo A. Amos, Hoboken; Mrs. Robert S. Huse, Elizabeth; Mrs. R. P. Fellows, Vineland; Mrs. R. P. Finley, Merchantville; Mrs. Arthur Hunter, Montclair; Mrs. Philip McKim Garrison, West Orange; Miss Florence Halsey, Midland Park.

EUCHRE AND "500" PARTY GIVEN AT ST. MARY'S HALL

The euchre and "500" given last night in St. Mary's Social Hall proved a success both from a financial and social standpoint. Twenty-five tables were necessary to accommodate the players. Prizes in the "500" play were awarded to Mrs. Peacock, Miss Nora Callanan, Al. Desnoyers and Alfred La Rock, while the euchre prizes went to Miss Margaret Winters, Mrs. John Connolly and the Messrs. Egan, Dillon and Burne.

Following the card playing, refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed for the remainder of the evening. The affair was in charge of the Misses Catherine McGauley, Annabelle McAfee and May Murray.

VOLUNTEER POLICEMEN FOR WORK IN TOWNSHIP.

The services of a number of residents of North Plainfield township who volunteered for special police duty was accepted at last night's meeting of the Township Committee. Those who volunteered their services were L. K. Hyde, Dr. Richard Moldenke, D. T. Kenney, John Hermann, Melvin H. Cleaves, A. F. R. Anderson and George Mobus.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 27 degrees; 11 a. m., 30 degrees; 1 p. m., 29 degrees.

ADMIRING FRIENDS HONOR MR. ZIMMER

Expert Introducing New Fire Apparatus in West End is Accorded a Reception.

Members of the Reminiscent Club and other friends in the West End, to the number of thirty in all gave an informal reception last night in honor of Walter Zimmer, of Jersey City, the expert in charge of the new Mack combination automobile apparatus for Hose Company No. 3, on West Fourth street. The affair was held in the club's headquarters, where a program of cards, vocal and instrumental music and addresses lasted several hours. Councilman Charles C. Graves, a member of the councilmanic fire committee was one of those who spoke, while Mr. Zimmer responded to all the good wishes accorded to him. The gathering resolved itself into a celebration of Mr. Zimmer's newly acquired parental dignity, a fine baby having arrived at his Jersey City home Tuesday night.

Musical selections were contributed by Fred Zweifel, who operates a snare drum, bass drum and cymbals to the accompaniment of a phonograph, and vocal numbers were sung by little Jack Mehl, George Zeise, Tom Muir and Leonard Schlick. Refreshments were served in conclusion. Mr. Zimmer is one of the best automobile fire apparatus men in the country, and has introduced Mack vehicles in many of the largest cities. He will conduct an official test of the new West End apparatus this afternoon or tomorrow, after which he will leave for a new location.

The committee in charge of the reception was composed of David L. Coleman, Barton K. Davis, William Jaeger and John King.

CONTEST TO BE FEACTURE OF HOSPITAL DANCE

One of the features of the dance to be given New Year's eve at the Plainfield High School under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital, will be a dancing contest at 11 o'clock. The dancing will commence at 9:30 and continue until 3 o'clock New Year's morning, and not from 9 to 11 o'clock as reported. Prominent citizens will be chosen as judges for the contest.

The committee arranging the affair promise other new and thrilling features to celebrate the arrival of 1916. Those in charge of the arrangements comprise Miss Eva Browne, chairman; Mrs. J. Whitney Baker, Mrs. Henry Brower, Mrs. Frederick Goddard, Miss Helen Harman, Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, Mrs. Walter L. Righter, Mrs. William B. Tyler and Mrs. Edward Waring.

MRS. IDA SMITH BROKAW DIES AT MOTHERS' HOME

Friends in this city received word today of the death of Mrs. Ida Smith Brokaw, which occurred early this morning at the home of her mother, Mrs. Milton Arensberg, of 876 East 15th street, Flatbush, Brooklyn. She had been ill for a long time. Mrs. Brokaw was very well known in Plainfield because of her residence in Watchung, from which place she removed with her mother and stepfather two years ago. When the Daily Press conducted its European tour contest in 1912, Mrs. Brokaw was winner in one of the districts and enjoyed the trip to England, France, Germany and other countries. Beside her mother there are no other surviving relatives.

The funeral will be held at the East Fifteenth street residence in Brooklyn, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in a Brooklyn cemetery.

MEN'S ASSOCIATION EUCHRE.

The Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest conducted a euchre party and social in the parish house last night, which was attended by the members and a large number of friends. Six prizes were awarded, three for women and three for men. Refreshments were served in conclusion. The affair was arranged by the entertainment committee of the association, of which Ernest Doerflinger is chairman.

UNDERGOES OPERATION.

Mrs. Samuel J. Robinson, of West Third street, who has been ill for several weeks, underwent an operation yesterday at the home of her son, Joseph Robinson, also of West Third street. It was performed by Dr. Helmuth, a New York specialist, assisted by Dr. Roger Cooley, of Dunellen, and Dr. F. W. Cornwall, of this city. Mrs. Robinson underwent the ordeal successfully and today was reported as resting easily.

FORCED BACK ON GREEK TERRITORY

Anglo-French and Serbian Forces Driven Across Border, Say Germans.

1,200 ARE CAPTURED

Crisis Has Come for Constantine—He Must Protect Allies and Face German Invasion or Disarm Retreating Armies.

Berlin, Dec. 10 (by wireless).—The Anglo-French army in Bulgaria has retreated to Greek soil before the advance of the Teutonic Allies, according to information received in military quarters today. This means that the Greek crisis has come, and that King Constantine must disarm and intern the Allied soldiers or German troops will follow them.

BORO YOUTHS PERFORM DEEDS OF HEROISM

Richard Sullivan, the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, of Dunellen avenue, is entitled to a Carnegie medal, according to his friends. On Tuesday he rescued his playmate, Johnnie Doyle, from Green brook, and yesterday afternoon he stopped a runaway horse belonging to D. T. Heaume & Son, the North avenue grocers. The Heaume rig had been stopped by Alfred Purkis, the driver, in front of the residence of Samuel Hoffman, on North avenue. While Mr. Purkis was in the place delivering groceries, the horse was scared by a passing trolley and bolted. Young Sullivan saw the runaway coming and ran out into the street to stop it. As the horse was speeding past him he mounted the side step with surprising quickness, and, grasping the lines, brought the animal to a halt.

In the morning the Heaume concern had had another runaway. Their delivery wagon, No. 2, with Leslie Apps in charge, was going in a northerly direction on Lincoln avenue. Opposite the Lincoln School a vinegar jug fell out of the wagon. As Mr. Apps stopped his horse, some of the schoolboys threatened to snowball Apps. In the meantime the horse became scared and ran away. Arthur Russ, who, like Sullivan, is only thirteen years old, ran out into the road, and, catching hold of the tailboard of the wagon, jumped in. He grasped the lines, which were fastened to the top of the wagon, and succeeded in bringing the horse to a stop.

The regular meeting of the Foresters, Monday night, will be marked by the annual election of officers and a smoker.

Miss Anna Alberti, of North avenue, is detained at home by illness.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, P. O. of A., will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting in W. G. Holton Hall, this evening.

Betsy Carpenter, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carpenter, of Prospect avenue, has recovered from an attack of chicken-pox.

Mrs. Joseph Fromeyer and daughter, Verna, and the Misses Dorothy and Ruth Shively, have returned from a visit in Newark.

Miss Celeste Doyle is suffering from eye trouble and obliged to discontinue her school studies for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kirchner, Jr., of Lincoln avenue, have the whooping cough.

Joseph M. Maier, of North avenue, is ill with the grip.

A. B. George and family, who have resided in the Henry Schneidler house, No. 424 Front street, for the past nine months, will move back to Richmond Borough, New York, this month.

Mrs. Emma De Long has gone to her winter home on Riverside Drive, New York city.

Mrs. Frank Van Nuis is among the number who are suffering from severe colds.

Friendship Council, No. 81, Jr. O. U. A. M., will have an initiation and nomination of officers at its meeting, Monday night.

TO EXHIBIT POULTRY.

The forepart of the week, Freeman D. Baerman, the local poultry fancier, shipped thirty-eight of his White Houdan chickens to the poultry show, which opened in Chicago on Wednesday.

SELLS HIS NEW HOUSE.

The John Pierson house on Penfield place, which is under construction, has been sold by Firman H. Gise to the Apgar Construction Company. Mr. Pierson has been obliged to sell the place on account of the health of his four-year-old daughter and he has been advised to move to Colorado.

Miss Rita Brokaw, of Center street, has resumed her duties, as teacher of the seventh grade of the Whittier School, after a brief illness.

Plains & Fanwood.

A number of the young people of the 'Plains have arranged a strawride for tomorrow night.

The local members of the Westfield Lodge, Royal Arcanum, attended a meeting held in the lodge rooms last night, and later enjoyed an entertainment.

The meetings of the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge Club have been discontinued until after the Christmas holidays, when the next one will be held on January 4. Nearly all of the other local organizations have also discontinued their activities for the time being.

Jack Baker, a former resident of the 'Plains, will have to undergo an operation on his arm shortly to have a piece of bone removed. A kick from a horse here last winter broke his arm, and instead of knitting properly, the injured member always troubled him, until at a recent examination it was found part of the bone had become affected, necessitating removal.

The local boys, who used to play as the parish house second team several years ago, have organized under the same name to play this winter. In their first game with St. Paul's parish house five, of Westfield, they were beaten, but the fact that they have no court to practice on may be partly responsible. They are looking for games with teams to be played on opponents' court.

The Bible school of Scotch Plains and Fanwood met at the home of the Misses Kyte, of Martine avenue, yesterday morning, when a worker from the New York Bible School made an interesting talk.

Arthur Kyte and Wallace York, of England, are visiting the Misses Kyte, of Martine avenue, for a few days, while their ship is loading for the return voyage.

Miss Anna Lou Outwater, of Tillistown road, is recovering rapidly from a minor operation recently performed at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Miss Carmel Venezia, daughter of Sabino Venezia, of Terrill road, and one of the most influential figures in the local Italian colony, will become the bride tomorrow night at the Stony Hill church of Joseph S. Del Duca, a prominent Italian, of Berkeley Heights.

The nineteenth chapter of John will be the subject of study tonight at the prayer meeting conducted in the Methodist church by the Rev. Raymond E. Marshal.

William Hull, of Westfield avenue, is detained at home by illness.

Friday, December 17, and Sunday, December 19, have been set aside as times for services to be held in the Episcopal churches to pray for peace, according to a letter the Rev. Oscar S. Michael, pastor of All Saints' Episcopal church, has received from Bishop Paul Mathews, of the New Jersey Diocese.

Watchung.

The Christian Endeavor meeting will be held this evening in the chapel. The leader will be Miss Sadie Bodenheimer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McWade and sons have returned to their home after a visit in New York city.

Gerod H. Underhill is traveling in New York State.

The North Plainfield Township Improvment Society will hold its monthly meeting Monday evening in Improvement Hall.

Mrs. William E. Patte and Mrs. Elmer E. Kingman have been visiting in New York city.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Sociey held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Otto Steffens, in Plainfield, yesterday afternoon. After the business meeting a social was enjoyed.

Mrs. Gerod H. Underhill and children are spending several weeks in Brooklyn, N. Y.

MAKES UP WITH OFFICIALS

teemen to act against the wishes of Dr. Eaton he will resort to an injunction.

"I will not agree to have the Valley road denuded of trees nor will I agree to tresspassing on my property," said Dr. Eaton this morning, but he added that Chairman Anderson and Commiteeman Brokaw had ideas near his own as to the proper condition of a country road, and that there was every indication of an agreement as to what improvements were needed in front of his house when the officials meet with him tomorrow.

In getting out of the Eaton controversy Dr. Charles Moldenke gave out the following statement, which is also signed by Dr. Richard Moldenke.

"A number of misleading statements have been given out to the press of Plainfield recently in connection with the enforcement of the township ordinance for clearing the public road of brush and obstructing trees. The first statement made by Rev. Dr. Charles Moldenke, the committeeman involved in the attack by Rev. Dr. Eaton, was officially presented to the Township Committee at the public meeting of yesterday evening. It narrates the entire proceeding as it actually came about.

"Unfortunatley, however, the controversy has led to the spread of wild exaggerations and rumors of a dastardly character, and the name of Dr. Richard Moldenke was also dragged into the matter. On presentation of the situation to Dr. Eaton's counsel by the attorney of the two gentleman involved, Dr. Eaton very properly denied any act or intention of attacking the personal integrity of the complainants. Hence the rumors can well be allowed to die down without court action.

"Controversies regarding the execution of a public duty are always deplorable when they rest upon a difference in the point of view. City-bred people look upon the scruff growing along the roadside differently than those raised in the country—who, by the way, know their public needs best as shown by the mandatory character of the ordinance passed by the township authorities.

"A perusal of the official statement of Dr. Moldenke given below will enlighten the public on the other side of the question, and enable the forming of an unbiased opinion regarding the entire situation."

Dr. Eaton and his counsel, Mr. Coddington, both attended last night's meeting of the Township Committee. Chairman William de LaRoche Anderson, Committeeman Albert Brokaw and Dr. Charles Moldenke were all present.

Dr. Moldenke read a detailed statement of the Eaton case, parts of which follow:

"However much your committeeman regrets the recent unfortunate controversy and unsought notoriety in regard to the clearing away of brush from the Valley road at the Eaton farms, and would personally rather ignore this matter, nevertheless as a township official, and in view of the misstatements appearing in the public press, he deems it his duty to present to your honorable body a succint account of his activity with references to the inforcement of the township ordinance. Although personally grossly insulted by Dr. Eaton your committeeman desires to eliminate all direct reference to personalities, and to only treat of the matter in his capacity as Overseer of Roads for the second district.

"The question of trimming out the disfiguring bushes and trees on the fence lines of our township has claimed the attention of our Committee for many years and in consequence of an ordinance in this connection passed on July 13, 1911, most of the roads were cleared and are in good shape at the present day. The best section of the township in this respect, owing to the vigilance of the present member of our committee, is that of Greenbrook, the third district. In the second district, comprising Scotch Plains, Stony Hill and the section as far as Watchung, the ordinance was hardly ever enforced. It was never enforced on the Valley road. With the advent of your committeeman for the second district the strict enforcement of the ordinance for his district was demanded, not only by our entire Township Committee, but also by practically every taxpayer of the neighborhood.

"Between October 16 and the 29th your committeeman sent out notices to every known property owner on the Valley road and Berkeley Heights roads, that is from the bridge at Watchung to the Catholic church at Stony Hill. Of these property owners every one has either partially or wholly complied with the ordinance excepting only Dr. Eaton. The notice to him was dated and personally mailed October 19, 1915, and a copy of it serves as Exhibit C.

"After waiting in vain for six weeks, on the 29th, day of November (last week) your committeeman took two laborers and began the work of trimming the Valley roadway between the Giebelhouse farm and the Watchung bridge. The only portions of the roadway in this section in which at that time the trimming was neither begun nor fully completed were those of Dr. Eaton. On Wednesday, December 1, your committeeman continued his work, beginning at the bottom of what was formerly called Holmes' Hill, at about 8:30 a. m.

"When nearly one hundred feet of roadway had been cleared Dr. Eaton came and premptorily demanded an explanation. Your committeeman's pleas of "ordinance and duty" was answered by a torrent of scathing invective which, being personal, had best be omitted here. The law and ordinance, however, came in for a share of shocking imprecations. Shortly after this Dr. Eaton's legal adviser, the Honorable William A. Coddington, arrived and after a short and mutually satisfactory argument your committeeman agreed to desist from further work on Dr. Eaton's road, provided an injunction would be asked for immediately. All work was suspended at 10 a. m.

"Since that time eight days have elapsed and no injunction having been served your committeeman consequently gives notice herewith that unless such legal proceedings are resorted to reasonably prompt he will finish up the small remainder of the offending scrub growth on the road in question."

The proposal of Dr. Moldenke to finish the work started by him did not meet with the approval of other members of the Committee, and they accepted an invitation to go over the ground with Dr. Eaton and his attorney Saturday morning in an effort to agree on work to be done. They will meet at the Eaton home at 9 a. m.

R. A. MEEKER RETURNS FROM ROAD CONVENTION

Robert A. Meeker, of this city, State supervisor of roads, returned last night from Chicago, where he attended the annual convention of the American Association of Highway Officials. There was a discussion of the Federal road aid bill and a committee was appointed to go to Washington next Thursday and confer with the Congressional committee on post roads in reference to the measure.

It was further decided to combine all of the national road associations and hold one convention, believing that better results can be obtained.

LECTURE ON "MOHAMMEDAN LANDS" IS INSTRUCTIVE

"Mohammedan Lands," was the subject of an interesting illustrated lecture given by Harry C. Ostrander at the Plainfield High School, last night, it being one of the series of free entertainments under the auspices of the Board of Education. Despite the disagreeable weather, there was a good sized audience present and all enjoyed the fine pictures and Mr. Ostrander's explanatory talk.

Mr. Ostrander has traveled extensively throughout Mohammedan lands and in his talk last night he showed a peculiar intimacy with his subject, which was not only interesting, but highly instructive. He described the home life of the Turks, telling of their method of daily living. A majority of the pictures shown were taken under extraordinary conditions and were developed in an artistic manner.

A Favor Asked—to Lighten the Task

Carry Small Parcels With You

At this time of the year, the Tepper delivery service is doubled to meet onrush of increased holiday business, but in spite of the extra wagons, the service is taxed to its limit.

We would consider it a favor if our customers would take with them the SMALL PARCELS, which can easily be carried in the hand. This will be appreciated by the store and its workers.

We again advise and urge EARLY SHOPPING—it's the better, the easier and the more satisfactory way of getting what you want before the rush sets in and breaks the assortments.

EXTOL QUALITIES OF BOOKER WASHINGTON

Eloquent Addresses Feature of Memorial Service Held at Washington School.

The lasting qualities of the late Booker T. Washington, together with his chivalry, his virtues and unselfish devotion for the betterment of his race, were extolled by grateful beneficiaries and others at a memorial service held in the Washington School auditorium, last night, under the auspices of the local colored Ministers' Union. An interested and devoted audience that filled two-thirds of the large room were present, while tribute was paid to the man whose death on November 14 last, was all too untimely.

The principal speakers of the varied program were Assemblyman William N. Runyon, Superintendent of Schools Henry M. Maxson and Rev. William Lloyd Imes, pastor of Bethel Chapel. Each one made a splendid address that showed an intimacy with the allotted subject and which afforded them an opportunity to encourage emulation of all that the great leader of the colored people has done. Assemblyman Runyon's talk dealt with what might be expected from one who had practically no antecedants, when attention was paid to the fact that Washington was born in slavery, had no educational heritage and but very little opportunity in the way of learning to improve the brain that a God had bestowed upon him.

"Great things might be expected of men like George Washington," the speaker said, "because he had every advantage. He was of the patrician class and had all that parental care and money could do even in those days of educational development. He was always associated with the great men of his day as did many other men who have come after him. It is often said that if you wish to make a man a gentleman you must begin with his grandfather and a perusal of biographies bears this out to some extent. So with the little black boy whose name will ever be written on history's pages. He came into the world ever without a name and with nothing in the antecedant line to brag about, yet he made of himself a man greater than many who really should have been his superior but proved to be pitiful failures. Tuskegee Institute will stand as a monument to what can be accomplished by a nameless member of a struggling race."

Rev. Mr. Imes' address was a masterpiece in itself, dealing with the chivalry of Washington and his example for the youth of his kind. The great Booker," he said, "always conducted himself as a gentleman, keenly alert to the rights of others and when he became a factor in the nation's progress his altruistic tendencies led him to establish the great institute in Alabama, which has done more for the Negro than any other influence in the country. From a little shanty in the woods his school grew until it now owns 3,500 acres 100 buildings, and boasts more than 1,000 students. Its property is worth almost $1,000,000." In conclusion, Mr. Imes declared that Booker Washington's influence for good would be lasting and that future generations of his kind would continue to show him the reverence he so richly deserved.

Dr. Maxson's address dealt with Washington as an educator, pointing out that he was not an advocate of the theoretical but a great believer in the practical. The useful trades and professions taught at Tuskegee are not only directly beneficial to the student for both mental development, but distinct aids in making a living. The commencements at Tuskegee are well worth emulation as the spectators can see in front of them absolutely what the graduate has acquired, many of them having to give a practical demonstration of the trade they selected.

The program was interspersed with musical numbers, furnished by the Mt. Zion A. M. E. choir in charge of Alfred White and composed of fourteen voices. In addition Henry Van Blake contributed a well rendered solo, "Face to Face," Miss Daisy Reed accompanying him on the piano. Rev. Edward W. Roberts, of the Shiloh Baptist church, acted as master of ceremonies. Rev. Mr. Sedgwick, of St. Mark's Mission, offered the invocation, and Rev. J. W. P. Collier, of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, gave the benediction.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Among the many other articles which Manager Shannon will give away at the weekly "Country Store" at the Plainfield Theatre tonight will be a fine fat suckling pig. The young porker was drafted from a nearby farm and will make a splendid feature for a family dinner. Of course, the award will create lots of fun in the giving as do many of the other prizes given away at the "Country Store." Presents are made at both performances, the first beginning at 7 o'clock and the other at 9.

The new bill for the last half of the week, which commenced yesterday, brought a fine program. It is headed by the Macy Models, a tabloid musical comedy, worth the price of admission alone. Beside this act there are five others equally as strong. They are Ross and Mack, comedy acrobats; Brown and Danon, "The Honeymooner Singers;" Snow and Clark, in their comedy playlet, "hTe Soldier Bols;" The Smith Sisters, singers and dancers, and Lewis, Howard and Mack, a clever singing trio, presenting their own original conception, "Harmony in the Rathskeller." The last named act is one of the best ever seen at the Plainfield Theatre and received three and four encores at all performances yesterday afternoon and last night.

Every bill at the cosy Second street playhouse includes the latest releases Pathe Semi-Weekly every Monday from the leading film agencies. The and Friday and there is always something new to interest the movie fans.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

The feature photo-play attraction today and tomorrow on the screen of the U. S. Astor Theatre will be "The Secret Orchard," a Lasky Company production, starring Blanche Sweet. "The Secret Orchard" is based on the exceedingly interesting play of the same name, which ran many weeks some years ago in New York and other large cities. The film unfolds a throbbingly interesting tale of the love of a convent girl for a married man, one of the thrilling events being a duel in which her lover is killed. The principal dramatic feature next Monday and Tuesday will be "The House of Tears," a superb Metro production, starring Emily Stevens, who has a host of admirers among Plainfield theatre-goers.

RUSSIA WILL BE OUR ALLY

speaker, who is a fluent linguist, gave a brief resume of the different people that make up the Slavonic races. Included in the latter are the Russians, the Poles, the Slovacs, the Hungarians, Herzegovinans, and Montenegros. Roughly speaking the Russion Slovacs estimate about 100,000,000 people, while others number approximately 125,000,000. Prussia was formerly entirely Slavonic as well as Serbia, whose people emigrated from Russia. Russia is not a Slavic word but is taken from the Finish language, the Scandanavians settling in Russia in the sixth century and established themselves, eventually crystallizing into principalities. Racial feelings meant nothing to the people, while territorial division meant everything.

Outlining the history up to modern times, Prof. Prince told of the invasion of the Mongul Tartars, the oppression of the nation for four hundred years, the discord arising later; the union of Russia with Moscow as the center; the reign of Ivan the Terrible, who began the conquest of Siberia and who originally planned the conquest of the Balkan coast because of his insight into the future of Russia, who would never become a world power if she had no sea coast; the nationalizing of the people into the Orthodox Eastern church; the establishment of the Holy Synod with the Tsar as the head; the reign of Peter the Great, who won the Balkan provinces and provided a seaport for the country; the rule of Catherine, the greatest woman of modern times, who introduced the Liberalist ideas among the people and who added Lithuania to the empire as well as the north shore of the Black Sea and the district beyond the Ural River. "Seventy-five per cent. of Russia was peasant and in order to benefit the small landowner, serfdom was introduced," said Prof. Prince, "and Russia very much like America colonized and emancipated [illegible]. With the growth of education [illegible] ages, there was a growth of the 'intelligencia' and the final outgrowth of the Nihilist movement, which destroyed rather than builded." Prof. Prince concluded his talk by telling of the final slow advancement of the Russians along the path of experience, until her present position.

At the conclusion of his talk, Prof. Prince rendered several vocal selections in the Slavonic tongue, which called forth much enthusiasm from the audience.

Next Monday, December 13, Alexander Gilbert will address the members of the club on "Investments." The address will be preceded by a discussion of the program of 1916-1917.

TWO SERGEANTS TO BE ELECTED BY TROOP D

Captain Albert G. Borden, of Troop D, First Squadron, Cavalry, the headquarters of which has been transferred from Hoboken to Plainfield, has called a special meeting for Thursday night, December 16, at 8:30 o'clock at the troop quarters, 1120 Putnam avenue, as the time for electing two sergeants to fill vacancies.

Private Percy A. Ransome, of this city, has been appointed wagoner vice Private Guaraglia, who has been relieved at his own request. In the future the troop will assemble at 1120 Putnam avenue.

INVITATIONS SENT OUT FOR PREPAREDNESS MEETING

The preparedness committee of the Knights of Columbus, which has charge of the meeting to be held Wednesday night, when Henry A Wise Wood and Dr. William L. Saunders will speak, has sent out invitations to all club members, and many of the leading citizens of Plainfield urging them to attend. An invitation is not required for the meeting however, as the public has been invited through the press. Both Mr Wood and Dr. Saunders have accepted the invitation to address the meeting.

UNITY LODGE MEMBERS ENJOY SURPRISE BANQUET

The members of Unity Lodge, No 102, Knights of Pythias, were accorded a surprise last night by the welfare committee, which had arranged a banquet without giving previous notice. A most enjoyable evening was spent, and beside the good things to eat, those present enjoyed brief addresses from many of the members. A general revival of interest has taken place within Unity's ranks, and a large number of candidates will be initiated within the next few months. The welfare committeee is also very active, having planned a number of social affairs for the present winter.

This committee is composed of the Messrs. James Anderson, Frank Bacon, Victor Lorton, Frank Putnam, Charles De Graw, Leon Livingston and Charles Huff.

A Galley o' Fun!

ALMOST A TRAGEDY

Time 1 a. m. Scene, The Witherby Sleeping Room.

Mrs. Witherby (shaking her husband and whispering violently).—Henry! Wake up! Wake up, I say!

Witherby.—Huh! Eh? Oo-o-e! What's matter?

Mrs. Witherby.—There's someone downstairs.

Witherby (turning over).—Go sleep.

Mrs. Witherby.—Wake up! Someone is down stairs! Hear that noise!

Witherby.—Nonesense! Imagination!

Mrs. Witherby.—Sh! Listen! Hear that!

Witherby.—Wind.

Mrs. Witherby.—The wind, it is? Sh! Is that the wind?

Witherby (rising up—also his hair).—That does sound like something. (Jumps out of bed and runs to door.)

Mrs. Witherby (wildly after him).—Come back! You rash fellow. You might get murdered!

Witherby (locking door).—I was only going to lock it. Well, they can't get in here. (His courage rising.) Don't believe it's anyone, any way.

Mrs. Witherby.—It is! It is! Just hear them moving about! Oh! why don't you—

Witherby (his teeth beginning to chatter as the noises continue).—Well what?

Mrs. Witherby.—Oh, something! My best silver! You stand there like a stick—

Witherby (tiptoing to bureau and drawing forth a rusty old revolver).—I'll go after 'em! (waving it in the air.)

Mrs. Witherby.—Oh, no, you mustn't! You can't tell what they might do.

Witherby (his courage returning).—Yes, I will! (Moves toward door.)

Mrs. Witherby.—You shan't! (Throws herself before him.) Think of the risk!

Witherby.—Nonesense! Come, let me open that door!

Mrs. Witherby.—Never!

Witherby.—Woman do not stand in my way!

Mrs. Witherby (reluctantly).—Well, if you must. But don't go down stairs. Just—

Witherby (paling at the thought).—Perhaps you are right, after all. I tell you what. You open the door a trifle, and I'll stand here ready to fire. (Moves behind the bed.)

Mrs. Witherby.—All right. (Turns the key and slowly opens door to a crack. A moment of awful suspense.)

Witherby (Putting his head out from behind the bed).—I can't see a thing.

Mrs. Witherby (Gathering courage and peering into the hall).—Who's down there?

Voice from below.—Me, Ma'am Oi'm jist 'ome from a pa-arty.

Witherby (crawling into bed).—You're a nice one to wake me up in the middle of the night like this! Why, I might have killed that girl if I had gone down stairs!

When Greek meets Greek—Uncle Hi queers the show.

KNOWLEDGE.

Once upon a time there lived a man who had no thirst for knowledge.

When his friends met him and asked:

"Do you want to know what will knock that cold?"

The man replied:

"Oh, no!"

Of course, this speedily lost him all his friends, and his state at last was pitiful, indeed.

HARD LINES.

Drummer—It is pretty hard to get a drink in this town, isn't it?

Landlord (Kansas Hotel)—You bet Why, you can't even work the snake bite racket any more unless you carry the snake to the drug store and let him bite you in the presence of a committee!

REAL MEAN.

Subbubs—You just ought to see my crop of corn! It's the most promising in all the Lonesomehurst district.

Townley—You don't say? If you have more than two messes don't forget me, will you?"

THE INVALID.

"So Sokeleigh's health is gone, eh? What became of it?"

"He drank it."

—Money that you may fear is "tied up" in real estate may be un-tied through a campaign of classified advertising—and you may un-tie more of it than you tied up!

Elizabeth's representatives in the Elks' Junior League started out like the real champions they are when they opened their league season by taking three games from Newark last night. The winners averaged 942.1. Henry Gathman doing some grand work, making marks of 256, 247 and 190 for an average of 231.

Newark trailed in all three games. The homesters started by touching 977, winning by 140 points. They topped Newark's 900 by 53 pins in the second game, and won the third, 897 to 864.

LOCAL ELKS DROP ALL AT PATERSON

Pats Shoot 992, 951 and 938 for Night's Average of 960.1.

Plainfield's team in the Elks League bumped up against a team that had an average of 960.1 up its sleeve last night when the locals went to Paterson. The counts of 992, 951 and 938 turned in by the homesters were too much for the Queen City Bills, who lost every game.

Plainfield rolled 921 in the first game, losing by 71 pins when the Pats rolled their highest total of the season. The hosts accounted for 951 in the second, Plainfield being 55 pins to the bad. The visitors rolled 876 in their last game, their opponents having a margin of 48 bottles.

Anderson tallied 218 and 204 for Paterson, and Taylor had 210 and 203. Armitage starred with 249. Hausin rolled 206. Vail had 213 for Plainfield, and Blatz tallied 201. The scores:

NOT PICKED TOO YOUNG.

Eddie Plank Did Not Start Playing Ball Until He Was Twenty-six.

Eddie Plank, the veteran twirler of the St. Louis Feds, celebrated his fortieth birthday last August.

The Gettysburg veteran was twenty-six years old when he joined the Philadelphia Athletics. This was his fourteenth season in big league harness.

Many ball players are through at twenty-six. Plank and Honus Wagner are the only forty-year-old men in major league harness.

Plank says he never played a regular nine inning game till he entered college. Connie Mack drafted him from Gettysburg.

"Batting fungoes and ordinary 'catch' was all I knew of baseball when I entered college," said Plank.

"How did you put in your time?" inquired the writer.

"Farming," answered Plank. "That's enough to keep a boy busy morning, noon and part of the night if he does it right. I farm twenty acres in the heart of the Gettysburg battlefield."

The point about this yarn is that Plank must have conserved his arm and athletic strength by keeping out of baseball till he was a matured man.

Fitz won the fistic championship at forty, Charles Thorpe was a great jockey at forty, and Edward Payson Weston tramped across the United States at seventy.

OLDEST ACTIVE BALL PLAYER.

If Cobb Lasts This Long He Will Be a Millionaire.

George Artzberger, sixty-seven years old, a wealthy shoe dealer of Pittsburgh, has just closed his 1915 playing season with the Wittmer team, the strongest amateur team in Allegheny county. During the season he played sixty-one full games. His official batting average is .326. In the field his mark was .970.

Artzberger plays outfield positions equally well. In a game Aug. 30 he made five hits, scored four runs and stole two bases. He claims to be the oldest active ball player in the world and declares that he can run bases, hit and throw as well as he could when he was forty years younger, which assertion is borne out by his record.

War Does Not Stop Sprinting.

In spite of the war there is a remarkable interest in professional sprinting in some parts of England. In a recent 130 yard handicap at Newcastle-on-Tyne there were 228 entries, necessitating thirty preliminary heats. A ninety yard handicap at Audenshaw drew about 200 entries.

TINKER CONSIDERATE BOSS.

Baseball Not a Matter of Life or Death With Him.

Joe Tinker refuses to consider baseball a matter of life or death. Around midsummer, while the Chifeds were fighting for the lead, Claude Hendrix called up Tinker on the eve of an eastern trip and notified him that Mrs. Hendrix had taken suddenly ill and would undergo an operation on the following morning.

"I'm awfully sorry to leave you short handed at this critical time," apologized Hendrix.

"Listen, Hendy," replied Tinker. "Baseball never was a case of life or death. All the pennants, clubs and leagues on earth should not have a care for you now. Your place is by Mrs. Hendrix."

ATTACK ON GOAL AFTER TOUCHDOWN

Coaches Hold Single Point Often Robs Eleven of Tie.

MAY ABOLISH THE RULE.

Because of the many games which have been won and lost by the margin of one point a number of coaches will petition the rules committee to abolish the goal kick after a touchdown. Many persons believe this is a move in the right direction, as the opposing team has little chance to block the kick, especially when it is made from a point fifteen yards out in the field.

There has been considerable agitation over the point in former years, but it is understood a concerted effort will be made this year to have the committee either abolish the kick or give the blocking eleven more of a chance to frustrate the attempt.

Notre Dame was defeated by Nebraska this year in a stubbornly fought contest, 20 to 19, failure to kick the last goal robbing the Hoosier eleven of the chance to tie the count. Both teams struggled with all the energy in their makeups, and a tie score would have shown the relative strength of the two teams. As a result, Notre Dame had to journey to South Bend with the small end of the score after it played on even terms with its opponent.

Coaches maintain that it is unfair to place a man fifteen yards out in the field and allow him to kick. The mentors assert the blocking team should not be put farther away than ten yards from the ball, the same as when a fair catch is made in the field of play. If this were done more attempts to kick goals would be either blocked or the kicker worried enough to make his attempts less accurate.

Field Goals Were Difficult.

It seems unfair for a team to win a game by the margin of one point. Games have been won through field goal kicking, but in such cases the defending eleven had more chances to block the ball than a team now has to block an attempt to kick goal after a touchdown has been made.

In order to equalize offense and defense the committee in recent years reduced the value of field goals from 5 to 3 points. This was done to have a touchdown and its following goal kick offset two field goals. As field goal kicking has always been a feature, the committee did not care to abolish it, but wanted to discourage the practice in favor of touchdowns.

Games have been won this year by the air line route, but not nearly so often as when the value of such attempts was 5 points. At that time the coaches specialized. They developed men who were proficient in kicking and then sent them into the game for the sole purpose of making an attempt to score a field goal. After this player had made his attempt he was taken out and another player who was more proficient in all branches of play sent into the contest.

The majority of such goals made this year have been the results of drop kicks. The coaches think drop kicks can be sent away faster than place kicks. As it is necessary to have three players for the successful execution of the place kick, the kicking team is weakened in its blocking by the player who holds the ball.

Present Rules as Popular.

With the exception of the goal after a touchdown, the rules are meeting with universal satisfaction from the standpoint of player and spectator. That the code is well understood generally is shown by the increased attendance at most of the contests. There have been misunderstandings in high and preparatory school ranks, but not in college or university games.

Since the alteration of the code several big teams have gone down in defeat at the hands of the so called smaller elevens. Washington and Jefferson, a team which under the old game never figured prominently in eastern football, attracted attention from the football world by winning from Yale, and Virginia was put on the map by trouncing Old Eli.

Before the changing of the rules the Michigan Aggies never were considered dangerous, and they were used as a tool in the development of other teams for the harder and more important games to be played later in the season. Since 1906 the Aggies have been climbing the ladder of football fame, and their greatest achievement this season was their victory over Michigan. Last year they did not lose a game and had an equal claim with Illinois, Nebraska and Notre Dame to the western title.

When such teams are able to win occasionally from larger elevens more interest is taken in the games at the smaller colleges and a better college spirit is fostered, while more candidates turn out for the athletic teams. Such victories also go a long way toward increasing the attendance, as most students now want to go to some university or college which is represented by good athletic teams.

HUGHES BEST RESCUER.

Boston Braves' Twirler Cleverest In Major Leagues.

"Long Tom" Hughes of the Braves not only proved to be about the best rescuer in the major league last season—he also has set the pace at picking ambitious or sleepy runners off their bases. Never before has anybody taken the trouble to find out how many athletes a hurler caught off the cushions, this brand of dope being something entirely new. Previous to collecting it, the opinions of two major leagle captains were sought by the experts as to the best men. Johnny Evers of the Braves in his answer said: "I will do the best I can to tell the six best in our league at catching men off bases. Your pick of Hughes is good, but Tom has fallen down at that end lately. Rudolph is a corker, and James is good. So are Alchison of Brooklyn, Cheney of Chicago, Cooper of Pittsburgh, Alexander and Matty. Many of the corking men in this line catch few, but they hold the men close to the bases."

TOM HUGHES, BRAVES' VETERAN PITCHER.

This was the response of George Moriarty, field boss of the Tigers: "In my opinion the six best pitchers in the American league at picking men off the bases are as follows: Walsh, Scott and Cicotte of Chicago, Warhop and Caldwell of New York, Wood of Boston and Boehling of Washington. I have named seven instead of the required six because it would be extremely poor judgment to omit the name of Walsh just because he is not in active pitching service. Walsh, in my opinion, is the master of all hurlers in picking men off and gluing men on the sacks."

The choices of Evers and Moriarty are substantiated by the figures, which show that Hughes leads the National league hurlers in picking men off the bases and Scott the American league flingers. "Long Tom" has ten victims to his credit, all of them snared off the getaway sack. "Death Valley Jim" claims eight victims, six nipped off first and two off second. James of Chicago also claims that the umps were a trifle hard on him last season and called phantom balks on him.

SUMMIT CHAPEL AT LOCAL Y. M. C. A. TOMORROW NIGHT

The Y. M. C. A. five will entertain the Summit Chapel Club, of Summit, tomorrow evening. This team is stronger than last year, and is hoping to bring back a victory with them when they return to Summit. The Y. M. C. A. players have found their stride, as has been shown by their exhibition at New Brunswick, and with Ted Gavett back in the line-up, will be able to give a good account of themselves. The Summit team will line up as follows: H. Voegtlen, Cooke, Falkenburgh, forwards; Schumpf, center; Smith, Parkins, Mathews and S. Voegtlen, guards.

There will be a preliminary game between the Baptist and Saurer office teams.

HUNTERS FIND CHOICE SPORT.

Harry Brower and Pierre Moore found an excellent hunting spot near South Plainfield yesterday, starting several rabbits, squirrels, a pheasant and a raccoon. They were so impressed with the possibilities of the place that they visited the same place today. The raccoon, which was a big fellow, got away when Brower stumbled just as he was taking aim.

K. C. MATCH PUT OFF.

The Knight of Columbus League match scheduled for last night between the Paterson and Bayonne teams, at Bayonne, was definitely postponed.

Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 10.—Eleven teams now lead the six-day race, with the twelfth pair six laps behind. At 4:20 o'clock this morning, Madden jumped away from the pack and was picked up by his partner, Eaton, and after desperate sprinting for eight minutes, the duo gained a lap and was once more with the leaders. This team had lost a lap during the night.

Another surprise was the announcement that Joe Fogler had quit the race. He was teamed with Clarence Carmen. Fogler said the fast pace kept by the riders was too much of a strain for him.

THE PARK RANGER

His Work In Guarding Uncle Sam's National Reservations.

HE MUST BE A CLEVER SCOUT.

The Indian, Who Is a Master of Woodcraft and Versed In All the Arts of Cunning and Caution, Is the Model He Is Supposed to Imitate.

"To be able to render the best service in patrolling the park ranger must be properly armed, mounted and clothed. He must feel that his weapons are superior to those in the hands of any outlaw to whom he may be opposed. His mount must be swifter and his clothing adequate to protect him against the rigors of the climate of his locality."

Thus spoke Colonel L. M. Brett, U. S. A., superintendent of the Yellowstone at a national parks conference. Colonel Brett is one of the most experienced Indian fighters in the national service.

"A park ranger about to start on his journey, in addition to his arms, horse and equipment, should have a piece of canvas with which he can make a canvas shelter effective against any weather, rations ample for the journey, cooking utensils, fieldglasses, a map of his park and contiguous territory, compass, notebook and pencil, ax, first aid packet and telephone tester. As soon as he leaves the ranger station he becomes a scout who must oppose his wits and energy against those whose life is spent in the open among the wild animals and who have taken from these animals those characteristics that we know are possessed by the fox, the coyote, the timber wolf and the mountain lion. He who rides the trail in a perfunctory and aimless manner is but a joke to such men.

"To cope with such people he must learn from the Indian, who avails himself of every sign and indication that nature or wild life can give. The Indian never places himself upon the sky line until he is thoroughly satisfied that there is nothing within the range of vision to detect him. He will lie sometimes for an hour with his head against a bush, fieldglasses to his eyes, and scan the country, and then again scan it for any sign of human life or for any movement among the wild animals which indicates the stranger in their midst.

"The scout does not remain on the trail that has been beaten by somebody else—his enemy would not be there—but he is taking advantage of every inequality of the ground, of swale and the coulees, the branches of trees along the stream banks and the shady side of every ridge, observing carefully for indications of trails, fresh signs of horse or any imprint of the foot. His eye must be so trained that even the bending of the grass would tell him a story and would arouse his suspicion.

"He should never build a fire by daylight in the country where he has reason to believe the enemy may be lurking. At night, in some canyon or in some sheltered spot where the blaze can be seen but a few feet, he can build his small fire and cook his food for the evening and the next day. It is well for him to have enough food cooked ahead so that he can remain on the trail or in pursuit of an enemy for forty-eight hours without having to stop to cook.

When he is called to points remote from his usual patrol route he should indicate such a journey on his map by use of his compass. He should be careful to note the condition of the animals and whenever possible to count those of the different species for the information of headquarters.

"Any indication of sickness among the animals is of the greatest importance and should be reported at once, because epidemics are almost as frequent among animals as among human beings. Interference in any way, shape, or manner with the natural formations should be reported. Dead fish on the surface of the water is a dangerous symptom and would indicate fishing by use of explosives, and generally speaking any indication that nature or any of her creatures has been disturbed should be given the closest scrutiny and reported to the officer in charge.

"Men who will lend themselves conscientiously to this work are not common, and in their training it is of the greatest importance that their faculties of observation be cultivated to the extreme limit. These men must feel a pride in the work and strive to have their section the very best patrolled one within the park. We will not get a force sufficiently educated along the lines that I have indicated unless we all unite in systematic work and instruction, which cannot be too comprehensive nor too painstaking."

TEST "ALL WOOL" BY FIRE.

To Detect Cotton Fibers Burn a Sample of the Cloth.

Until the proper labeling of textiles has been made compulsory there are certain simple tests by means of which one may determine whether an "all wool" fabric is really all wool or not. The old way of telling by feeling and looking is no longer reliable, for cotton can be made both to feel and look like wool. The only sure way is to take samples of the goods home with you and make tests of them there.

If a piece of cotton cloth is ignited it will be found to burn rather rapidly with a bright, steady flame. There is no disagreeable odor, and when the material is completely consumed there will be left only a small amount of light gray, fluffy ash. If a piece of pure wool is lighted it will be found to burn much more slowly and with a less steady flame, emitting a characteristic mild, hissing noise and a strong odor very similar to that of burned horn. There will be much more ash remaining than in the case of cotton, and it will be in the form of a crinkly, black crisp ball.

In applying this test to a fabric the whole sample should not be burned at once, for if it is a so called wool piece containing considerable cotton it will be very difficult to determine whether it is burning more like cotton or wool. Threads should be taken from the sample, several each from the warp and the woof, and burned separately. With a very little practice one will be able to detect the cotton threads by the characteristic manner of burning. Sometimes it is well to pick a thread apart with a pin and test the individual fiber with the flame to determine whether the thread is entirely wool or mixed with cotton.—Jean Donaldson Martin in Mothers' Magazine.

QUAINT OLD INN NAMES.

Some of the Peculiar Signs One May Read In England.

"Man Loaded With Mischief" is the name of an inn in the Madingley road, Cambridge, but it is not stranger than many others. At Underwood, Notts, is an inn called "The Toad In the Hole," and in the neighborhood of Somercotes, "The Old House at Home." Another inn at the same place is called "The Old English Gentleman."

It is a debatable point whether the sign of "The Man Loaded With Mischief" was painted by Hogarth. But it is like his satire, for it represents a man carrying a woman.

Many peculiar signs are the result of a misconception. "The Bag o' Nails" is really "The Bacchanals." "The Goat and Compasses" is an ignorant shot at the old motto, "God encompasses us," while "The George and Cannon" is a modern corruption of George Canning, who was prime minister when the inn was built.

One of the funniest of these corruptions is "The Iron Devil," a corruption of "Hirondelle" (swallow). It is said that the inn called "The Pig and Tinder Box" was originally "The Elephant and Castle," but a very poor artist was engaged to paint the sign, and somebody said it looked like a pig and tinder box, and the name stuck until it ousted the old one.

"The Plum and Feathers," an inn in Oxford, should be "Plume of Feathers," and "The Rose of the Quarter Sessions" was originally "La Rose des Quatres Saisons." One might think "The Ship and Shovel" belonged to the same category, but it does not. The reference is to Sir Cloudesley Shovel, the powder monkey who became an admiral in the reign of Queen Anne.—London Tit-Bits.

Italics In the Bible.

Words in the Bible printed in italics indicate that the words so printed do not rightly form a part of the original text, but were adopted by the transiators to make the sense of the original clear, remarks an exchange. As used in the Bible, italics have no relation to the common practice of using them for the purpose of emphasizing certain words. In the early history of printing those portions of a book not properly belonging to the main work, such as introductions, prefaces, indexes and footnotes, were printed in italics, the text itself being in Roman

Lost Humor.

Mark Twain was once asked by an English clerk in a London bookstore to write his autograph

"My chirograpay is becoming less and less distinct," complained the author whimsically as he complied with the request. "If this keeps on I'll have to be getting somebody else to write my autograph for me."

"But, sir," seriously responded the clerk, "nobody would want it then."

Safe From That.

"Now that you have been married a year what can you say of your experience?"

"Well," he replied solemnly, "I can truthfully say that I am sure that bigamy is one crime that I'll never commit."—Detroit Free Press.

Christmas Carol by Children in England An Old English Custom - From an Old Print

How Our Christmas Customs Came About - Their Curious Mixture of Paganism and Religion.

Copyright, 1915, by The International Syndicate.

THE origin of Christmas and by whom it was celebrated is to a certain extent shrouded in mystery, and it is by no means certain that December the twenty-fifth is the correct anniversary of the nativity of Christ. This uncertainty is due to the fact that in the early days the celebration of birthdays was regarded as heathenish, but after the triumph of Christianity the prejudice died out and the date of the Saviour's birth became a matter of ecclesiastical investigation. It is recorded that Pope Julius had St. Cyril make strict inquiry as to the date, when it was learned that a number of varying days were kept in different sections. These included January the sixth, which was kept as a joint commemoration of the Nativity and Baptism of the Redeemer. March twenty-ninth, April twentieth, May twentieth and September twenty-ninth were respectively accepted in different places. Pope Julius finally decided on December the twenty-fifth as the correct date, and the first mention of its celebration as the birthday of Christ occurs in a Roman document known as the Philocalian Calendar, dating from the year 354. It is the opinion of several Church historians that this day was set apart because it was the date of the Winter solstice—the day on which for centuries before the Christian Era pagan Europe had held its chief festival.

Some of our present day Christmas customs are the evolution of a mixture of the Roman Saturnalia and Druid rites, with a smattering of ceremonies practiced by the ancient Germans and Scandinavians—a strange medley of the Christian and pagan which go to make up the festivities of the modern Christmas.

The Yule Log.

The Yule log, so famous in the English Christmas celebration, is of Scandinavian origin, and is the modern idea of the huge fire kindled at the feast of Juul at the winter solstice in honor of their god Thor. In the days of feudal lords of England the ceremony of bringing in the huge, gnarled oak was carried out with great ceremony. Men went into the woods and hauled it in, singing carols as they dragged it through the wood. When they reached the entrance to the great hall a quartette of minstrels hailed it with music. Early the next morning it was lighted and if it burned well it was, and is still, regarded as an omen that prosperity will reign over the family during the coming year. In rural France and among the southern Slavs the Yule log is one of the solemn ceremonies of Christmas. In these countries, especially among the Slavs, the log is believed to possess the same magical properties as it did in the pagan days.

Decorations With Evergreen.

The custom of decorating our houses and churches with evergreen at Christmas comes from the old Roman feasts, especially the Saturnalia, when all Roman houses were turned into "bowers of green"—another evidence of the anxiety of the Church to please their heathen converts by permitting the harmless elements of the pagan feasts to become a part of the celebration of the Nativity. All sorts of trees and shrubs were used by the Romans but gradually it became the custom of Christians to use only the evergreen and to look upon it as the symbol of eternal life. Then these plants took on certain religious meanings until every branch of Christmas decoration has some significance peculiar to the day. The holly with its red berries is the modern Burning Bush, the Holy Mother and the Holy Child. This shrub is really an evolution in plant life from the wild myrtle, the oily red berries of which will burn like candles—a sign that the Divine Fire shall spread over the world.

The laurel is the emblem of St. Joseph, and is often called St. Joseph's staff. The ivy is known as the Herb of St. John—a fitting touch to all Christmas decorations for John was the Disciple whom Jesus loved. The different pines, cedars and spruce are green throughout the year—emblems of everlasting life.

Mistletoe.

The mistletoe—that queer parasite plant so much used at Christmas, was the favorite decoration of the Druids at their winter solstice festival; in fact, it was held in a sort of veneration by that sect. History tells us how it was gathered with great ceremony, the white robed priests cutting the mistletoe from the great oaks with a golden scythe while hundreds of people, all clad in white garments, chanted. The people after obtaining sprigs of the plant from the priests hung the branches over the entrance of their houses as a propitiation and an offer of shelter to the sylvan dieties during the season of frost and cold. In the early days the mistletoe was tabooed as a church decoration on account of a custom which sprung up—that every young woman who came under the spray being kissed by a young man who happened to catch her there. The kissing became so general that the Church feared a return of the customs of the Saturnalia when riot and license ran loose. Early in the sixteenth century the use of mistletoe as a Christmas decoration was revived and soon came to be regarded emblematic of the mystery of Christ's birth on account of its springing into life from a branch and being nurtured by no parent stock. The custom of hanging mistletoe over the doorway or to the chandeliers, which often carries with it the osculatory privileges, is clearly a relic of paganism.

The Christmas Tree.

The most widespread and most delightful of all festal institutions is the Christmas tree. While many countries have their legends claiming for them the honor of having given the Christmas tree to the world, the majority of authorities on the subject are of the opinion that Germany is responsible for this never ending joy to the child and that it is probably a remnant of the splendid dancing pageants of the Middle Ages. There is a pretty legend which ascribes its origin to Martin Luther and tells how after wandering about through a pine forest on Christmas eve he conceived the idea of setting up a pine tree in his home to represent the Tree of Life and decorating it with candles as an image of the starry heavens from which Christ came down. The first historical mention of the Christmas tree is found in the notes of a certain Strasburg citizen of unknown name, written in the year 1605. "At Christmas," he writes, "they set up fir trees in the parlours at Strasburg and hang thereon roses cut out of many coloured paper, apples, wafers and sweets."

However, in an account of Christmas customs written in 1737 by a German student, he speaks of the candles which illuminated the tree. Here again we must go back to the pagan days in Norway when the Yule candle was burned for the god Thor at the winter solstice. Later, when these people began to celebrate the Nativity the candles were burned as of old, but called the Candles of Purification. Quite recently there has been a revival of the Christmas candle custom, and today it is no uncommon sight to see the windows of houses lighted by them on Christmas night. The fashion of sending bayberry candles is in vogue, and this year thousands of these olive green candles will be sent out as gifts. They are made from a berry which grows on the Atlantic Coast from Massachusetts to the Carolinas and have a delicate odor, burning without making ridges of wax down the sides. A bayberry candle is said to protect its owner from all harm if it is lighted on Christmas. As the legend runs, its incense will be wafted through the air to friends in distant lands and thus their thoughts will turn to the far away owner of the Purification Candle.

Carols.

Amid so many popular customs at Christmas there is none more charming than that of the Christmas carols which celebrate in joyous yet devout strains the Nativity of the Saviour. The word is derived from the Latin cantare—to sing, and rola—an exclamation of joy. The practice appears to be as old as the celebration of Christmas itself as Church history shows records of how the bishops were accustomed to sing carols on Christmas Day, also that in the early days the shepherds left their flocks and came to Rome to sing and play on musical instruments before the shrines and churches. During the fifteenth century the carol was at the height of its popularity as just about that time a number of beautiful Christmas hymns were written. In Germany the people always went to the balconies or tops of the churches and chanted their carols—a custom still carried out in some of the smaller towns of Germany. In many countries the carol singing is done by children who go from house to house with a Christmas greeting.

The Christmas Card.

The Christmas card is of comparatively recent origin and seems to be one of those new methods of remembering friends without going to very much trouble or expense to do so. The Christmas card is a legitimate descendant of what was known about 1830 as "Christmas pieces." They were sheets of writing paper on which elaborate drawings were made, sometimes headed by copper plate engravings, and used by school boys to show their parents the progress made in their chirography. About 1846 a London publisher put out a number of cards decorated with tiny colored wreaths of holly with the words "A Merry Christmas" engraved under the decoration. Hundreds were sold and the Christmas card sprang into use and has been steadily growing in favor ever since. It is a sort of attenuated present.

Gifts and Feasting.

The giving of gifts originated in the days of ancient Rome when the citizens offered gifts to each other during the January Kalends, but when the Feast of the Nativity was hallowed by the Church the giving of gifts was changed to Christmas as the appropriate time for sending presents, for did not the Three Wise Men bring gifts to the Child in the Manger, and was not this Child the gift of God to the human race?

Even Saint Nicholas, or Santa Claus as he is known in this country, has wandered away from his own feast day, December sixth, to please the children and help their parents to reward the good boys and girls of the land. He is the patron saint of the child and is supposed to bring sweets to the good children and rods for the bad ones. However, during the present age he seems to reward them all. His part in the Christmas festival originated in Holland several centuries ago, when he became a part of Christmas and it was the Dutch emigrant who brought him to the United States. The body of the real St. Nicholas rests in the magnificent church at Bari, Italy, and is a famous place of pilgrimage for children.

It was not strange that at that season when everyone was filled with good cheer and kindly feeling for others that the thoughts of those who had plenty should turn towards the poor and needy. So early in the days of these Christmas festivities the custom sprung up of sending gifts to those in want such gifts as would best minister to their necessities and happiness and make them feel that the true Christian spirit was abroad in the land and that the message of love and charity which Christ brought to mankind was not forgotten, and as far back as the tenth century Christmas dinners were provided for the poor—a forerunner of the feasts given to the unfortunate today.

How the Men Who Are Fighting Spend Christmas, and How for a Time the Soldiers of the Warring Nations Forget That They Are Enemies.

Copyright, 1915, by The International Syndicate

"PEACE on earth, good will to men," is heard all over Christendom on Christmas morning, and the spirit of charity it teaches is not without its influence even among those who may seem to hate each other.

The Christmas of 1915 will find Europe as it did in 1914—an armed camp, the only difference between the days will be that millions of killed and wounded have been offered up as a sacrifice to the lust of power during the year and yet whatever bitterness and hatred there may be among those engaged in this terrible conflict, if there is any personal bitterness or hatred, will probably be forgotten and the day celebrated as it was last year by the men themselves declaring a truce and fraternizing with each other on the ground before the trenches.

While much has been written of life in the underground dens where men have burrowed like rats into the earth to escape the guns of the enemy and yet be able to pick off this same enemy at will, these accounts show that there is little that is picturesque or romantic about trench warfare. Last winter nerve racked men lived for days in muddy ditches wondering how much longer it would last—this awful slaughter of men, this terrifying combat of long opposing lines of heavy artillery and howitzers, the shrieking of shell, the whistling of shrapnel and the tearing roar of guns, the savage efforts to take and retake trenches with always the slaughter of brave men.

Gifts For Men In The Trenches.

When there is a lull in the fighting trench life is even worse than when there is firing, for the monotony of idleness so works upon their nerves that every bush or tree becomes an imaginary enemy, the cracking of a twig, the sighing of the wind or the moan of a sleeping soldier will set their nerves a jingle. "Cheer up, boys, Christmas will soon be here and we will have all sorts of good things!" cries out one of the men as he looks at his comrade's wan face, and the two begin to talk of the coming festival as the one bright spot in the trench fighter's life.

Germans Celebrate.

Those who are acquainted with the German people know that wherever a German happens to be at Christmas he will find some way to celebrate the festival, and the German soldier in the trench is no exception, for he is already gathering in the pine branches to decorate his underground quarters. Last year, although the weather was bitter, the men managed to bring Christmas cheer into the very theatre of war by actually setting up Christmas trees in the trenches and decorating them with bright colored bands and ribbons taken from the cigars and cigarettes which had been sent to them. Every scrap of colored paper that could be found was utilized, and according to a letter from a German soldier to his mother, one tree was decorated with paper chickens made from the colored papers that had been wrapped around the candy "kisses" sent from home. Boxes of German cakes cut into grotesque figures of soldiers caused the men much merriment among the troops when they set the gingerbread men up in rows and then knocked them down with candies. Finally, they made a feast of their targets. In many places the men managed to serve regular Christmas dinners where, to use the expression of a German who spoke English, "they made pleasant with addresses and conversation."

French And English Christmases.

Along the lines of the Allies the same scenes were enacted except there were fewer Christmas trees, the British and French contenting themselves by hanging branches of evergreen about the trenches. The Christmas box was in evidence as well as the fur coat, warm mittens, mufflers and sweaters. Down in the French trenches there were several Christmas vaudeville shows. It is a well known fact that hundreds of French players are fighting in the ranks of the French army, and wherever they could be found on Christmas day they were pressed into service to do a "turn," and for a time the horrors of war were forgotten in the peals of laughter which resounded throughout the long ditch. "We had plenty to eat and a good time," wrote a Frenchman to his mother. "Your cake—well, I can't tell you how much we enjoyed it. One of the men from the old Moulin Rouge in Paris is in our regiment and he gave us a fine show. Two or three times he ran out of the trenches and waved his hat at the Germans but they did not shoot at him—in fact, they did not bother us at all. I expect they were celebrating just as we were."

In the English trenches the men were fairly overloaded with good things, and it seemed that every man had his plum pudding, muffins and jam, to say nothing of the new, warm clothing. Hundreds of cases of milk were sent by friends. An English dairy made a specialty of sending milk to the trenches for Christmas and one might send as few as half a dozen quart bottles, so even the poorest woman was able to send her son milk for Christmas.

Germans And English Fraternize.

At several points where the trenches of the Germans and English were not far apart the Germans began to talk peace and good will among themselves. "After all," they said, "our enemies are but fighting for the land they love as we are, and why should we not forget our differences and on this birthday of the Son of Man give greeting to our enemies." This feeling brought about Christmas scenes on the battlefields of Europe which seems almost incredible. A number of English war correspondents witnessed the incidents and sent reports to their respective newspapers.

After the Germans had trimmed their Christmas trees and set up lanterns they came out of their trenches bearing a flag of truce and invited the English to stop shooting and come over and celebrate Christmas. With one accord the invitation was accepted and a truce for the night arranged. Then officers and men from both sides left their trenches and met on "No Man's Land," where as a rule no man dares to show so much as the top of his head. It was decided that each side would first bury their dead, and while the English were engaged in this sad duty a party of Germans brought over the body of an English officer who had been killed in front of their trenches and deposited it reverently on the ground before some of his regiment, after which they went back to attend to the burial of their own dead. When this last tribute to comrades was completed the Germans brought out cigars and cigarettes and men who a few hours before had been shooting at each other danced around arm in arm wishing each other the compliments of the season. They even made addresses to each other on the subject of Christmas which were interpreted by a young German soldier who had lived in the United States. This particular regiment was composed of Saxons—big, merry fellows who made the English laugh at their pranks. As the day wore on the soldiers joined in a rabbit hunt, and later there was a football match which was won by the Germans. After a while they exchanged hats and finally as a compliment to the Germans the English sang "Deutschland Uber Alles," and the Germans, not to be outdone, gave a rendition of "God Save the King." After it was all over the men of both sides declared that they were agreeably surprised to find their enemies such a decent lot of fellows. Toward night the men got back into the trenches, and early on the twenty-sixth the firing began again.

French And German Meet On Common Ground.

The French and Germans, too, exchanged Christmas greetings, but it was not as general as the festivities with the English. At one place where it is said that the trenches were only about eighty yards apart the Germans asked their French opponents to declare a truce on Christmas Eve to bury the dead. The French accepted, and came out of their trenches carrying shovels. The Germans went over the line offering cigars and cigarettes with the compliments of the season. At first the French feared a surprise, but after a French corporal had shaken hands with a big German there were salutes and good wishes. Then the dead were buried and the men returned to their trenches. "For a time all was silent," wrote one of the men, "then we began to try to kill each other again, and the man who offered the first box of cigars to a French soldier fell dead beside me—but, after all, it was a bit of Christmas."

During the coming holidays it is expected that these same scenes will be repeated, and it may be that in the meetings a little prayer for the ending of the carnage may be said and that ere long the Angel of Peace may spread her white wings over the men in the trenches and make the Christmas theme of "Peace on earth, good will to men" a full reality to all the world.

A woman with buying to do never saves any time by omitting to read the advertisements. No does she always secure par-value for her dollar.

You can make your task of "buying for the home" either a very irksome one or a very interesting and pleasant one. A habit of ad-study will make it ALWAYS INTERESTING and always full of ECONOMY POSSIBILITIES.

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

WORK ON MEMORIAL TO LINCOLN BEING DONE RAPIDLY

Work on the mammoth memorial to Abraham Lincoln that is being erected by the United States Government in Potomac Park, near Washington, is progressing rapidly, according to the last official report of Colonel William W. Marts, in charge of the construction. A total of $2,000,000 will be available for this work when all proposed appropriations have been made, and of this amount $769,540 has been spent, and more than one million has been contracted for. The memorial will be the handsomest in the United States, if not in the entire world. Much work in the movement for it was done by the Lincoln Memorial Association, a volunteer society.
